PARIS, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] All the uncertainties in the life of Countess Marguerite [illegible] have passed away since her [illegible] marriage to Alexander Lojowski. Her union with the wealthy Russian [illegible] the ascendancy of her [illegible].

The Countess's life in Paris for the past three years has been prosaic and quite in contrast with the brilliant career when she was [illegible] with social honors in America. She has been rehabilitated; is once more the extravagant, luxury-loving, [illegible] woman of the world whom society in America gloried in and whose fascinating manner won for her such friends as Alice Roosevelt, [illegible] Townsend, Helen Cook and [illegible] that set in Washington when she [illegible] there with her adopted uncle, Count Cassini, then ambassador from Russia.

No more romantic and extraordinary life than that of the Countess Cassini could be imagined. Her origin has always been vested in mystery and has caused much speculation, yet it was never surely known even among her best friends.

START OF CAREER.

As a matter of fact, her real career started many years ago when her aunt, Mme. Shell, then the protege of Count Cassini, desired to accompany the Count to his newly appointed post as minister to China. This, not being entirely within the limits of diplomatic ethics, the new Russian minister to China refused, but Mme. Shell at once suggested an alternative. She would take her little niece, Marguerite Desplangues, along with her, to whom she would be a companion and instructress.

Marguerite was the daughter of Mme. Shell's sister, Mme. Desplanques, and both mother and aunt were in the Martin Quartette which toured America many years ago with great success.

MAKES SOCIAL HIT.

The scheme of taking her niece along worked out more than well. Count Cassini went to Peking, where the beautiful and attractive Marguerite was introduced as the Countess Cassini, a niece of the Russian minister.

From China they went to America where the Countess's social success was phenomenal. All Washington was enthusiastic in appreciation of her captivating personality and charm of manner. She numbered among her friends all the charming debutantes of the most exclusive families, and for a time was the rage with her original entertainments.

After Count Cassini was recalled

SOBS CEASE; BABY'S SAFE.

Young Lady Brings Joy to Mother.

Story of Rescue from Santa Rosa Thrills Waiting Ones at Depot.

Kindness at Santa Barbara Wins Hearts of Wreck Refugees.

Action of Officers of Vessel Is Sharply Critised by Survivors.

WHEN the crowd of refugees from the wrecked steamer Santa Rosa was leaving the Southern Pacific train yesterday afternoon at the Arcade Depot, a little slip of a woman with wide startled blue eyes rushed up to a large man with a heavy beard and, seizing him by the lapels of the coat, cried out hysterically:

"Where is my baby; oh, where is my boy?"

The big man seized the little woman's hands, and held them with a bewildered look in his eyes. He recognized the trouble but could not give any relief.

Just then a young lady about 22 years of age with a strong beautiful face pushed her way through the crowd to where the little blue-eyed woman was clinging hysterically to the big man's coat.

She was Mrs. G. W. Campbell of San Francisco. She took the little woman's hands in her own strong ones and asked her calmly what the trouble was. The little woman sobbed out a story about her husband coming down from San Francisco on the ill-fated steamer, and bringing with him their 2-year-old child. She had not heard of their safety and Mrs. Campbell endeavored to soothe her, and, by way of continuing the quiet talk, asked her to describe the baby. The little woman, who was Mrs. E. Hayes of San Francisco, who is now staying at the Rosslyn Hotel, started to describe her child when suddenly Mrs. Campbell asked if the baby had worn a pair of brown knickers and a blue blouse.

Eagerly Mrs. Hayes agreed with the description and Mrs. Campbell tenderly took the woman in her strong young arms and told her that her baby was safe and that she herself had carried it in the life-saving basket across the pounding breakers from the Santa Rosa to the shore.

The crowd that had gathered around the couple was very quiet and listened while Mrs. Campbell told of the husband standing on the wrecked deck of the ship holding the child and of how when the life basket was filled and there was room for no more he thrust the little bundle of warm childhood into the arms of Mrs. Campbell and said:

"Take him, won't you? He isn't heavy and the little girl is waiting for him in Los Angeles. I'll stay here."

Mrs. Campbell took the child and left the husband on the wrecked ship. She told graphically but quietly how the trip to land was made through the pounding surf and when she was through the blue-eyed woman was clinging to her and petting her and sobbing out her joy and thankfulness for what had been done.

LIFE RAFT HERO.

A few steps away a sturdy lad with curly black hair and a big handkerchief tied about his head was stepping off the train and with about twenty friendly passengers was making his way toward the gate. He was Mort Lyons of Monrovia, the man who helped to launch the first life raft from the ship and, when the raft capsized, fought his way to shore with the five women and four men, one at a time. Each of the passengers had been provided with a life preserver and when the raft had been launched from the bow a mountain of green water hurled it up-side-down and in an instant the passengers were struggling in the heavy surf.

They were about 500 feet from the shore and Lyons was the only one without a life preserver. He is a powerful swimmer. Seizing one of the women by the arm he struck out for the shore. The woman was supported by her life preserver and Lyons soon had her safely on land. He plunged again into the boiling water and fought his way out beyond the surf where the water was dotted with the passengers of the life raft. One at a time he rescued them and after a period of almost superhuman work he had every one safe on the shore.

Thus Mort Lyons was a hero as he walked out of the Arcade Depot and asked how soon the first Pacific Electric car left for Monrovia.

NAVY MAN SAVED GIRL.

In another group was a powerfully built young man wearing the uniform of a sailorman of the United States navy. He had the rolling gait of the seaman and was the one figure in the hundred or so refugees from the stricken steamer who seemed to feel at home. His name was R. W. Gough. His hair was still matted and soggy with the salt of the sea, but he carefully piloted a young lady to the street

PASSENGERS BLAME COMMANDER FOR WRECKING OF SANTA ROSA.

Charges of Serious Nature Laid at Door of Skipper of Vessel Lost on Coast of Santa Barbara—Captain Asserts He Obeyed Orders of Company—Latter Say They Trusted Judgment of Man in Charge.

BY HORACE W. KARR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Officials of the ill-fated steamer Santa Rosa, which was totally destroyed when grounded yesterday near Point Arguello, tonight made the admission, that al efforts to check up the entire list of passengers have been unsuccessfull. They, however, insist that no one outside of the four members of the crew perished.

Among those who cannot be accounted for are. Miss E. Hunt, Santa Barbara; Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Knell, San Francisco; Mrs. A. Krider and son, San Diego, and Miss Helen Bluett, San Francisco.

Purser F. W. Carlton of the Santa Rosa and several officials of the steamship company, have spent the entire day here looking out for the transportation of the refugees, who arrived on the special train at 3 o'clock this morning, and are supplying the injured with medical attention.

FEAR SOME MISSING.

When the passengers boarded the trains at Honda last night, a check was made, and officials announced that all were present or accounted for. This statement, however, has been followed by the admission that no less than fourteen still are missing, and this gives color to the persistent rumors and declarations of many survivors that a large number were drowned.

In reciting their own experiences while the steamer was being pounded by the combers and whil passengers were being taken ashore, many of the survivors state with positiveness that they saw men and women sink never to reappear.

Capt. J. O. Faria, commander of the wrecked steamer and several of his superior officers remained on the scene throughout the day. They made several unsuccessful attempts to reach the partially submerged vessel with breeches buoys, but when the cable holding the Santa Rosa parted last night this system was ruined.

SERIOUS CHARGES MADE.

A concerted effort will be made tomorrow to remove the baggage and other goods. In the wreckage are several automobiles, belonging to San Francisco people, the household goods of several families and scores of trunks and valises. It is believed that some of the goods can be recovered, and not greatly damaged.

Charges of a serious nature it is said, are to be made in connection with placing the responsibility for the wrecking of the Santa Rosa. That the officer on the bridge when the steamer struck the bar did not possess a government license and that the captain was participating in a drunken orgie and claims made by many of the survivors. It is known that the charges have been transmitted to the steamship headquarters in San Francisco.

ALLEGED CONVERSATION.

According to a responsible and well-known Santa Barbara man, who was standing near the telephone booth, this most pertinent conversation over the long distance telephone, between Surf and San Francisco was overheard this morning, the man on this end being an officer of the Santa Rosa and the one on the other end an official of the steamship company:

"Jackson was responsible for the grounding. He had no license papers and should be arrested as soon as he alights from the train in San Francisco."

This is denied in some quarters, as it has been given out that Third Officer J. Thomas was on the bridge. Jackson was in command of the ship while Capt. Faria was off duty and if he did not have his papers he was serving in violation of law, the penalty for which is severe.

CREW UPHOLDS CAPTAIN.

Members of the crew remaining on the scene today, in discussing the cause of the wreck, excused Capt. Faria but declared he was not asleep as at first reported. They say that he was in the company of the wireless operator, and a San Francisco girl, who was making the round trip.

When refugees of the steamer arrived in Santa Barbara at an early hour this morning, they were a unit in condemnation of the officers, both for blundering into the sand and for not allowing the passengers an opportunity to leave the doomed boat earlier in the day.

"They should be prosecuted to the limit of the law. There was too much whisky drunk." These statements were made on all sides.

DRUNKENNESS CHARGED.

One man who is particularly aggreived is John Barclay, whose wife now is in a local hospital suffering from the terrible exposure and a blow on the head. Barclay says he does not expect his wife to recover from her terrific experience.

"There was too much drunkenness on the boat," said Barclay. "Nearly every officer was more or less drunk, and how could they expect to take the steamer through such a treacherous place in safety?

"While the captain was not on duty at the time of the grounding, he had charge of the situation afterward, and on him should all the blame rest for the loss of life. He had hours of time while the sea was calm to remove the passengers, but refused. He even threatened to shoot me when I pleaded with him to take my wife and me ashore."

NO FOG AT TIME.

That there was not the slightest fog when the steamer ran ashore is the statement of many. The engineer on the freight train that was near the secene is reported to have stated that the night was so clear that he plainly saw the boat run aground. This is taken as good evidence that there was plenty of light.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CARACAS (Venezuela) July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Cipria Castro, self-styled man of destin who once set out with an army henchmen and overturned the goverr ment, is in Venezuela and seems pra tically assured of regaining the Pres dency. Even many of the milita authorities here assert that the prese regime is tottering and that only fo eign intervention can save it.

Castro already has an army of mo than 2000. These troops are equipp with modern army rifles, using ste jacketed bullets. Whence they came a matter of speculation, but it h been known here for a month th they had been shipped.

PLENTY OF MONEY.

In the Credit Lyonnaise of Franc Castro has on deposit 35,000,0 francs. He is said to have had t additional backing of Banker Silv who asserted that unlimited me would be at the disposal of the exil dictator. From all sides former frien are rallying to him. Revolution h been in the air for months. Newsp pers have been devoured for news the exile's wanderings and of the su cess of attempted filibusters from t United States gulf ports.

Even with prisons staring them the face, soldiers and civilians ha declared they wanted but the word fight for their former chief.

There is every indication that ar and ammunition for the rebels we sent out of Cuba. Gulfport, Miss., t first reliance of the insurgents, fail them utterly.

Castro means to fight and fight the finish. How large his army m have swelled by tomorrow is a matt of conjecture with how long it w take recruits to sail to Castilletas. T bay of Miracaibo and the Oca Mou tains render the section practically i accessible by land.

TROOPS FULLY ARMED.

All of the government troops ha been fully armed and are prepared take battle for the nation at any m ment. The government is endeavo ing to keep a close watch on the ru who refused to stay exiled and to pr vent him from marching on the ca ital.

Castro landed at Castilletas, on G jira peninsula, the territory whi was in dispute between Colombia a Venezuela. This territory is inacc sible except by ship and a compar tively small force could hold it again all comers. Castro is perfectly as long as he remains there, but t government knows he will not do th and it is likely the first trouble w occur in Falcon province.

In the meantime the Castro forc have everything to hope for from th alities in Cuba. With a revolution that island probable if not immine and the whole country excited, pla are progressing steadily to ship munitions to this State. REDONDO BEACH, July 8.—[Exusive Dispatch.] Mrs. A. G. Mooney d 4-year-old son, who were reported issing in the steamer Santa Rosa saster of yesterday morning, have en accounted for. Mrs. Mooney and r son arrived here late this afteron on the steam schooner Santa rbara, along with twenty-five other ssengers. Mrs. Mooney was to have iled from San Francisco on the nta Rosa, but was delayed for a atter of thirty minutes, thereby issing the boat, and as the Santa rbara was about to clear for this rt, engaged passage on her. Her sband came here to meet her yesrday.

Capt. F. P. Zaddart, master of the eamer Santa Barbara, one of the best skippers in the coastwise trade, ports that he stood by the ill-fated ssel for seven hours last evening, aving about 11 o'clock. In comenting on the slowness of the ofers in putting the passengers ashore, said:

CRITICISES CAPTAIN.

"I am at a loss to understand what pt. Faria was thinking about. From e position of his vessel and the way e waves were tossing it about, he st surely have comprehended the uation and fully realized that the nta Rosa was doomed. When I first w the vessel her stern was being ffeted about by the heavy sea ich was running at the time. We od by and made our lifeboats ready that they could be used in case ey were needed. As to whether y of the passengers were drowned ould not say, but it is my impression at the life raft was capsized."

MRS. HAYES HAPPY.

Mrs. E. Hayes of San Francisco, o came here yesterday, expecting meet her husband and three-year baby girl, who were to arrive on Santa Rosa, is today, after two s of anxiety, joyful over the fact t they are safe.

Mrs. Hayes, who looks like a little ool girl, and who was absolutely ndless here in her trouble, had ected to surprise her husband at s place. He thinks she is now in n Francisco, where she was delayed after making the trip south with him by ess in her family.

She has been almost frantic for the t two days and tried in vain to ch him by wireless to inform him her whereabouts. All day she unted the Arcade station in Los Anes expecting to see her loved ones ive with the passengers from the nta Rosa.

GETS WORD OF BABE.

ate this afternoon she met a Mrs. mpbell, who told her of her baby 's safety. Mrs. Campbell carried child in her arms as they were ered to safety in a basket from wrecked ship.

ater Mrs. Hayes met another man, who reported that she had n Hayes and little daughter, May, at Hotel Arlington, Santa Barra. Mrs. Hayes returned to Redo Beach this evening for her ggage and left at once for Los Anes to attempt to locate her husband child.

Hayes is in charge of the diningm at the Argonaut Hotel, San ancisco.

SURVIVORS GRATEFUL.

KINDNESS WINS HEARTS.

tatements of several of the passers are direct and emphatic to the ct that several passengers were wned, this despite the statements the steamship company officials that death list does not include other n the members of the crew, who ished as told in The Times yesterday.

he survivors of the ill-fated Santa sa will long remember the treatnt they received at Santa Barbara. special train carrying the victims the disaster from the scene of the ck was met there by C. G. Chism, commercial agent of the South Pacific. Chisholm had been inmed that the passengers were er-soaked, cold and hungry. e provided hot coffee and other freshments, and then furnished carges to take the wreck victims to the els. Yesterday he again sent carges to the hotels and took the passgers to the morning train, which ught them to Los Angeles. About dy of the passengers and crew went San Francisco early yesterday. The t came to Los Angeles.

wo or three passengers echoed the y told by R. H. Axtell of Tombhe. "In marked contrast to the rotjudgment showed by the owners of boat was the treatment given us Santa Barbara. Everybody was d, wet and hungry, especially the men and children, when we arrived Santa Barbara. Most of the passen had no appetite for food while boat was teetering on the sand, then being hauled through the f, and getting soaked didn't serve discourage a desire for something at. We were given coffee and someg to eat at Santa Barbara and furred with carriages to take us to the els. I understand this was done at instance of the Southern Pacific lroad Company, and you bet we reciated it. It was mighty decent hem."

"GRINDING ON BOTTOM."

graphic story of the disaster was d by E. J. Plume of No. 52 Webster et, San Francisco, who was on his way to Los Angeles to visit his mother, who lives at No. 641 West Fiftieth street. Plume was without collar, and his clothes showed contact with the elements.

"I don't know what caused the disaster," said Plume. "There was no fog—at least the fog whistle was not sounding at the time we struck. The passengers were more or less aroused, but there was nothing like a panic or anything of that kind. The captain was appealed to to allow the passengers to land, but I imagine that he thought the high tide would float the boat and that there was no need of landing the passengers. Meanwhile the boat was grinding about on the bottom much as if the center was on the top of a big pin and was trying to get off.

"The sea was smooth as a millpond during the greater part of the day and it would have been no trouble at all to have gotten everybody off early in the day. But the captain waited until the tide was running high and finally yielded to the emphatic argument made by a committee of the passengers, who insisted that the crew provide facilities for allowing us to get ashore. There was a big sea running when the first passengers were taken off the side at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The landing of the passengers was attended with considerable danger, starting with the death of the sailors who undertook to launch the life line. But every one was gotten off by 11 o'clock. One of the rafts upset, but I don't know for certain that any lives were lost except the men of the crew that I have mentioned.

"In view of the breaking up of the ship it does seem as if the captain made a mistake in not allowing the passengers to land in the morning. If this had been done the passengers could have gotten to shore with much less risk and certainly in a drier condition that they were after the mad ride they had to take through the roaring surf. For the life of me I don't see how some of the women survived it." Plume is an athlete and has been a member of the San Francisco police department.

Gray McTaggart of Santa Ana got off the train carrying a life preserver under his arm.

"Yes, this is all I saved," said McTaggart, "and it really saved me. Everybody lost their baggage and lots of the people lost their shoes and left hats and wraps behind. Everybody was up and dressed, of course, when we started from the ship, but some left shoes and other parts of their clothing behind, because if they had to swim for it they didn't want to be hampered any more than was necessary. Nobody seems to understand why we were not taken off sooner."

"We had an offer of assistance from a life-saving crew in the morning, but the captain turned it down and they went away," said A. L. Cook of Berkeley. "We have talked it over and we think that the captain took the wrong chance in not allowing the passengers to land in the morning when the sea was as smooth as a mill pond. But I suppose he thought that the ship wouldn't sink and that the high tide would carry the ship off."

Several of the passengers spoke in commendation of P. H. Essig, a sailor in the submarine service of the United States. "He was especially active and saved several lives," said two or three. Essig readily admitted his identity, but modestly declined to discuss his part in the tragic event. "I did what I could, of course," said Essig, "but how I got to beat it out of here or walk to San Diego. Goodby, mates." And, with the alert, rolling walk of the sailor, he was out of the station and on his way to the Santa Fe Depot.

FRIENDS LINE DEPOT.

The depot platform was lined with anxious friends and relatives of passengers who were on the wrecked ship, and, as the train pulled into the station, they eagerly grabbed and interviewed each and every passenger as he or she alighted from the train, begging for some definite news relating to a sister, brother, husband or friend, who had not been heard from.

Mrs. L. E. Powell of No. 2537 Fremont avenue eagerly sought news from her sister, Mrs. P. Church, of Point Richmond, who, with her little son, was a passenger on the boat. She received no comforting news from those who came to this city.

Miss Jessie Flaherty was one of the passengers who did not arrive with the others on the train yesterday, and who has not communicated with friends in this city since the accident. Her home is at No. 419 West Ninth street.

G. W. Campbell and wife of No. 881 Chimery street, San Francisco, were among the fortunate survivors to reach this city yesterday afternoon. Mr. Campbell corroborated the statements of the other passengers relative to the intoxicated condition of the crew of the Santa Rosa and stated that he was a member of the committee of passengers who waited upon Capt. Faria and urged him to lower the boats and save the women and children, several hours before any move was made to land the passengers. He said the answer they received was that the President was on its way to them and that they would all be taken off safely if they would wait. Repeated efforts were made to have him land the passengers, but, after the tide began to come in, the boat careened more and more, and the danger became more and more imminent.

Jack Harland was one of the thirteen passengers who was taken off on the first raft which was sent ashore, and was one of the few who survived, as the raft was tossed over by the waves and of the thirteen, several were lost, the exact number was not known, according to Harland. He stated that with the possible exception of one or two, all of the ship's crew had been drinking and the fumes of liquor were easily noticed on the captain. He reiterated the statement of the other passengers that all could have been easily and safely removed to the land earlier in the day. He escaped with only scant clothing and came to his home in this city with the others on the afternoon train. He stated he saw two women and a little boy go down, but could give no description which would assist in their identification.

SAW WOMAN DROWN.

John Ramage of Fowler was among those who came to Los Angeles on the afternoon train. He stated that he was one of the few who succeeded in making a safe landing from the first raft which left the ill-fated ship. He said he was a witness to the drowning of the two women and little boy who are reported as having been lost from the raft, and also the drowning of two sailors. He was among those who went to the captain earlier in the day and begged to have the passengers removed while the sea was calm and while there was apparently plenty of time. The officer in charge of the vessel maintained that there was plenty of time, and that aid would soon reach them, and refused, absolutely, to permit anything to be done.

Arthur Edley and wife, also of Fowler, were among the fortunate survivors of the wreck, and were still suffering from the trials incident to the exposure and nerve-racking experiences of the past few hours, and were exceedingly grateful for having been saved. Mr. Edley added his testimony to that of the others, that in his opinion the entire list of passengers might have been safely landed had the boats been lowered earlier in the day, and he thought it quite probable that much of the baggage and cargo could have been landed safely.

C. Anderberg of San Francisco, on his way here to visit relatives, looked ready to patronize a clothing store. He was accompanied by J. O. Nelson, both of whom were met by Clara Jacabson of No. 316 South Thomas street. Kate Feehan, hatless, and showing evidence of possessing nerves, and her little nephew, Willie Feehan, were received by two nuns, who took them to the Los Angeles convent.

Mrs. E. Fellows, 73 years old, probably the oldest passenger on the boat, with her daughter-in-law and three children, was returning from a visit to San Quentin. She fell into the arms of her stalwart son, Jack Fellows, a millwright, living at No. 230 Kirby street, this city. Without hat, coat or wrap, Mrs. Fellows laughed with her son over the fact that while she had traveled the world it remained for her to be in a wreck on the California coast. Mrs. J. M. Verdenal and daughter, Miss Cora, on their way from San Rafael, had no words of commendation for the ship commander, views shared by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. LeFetra of Glendora, returning from a trip to San Francisco.

Mrs. E. Hayes journeyed by train from San Francisco, while her husband came by the Santa Rosa. They met at the station yesterday afternoon.

Edwin Johnson and Herbert Miller, both of Scotia, Humboldt county, who arrived last night, were asleep when the accident occurred. They were among the last to be rescued. They were taken to safety on a raft. Miller is 29 years old and is employed as ticket agent for the Northwestern Pacific Railroad at Eureka, a few miles from Scotia. He was making his first trip to Los Angeles. Johnson is 20 years old and is employed by the "E. R." Mercantile Company at Scotia. They went to the Natick House.

DIDN'T FEEL SHOCK.

Johnson declared that he did not know that there was anything wrong on shipboard for more than half an hour after the wreck. As the last passengers were being taken ashore Johnson and Miller, in the few clothes which they snatched when aroused from their berths, joined the raft. Dauntless men worked like heroes from the shore to aid in the rescue of those on board, according to Miller and Johnson. Four sailors were seen to drown by the survivors on shore. This caused much excitement among the rescued, many of the women fainting, according to Miller and Johnson.

Mrs. Ida Herman and Miss R. Kerr, two women survivors, arrived last night. They were both rescued in baskets and escaped with a severe wetting. Miss Kerr lives in Oakland and is on her way to visit relatives at Banning. She remained in Los Angeles last night. Miss Herman was met by a sister, Mrs. Casey Wyckoff of Venice. Both women praise the rescue work and the treatment they received after being taken ashore.

Is Ogden Mills Jr. Affianced To Miss Rutherford?

Dame Rumor of London Society Wuld Have It Thus.

Everyone Concerned Travels; No Answer Given.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Are Ogden Mills, Jr., and Miss Margaret Rutherfurd betrothed? Dame Rumor says they are. One of the leading society journals of London declares they are. London society in general believes they are. New York society wonders if they are. And nobody can give a positive and authoritative denial or affirmation on the subject, for the very good reason that Ogden Mills, Jr., and Miss Margaret Rutherfurd, either in separate parties or as members of the same party, are touring Switzerland or France, or some other portion of the continent by automobile and keeping several laps ahead of anybody with aspirations for an interview.

All the members of the two families concerned, also, are either traveling somewhere in Europe, or are on their way to Europe, or are returning to America from Europe and are therefore quite unavailable as sources of information.

BOTH SMITTEN?

It is known positively that the young people have been much in each other's society during the past coronation festivities, and that they have shown decided signs of an attachment scarcely to be characterized as mere friendship. Society circles on both sides of the Atlantic would not be in the least surprised if formal announcement of the engagement were to be made when the two families return to New York later in the summer.

Meanwhile, remains that announcement in the London society journal in question, and all efforts to reach either Ogden Mills, Jr., or Miss Margaret Rutherfurd—who is the charming and handsome daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt by a former marriage—have proved fruitless.

But society has hopes. It would be an ideal match, say all the matrons who have not daughters of marriageable age. "Lucky dog," say the masculine friends of Ogden Mills, Jr.

RUMORS OF PAST.

There was a rumor afloat, more than a year ago, that Miss Rutherfurd was engaged to Kermit Roosevelt, who met her several times in Paris on his return from the famous Roosevelt hunting trip in Africa, but young Kermit denied the rumor with considerable emphasis.

Then, again, a month or so ago, it was widely reported that Mrs. Vanderbilt had taken her daughter to Florence, and it was intimated that it was for the purpose of aiding the daughter to forget a persistent New York suitor who did not please the mother—viewed in the light of a possible son-in-law.

Thousands of Head of Cattle Die for Want of Range Grass and Water—Cotton Damaged.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GALVESTON (Tex.) July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Thousands of head of cattle have died from heat, hunger and thirst on the ranges in Western Texas and in the Pecos Valley and the losses even now are estimated from $600,000 to $750,000. Unless generous rains fall within ten days the losses will reach $2,000,000, or more.

The rains over the State the past few days have not broken the four months' drouth in this section. Grass on the ranges has burned up and cattle travel for miles in fruitless search for water, many dying from heat.

Good rains fell in the early spring, but the shallow rivers and water holes have been exhausted for more than two months and eight counties are suffering for water. Cotton in this section is reduced 30 per cent. in one month for want of water.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, July 8.—Reports received today of the clash in Iguala yesterday between the forces of Gen. Figueroa, chief of rurales, and Gen. Salgado, indicate that the encounter followed an effort to arrest Salgado. His followers, learning of the order for his arrest, attacked Figueroa's men, formerly their companions in the revolution.

The fighting lasted three hours, terminating with the surrender of the greater part of Salgado's men. Not more than ten men were killed, but many were injured.

This is the same train that was held up with much display of firearms a week ago. According to the detectives, the holdup last night was prevented by holding the train at Belle Valley for forty minutes.

car. This young lady was Miss Elizabeth McLane of Belvedere, and she had been a passenger on board the Santa Rosa. She had been rescued from certain death by Gough and the other passengers stated that Gough seemed very pleased with the work he had done and before leaving Miss McLane at the street car he carefully took a piece of cardboard from his pocket and scribbled down an address.

Gough had been an ordinary sailor on the U.S.S. South Dakota, and had been honorably discharged about one week ago in San Francisco. He was en route home on the Santa Rosa when the accident happened. His actions have been characterized as heroic. He was one of the ten volunteers who remained on the steamer until every passenger had been sent safely to the shore. He spoke caustically of the actions of the captain and crew, and said that there was not the slightest reason for the long wait of about fourteen hours between the time the steamer struck up to the time the passengers were started toward the shore. He stated in plain words that it was an attempt of the captain to save a salvage of the big steamer by a passing ship. He said that the officers seemed determined to keep everybody in the boat, and to refuse all aid until one of their own boats should pass, and thus the $400,000 salvage of the big steamer would be saved.

SAN DIEGANS SPEND ANXIOUS MOMENT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Among the passengers aboard the steamer Santa Rosa en route to San Diego were a number who have relatives here and who were coming to spend the summer. Their relatives here all last night and today suffered a severe nervous strain because of the anxiety in not being able to hear as to their safety.

J. W. Barclay and wife of San Francisco were en route to visit the family of J. H. Lyon, an insurance agent. Mrs. Barclay and Mrs. Lyon are sisters.

Given Knowlton and wife of San Francisco were en route to visit C. R. Hudson and family. Mrs. Knowlton and Mrs. Hudson are sisters. Hudson is a local real estate dealer.

Mrs. E. A. Kelton and 2-year-old daughter were coming to visit Mrs. Kelton's mother, Mrs. Eliza Neale, and Mrs. Kelton's brother, Herbert Neale, a real estate broker.

Mrs. Ethel Cardell was en route in company with Mrs. Kelton. She is a sister of Mrs. Edwin A. Wells, wife of a prominent attorney.

L. E. Fuller of San Francisco is an uncle of H. D. Dutton, a cigar dealer of this place.

Although her name does not appear in the list of passengers, much anxiety is felt by relatives for the safety of Mrs. Hardy, wife of President E. L. Hardy of the San Diego State Normal. Mr. and Mrs. Hardy have been visiting in San Francisco several weeks. A letter to relatives stated that Mrs. Hardy intended to leave for home by steamer Thursday. Mr. Hardy intended to remain in San Francisco.

WIRELESS MAN TELLS OF HIS ADVENTURES.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—Wireless Operator Barney Frankel, who arrived in San Francisco today, refused to say whether or not he had transmitted to the captain an order from the company not to land the passengers. He had, he said, received orders from his superiors not to discuss the matter with newspaper men.

"I believe the officers of the ship did their full duty," was all he would say. Frankel discussed freely his adventures on the lost ship.

"I was awakened by the grounding of the ship," he said, "and rushed to my instrument. I began sending out calls of distress, but got no answer for about 5 minutes, when I raised Mare Island. I afterward learned that the operator at Point Arguello was asleep. I told Mare Island to get San Francisco and get into communication with the company. I described the location and general circumstances of the grounding of the vessel as accurately as I could at the time. I remained at the instrument until 5:30 o'clock when the vessel split in two. Early in the morning I got into communication with the Centralia and the Helen Drew, both of which volunteered assistance. I helped land the passengers and left the vessel in the last boat with the captain, the first officer, chief engineer and two freight clerks."

Frankel is 19 years old.

Mrs. Maude Reuch of San Francisco, who was en route to Los Angeles, gave an account of the wreck.

"I questioned one of the freight clerks early in the afternoon," she said, "as to why we were not taken ashore. 'It would cost a lot of money to take you people all home by train,' he said. 'We are waiting for one of our own boats.' I do not recall the man's name."

Capt. John Birmingham, Federal supervising inspector-general of hulls and boilers, of San Francisco, said tonight that a thorough investigation will be begun at once.

"GRINDING ON BOTTOM."

graphic story of the disaster was by E. J. Plume of No. 52 Webster et, San Francisco, who was on his way to Los Angeles to visit his mother, who lives at No. 641 West Fiftieth street. Plume was without collar, and his clothes showed contact with the elements.

"I don't know what caused the disaster," said Plume, "There was no fog—at least the fog whistle was not sounding at the time we struck. The passengers were more or less aroused, but there was nothing like a panic or anything of that kind. The captain was appealed to to allow the passengers to land, but I imagine that he thought the high tide would float the boat and that there was no need of landing the passengers. Meanwhile the boat was grinding about on the bottom much as if the center was on the top of a big pin and was trying to get off.

"The sea was smooth as a millpond during the greater part of the day and it would have been no trouble at all to have gotten everybody off early in the day. But the captain waited until the tide was running high and finally yielded to the emphatic argument made by a committee of the passengers, who insisted that the crew provide facilities for allowing us to get ashore. There was a big sea running when the first passengers were taken off the side at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The landing of the passengers was attended with considerable danger, starting with the death of the sailors who undertook to launch the life line. But every one was gotten off by 11 o'clock. One of the rafts upset, but I don't know for certain that any lives were lost except the men of the crew that I have mentioned.

"In view of the breaking up of the ship it does seem as if the captain made a mistake in not allowing the passengers to land in the morning. If this had been done the passengers could have gotten to shore with much less risk and certainly in a drier condition that they were after the mad ride they had to take through the roaring surf. For the life of me I don't see how some of the women survived it." Plume is an athlete and has been a member of the San Francisco police department.

Gray McTaggart of Santa Ana got off the train carrying a life preserver under his arm.

"Yes, that is all I saved," said McTaggart, "and it really saved me. Everybody lost their baggage and lots of the people lost their shoes and left hats and wraps behind. Everybody was up and dressed, of course, when we started from the ship, but some left shoes and other parts of their clothing behind, because if they had to swim for it they didn't want to be hampered any more than was necessary. Nobody seems to understand why we were not taken off sooner."

"We had an offer of assistance from a life-saving crew in the morning, but the captain turned it down and they went away," said A. L. Cook of Berkeley. "We have talked it over and we think that the captain took the wrong chance in not allowing the passengers to land in the morning when the sea was as smooth as a mill pond. But I suppose he thought that the ship wouldn't sink and that the high tide would carry the ship off."

Several of the passengers spoke in commendation of P. H. Essig, a sailor in the submarine service of the United States. "He was especially active and saved several lives," said two or three. Essig readily admitted his identity, but modestly declined to discuss his part in the tragic event. "I did what I could, of course," said Essig, "but now I got to beat it out of here or walk to San Diego. Goodby, mates." And, with the alert, rolling walk of the sailor, he was out of the station and on his way to the Santa Fe Depot.

FRIENDS LINE DEPOT.

The depot platform was lined with anxious friends and relatives of passengers who were on the wrecked ship, and, as the train pulled into the station, they eagerly grabbed and interviewed each and every passenger as he or she alighted from the train, begging for some definite news relating to a sister, brother, husband or friend, who had not been heard from.

Mrs. L. E. Powell of No. 2537 Fremont avenue eagerly sought news from her sister, Mrs. P. Church, of Point Richmond, who, with her little son, was a passenger on the boat. She received no comforting news from those who came to this city.

Miss Jessie Flaherty was one of the passengers who did not arrive with the others on the train yesterday, and who has not communicated with friends in this city since the accident. Her home is at No. 419 West Ninth street.

G. W. Campbell and wife of No. 881 Chimery street, San Francisco, were among the fortunate survivors to reach this city yesterday afternoon. Mr. Campbell corroborated the statements of the other passengers relative to the intoxicated condition of the crew of the Santa Rosa and stated that he was a member of the committee of passengers who waited upon Capt. Faria and urged him to lower the boats and save the women and children, several hours before any move was made to land the passengers. He said the answer they received was that the President was on its way to them and that they would all be taken off safely if they would wait. Repeated efforts were made to have him land the passengers, but, after the tide began to come in, the boat careened more and more, and the danger became more and more imminent.

Jack Harland was one of the thirteen passengers who was taken off on the first raft which was sent ashore, and was one of the few who survived, as the raft was tossed over by the waves and of the thirteen, several were lost, the exact number was not known, according to Harland. He stated that with the possible exception of one or two, all of the ship's crew had been drinking and the fumes of liquor were easily noticed on the captain. He reiterated the statement of the other passengers that all could have been easily and safely removed to the land earlier in the day. He escaped with only scant clothing and came to his home in this city with the others on the afternoon train. He stated he saw two women and a little boy go down, but could give no description which would assist in their identification.

SAW WOMAN DROWN.

John Ramage of Fowler was among those who came to Los Angeles on the afternoon train. He stated that he was one of the few who succeeded in making a safe landing from the first raft which left the ill-fated ship. He said he was a witness to the drowning of the two women and little boy who are reported as having been lost from the raft, and also the drowning of two sailors. He was among those who went to the captain earlier in the day and begged to have the passengers removed while the sea was calm and while there was apparently plenty of time. The officer in charge of the vessel maintained that there was plenty of time, and that aid would soon reach them, and refused, absolutely, to permit anything to be done.

Arthur Edley and wife, also of Fowler, were among the fortunate survivors of the wreck, and were still suffering from the trials incident to the exposure and nerve-racking experiences of the past few hours, and were exceedingly grateful for having been saved. Mr. Edley added his testimony to that of the others, that in his opinion the entire list of passengers might have been safely landed had the boats been lowered earlier in the day, and he thought it quite probable that much of the baggage and cargo could have been landed safely.

C. Anderberg of San Francisco, on his way here to visit relatives, looked ready to patronize a clothing store. He was accompanied by J. O. Nelson, both of whom were met by Clara Jacabson of No. 316 South Thomas street. Kate Feehan, hatless, and showing evidence of possessing nerves, and her little nephew, Willie Feehan, were received by two nuns, who took them to the Los Angeles convent.

Mrs. E. Fellows, 73 years old, probably the oldest passenger on the boat, with her daughter-in-law and three children, was returning from a visit to San Quentin. She fell into the arms of her stalwart son, Jack Fellows, a millwright, living at No. 230 Kirby street, this city. Without hat, coat or wrap, Mrs. Fellows laughed with her son over the fact that while she had traveled the world it remained for her to be in a wreck on the California coast. Mrs. J. M. Verdenal and daughter, Miss Cora, on their way from San Rafael, had no words of commendation for the ship commander, views shared by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. LeFetra of Glendora, returning from a trip to San Francisco.

Mrs. E. Hayes journeyed by train from San Francisco, while her husband came by the Santa Rosa. They met at the station yesterday afternoon.

Edwin Johnson and Herbert Miller, both of Scotia, Humboldt county, who arrived last night, were asleep when the accident occurred. They were among the last to be rescued. They were taken to safety on a raft. Miller is 29 years old and is employed as ticket agent for the Northwestern Pacific Railroad at Eureka, a few miles from Scotia. He was making his first trip to Los Angeles. Johnson is 20 years old and is employed by the "E. R." Mercantile Company at Scotia. They went to the Natick House.

DIDN'T FEEL SHOCK.

Johnson declared that he did not know that there was anything wrong on shipboard for more than half an hour after the wreck. As the last passengers were being taken ashore Johnson and Miller, in the few clothes which they snatched when aroused from their berths, joined the raft. Dauntless men worked like heroes from the shore to aid in the rescue of those on board, according to Miller and Johnson. Four sailors were seen to drown by the survivors on shore. This caused much excitement among the rescued, many of the women fainting, according to Miller and Johnson.

Mrs. Ida Herman and Miss R. Kerr, two women survivors, arrived last night. They were both rescued in baskets and escaped with a severe wetting. Miss Kerr lives in Oakland and is on her way to visit relatives at Banning. She remained in Los Angeles last night. Miss Herman was met by a sister, Mrs. Casey Wyckoff of Venice. Both women praise the rescue work and the treatment they received after being taken ashore.

Is Ogden Mills Jr. Affianced To Miss Rutherford?

Dame Rumor of London Society Wuld Have It Thus.

Everyone Concerned Travels; No Answer Given.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Are Ogden Mills, Jr., and Miss Margaret Rutherfurd betrothed? Dame Rumor says they are. One of the leading society journals of London declares they are. London society in general believes they are. New York society wonders if they are. And nobody can give a positive and authoritative denial or affirmation on the subject, for the very good reason that Ogden Mills, Jr., and Miss Margaret Rutherfurd, either in separate parties or as members of the same party, are touring Switzerland or France, or some other portion of the continent by automobile and keeping several laps ahead of anybody with aspirations for an interview.

All the members of the two families concerned, also, are either traveling somewhere in Europe, or are on their way to Europe, or are returning to America from Europe and are therefore quite unavailable as sources of information.

BOTH SMITTEN?

It is known positively that the young people have been much in each other's society during the past coronation festivities, and that they have shown decided signs of an attachment scarcely to be characterized as mere friendship. Society circles on both sides of the Atlantic would not be in the least surprised if formal announcement of the engagement were to be made when the two families return to New York later in the summer.

Meanwhile, remains that announcement in the London society journal in question, and all efforts to reach either Ogden Mills, Jr., or Miss Margaret Rutherfurd—who is the charming and handsome daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt by a former marriage—have proved fruitless.

But society has hopes. It would be an ideal match, say all the matrons who have not daughters of marriageable age. "Lucky dog," say the masculine friends of Ogden Mills, Jr.

RUMORS OF PAST.

There was a rumor afloat, more than a year ago, that Miss Rutherfurd was engaged to Kermit Roosevelt, who met her several times in Paris on his return from the famous Roosevelt hunting trip in Africa, but young Kermit denied the rumor with considerable emphasis.

Then, again, a month or so ago, it was widely reported that Mrs. Vanderbilt had taken her daughter to Florence, and it was intimated that it was for the purpose of aiding the daughter to forget a persistent New York suitor who did not please the mother—viewed in the light of a possible son-in-law.

Thousands of Head of Cattle Die for Want of Range Grass and Water—Cotton Damaged.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GALVESTON (Tex.) July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Thousands of head of cattle have died from heat, hunger and thirst on the ranges in Western Texas and in the Pecos Valley and the losses even now are estimated from $600,000 to $750,000. Unless generous rains fall within ten days the losses will reach $2,000,000, or more.

The rains over the State the past few days have not broken the four months' drouth in this section. Grass on the ranges has burned up and cattle travel for miles in fruitless search for water, many dying from heat.

Good rains fell in the early spring, but the shallow rivers and water holes have been exhausted for more than two months and eight counties are suffering for water. Cotton in this section is reduced 30 per cent. in one month for want of water.

MEXICO CITY, July 8.—Reports received today of the clash in Iguala yesterday between the forces of Gen. Figueroa, chief of rurales, and Gen. Salgado, indicate that the encounter followed an effort to arrest Salgado. His followers, learning of the order for his arrest, attacked Figueroa's men, formerly their companions in the revolution.

The fighting lasted three hours, terminating with the surrender of the greater part of Salgado's men. Not more than ten men were killed, but many were injured.

ERIE (Pa.) July 8.—Pennsylvania railroad detectives admitted tonight that another attempt was made last night to hold up train No. 41 on the Philadelphia and Erie branch. This is the same train that was held up with much display of firearms a week ago. According to the detectives, the hold-up last night was prevented by holding the train at Belle Valley for forty minutes.

car. This young lady was Miss Elizabeth McLane of Belvedere, and she had been a passenger on board the Santa Rosa. She had been rescued from certain death by Gough and the other passengers stated that Gough seemed very pleased with the work he had done and before leaving Miss McLane at the street car he carefully took a piece of cardboard from his pocket and scribbled down an address.

Gough had been an ordinary sailor on the U.S.S. South Dakota, and had been honorably discharged about one week ago in San Francisco. He was en route home on the Santa Rosa when the accident happened. His actions have been characterized as heroic. He was one of the ten volunteers who remained on the steamer until every passenger had been sent safely to the shore. He spoke caustically of the actions of the captain and crew, and said that there was not the slightest reason for the long wait of about fourteen hours between the time the steamer struck up to the time the passengers were started toward the shore. He stated in plain words that it was an attempt of the captain to save a salvage of the big steamer by a passing ship. He said that the officers seemed determined to keep everybody in the boat, and to refuse all aid until one of their own boats should pass, and thus the $400,000 salvage of the big steamer would be saved.

SAN DIEGANS SPEND ANXIOUS MOMENT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Among the passengers aboard the steamer Santa Rosa en route to San Diego were a number who have relatives here and who were coming to spend the summer. Their relatives here all last night and today suffered a severe nervous strain because of the anxiety in not being able to hear as to their safety.

J. W. Barclay and wife of San Francisco were en route to visit the family of J. H. Lyon, an insurance agent. Mrs. Barclay and Mrs. Lyon are sisters.

Given Knowlton and wife of San Francisco were en route to visit C. R. Hudson and family. Mrs. Knowlton and Mrs. Hudson are sisters. Hudson is a local real estate dealer.

Mrs. E. A. Kelton and 2-year-old daughter were coming to visit Mrs. Kelton's mother, Mrs. Eliza Neale, and Mrs. Kelton's brother, Herbert Neale, a real estate broker.

Mrs. Ethel Cardell was en route in company with Mrs. Kelton. She is a sister of Mrs. Edwin A. Wells, wife of a prominent attorney.

L. E. Fuller of San Francisco is an uncle of H. D. Dutton, a cigar dealer of this place.

Although her name does not appear in the list of passengers, much anxiety is felt by relatives for the safety of Mrs. Hardy, wife of President E. L. Hardy of the San Diego State Normal. Mr. and Mrs. Hardy have been visiting in San Francisco several weeks. A letter to relatives stated that Mrs. Hardy intended to leave for home by steamer Thursday. Mr. Hardy intended to remain in San Francisco.

WIRELESS MAN TELLS OF HIS ADVENTURES.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—Wireless Operator Barney Frankel, who arrived in San Francisco today, refused to say whether or not he had transmitted to the captain an order from the company not to land the passengers. He had, he said, received orders from his superiors not to discuss the matter with newspaper men.

"I believe the officers of the ship did their full duty," was all he would say. Frankel discussed freely his adventures on the lost ship.

"I was awakened by the grounding of the ship," he said, "and rushed to my instrument. I began sending out calls of distress, but got no answer for about 5 minutes, when I raised Mare Island. I afterward learned that the operater at Point Arguello was asleep. I told Mare Island to get San Francisco and get into communication with the company. I described the location and general circumstances of the grounding of the vessel as accurately as I could at the time. I remained at the instrument until 5:30 o'clock when the vessel split in two. Early in the morning I got into communication with the Centralia and the Helen Drew, both of which volunteered assistance. I helped land the passengers and left the vessel in the last boat with the captain, the first officer, chief engineer and two freight clerks."

Frankel is 19 years old.

Mrs. Maude Reuch of San Francisco, who was en route to Los Angeles, gave an account of the wreck.

"I questioned one of the freight clerks early in the afternoon," she said, "as to why we were not taken ashore. 'It would cost a lot of money to take you people all home by train,' he said. 'We are waiting for one of our own boats.' I do not recall the man's name."

Capt. John Birmingham, Federal supervising inspector-general of hulls and boilers, of San Francisco, said tonight that a thorough investigation will be begun at once.

The dirigible will become a part of the French aerial fleet.

"Death Valley Scotty" Busted Short Time Ago, Appears in Goldfield With Plenty of Cash.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Death Valley Scotty," who startled every large city in the United States by his eccentricity and his lavish expenditure of money, turned up in Goldfield yesterday with his pockets bulging with greenbacks. Two months ago "Scotty" was in [illegible] and dead broke. How he so suddenly came into wealth is a mystery, but he displayed $11,000 in currency and promised to reveal the location of his alleged fabulous wealth after August 1. In the meantime "Scotty" says he intends making another spectacular whirlwind dash across the continent in a special train. The special train trip will be his last appearance before the public, for after that "Scotty" says, he will settle down.

"I have shot more champagne corks into the air than all the bullets fired in the Mexican war, and the education has been an expensive one," he said. "I have learned enough and now I am going to look out for 'Scotty.'"

"Scotty" said he has been arrested thirty-eight times for high-grading, but nothing had even been found on him. He said that the source of his wealth, when revealed, will satisfy everybody.

GETS FITY THOUSAND.

Beckwith Awarded Original Interest in Water and Irrigation Companies Now Worth Half Million.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLUSA, July 8.—[Exclusixe Dispatch.] Judge M. T. Dooling of San Benito county, who presided in the trial of B. D. Beckwith, as administrator of the estate of Byron D. Beckwith, deceased, has filed his findings. He awards to Beckwith judgment for $50,000, his original interest in the water rights and rights to irrigation works that afterward were obtained by the Pittsburgh syndicate, which has since developed an immense project out of them, its corporate names being Sacramento Irrigation Company and Sacramento Valley West Side Canal Company.

Beckwith's father started to develop the irrigation system in 1901, after the old Central Irrigation district had been declared illegally formed. He planned to use its partly completed works, built at great expense. He afterward united with other irrigation people and various corporations were formed, to which the water rights and leases were transferred from time to time. But nothing much was done. Beckwith's claim against the Pittsburgh syndicate, through its deal with Sheldon, Schuyler and others, amounted to $500,000 or more,, sometimes being estimated at $1,000,000.

SAN DIEGANS FROM MISSOURI.

Sheriff Demands to Be Shown Before He'll Arrest Louis Wilde, Wanted in Portland, Or.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sheriff Stevens received a telegram today from Sheriff Jennings, at San Diego, in which the latter says the papers received there in the case against Louis J. Wilde are insufficient to warrant his arresting Wilde. In view of this, Dist.-Atty. Cameron and Deputy Sheriff Leonard have secured a requisition on the Governor of California, and are preparing to go to San Diego as soon as possible to make a fight for Wilde.

Sheriff Jennings further telegraphed Sheriff Stevens that Wilde was in San Diego and would not run away.

Wilde is wanted on an indictment by the June grand jury, which charged him with larceny by embezzlement in connection with the wrecking of the Oregon Trust and Savings Bank, and a bench warrant for his arrest has been issued.

When Sheriff Stevens wired for the arrest of Wilde last week the San Diego officers asked for a copy of the indictment and further information. The Sheriff immediately sent this, but nothing further was heard from the case until today.

LUMBERMEN AND POLITICS.

Plan to Form National Organization to Fight for Repeal of Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SPOKANE (Wash.) July 8.—Retail lumbermen, prosecuted by the government for alleged violations of the Sherman anti-trust law, will rely upon a proposed gigantic organization of retailers through the country to relieve them from present conditions. Organizations of all retailers into a great non-partisan political association is being undertaken by the lumbermen. It is freely admitted that the chief purpose of this association will be the repeal of the Sherman law.

"If the government's suit against us is successful," said A. L. Porter, indicted secretary of the Western Retail Lumbermen's Association, "it will eventually mean the killing of the Sherman anti-trust law."

Maj. Everett Griggs of Tacoma, now president of the National Luberemen's Association, succeeding Edward Hines, of Chicago, is beginning a campaign of publicity in behalf of the indicted secretaries of the retailers' association. Letters have been addressed to millmen throughout the Northwest inclosing printed matter favorable to the lumbermen, to which the manufacturers are requested to have published in local newspapers as interviews with themselves.

KILLED OR ROBBED. FEARS OF A WIFE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERKELEY, July 8.—A. W. Adams, who came here recently from Honolulu where he was employed as a book-keeper, has disappeared with $10,000, according to his wife, who has asked the police to search for him. Mrs. Adams, who has been staying with friends here, says that several days ago her husband converted bonds into $10,000 cash, with the intention of going to San Diego to enter business. She has heard nothing from him since and fears that he has been killed and robbed.

Going Up.

COST OF POTATOES MORE THAN DOUBLED; APRICOTS, PEACHES AND PEARS SCARCE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Frost in this State and excessive heat thoughout the East have united to raise the price of fruit and vegetables. The early crop of potatoes was nipped by an untimely frost. Immediately, the demand for that vegetable for home consumption and the export trade greatly exceeded the supply. Government contracts, which make no allowances for frosts and other catastrophes, but which compel the commission man to produce according to contract, took from the local market enormous quantities of potatoes. The excessive heat has practically ruined crops in the truck-raising country in the East. California will have to stand the brunt of the demand for western fruits and vegetables.

The commissary department of the Department of California of the United States army, under Maj. Hart, purchases by competitive bids during each month of the year about 3000 hundred weight of potatoes and of onions about 350 hundred weight.

As a comparison of prices paid by the government for these commodities during two years, it is mentioned that the prevailing prices paid last year for government potatoes was $1.14 per hundred weight, while this year the potatoes are costing Uncle Sam $2.53, or an increase of over 100 per cent. over last year's price. Onions, which brought $1.72 last year per hundred weight, bring $1.96. The difference in price in this vegetable is not so noticeable, but still a considerable increase.

The fruits that will be dearest this year will be apricots, peaches and pears. Although only a few years ago the apricot crops were so heavy that they could not be picked fast enough, and consequently were often given away, this year the crop will fall far short of the demand.

The Ten Commandments of Dentistry

First—When applying to a dentist for work, there are several things you should bear in mind and a number of things you should insist upon. Always remember that many dentists are extremely careless, and do much toward spreading disease.

Second—Never allow a dentist to place an instrument into your mouth unless you have seen him sterilize it.

Third—Never place your head upon the head rest after another patient; demand a clean napkin.

Fourth—Insist upon the dental desk being thoroughly cleansed before your work begins.

Fifth—If the dentist's nails are unclean, plainly speak of it, for many germs are capable of being carried this way from one mouth to another.

Sixth—See to it that your dentist sterilizes his hands before handling the instruments or examines your mouth.

Seventh—Never drink or rinse the mouth from a glass until after it has been sterilized in your presence; the patient ahead of you may have been a tubercular subject.

Eighth—If your dentist's fingers are stained yellow from cigars or cigarettes you should avoid him.

Ninth—Most important of all, go to a dentist who is capable and can do your work WITHOUT PAIN.

Tenth—And after he does it, will stand back of it with a ten-year guarantee.

I am the dentist you are looking for. You say why? I say because

"I Never Hurt a Bit"

and I always keep that promise, if given the chance.

Let Me Look Them Over This Month.

It is much better to be sure than sorry, and so long as I am willing to do this service for you free of any charge, I think you should give me the opportunity.

I can't send my skill to you. You must come to me.

Testimony.

COULDN'T BE WORSE WITNESSES RELATE.

Johnson Hears Evil Reports of Berkely School.

Physical Culture Substituted for Moral Training.

Keith and the Directors Are Sharply Critised.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERKELEY (Cal.) July 8.—Maladministration was the keynote of the testimony given by several witnesses today to Gov. Johnson in his investigation of conditions in the California Institution for the Deaf, Dumb and Blind. Every witness called testified to the incompetency of Supt. Douglas Keith, whose counsel, Warren Olney, Jr., admitted Keith had had no experience as a teacher prior to his appointment as principal. The rules are that the principal must have had at least three years' experience as a teacher of the deaf and blind in order to be eligible to appointment as principal, and it is upon this point that the complaining graduates and pupils of the school charge that Keith's appointment was illegal, as well as that he is incompetent.

POINTED QUESTIONS.

The directors, themselves, received much attention from the Governor, who questioned each witness as to whether or not the directors ever showed sufficient interest in the institution to visit the class rooms. All answered that they never saw a director in a classroom. George W. Reed and Wigginton Creed were the only directors present today, Arthur Elston being in Europe on his honeymoon, M. C. Chapman being in the southern part of the State, and Walter Matthews having been detained by his law practice.

Miss Mary Eastman, a pupil from 1885 to 1892, and since then a teacher in the school's primary department, testified that Keith had been only a steward and a clerk before being made superintendent, and lacked both training and experience as a teacher. She said he seemed to have no grasp of the school's needs and declared she had had difficulty in obtaining the proper equipment from him. After his return from a trip East at the State's expense, he was unable to impart any of the information to the other teachers which he should have received, according to the witness.

WOMAN'S CRITICISM.

Criticism was made by Miss Eastman of the method in use at the school. Neither Keith nor Richard S. French, head of the primary department, she said, equipped pupils to support themselves. The only self-supporting graduates that she knew were the musicians and one child that entered a telephone office. Other statements were made by the witness aiming to show a lack of interest on the part of her superiors. For more than a week after the apparatus in her department was destroyed by fire, on October 31, 1910, she said Keith failed to confer with her. She thought French was unfitted for his place, coming to the school fresh from the university without previous training in this work.

Ross's examination developed that the primary department had been six years without a globe for geography teaching; that complaints to Supt. Keith brought no remedies and that the superintendent never lectured before the classes.

Miss Eastman said the superintendent abolished the daily teaching of morals to the pupils that former Supt. Wilkinson had personally given for five years, physical culture being substituted for moral instruction.

Miss Margaret Muir, at one time a pupil of the Colorado Institution for the Blind, said she was shocked by the difference in discipline and apparatus used by the California institution. She declared California is far behind Colorado in every way in caring for the blind. She never saw a director in a class-room.

S. W. Peck, a former teacher, testified that the apparatus in the blind department was inadequate; that it was difficult to get anything for the blind; that the directors never visited the class-rooms, and that there were not enough teachers.

An adjournment was taken until Monday.

CAPTURED INDIANS. COWBOYS GET REWARD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, July 8.—The State Board of Control has allowed the $1000 reward offered by Gov. Johnson for the capture of the Nevada Indians who last January massacred four men at Little Rock Canyon, Washoe county, Nevada. The reward will be paid equally to the seventeen men, led by Capt. J. P. Donnelly, of the Nevada State police, who pursued and killed eight Indian men and captured one woman and two Indian girls. The eighteenth member of the party, Edward Hogle, was killed in the fight with the Indians, and his share of the reward will be paid to his mother.

Those who will receive an equal share, all being either California or Nevada cowboys, are: A. E. Smith, J. P. Donnelly, leader and State policeman; B. F. Cambron, P. M. Newgard, C. H. Stone, C. T. Beyers, Skinny Pascal, M. M. Prussia, J. Reeder, F. V. Perry, Warren Fruit, W. M. Parsons, George Holmes, Henry Hughes, O. D. Vanroman, D. M. West, Jack Ferguson and Mrs. Hogle whose son the Indians killed in the final stand. Each member of the posse and Mrs. Hogle will receive $55.55.

OFFERS A MILLION. FOR NON-SECTARIAN HOSPITAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Ore.) July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] R. A. Long, of Kansas City, millionaire and proprietor of the American Christian Brotherhood, will give $1,000,000 for a great non-sectarian hospital to be built in Kansas City if the Church of Disciples of Christ will give another million. The proposition was made by Mr. Long this morning to the National Convention of the Christian Church, in session at the White Temple. It came while he was explaining the gifts and various propositions he had already made for the hospital which at first was planned to be an institution to cost about $400,000. It was several seconds before the great audience grasped the meaning of the offer. When its full import impressed itself upon them, the outburst of applause was the greatest that has been heard during the convention. "We who have any means to invest in charity of any kind should give as careful consideration as we give to other investments," said Mr. Long, "so I want to tell you that I have moved slowly in this hospital matter. But now I have decided and I will give $1,000,000 for the hospital if you, among you, will raise another million, which we shall need."

Jury Ignored "Unwritten Law."

SAN JOSE, July 8.—[By A. P. Day Wire.] After being out nineteen hours, and after one of the most sensational legal battles in the history of Santa Clara county, the jury this morning returned a verdict finding William McAdams, who killed his wife and Nicholas Cupich, a friend, in his home in Gilroy on the night of February 12 last, guilty of murder in the second degree. The "unwritten law" and temporary insanity were the pleas of the defense.

Honors West Virginia Requisition.

CASTRO "COMES BACK."

first guest to arrive and the last to leave the banquet given by Thomas C. Dawson, special envoy of the United States to the Centennial celebration in Caracas.

How different a proposition is Gen. Cipriano Castro with his feet on Venezuelan soil and one or two thousand men at his back from a solitary plotter in Europe, until recently supposed to have been isolated by common consent the powers opposed to his return to the country from which he was an exile, is readily understood in the light of his earlier bold and triumphant career. The self-styled "man of destiny" once overturned the Venezuelan government with an army that originally numbered but twenty-three men.

On May 23, 1899, Castro, then a rancher in Lozandes, took offense at the governor of the province and Gen. Andrade, President of the republic, and determined to unseat both. He set out at the head of his handful of ranchmen, followed by the jeers of the populace. Within a month he had an army of several thousand men and captured Valencia, the second city of the country. When he reached Caracas, the President fled.

For ten years Castro ruled Venezuela with an iron hand and it was not until broken in health he went to Europe that his enemies mustered the strength to dispose him. He has boasted that he will regain power. The United States government and other governments made it their business to prevent him, if possible, but he appears to have outwitted the international watchers.

Senate Bill for Six New Coastwise Ships.

Ambitious Scheme Anticipates Panama Canal.

Government Asked to Pay Millions for Privilege.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An ambitious scheme to make the United States government the over-lord of transcontinental rates even before the Panama Canal is completed is contained in a bill introduced in the House today by Representative Stephens of Los Angeles.

The bill appropriates $6,000,000 for the construction of at least six ships each of not less than 5000 tons displacement, and the necessary terminals, to be used in the coast trade on the Atlantic, Pacific and the Gulf. The Secretary of War is to have charge of them, and to have the right to use them as army transports in time of war. For that reason they are to be fourteen-knot ships.

The bill says that the ships shall touch at Portland, Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego on the Pacific; Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Charleston, Norfolk and Savannah on the Atlantic; Mobile, New Orleans and Galveston on the Gulf Coast.

If the ships are completed before the canal is opened they will ply on the Pacific Coast.

WHY STONE PERSPIRES.

In Order to Maintain a Consistent Course the Senator Refused to Join Mayflower Party.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 8.—"Consistency, thou are a jewel—Maybe," murmured Senator Stone, of Missouri, today as he read of the departure of President Taft's Senatorial yachting party from Philadelphia early this morning, and thought of the cool breezes that will blow through the Mayflower's rigging between now and Monday.

Senator Stone, a Democrat, was one of the favored few President Taft invited to go on the three days' yachting trip around the Virginia capes, and he was anxious to accept. But he recently announced that all Senators should either stay in their seats or resign and let others be chosen who would attend to business. Not to be inconsistent, he declined the invitation.

The Senator was unruffled today by the knowing smiles of his colleagues.

TO TAX INDIAN LANDS.

Supervisors of Their Schools Recommends Legislation to Assess on Expiration of Trust Period.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The Indian lands on the various reservations, including the inherited lands, should be taxed as soon as the trust period expires. This conclusion was reached at the conference of the supervisors of Indian schools, headed by Chief Supervisor H. B. Pears, which ended today. They will suggest to Commissioner Valentine that he make recommendation for necessary legislation.

The trust period, it is explained, will expire on many of the reservations within the next few years and unless Congress so authorizes the States cannot collect taxes on these lands. The Indians would profit in the end, it is pointed out, because the money derived would be used in building roads and schools.

MR. TAFT OFF A-YACHTING.

Will Spend Sunday Cradled on the Bosom of the Deep—Back to Capitol on Monday.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The yacht Mayflower, having on board President Taft and Senators Bacon, Briggs, Brown, Foster, Overman, Penrose, Root and Taylor, whom he is entertaining on a week-end yachting cruise from Philadelphia to Washington, tonight is proceeding down the Atlantic coast off northeastern Virginia.

The Mayflower passed out the Delaware capes at 2:30 p.m. and headed southward. She should reach the Virginia capes early Sunday morning, but may cruise further beyond before entering Chesapeake Bay, or she may go into Hampton Roads for a brief visit at Old Point Comfort tomorrow. The Mayflower is expected to start up the Chesapeake late tomorrow afternoon, reaching Washington Monday afternoon.

READY TO SIGN IT.

Arbitration Treaty Between England and the United States is all but Concluded.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Within a week or ten days the signatures of the Secretary of State, Philander C. Knox, and the British Ambassador, James Bryce, will be placed on the treaty between the United States and Great Britain to provide for the arbitration of all questions arising between the two countries, including matters of national honor.

The signing of the treaty will bring to an end the negotiations begun at the instance of President Taft and Ambassador Bryce early this year and will mark what many believe to be the greatest step toward international peace ever taken.

Some changes remain to be made in the text. Mainly in the phraseology to which the greatest attention is being given to avoid ambiguity or misconstruction.

Only one point of substance remains to be adjusted and the State Department is awaiting the last word of the British Foreign Office on that subject.

GATES IS IMPROVING.

PARIS, July 8.—The condition of John W. Gates has improved since yesterday. His physician, Dr. Edmund L. Gros, describes the state of the American financier as stationery, but not giving positive cause for alarm. Dr. Gros at midnight said the condition of Mr. Gates showed considerable improvement.

In Order to Maintain a Consistent Course the Senator Refused to Join Mayflower Party.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 8.—"Consistency, thou art a jewel—Maybe," murmured Senator Stone, of Missouri, today as he read of the departure of President Taft's Senatorial yachting party from Philadelphia early this morning, and thought of the cool breezes that will blow through the Mayflower's rigging between now and Monday.

Senator Stone, a Democrat, was one of the favored few President Taft invited to go on the three days' yachting trip around the Virginia capes, and he was anxious to accept. But he recently announced that all Senators should either stay in their seats or resign and let others be chosen who would attend to business. Not to be inconsistent, he declined the invitation.

The Senator was unruffled today by the knowing smiles of his colleagues.

TO TAX INDIAN LANDS.

Supervisors of Their Schools Recommend Legislation to Assess on Expiration of Trust Period.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The Indian lands on the various reservations, including the inherited lands, should be taxed as soon as the trust period expires. This conclusion was reached at the conference of the supervisors of Indian schools, headed by Chief Supervisor H. B. Peairs, which ended today. They will suggest to Commissioner Valentine that he make recommendation for necessary legislation.

The trust period, it is explained, will expire on many of the reservations within the next few years and unless Congress so authorizes the States cannot collect taxes on these lands. The Indians would profit in the end, it is pointed out, because the money derived would be used in building roads and schools.

MR. TAFT OFF A-YACHTING.

Will Spend Sunday Cradled on the Bosom of the Deep—Back to Capitol on Monday.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The yacht Mayflower, having on board President Taft and Senators Bacon, Briggs, Bryan, Foster, Overman, Penrose, Root and Taylor, whom he is entertaining on a week-end yachting cruise from Philadelphia to Washington, tonight is proceeding down the Atlantic coast of northeastern Virginia.

The Mayflower passed out the Delaware capes at 2:30 p.m. and headed southward. She should reach the Virginia capes early Sunday morning, but may cruise further beyond before entering Chesapeake Bay, or she may go into Hampton Roads for a brief visit at Old Point Comfort tomorrow. The Mayflower is expected to start up the Chesapeake late tomorrow afternoon, reaching Washington Monday afternoon.

Arbitration Treaty Between England and the United States is all but Concluded.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Within a week or ten days the signatures of the Secretary of State, Philander C. Knox, and the British Ambassador, James Bryce, will be placed on the treaty between the United States and Great Britain to provide for the arbitration of all questions arising between the two countries, including questions of national honor.

The signing of the treaty will bring to an end the negotiations begun at the instance of President Taft and Ambassador Bryce early this year and will mark what many believe to be the greatest step toward international peace ever taken.

Some changes remain to be made in the text, mainly in the phraseology [illegible] which the greatest attention is being given to avoid ambiguity or misconstruction.

[illegible] one point of substance remains to be adjusted and the State Department [illegible] the last word of the British Foreign Office on that subject.

AN EXPOSED FAKER STILL AT IT.

An infant newspaper, peeved by its distressing inability to get business, fills the air with wails that its big contemporaries are "conspiring" against it. As far as The Times is concerned, these bellowings are all lies—lies of the same cloth as those of the Oxpress, which told its readers day after day that the Herald had been or was to be killed, the same Herald that is still in the land of the living and appears daily as usual.

Here are specimens of the falsehoods issuing daily from the cry-baby throat of the little whimperer:

(1.) That The Times "conspires" to discriminate against it on railroad trains. Not a word of truth in the assertion. The Times minds its own business, looks only after its own train service and is only interested in seeing that no would-be rival gets away with anything that it is not entitled to.

(2.) That The Times "conspires" to intimidate newsboys. A foolish bit of mendacity. You just try to "intimidate" a newsy.

(3.) That The Times "conspires" to scare agents. Another foolish one. The Times deals with its own agents. It has no object in seeking to scare them. It only asks that they serve its interests—and they do.

(4.) That there is a newspaper "trust." If there is one, The Times is not in it. The Times is hoeing its own row as usual; always has done so and got a good crop. The only newspaper trust it knows of is Earl's. Earl is trying to corner the newspaper field, for the sake of his own aggrandizement. He can't do it, so nobody need worry about that. His attempt to make advertisers pay for another opportunity for him to shout about his own virtue is a complete frost.

Earl's newspaper lied baldly about the Herald, day after day, seeking to fool the public, steal the Herald's business and promote a little scheme of his own. It was the worst sort of bunco game. The rogue is now trying it on The Times. But everybody sees through it and nobody takes any stock in it. You cannot injure an honest competitor by lying about him, Bro. Earl! Did you not learn that in Sunday-school?

"Thou shalt not bear witness against thy neighbor. It will not pay in the long run.

Quick Action.

CONGRESS STARTS NEW ALASKA INQUIRY INTO STATUS OF CONTROLLER BAY LAND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Published charges that the President had been induced by three persons—his brother, the then Secretary of the Interior Ballinger, and Richard S. Ryan of New York, a representative of the Guggenheim interests—to restore to the public domain lands surrounding Controller Bay in southern Alaska, met with quick action in Congress today.

The public committee on expenditures, headed by Representative Graham of Illinois, immediately summoned Commissioner Dennett of the Land Office to appear before the committee Monday to explain what he knew about the matter, and Representative Cox of Indiana, one of the Democratic leaders of the House, introduced a resolution calling on President Taft for all the information he can furnish on the subject.

This information is to include the reason why he signed the order of restoration after the land had been set aside as a reserve and whether or not he knew Ryan was working in the interest of the Guggenheims. Mr. Cox announced he purposed to press his resolution vigorously.

The Cox resolution requested President Taft to submit all papers and information in his possession relating to his executive order on July 28, 1910, restoring to public domain the lands surrounding Controller Bay. It sets forth published charges intimating that Ryan, through Secretary Ballinger and Charles P. Taft, induced the President to sign the order. It points out that through this order the Guggenheim syndicate "has now, or will get, control of Controller Bay or harbor," and requests the President to advise the House whether Messrs Ryan, Ballinger and Charles P. Taft induced him to sign the order restoring Controller Bay land to public domain, which previously had been set aside as a national forest reserve.

BALLINGER STATEMENT ON COX RESOLUTION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, July 8.—Former Secretary of the Interior Ballinger, when the Washington dispatch concerning Representative Cox's resolution was read to him, said:

"No representation was ever made by me to the President in the interest of Controly Bay, but I did advise President Taft not to release the lands sought for terminal facilities as requested by Ryan. I recommended that if any lands were eliminated from the national forest they should be eliminated, as far as the entire frontage of Controller Bay was concerned, in a body, leaving the law to operate which reserves every alternate eighty rods of water front to the government. So far as Mr. Ryan is concerned, I never had any business dealings with him."

According to the belief which obtains here and in Alaska, Ryan, in his efforts to secure railroad terminals on Controller Bay, is working in the interest of an English syndicate. Ryan makes frequent trips to England, and is said to be there now. The Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate insists that Ryan is not in its employ. His operations are financed by Probst, Wetzler & Co., Lord's Court building, New York. No land has been patented to Ryan.

PARCEL EXPRESS RATES. DON'T APPLY ON BULK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Denying the right of the Wells-Fargo Express Company to charge parcel rates on bulk packages, the Interstate Commerce Commission today reaffirmed a principle previously laid down and ordered that after September 1, carriers shall not make the ownership of property offered for transportation a condition to the application of particular rates. The decision affects every express company in the United States. The complainant in the case decided was the California Commercial Association, which charged that the express company, in accepting boxes for transportation, claimed the right to charge parcel rates if the contents were destined for different persons, though the delivery was to be made in bulk.

BALLOONIST COMES DOWN.

Aeronaut Who Had Planned to Reach Philadelphia From New York Meets Adverse Wind.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 8.—Favoring winds late today were taken advantage of by Leo Stevens, the aeronaut, to start on his attempted balloon voyage from New York to Philadelphia. The start was made from the roof of a department store and was the first ascension from a skyscraper top on record.

The balloon rose at 5:40 p.m. A message was received from Stevens tonight that the balloon had come down safely at West Nyack, N. Y., at 8:15 o'clock. He had encountered adverse winds and, being carried to the north, came down rather than be taken farther out of his course.

The aeronaut took only one passenger—W. D. Gash, an official of the Aero Club of America.

WITNESS IS MISSING.

Stokes' Case Against Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad Is Postponed Until Tuesday.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 8.—For lack of the witness wanted, a further hearing of the Stokes shooting case was postponed today until Tuesday. On that date Magistrate Freschi will decide whether the evidence warrants holding Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad for the grand jury on the charge of trying to murder W. E. D. Stokes, the hotel man.

The missing man is Wilfred Hart, the elevator operator who took Stokes to the defendants' apartment on the evening of June 6th, when he was shot.

Everybody interested in the case waited at the Courthouse for two hours while subpoena servers were hunting in vain for Hart.

In the course of an informal statement, the attorney declared that the principal argument for the girls' dismissal was the anxiety shown by Stokes to recover the letters he wrote to Miss Graham.

"The evidence that someone in Mr. Stokes's employ stole those letters from my clients' rooms," said the attorney, "shows that this shooting was justifiable."

CUMMINS PROPOSAL EASILY VOTED DOWN

Senate Saves Reciprocity Bill from Amendment.

Canadian Fresh Meat Denied Duty Free Access.

Defeat of Other Changes Said to Be Forecast.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The defeat in the Senate today of the first of Senator Cummins's amendments to the Canadian reciprocity bill made it clear that the measure is scheduled to emerge from the Senate without any change from its original form.

By a vote of 32 to 14 the Senate refused to attach to the bill Senator Cummins's proposal to give Canadian fresh meats and meat products free access to the American markets.

The fate of the first Cummins amendments is expected to be that of all the others, which are to be voted on Monday, with amendments by Senator Simmons of North Carolina. Three Democrats, Senators Bailey, Simmons and Thornton, and two regular Republicans, Senators Clark of Wyoming and Sutherland of Utah, voted with the insurgent Republicans for the amendment. No material change in the vote is expected in the other amendments of like nature.

ON THE FREE LIST.

The remaining Cummins amendments propose to put Canadian iron and steel products, flour, lumber, coal, leather, woolens and cotton goods on the free list, without giving similar advantages to American goods going into Canada.

An agreement for voting on these and the Simmons amendments on Monday was reached late in the afternoon.

After the amendment placing meats on the free list was defeated Senator Bailey moved an adjournment. "It is apparent that we are doing business here with a bare quorum," he said, "and I think we ought to let these votes go over."

The senate voted down the motion to adjourn, 19 to 28.

Senator Cummins again referred to what he considered the unfairness of forcing a vote on his amendments before the other Senators had a chance to speak on them. He declared that levying duty on Canadian meats would benefit only the big packers of the United States.

FAVORS FREE MEAT.

Senator Burton of Ohio, in voting against Mr. Cummins's amendment said he did so because he thought it would upset the whole Canadian agreement. He said he favored free meat, but not as an item on the reciprocity bill where it might defeat the whole arrangement.

The vote by which the Cummins free meat amendment was defeated, showed Seantors Bailey, Simmons and Thornton, Democrats, voting with the following Republicans in favor of the amendment:

Senators Borah, Bourne, Bristow, Clapp, Clark (Wyo.,) Cummins, Dixon, Gronna, Kenyon, Nelson and Sutherland.

Senator Cummins next asked for a separate vote on his amendment to admit flour and other manufactured cereal products free of duty from Canada.

He said the amendment was to balance the provision of the reciprocity bill that puts grains on the free list.

Senator Bailey urged the adoption of the amendment. Senator Burton of Ohio contested the point. He declared the reciprocity bill was an "international agreement standing by itself."

Senator Burton added that he did not believe the farmers as a whole would suffer from the removal of the duty on wheat.

"Why not put flour on the free list then?" asked Senator Cummins.

"I am willing flour should be put on the free list if it can be done without endangering this reciprocity agreement," returned Senator Burton; "but if you want the flour why don't you take it up courageously as an independent proposition, instead of trying to tack it on this bill as a rider?"

Before a vote on the free flour amendment was taken the Senate agreed to an adjournment until next Monday, and all the other amendments went over until that time.

Drink Plenty Of Water This Summer.

Puritas is Safest and Purest.

A good many doctors prescribe for certain of their patients simply plenty of drinking water.

Because they know that pure water is nature's best assistant in flushing out the body.

And they also know that most people drink entirely too little water.

But just "any" water will not do—alkaline, mineral-filled water is really detrimental to many people.

And most of the natural waters hereabouts are strongly impregnated with minerals and alkali.

Puritas Distilled Water is safe to drink, in any quantity—for it's nothing in the world but pure, soft, palatable, sparkling H-2O.

It's thoroughly distilled, aerated with pure ozone, bottled very carefully in clean glass demijohns.

And five gallons cost but 40c, delivered anywhere within the old city boundary lines. To outside points the cost is a trifle more, because of the long haul.

Regular Puritas Customers purchase Coupon Books, by using which you can secure the pure water at a discount. When you telephone, ask us about these—Home 10053; Sunset Main 8191.

Puritas can be secured through Dealers at all the beaches and at most towns throughout Southern California. If you are unable to secure it easily, write or telephone us, and we will see that you are supplied. Los Angeles Ice and Cold Storage Company.

If you are going to the seashore or countryside for your su vacation TAKE A BOTTLE OF "DUFFY'S" WITH YOU.

Most summer hotels and rural dwellings depend for their ing water upon "the old well." A wealth of romance has weaved around the well in both song and story, but m medical science has shown that, nine times out of ten, "th well" is a breeding place for countless typhoid germs and other virulent bacilli.

The cause for this is readily understood by the fact that the sewage from the outhouses and waste material from the kitchen permeate their way through the ground to the well.

The same is true, and in a larger way, with the streams from which the villages, towns and cities draw their supplies, and it behooves every one to be careful with his drinking water, especially at this time of the year, when so much is used.

Keep the system in such good condition that these germs will be unable to obtain a foothold.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Lady Constance Foljambe is in Brittany, where she fled with a younger brother on Tuesday while a London church full of England's fashionable folk awaited her approach to the altar as the bride of the Rev. H. T. Hawkins.

Intimate friends have rallied to her defense and have added generously to the sensation that her flight caused. They assert without apologies that Lady Constance was being coerced into marriage by her mother, the Dowager Countess of Liverpool. The young woman had confided in them her unhappy plight. She had long feared she was making a great mistake, but, owing to the strong character of her mother, she hesitated to break with the youthful minister.

As the hour for her marriage approached the Lady Constance fled from home with her brother.

LA FORNARINA DIVIDES A CLUB.

HAUGHTY DONS AMAZED TO FIND HER THERE.

Music Hall Artist Whom All Applaud in Old Madrid Is Cast Out of the Elite Casino and Her Young Hosts Are Expelled for the Audacity That Invited Her in.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MADRID, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "La Fornarina," a music hall artist, whose audiences applaud her until the roof almost cracks, has now all but rent in twain the most exclusive and fashionable club of the capital, the Casino de Madrid.

The rustle of a petticoat was never heard in the former home of this old club. But when it moved to its palatial new house on the Calle de Alcala, its members, lacking their fathers' wisdom, decided to admit women as guests at luncheon, afternoon tea and dinner.

The old men in the club shook their heads and remarked prophetically: "We come here to seek quiet and ease and to escape trouble. But now there must be trouble—for there are women."

"La Fornarina" has as many ardent admirers in the club as anywhere in Madrid. Two of these young blades invited her to luncheon there the other day. It goes without saying that at luncheon in the clubhouse dining-room she conducted herself with the strictest propriety. No lovely woman could have been more demure and an ugly one would have been more coquettish.

As it happened, a member of the club had his wife and his sister in to luncheon that day. He may or may not have applauded "La Fornarina" when rattling the castanets, for she tripped the boards like a fairy or captivating imp. But he was much shocked to discover her on the same plane with the women of his family and in the club. He complained to the club's secretary, who, in turn, laid the complaint before the House Committee.

The committee and the club's governors held a meeting and indignantly expelled "La Fornarina's" hosts from membership.

All the young members sympathize with the two driven out, but the old oppose them, saying: "There are very good restaurants in Madrid where one can entertain a circus rider if one chooses."

Little Prince of Wales Has Troubles All His Own.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The poor, little Prince of Wales is being drilled into a regular automaton. He has as many rehearsals as a star actor in a new play. For weeks he was coached in the mummeries gone through with at his investiture as a Knight of the Garter. That was barely finished when he started in a series of rehearsals for his part in the coronation ceremonies in Westminster Abbey. That being over, he is now being rehearsed again for his investiture as Prince of Wales in Carnarvon Castle. He takes his position with the utmost solemnity, but is thoroughly sick of the rehearsals, especially when his sisters and his brothers look on laughing. He is more like a boy of 12 than a young man of 17.

QUEEN MARY UNPOPULAR.

The coronation festivities being ended, Dowager Queen Alexandra has returned to London with her sister, the Dowager Czarina of Russia. When the latter is with her, Queen Alexandra is a source of perpetual anxiety to King George and Queen Mary, as the Czar's mother is renowned as a mischief maker.

Queen Alexandra is cheered wherever she is seen. She still fascinates the crowd with her charming smile. On Thursday Queen Mary and her daughter drove around and were coolly regarded. Half an hour later Queen Alexandra and the Czarina came along and there was a rush to the roadway, with a general raising of hats and waving of handkerchiefs.

ROYAL SQUABBLE.

A triangular squabble between Queen Alexandra, Queen Mary and Princess Henry of Battenberg over some pictures and curios which Queen Alexandra has at Marlborough House, is causing much agitation in court. Each claims them. Queen Alexandra is willing to bequeath them to Queen Mary, but she positively refuses to recognize Princess Henry's contention that her mother, Queen Victoria, left them to King Edward on the understanding that they were to pass from him to Princess Henry.

The fact that Queen Alexandra had possession of the treasures was brought to Queen Mary's knowledge when Princess Henry went to Buckingham Palace to take them away.

King George is much disturbed by this quarrel.

Crown Princess of Bavaria, Who Eloped With Her Son's Teacher, Wants to Return to Mother.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LINDAU (Bavaria) July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] King Frederick Augustus of Saxony has just applied for permission for his former wife, who eloped with his son's tutor some ten years ago while she was Crown Princess—to spend the remainder of her days in penitence with her mother, the Dowager Grand Duchess of Tuscany.

After the elopement the Crown Princess was discarded by her husband and forced to assume the title of Countess of Montegnoso. Then a Saxon court decreed a divorce, which the Pope refused to grant. Subsequently the Countess married an Italian pianist named Toselli, from whom she soon became estranged and whom she now seeks to divorce.

Having nowhere else to go, she wishes to live with her aged mother whose home is in this place. As it is a Bavarian town, Signora Toselli could only live here with the permission of the regent, and that would only be granted on the application of the King of Saxony.

KING GEORGE AND QUEEN MARY IN DUBLIN, IRISH AND AMERICAN FLAGS DISPLAYED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DUBLIN, July 8.—King George received a loyal welcome to Dublin today. The King, accompanied by the Queen, the Prince of Wales and the Princess Mary, arrived in Kingston Harbor on the royal yacht Victoria and Albert last night.

The King wishes to see all parts of the empire and every phase of life in it, and spent one of the busiest days of his life looking over Dublin. After attending several functions this afternoon he drove to Phoenix Park to see the races for the King's cup. He arrived just in time to see Richard Croker's Benanet win the fourth race.

Among other affairs which the King attended was the opening of a play center in the poorest and roughest district in Dublin. It was a time of the greatest anxiety for the police. Before the King's arrival the police and crowds had several encounters, in one of which a sergeant's arm was broken. Troops were brought up, but were not required.

CORDIAL WELCOME.

As soon as the King appeared the people, who are perhaps the poorest of his subjects, were carried away with enthusiasm, and gave him by far the most cordial welcome of the day.

Men and women who had been jeering the police and soldiers broke into hearty cheers, which continued throughout the district. The King and Queen, although tired, showed their great pleasure at this ovation, which was entirely unexpected.

The attitude of the people is well expressed by a banner stretched outside the City Council hall at Pembroke, a suburb of the capital, which refused to present an official adddress to the King, reading: "Welcome. We want home rule."

The Lord Mayor of Dublin, whose threat that he would present an address to his Majesty despite the contrary decision of the corporation, it was feared would lead to trouble, remained at home.

The royal yacht Victoria and Albert anchored in Kingstown harbor last evening. Today the royal party entered the capital. They were received on shore by the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland and drove in state carriages to the castle, where apartments had been especially prepared.

OCCASION HOLIDAY.

The occasion was made a holiday and the streets were crowded. Students from Trinity College gathered in force on College Green and gave their Majesties an enthusiastic welcome.

The threatened counter demonstration did not materialize. The majority of those who looked on did not so much as raise their hats at the approach of the imperial ones and as soon as the procession had passed, the crowd walked quietly away.

The Nationalists adopted a passively friendly attitude. They did not participate in the official receptions, but did not interfere with them. They decorated their premises, however, with Irish flags. If more than one flag was shown, the second was the American emblem, so there was a liberal display of Stars and Stripes. In the general decorations, there was a discreet intermingling of orange and green.

The police kept quietly in the background, the soldiers doing the work ordinarily entrusted to police. There was little of this work to be done.

The King's reply to the address presented upon his landing at Kingston, in which he said: "I and the Queen hastened to the Irish people, in whose welfare our interest is deep and abiding," had the effect of establishing immediate friendship between their Majesties and the crowd filling the streets.

HOUSE OF LORDS STILL BIG ISSUE.

FOLKS WONDER HOW MANY NEW PEERS WILL BE NAMED.

Men Close to the Prime Minister Doubt That King George Will Balk at Five Hundred—Asquith at Mercy of Redmond on Question of Home Rule.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Prospects of any compromise over the Westminster Parliament bill seem exceedingly dim, though the Tories keep up a din of prophecy and appeal. In ministerial circles absolute increduality is expressed when suggestions are made that George V will decline to go beyond the creation of 150 peers as an "object lesson to the recalcitrant second chamber."

Men close to the Prime Minister scout the notion that the King will balk at 500 if necessary. They predict that he will touch the high water mark of the constitution by deferring fully to the advice of the responsible head of the people's house."

There is no doubt that if the government yield on the point of home rule the passage of the bill would be greatly facilitated, but home rule is precisely the issue in respect to which Mr. Asquith is at the mercy of John Redmond.

Occasionally a warning note is heard in radical quarters. Today a radical journal urged the members of the coalition to draw closer together, now that Lord Lansdowne's amendment to the Parliament bill has defined the issue. It is expected that if the coalition breaks down under the strain of Irish demands, the Unionists are sure of being returned to power with a big majority.

Then, according to this majority, the Lansdowne scheme for reconstructing the Lords would be brought forward, jammed through and made the tool to smash the Parliament bill and give to the new second chamber the ancient service of the Lords. It professes to know that "such is Lansdowne's ulterior purpose."

Another Lease Sold on South Broadway F. Hunter Retires

Hunter's Dry Goods Store, located for the past two and a half years at 541 South Broadway, will close its doors Monday evening, after being in the retail business in Los Angeles for eighteen years. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter were pioneers in Los Angeles retailing. They first opened a store at 321 South Spring street, and as retail trade shifted southward, moved by degrees until locating in their present quarters more than two years ago. The Hunter Store has always catered to the better class of trade and have specialized on Millinery, Women's Garments and Fancy Goods.

Mrs. Hunter selected most of the merchandise and has been known as a keen, discriminating buyer, possessing wonderfully good taste. Mrs. Hunter has had a large following of Los Angeles women who desired especially neat and genteel apparel

At present the Hunter stock consists of millinery, women's and children's garments, hosiery, knit and muslin underwear, corsets, gloves, neckwear, handkerchiefs and fancy goods.

The rapid increase in realty valuations on South Broadway made the Hunter lease of the store at 541 so valuable that it was sold at a figure so advantageous that Mr. and Mrs. Hunter decided to retire from business. The merchandise was offered for sale and a number of the leading stores vied with each other to secure this well-known stock. After much dickering the stock was secured by the J. M. Hale Co., 341 South Broadway, and will be sold by them in the near future, giving the women of Los Angeles an opportunity to secure this splendid stock at ridiculously low prices. The date of the sale of the Hunter stock will be announced later. Monday will be the last day the Hunter store will be open under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter.

Watch Hale's ads for a big special sale in the near future.

Beauty Gives Talk on Beauty's Folly.

Mrs. Ida Darling, said to be America's most beautiful woman, and who has just been divorced from her husband after eighteen years of married life, declares beauty is a poor hold upon man's affections.

Beauty Hints.

AMERICA'S HANDSOMEST WOMAN SAYS BEAUTY CANNOT HOLD HUSBAND TRUE.

Cynic Reflections from Ruby Lips Now Unkissed by Mate—Pretty Girls Warned to Test Love of Lovers Before Marriage Tie Shall Bind—Mrs. Ida Darling, Divorcee, Speaks from Fullness of Own Experience.

CHICAGO, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Ida Darling, known as one of America's most beautiful women, today after eighteen years of marriage, which ended with her divorce from James J. Darling, expressed her views on love and matrimony.

"I try hard not to be unhappy when I reflect on my married life," she said. "I don't want to be cynical, but there is something about beauty's failure in holding a husband's love that would make almost anyone cynical.

"The world has been kind enough to call me beautiful. The world's saying so kept me smiling through many sad years.

"People say, 'Isn't she beautiful? How nice it would be to have the devotion and attention that is showered on her.' Then they let it go at that.

BEAUTY NEEDS LOVE.

"If the truth were known, nine out of ten beautiful women are starving at heart for love and real devotion, just because everyone thinks that everyone else loves her and none take the trouble to be sincere. There is no tragedy so sad as that.

"A plain woman, if she has won a husband, has done it on the strength of something more enduring than beauty. She knows that, and it gives her confidence in herself and in her husband. Beauty turns a man's head. It is the beautiful woman's strongest card, and when that fails her game is often lost.

"My advice to pretty girls is to consider carefully the wooing of sweethearts; find out whether they see anything they really like besides beauty. Now and then blow a cooling breath on their ardor, just to see what effect it has. It may save you the sadness of watching it cool all by itself as your youth wanes after the wedding and your waist widens.

"More advice is to cling. Men like clinging women. If I had it to do over again I would cling with a vengeance—cling and know nothing and do nothing—but cling.

"Every woman should make a career for herself. There are so many women—one of them the first Mrs. Corey, for instance—who slave away their girlhood and young womanhood helping their husbands carve out a career and then after he gets the money, are thrown over—for beauty, the same beauty of which he once became tired."

SOME MAXIMS.

Then Mrs. Darling gave utterance to a few trite maxims:

As marriage fails there is a tragedy in the heart of almost every woman.

A man tires of beauty as he does of a pretty vest.

The average man is usually "the limit."

One is enough by which to judge the species.

A plain woman has more strong cards to play in the love game than has a beautiful woman.

A man's wooing is like a spasm. It is fierce while it lasts, but he soon recovers and the permanent "relief" which comes to him is of the kind that "passeth understanding."

What Every Woman Knows.

HIGH COST OF LIVING IS NO MYTH, ACCORDING TO THE OFFICIAL STATISTICS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The high cost of living is no myth. An investigation by the bureau of labor of the prices of 257 commodities during 1910, shows that wholesale prices then were 4 per cent. higher than in 1909, and 1.6 per cent. above the average of 1907, which was the year of highest prices since 1890.

In view of the Canadian reciprocity discussion, an interesting item in the report shows that the wholesale prices of farm products were 7.5 per cent. higher in 1910 than 1909.

Wholesale prices in 1910 were 19.1 per cent. higher than in 1900, 46.7 per cent. higher than 1897 (which was the year of lowest prices between 1890 and 1910; 16.6 per cent. higher than 1890 and 31.8 per cent. higher than the average high prices between 1890 and 1899. The highest prices in this decade were reached in October, 1907, when a general decline began which continued until August, 1908. A rise then set in and there were monthly increases without a break up to March 1910, when wholesale prices reached the highest point in twenty years. They were then 21.1 per cent. higher than the average of 1900; 49.2 per cent. higher than the yearly average of 1897 and 33.8 per cent. higher than the average price ten years between 1890 and 1899.

Then followed a slight decline, and from June to December, 1910, prices remained nearly level and at the close of 1910 they were still 30 per cent. higher than the ten-year average between 1890 and 1900, and 45.4 per cent. higher than the record set by the high price year, 1907.

Of the 257 commodities considered in the investigation, 148 showed an average increase, twenty-six showed no change and eighty-three showed decreases.

Prices of lumber and building materials increased 10.7 per cent.; farm products, 7.5; drugs, 4.1; foodstuffs, 3.2; clothing, 2.7, and the miscellaneous group of commodities, 5.7 per cent. House furnishings decreased 0.1 per cent. and fuel and light 3 per cent.

Some extraordinary variations were recorded in 1910. Potatoes increased 360 per cent.; eggs, 90 per cent.; coffee, 60 per cent.; mess beef, 35 per cent.

By a Committee.

MINNESOTA INSURGENT WANTS A MAN HUNT FOR A COMBINATION OF FINANCIERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 8.—In connection with a resolution introduced today by Representative Lindbergh of Minnesota, proposing an investigation by a House committee of nine members to determine if there exists a combination of financiers in the United States operating in restraint of trade or violation of other laws, the Minnesota insurgent Republican assailed the proposed fiscal system submitted to the Monetary Commission by former Senator Aldrich.

The resolution calls for an investigation of the banking, money, exchange, credit and deposit systems of the country and recommendations for remedial legislation.

"Wall street," said Representative Lindbergh in his statement accompanying the resolution, "brought on the 1907 panic, got the people to demand currency reform, brought the Aldrich-Vreeland currency bill forward, and, if it dares, will produce another panic to pass the Aldrich central bank plan. We need reform, but not at the hands of Wall street."

Mr. Lindbergh said under the Aldrich plan the Reserve Association "will take away from communities funds that belong to the communities and which should be used to build up their own industries."

"Of the forty-five directors proposed for the association," said Mr Lindbergh, "each of the fifteen branches is to elect one. New York City, Philadelphia and Boston would each control one, and other large centers would control others. Four would be sufficient to make Wall street the sole arbiter. This provision for selection of directors contains the principal joker in the Aldrich plan

"Twelve directors are to be elected on the basis of stock representation, and, of course, would be elected by the Wall-street crowd, for the capital of this country is now controlled to the extent of 80 per cent. by 3000 persons and concerns."

FALL COLONIST RATES.

Railway Passenger Association Decides to Retain the Transcontinental Tariffs of Last Spring.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Announcement has been made by a special committee representing the Trans-Continental Passenger Association that colonist rates from Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas and Missouri River points to San Francisco and cities in the Pacific Northwest would be the same in the fall as they were last spring. The fall colonist period will extend from September 15 to October 15, and it is expected that the exceptional record for this travel established last spring will be eclipsed. It was reported a short time ago that the rates might be increased for the fall business, but objections to this plan by Pacific Coast terminal lines resulted in the adoption of the old schedule of fares.

Some of the carriers were in favor of adding $5 to the amounts charged last spring on the ground that the service rendered fully warranted the increase.

At a meeting of the Trans-Continental Association in Salt Lake City a short time ago, a special committee was chosen to make an investigation and fix the rates. The roads represented on this committee were the Soo, Northwestern, Rock Island, Burlington, and Pacific Coast lines.

The fare one way from Chicago will be $33 and from St. Louis, $1 less. The rate from St. Paul and Missouri River points will be $25.

Colonist fares were in effect from March 10 to April 10, last, and during that period 30,000 of this class of travelers reached the Far West over the Southern Pacific, 11,000 over the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation Company, and 20,000 via the Union Pacific.

ELKS' FINE LODGE ROOM.

New York Members on Return From Atlantic City Will Occupy Their New Quarters.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 8.—The home of the New York Lodge No. 1, B.P.O.E. is ready for occupancy of the members when they return from their convention in Atlantic City on July 17. The fourteen-story structure, which is considered the most palatial headquarters of any lodge in the B.P.O.E., was informally opened for inspection yesterday. The building without the furnishings cost $1,250,000.

The principal feature of the new building is the lodge room. It is larger than the grand ballroom of the Waldorf Astoria. The new home has at the disposal of visiting members 260 rooms with baths. There will be two roof gardens, each opening from the cafe, which extends the full width of the building.

The structure occupies a plot 100 feet square. It is built mainly of granite, marble and limestone.

MARRIED ONE DAY. ARRESTED THE NEXT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Acting upon instruction from City Marshal Moffitt of Coalinga, Cal., Chief of Police Hillhouse tonight placed in custody T. B. Lisle and is holding him for an officer from Southern California. Advices from Coalinga state that Lisle is wanted on the charge of embezzlement. He is a steamfitter, 31 years of age, and was yesterday married to Miss Ruth McCubbin of this city. When the marriage license was procured the name of Wilbert T. Lisle was given to the clerk. The message received by the Reno police was to hold Lisle until requisition papers may be procured in California. Lisle has not stated whether he would resist requisition or not.

HANDS WOULD CRACK OPEN AND BLEED

Blisters Formed, Skin Scaled Off, and Flesh Burned and Itched Dreadfully. Healed by Less Than One Cake of Cuticura Soap and One Box of Cuticura Ointment.

"About two months ago my hands started to crack open and bleed, the skin would scale off, and the good flesh would burn and itch dreadfully. When my hands first started to get sore, there were small blisters like water blisters which formed. They itched dreadfully, it just seemed as though I could tear the skin all off. I would scratch them and the skin would peel off, and the flesh would be all red and crack open and bleed. It worried me very much, as I had never had anything the matter with my skin. I was so afraid I would have to give up my employment.

"I consulted my doctor, and he said he didn't think it would amount to anything. But it kept getting worse. One day I saw a piece in one of the papers about a lady who had the same trouble with her hands. She had used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and was cured. I decided to try them, and my hands were all healed before I had used one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment. I am truly thankful for the good results from the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, for thanks to them I was cured, and did not have to lose a day from work. I have had no return of the skin trouble." (Signed) Mrs. Mary E. Breig, 2522 Brown Street, Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 12, 1911.

ABERCROMBIE IS VERY SORE SPORT.

Says He Would Wreck St. Louis Club if Necessary.

Declares Mrs. Britton Fooled Him by a Hug.

Considers It to Be His Duty to Manage the Team.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Yes, I would persist in my right to act as administrator of Stanley Robison's estate even if I knew it would destroy the property," declared F. N. Abercrombie on the witness stand in the St. Louis Probate Court hearing today to determine whether he, Edward A. Steininger, the club's present administrator and president, or Public Administrator Harry Troll, shall control the club.

"I should consider it my duty to do so," Abercrombie continued in answer to the question of the attorney of Steininger and Mrs. Helen Hathaway Britton of Cleveland, O., Robison's niece, who became the club's owner by his will. Abercrombie was formerly the club's treasurer, had its refreshment privileges, accompanied President Robison to Panama just prior to Robison's death, and testified he expected to become the club's president, and denied Roger Bresnahan had refused to longer act as manager if he succeeded to the presidency.

After his lawyer stated that Abercrombie had been tricked by Mrs. Britton's attentions to him in remaining at Cleveland until it was too late for him to qualify as Robison's administrator at St. Louis, Abercrombie testified late the night before, when he met Mrs. Britton, she put her arms around his neck and said to him, "Now that Uncle Charlie is gone you are the one we have to depend on."

Abercrombie then told that the next day at a conference which Steininger, Secretary Schofield and a lawyer attended, it was decided to allow Steininger to qualify as administrator at St. Louis while Abercrombie remained at Cleveland to attend to Robison's funeral arrangements, the understanding being that Steininger would resign as administrator as soon as it was convenient for Abercrombie to come to St. Louis and qualify as administrator.

Mrs. Britton, who was in court with her little son during Abercrombie's testimony, smiled sarcastically when he testified that she had her arms around his neck. The hearing will be continued Monday.

AMERICAN LEAGUE GAMES.

Lively Knocked Out of the Box, But the Team Behind Him Manages to Beat Senators.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DETROIT, July 8.—Washington outhit Detroit today, but weak work on the bases lost the game for the visitors. Detroit got the advantage of errors. Lively was knocked out of the box. Covington was wild, but Washington could not hit him. Stanage was forced to retire at the end of the sixth owing to the heat. Score:

Washington, 5; hits, 12; errors, 4.
Detroit, 7; hits, 8; errors, 4.
Batteries—Walker and Henry; Lively, Covington and Stanage, Casey.

UMPIRE IN BAD.
NEEDS POLICE AID.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BROOKLYN, July 8.—The police had to escort Umpire Frary off the field today following a shower of pop bottles and glasses in the ninth. The game was close and marked with decisions that displeased the crowd and players.

The real trouble started when Daubert was declared out at the plate in the fifth, and culminated in the ninth when the home players thought Wagner should have been called out on strikes. Wagner followed with a hit that eventually won the game.

Frary ordered the Brooklyn bench cleared of the reserve players, who marched down the field, headed by the mascot, while the crowd threw many missiles at Frary. After the broken glass had been removed the game was played out to a Pittsburgh victory. Wagner was the main performer, scoring two runs, one a homer in the second. Not a base on balls was given. Score:

Pittsburgh, 3; hits, 8; errors, 2.
Brooklyn, 1; hits, 6; errors, 3.
Batteries—Leifield and Simon; Schardt and Bergen.
Umpires—Frary and Emslie.

ST. LOUIS IN FORM.
THREE STRAIGHT VICTORIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—St. Louis won today, making three straight victories over Philadelphia. Only one hit was made off Steele in the first seven innings. Magee was benched at the end of the first inning for disputing a decision. Score:

St. Louis, 6; hits, 9; errors, 2.
Philadelphia, 2; hits, 6; errors, 2.
Batteries—Steele and Bresnahan, Burns, Humphries and Dooin.
Umpires—Johnstone and Eason.

TWO FOR WHITE SOX.
HIGHLANDERS SLIPPING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 8.—Chicago won the third straight victory from New York today by taking a double-header and going into third place in the pennant race. The wildness of the visitors' pitchers, coupled with loose fielding and timely hitting of the locals, was responsible for the Chicago runs. Scores:

First game:
Chicago, 5; hits, 9; errors, 0.
New York, 2; hits, 5; errors, 1.
Batteries—White and Sullivan; Fisher, Brockett and Blair.
Second game:
Chicago, 7; hits, 12; errors, 0.
New York, 0; hits, 6; errors, 6.
Batteries—Lange and Payne; Brockett, Klepfer and Sweeney.

M'TIGHE TOO WILD.
THROWS AWAY GAME.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, July 8.—The wildness of McTighe in the first inning when he issued four bases bases on balls and was hit safely twice, paved the way for Cincinnati's victory, though the Boston team batted Keefe hard. Score:

Boston, 7; hits, 12; errors, 3.
Cincinnati, 11; hits, 12; errors, 6.
Batteries—McTighe, Griffin, Mattern and Kling; Keefe and McLean.
Umpires—Rigler and Finneran.

FEET SO SORE COULDN'T WALK DOWN STAIRS.

TIZ CURED HER QUICK.

If you have sore feet, tired feet, sweaty feet, lame feet, tender feet, smelly feet, corns, callouses or bunions, read what happened to Mrs. Crocket, of Jeffersonville. TIZ DID IT. Mr. Crocket says: "After the second treatment she walked downstairs one foot at a time. She has not been able to walk downstairs before in past five years, except by stepping down on each step with one foot at a time. This is remarkable. Send five more boxes."

No matter what ails your feet or what under heaven you have used without getting relief, just use TIZ, it's different. It acts right off. It cures sore feet to stay cured. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores, TIZ cleans them out and keeps them clean. You will feel better the first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25c and 50c per box, or direct if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

KALER KNOCKED OUT.
HARD SLUGGING GAME.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CLEVELAND, July 8.—Philadelphia defeated Cleveland, driving Kaler from the box. Cleveland bunched six hits off Bender in the first two innings. Score:

Cleveland, 4; hits, 13; errors, 4.
Philadelphia, 9; hits, 12; errors, 0.
Batteries—Kaler, Blandin and Easterly; Bender and Thomas.

NEW YORK, July 8.—New York assumed first place in the National League Race by defeating Chicago today in a game in which the latter's errors proved costly. Marquard not only pitched effectively for New York, but made a home run off McIntyre in the third inning. Score:

Chicago, 2; hits, 9; errors, 4.
New York, 5; hits, 8; errors, 2.
Batteries—McIntire, Brown, Cole and Archer; Marquard and Myers.
Umpires—Klem and Brennan.

WELLS SIGNS TO BOX EITHER PACKEY M'FARLAND OR WOLGAST IN SEPTEMBER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 8.—G. McDonald, manager for Matt Wells, the British lightweight champion, signed an agreement this afternoon with Tom O'Day of San Francisco for a match with either Ad Wolgast, the American champion, at 133 pounds at 3 o'clock, or with Packey McFarland of Chicago at 135 pounds at 3 o'clock on Labor Day.

The agreement calls for the Richmond arena in which Nelson and Wolgast fought, but provides also that a San Francisco club may be named if O'Day wishes, notice of a change to be served one month before the day of the fight. McDonald asks a side stake of $2500 from McFarland, or $5000 from Wolgast, with an additional forfeit of $1000 for weight and appearance. It remains to obtain the signature of the principals before the agreement becomes binding.

Milton Clark will have the San Francisco permit for September and is attempting to bring Wolgast and Welsh together, at the Howard street arena on Labor Day. Before the Wolgast-Moran battle, Wolgast and Welsh posted $1000 each to bind a September match, this sum to become part of a $10,000 side bet, the remainder of which is to be posted thirty days previous to the battle. Wolgast already has posted his $9000 additional and Welsh has cabled his backers in Wales to forward that sum immediately. To prevent any slip up, Welsh left today for Los Angeles to keep in touch with Wolgast.

Before Wolgast left San Francisco he announced that he had been offered the largest sum ever drawn by a lightweight for a Labor Day battle with Packey McFarland, under the auspices of James Coffroth, who probably would stage the battle at Colma. Coffroth also would be a bidder for a Wolgast-Welsh match.

Knockout Brown also is clamoring for recognition in view of his showing against Wolgast in New York, but from present indications the champion seems in a position to pick his opponents and name his own terms for the Labor Day fight.

FIVE RUNS FATAL.
BAD LUCK FOR BOSTON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, July 8.—Five runs in the fifth gave the locals a lead which Boston was not able to overcome. Hall lasted until one man was out in the fifth, when Pape replaced him. Score:

St. Louis, 7; hits, 5; errors, 0.
Boston, 5; hits, 8; errors, 2.
Batteries—Powell and Shotten, Clarke; Hall Pape and Williams.

MANAGER SUSPENDED.

CHICAGO, July 8.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Manager Burke of the Indianapolis club of the American Association was suspended by President Chivington today for using profane language within the hearing of women patrons of the game at Louisville last Thursday.

NEW TENNIS CHAMPS.

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) July 8.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Drummond Jones and C. S. Peters won the championship doubles in the Central States tennis tournament this afternoon, defeating Guy Oliver and Clarence Gamble, 6-0, 7-5, 7-5.

WEDS RICHES, WOLF FLEES.

from the United States, Marguerite came to Paris, where she had elegant apartments adjacent to the home of the Prime Minister of France and began to study for grand opera, giving promise of success. But misfortunes began to fall on Count Cassini. His recall from Milan and practical retirement cut off his source of income, and things began to go badly for the beautiful Countess. Debts piled up fast and furious, and the outlook was dark, indeed.

ENGAGED BEFORE.

Several times the Countess has been reported engaged to be married—once to Alexander Moseley of the Valentine family of Richmond, who is said to have rescued her from a perilous position while climbing the Alps. Another time to Dr. Simone, a man about town of Paris. None of these engagements, however, materialized into marriage, so creditors pressed harder and harder, until her magnificent apartments, which must have represented an original outlay of tens of thousands of dollars, was sold for a mere pittance of $5000.

AVIATOR LUCKY.

NEW YORK, July 8.—[By A. P. Nite Wire.] For the second time within a week an aeroplane drier flew his machine thousands of feet above the city, only to run out of gasoline and streak the sky in a long glide to earth. This time the aviator was Ladis Lekowsiz, just over from Russia. Lekowsiz, in a monoplane, climbed 9000 feet and in fighting his way down through the clouds that overhung the city missed New York entirely and landed in a New Jersey village a mile from the Hudson. He left Long Island intending to fly to Central Park. Harry N. Atwood, the aviator, had an experience somewhat similar last Monday when his gasoline gave out 2000 feet above Brooklyn and he glided four miles to Governors Island.

CHICAGO BABES BADLY IN NEED OF NURSES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dr. Carolyn Hedger, who accomplained Dr. Young commissioner of health, on his "get-acquainted tour" of Chicago's child welfare institutions, said today that the trip disclosed an alarming condition among the babies and that unless heroic work is done for the remainder of the hot weather many thousands may die.

Dr. Young is considering increasing the force of municipal nurses and will ask the two hundred organizations co-operating in the work to increase their facilities at once, wherever possible.

Dr. Hedger announced that there are now upward of 40,000 names on the "baby register" at the health department. Of these 28,000 have been found by the nurses or other representatives of the various organizations and reported to be cared for.

included a sword cane, bills of exchange, 1000 criminals asking his pro- a letter from Maria Bartolotti, and 155 illustrated postcards, which the prosecution describes as obscene. Maria Bartolotti is believed by some to be a close friend of the priest, while according to others, Vitozzi acted as the woman's agent in loaning money.

Confronted by these exhibits, intended to establish his evil character, Vitozzi defended his possession of them. Regarding the communications from criminals, he said he considered it the duty of his ministry to assist sinners, including the criminals who had applied to him for help.

Among Vitozzi's effects were also found 200 letters from various clerks and officials of the law courts complaining that money promised them had not been received. According to the State, the priest was in the habit of giving bribes to court officials in order to obtain light sentences for convicted criminals with whom he was associated.

It is expected that the revelations along this line will be scandalous.

Failure to pay the tax deprives the corporation of the right to continue operating within the State, and where operations are continued prosecutions may be brought. Secretary Jordan has sent a recommendation to the Governor asking that a prosecution of a Los Angeles firm be begun, since the firm has conducted its business without paying its license fees.

The other corporation tax is the one fixed by the State Board of Equalization under the new tax law. In general, this tax is levied against corporation franchises, and from the revenue thus derived is gained the money necessary to conduct the State government. This tax takes the place of the old property tax while the double system of State and county taxation was in vogue.

As in the past, the corporations are assessed and the tax fixed. It then becomes due and payable in one or two installments at the option of the corporation paying. The money is expected to be paid to the State Treasurer.

Nearly 30,000 corporations have been assessed by the State Board of Equalization, and apparently there are about that many cases of worry for the State officials.

New York Woman's Husband Fears Mind Affected and Police of Half Continent Seek Her.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The police of half the continent are searching tonight for Mrs. Delia C. Levison, wife of Benno Levison, Jr., president of the National Discount Company of New York.

She disappeared more than a week ago and the local authorities, who were notified three days afterward of her absence, are convinced that she is no longer in this vicinity.

Her husband is in great distress because of her disappearance, and fears that she is mentally ill.

Mrs. Levison's home was in La Crosse, Wis., before her marriage, and she has brothers in Milwaukee and San Francisco. Thinking it possible that she may be suffering from aphasia and started for one of these cities, telegrams have been sent to several points she would have to pass.

LOS ANGELES WINS BIG CONVENTION.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS WILL MEET HERE NEXT.

Delegates in Atlantic City Are Now Making a Special Effort to Evangelize the Casual Crowds on the Board Walk of the Eastern Ocean Resort.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) July 8.—Los Angeles was today selected as the place for holding the 1913 international convention of the Christian Endeaver union. The selection was made by the board of trustees on the second ballot. Indianapolis was the nearest competitor.

An effort is to be made during the remaining days of the convention to evangelize the casual crowds on the board walk. Permits have been obtained and twenty-five pairs of volunteers will hold meetings simultaneously each noon and evening at intervals along the great wooden way and also on Atlantic avenue, the main thoroughfare.

Children were declared to be the best producers of potential energy in the world by Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver, at a conference today on "The Boy and How to Handle Him." Held in connection with the convention. "Children are the lifeblood of the State," said the judge. "They are better producers of energy than coal or wood; they are better than electricity."

They Went to Win.

The Convention League sent the L. A. delegation to Atlantic City and the Chamber of Commerce supplied it with 100 boxes of oranges, 5000 pieces of literature and 5000 badges for distribution among the delegates. In addition to this a stereopiticon lecture with views of Mt. Lowe, Santa Catalina Island and the surrounding country was given during the week as an additional attraction to draw attention to this city.

GIRL ENDS LONG HORSEBACK RIDE.

ARRIVES IN NEW YORK FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

Tanned of Cheek, Red-Shirted, Khaki-Skirted, Miss Nan Aspinwall Delivers Letter to Acting Mayor of Eastern Metropolis. Calls Trip Enjoyable Journey.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The appearance of a red-shirted, khaki-skirted cowgirl riding her horse across the City Hall plaza and up to the steps of the City Hall, drew lunch-hour loiterers to the number of 1000 or so today.

The girl was Miss Nan Aspinwall, who had just got into New York after a ride across the continent from San Francisco. She started September 1 last, with a letter from Mayor McCarthy of San Francisco to Mayor Gaynor and she had come to deliver it.

Mayor Gaynor didn't happen to be at his office today so Borough President McAneney went out on the steps and received the letter, which read as follows:

"My Dear Mayor: Miss Nan J. Aspinwall leaves this city at 12:30 o'clock today. Miss Aspinwall will ride to your city on horseback, and I sincerely trust and hope she will reach there in perfect health. I am quite well satisfied that she will be given a splendid reception on her arrival and in calling on your honor—Mayor of the greatest city in the world—New York."

Both Miss Aspinwall and her mount seemed to be in the best of shape after their long journey. The young woman was tanned until her complexion matched artistically her khaki riding habit, but she did not seem to feel any worse for it.

"I'd rather ride through the wild West than through Broadway," she exclaimed. "My little mare was terribly frightened by your elevated trains."

After delivering her letter, Miss Aspinwall asked the City Hall reporters where she could find a hotel or boarding-house with a barn attached, as she could not be separated from her little mare. She said her ride had reduced her from 130 pounds to 107½ pounds.

STATE OFFICIAL TO WED.

Engagement of Los Angeles Girl to Marry Secretary of State of Washington Is Announced.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA (Wash.) July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Ithamar Martindale Howell, Secretary of State of Washington, and Miss Helen Baber, daughter of Mrs. Helen Mc Gregor Baber, a resident of Los Angeles, who is living temporarily in Portland, will be married in Portland on July 19. The invitations for the wedding were received in Tacoma today and a number of close friends and relatives of the groom will go to Portland for the nuptials.

The ceremony will take place in the home of the bride's mother at No. 445 Twenty-fifth street.

The bride will be attended by Miss Lytle of Portland, formerly of Tacoma. H. G. Bundren of Spokane will be best man. Following the wedding Capt. Howell will take his bride on a honeymoon cruise of the Sound. They will make Olympia their home. Mrs. Baber came north recently from Los Angeles to pass the summer in Portland, bringing her daughter with her.

STENOGRAPHERS TESTIFY.

OAKLAND, July 8.—Miss Anna Harms, a stenographer, testified in the Dalton bribery case today that she had accompanied Detective Helms to a French restaurant in San Francisco, where she overheard a conversation between County Assessor Dalton and S. P. Eastman of the Spring Valley Water Company. She corroborated Helms's testimony that he had lain on the floor with his head near a sliding door and had taken notes on the conversation which took place in an adjoining apartment.

Miss Mary Helms, a stenographer, and Miss Minnie Galvan, a telephone operator for the water company, testified that Dalton had called up the company's office and had conversed over the 'phone with the secretary. Under instructions, the young woman had listened to the conversation, the stenographer taking shorthand notes of what was said.

TAKES CORPSE TO HOSPITAL.

Alameda Man Amazed on Arrival to Find That His Wife Had Died on the Way.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Arriving today at the French Hospital from his home in Alameda, L. Brauner found that he had clasped the corpse of his wife in his arms all the way across the ferry and through the streets of the city. He does not know when she died.

With his ailing wife, who had been given an opiate to deaden her pain just before their departure and, accompanied by his sister and a woman friend, Brauner set out early this morning to bring the invalid to the hospital. She had been ill a long time and was wasted and weak from suffering. For that reason the party did not take alarm when the figure in its heavy wrapping made no move when they placed her in the carriage which awaited them at the ferry.

It was not until they reached the hospital and an attempt was made to stand the woman upon her feet that it was discovered she was dead.

OBITUARY.

Thomas T. Hayden.

NEW YORK, July 8.—[By A. P. Day Wire.] Thomas T. Hayden, the actor, known from coast to coast as "Blind Tom Hayden," is dead at his home in Brooklyn, following an attack of pneumonia. He had been sightless for thirteen years. Before he became blind as the result of an acident he played many prominent parts, at one time with Miss Edith Kingdon, now Mrs. George J. Gould. For more than twenty-five years Mr. Hayden was with the prominent dramatic clubs in New York and Brooklyn. His favorite role was Armand in Camille. He appeared in that part in New York theaters and attracted the attention of Charles Frohman, who offered him an engagement as leading man. Mr. Hayden declined this, as he had declined other like offers, preferring to remain an amateur.

Ira Erastus Davenport.

NEW YORK, July 8.—[By A. P. Day Wire.] Ira Erastus Davenport, the spiritualist, who, with his brother, toured this country and Europe several years ago, giving "manifestations," which at the time created a sensation, died at his home today in Maysville, Chautauqua, county, N. Y., aged 72. Davenport leaves a widow and three children. Davenport's brother was William Henry Harrison Davenport and they made a fortune of $600,000 touring the world giving public "manifestations." In Liverpool a mob chased them out of town and once in Paris a jealous magician destroyed their "cabinet," necessitating a postponement of the seance. William Davenport died in Sydney, Australia, in July, 1877.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

Pasadena.

SWIMMING HOLE TO BE PRESERVED.

Friend of Boys Promotes a New Association.

Courtesy to Weyerhauser Breaks Vigorous Protest.

Mayor Thum Has Plan to Water Dry Tract.

[Office of The Times, 26 S. Raymond avenue.]

PASADENA, July 9.—Through the kindness of Dr. Webster Merrifield of No. 657 West California street, the old Rocky Basin swimming hole, south of the California street bridge, about a mile and a half from the city, which many Pasadenans, who are not so very old remember as a place where some of the pleasantest hours of their youth were spent has been transformed into an ideal out-of-doors plunge. It is now the headquarters of the Swimming Hole Association of Rocky Basin.

The Swimming Hole Association is an organization of boys, pure and simple. It has its president, its vice-president and its secretary, and its object is to promote good swimming, and, thanks to Dr. Merrifield, clean sport.

When the doctor, leased a portion of the San Rafael Rancho upon which the swimming hole is located he found it a gathering place for boys where the moral atmosphere was none too good. But upon the promise that they would be more circumspect in their conduct he went to work and with a quantity of dynamite blasted out the stones in the bottom of the pool, where many heads have been bumped in diving, built a new dam, arranged a spring-board and a box of magazines and books and in divers ways improved the place.

Then rules were posted. Boys who swim there must not smoke They must not chew tobacco. They must not use improper language. And they must belong to the Swimming Hole Association.

The results have been more than gratifying. The boys entered into the idea with enthusiasm and a more healthy, happier lot of youths cannot be found than whose who now go to the place to enjoy their aquatic sports.

LETTER LONG COMING.

Dr. C. W. Leffingwell of San Rafael yesterday received a letter written by his son, Ernest Leffingwell, the Arctic explorer, October 20, last. The youger Leffingwell is engaged in government geological and geographical surveys on the northern coast of Alaska. He is accompanied by one white companion and a party of Eskimos. In the letter which was received by his father yesterday he tells of his safe arrival at Flaxman Island where he stated winter quarters were to be established. Two months and a half were consumed in the journey from Pasadena to Dawson.

A vigorous protest was filed with the City Clerk yesterday against the action of the City Council when it recently exempted the property of Frederick Weyerhauser on South El Molino avenue from the provision requiring that connection be made with water and gas mains at distances of seventy feet previous to the paving of that thoroughfare. It is signed by R. M. Paine of No. 1001 South El Molino avenue and E. W. Brooks of No. 1239, the same street.

Weyerhauser, through his agent, objected to making the required connections on the ground that the property upon which his residence stands would never be cut up into small pieces. The protestants, however, say that there is no telling what the future may bring, and that they do not want the pavement patched up at some other time.

CITY BREVITIES.

When the City Council meets next Tuesday Mayor Thum will probably call the attention of the members to a proposed plan of supplying water to the "dry tract" which was suggested yesterday by William Esterbrook. Mr. Esterbrook suggests that the existing distributing system be connected with the reservoir on the old Stone ranch, now owned by Stephen Vavra. He says Vavra would furnish water to the city at the rate of 80 cents per 1000 cubic feet.

The subscription for an automobile for the Pasadena Humane Society opened yesterday, with a donation of $100 and other amounts, large and small, continued to come in throughout the day.

Luther Overstreet, age 13 years, is at the Pasadena Hospital with a bullet in his left leg as the result of an accident which occurred last Friday afternoon. The boy was playing at the home of his parents, No. 1145 Summit avenue, with another lad by the name of Edward Clark. The Clark boy had a 22-caliber rifle which he did not know was loaded. He pointed it at his playmate and the cartridge exploded.

Dr. and Mrs. C. D. Lockwood entertained informally at luncheon at the Annandale Country Club yesterday, in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Tice of Chicago. Covers were laid for eight. Other guests were Dr. and Mrs. Frank Miller of Los Angeles, and Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Stehman of Pasadena.

The junior alumni of the Y.P.S.C.E. banqueted at the First Congregational Church, last Friday night. The guests sat at a large round table, decorated with pink and white sweet peas and plumosus. Ten of the fourteen active members of the association were present.

With all arrangements made for a "perfectly delightful" time a party of young ladies left the city yesterday for the summer camp of the Young Women's Christian Association at Manhattan Beach. They are Miss Hettie P. Anderson, Miss Harriet Robinson, Miss Ida Nyce, Miss Ida Schmadel, Miss Verna Churchill, Miss Louise Hutt, Miss Carrie Young, Miss Anna McGrew and Miss Mary Potts. Miss Edith Condo, who has charge of the religious work of the association will speak at tonight's Y.W.C.A. vesper service.

Rev. Tillman Hobson, a prominent evangelist and lecturer, will preach at open air services which are to be held at Library Park at 3 o'clock this afternoon, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association.

A number of Pasadenans attended a masquerade ball at Strain's Camp on the summit of Mt. Wilson last Friday night. Five prizes were awarded for the five most unique costumes.

Announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Miss Anna Kent of No. 1197 Garfield avenue, to Andrew Borkey of Los Angeles, but formerly a resident of Pasadena. The bride-to-be was given a linen shower last Friday afternoon at the home of Miss Mary Case, No. 1501 Garfield avenue.

Julius V. Seyler, a well-known pianist of Pasadena, has closed his studio and gone to Michigan, where he and Mrs. Seyler, who accompanied him, expect to spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Scripps of Altadena left yesterday for an extended trip. They expect to travel around the world. They have planned to sail from Boston on the 25th inst., and will make their first visits in England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales. They will also spend considerable time in Japan and China.

Yesterday morning G. W. Hewson, a Pasadena newspaper man, received the news that his brother, Edward Hewson, second mate of the Santa Rosa, was one of those who were drowned when a lifeboat capsized off the coast near Point Concepcion. He went to Los Angeles immediately, and left there as soon as possible for the scene of the disaster.

Dr. Up de Graff has returned from Europe. Offices, Chamber of Commerce.

Redondo Beach.

JUNIORS SPEND DAY AT BEACH.

BROADWAY DEPARTMENT STORE EMPLOYEES MAKE MERRY.

Dinner in Picnic Grove at Redondo the First Feature After Which One Thing Followed Another With Amazing Rapidity—Pasadena Members of Eastern Star Celebrate.

REDONDO BEACH, July 8.—The junior department of the Broadway Department Store, meaning the cash girls and boys, wrappers, errand boys and other small fry, had their innings today, when Arthur Letts, owner of the big store, gave them a picnic at this beach. Although it was the junior picnic, the children were generous and the other employees and their families were invited as guests.

Department managers and superintendents dropped all dignity and romped with the children in their games or meekly obeyed orders given by the youngsters.

The store closed at 1 o'clock today, the first day of Saturday afternoon closing for the summer, and the employees and heads of departments, more than 600, left at once over the Del Rey line of the Pacific Electric for the beach.

Immediately upon their arrival here a big dinner was served in the picnic grove, the dinner being furnished by Arthur Letts.

When all had reached the limit of their capacity in the eating line no time was lost in starting the programme of sports, for which prizes were given. General Manager Harry Philp and Assistant Manager W. V. Smithers, who acted as judges, appeared to be equally as capable in judging a foot race as in managing a store of hundreds of employees. Harry Henshey and T. Tomlinson performed the arduous duties of starters.

Fred Vaughn, the head of the junior department, was never busier on any big sale day in the store than today, for he had charge of the big picnic, which entailed no small responsibility.

Free bathing in the plunge for the junior department, free dancing and all other amusements they might like were given free by the store management.

A big event of the day was a ball game between teams composed of heads of departments and clerks. A team captained by Fred Dillberger won by a score of 4 to 3 from a team captained by Joseph Levine.

The team line-ups were as follows: Capt. Dillberger, Young, Riley, Dillon, Piney, Letts, Jr., Vient, Shofner and Elms; Capt. Levine, Hickey, Carroll, Jones, Boyle, Musser, Pullam, Clever and Hansen.

The races were not only fun for the contestants, but worth seeing, and some good records were made. Floyd Malone, a fifteen-year-old lad, won the run and jump from a group of grown-up competitors. His jump was 14 feet.

Other winners were: Fifty-yard race for boys under 16 years: First, Floyd Malone; second, William Wilson.

Fifty-yard race for girls under 16 years: First, Lenora Gill; second, Bertha Ratcliff.

Sack race for boys under 16 years: first, Floyd Malone; second, William Wilson.

Potato race for girls only: first, Exah Angel; second, Lenora Gill.

100-yard race for girls over 16 years: first, Lenora Gill; second, Bertha Ratliff.

100-yard race for boys over 16 year: first, B. L. Fallis; second, S. H. Bell.

Wheelbarrow race: first, W. B. Elms; second, Edward Norton.

Nail driving contest for girls only: first, Margaret Shoemaker; second, Lenora Gill.

Three-legged race for boys under 16: Floyd Malone and Ray Davis.

PASADENANS PRESENT.

Members of the Pasadena Chapter, No. 108, Order of the Eastern Star, held the annual outing here today and sports, bathing, dancing and other amusements were enjoyed by the 300 in attendance.

The committee in charge was composed of Henry Ramel, F. W. Buchanan, Dr. W. E. MacCoy, Mabel Ayers, J. Henry Hall, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Rawls and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Simpson.

Various contests were held on the sand on the ocean front the last of which was an interesting sand-moulding contest. Charles Buchanan, who modeled a bathing girl, reclining on the beach, won the prize as the best sculptor.

Mrs. W. C. Hester won in a foot-race for past matrons and L. L. Test carried off honors as swiftest past patron, in a foot-race.

The programme committee had arranged a grand surprise for the party for 4 o'clock in the picnic grove. When the crowd gathered, curious to learn the secret, they were greeted by Dr. Poindexter, a Hindu clairvoyant, who read their secrets and life histories in an astounding way.

Santa Monica.

CLOSING SESSION FULL OF INTEREST.

Catholic Sisters Discuss Child Education.

Relationship of Literature and Religion Pointed Out.

Bishop Conty Talks on Indiscriminate Reading.

SANTA MONICA, July 8.—The closing session of the Catholic sisters' annual institute opened this morning with the largest attendance during the session. Brother Leo closed his series of lectures with an address on "The Religious Element in the Teaching of Literature."

"While, on the one hand, it must be remembered that the teaching of literature is in no sense a substitute for the teaching of religion," he said, "on the other hand, there is a religious element in English teaching. For there is a religious element in life, and since literature deals so intimately with life, any method of teaching literature which does not take account of religious ideas and ideals is necessarily inadequate and defective. The correlation of literature and religion is both incidental and essential. Incidental correlation deals with religious customs, practices, rituals, etc. Essential correlation seeks to show the practical workings of religious ideals and motives in literature and life."

T. H. Kirk then addressed the institute on "Organized Civics." He said, in part:

"Civics might not inappropriately be called "The art of living together," because it should be a vital thing, not one of dead abstractions. There are two very great considerations to be kept in mind relative to the general methods to be pursued in civics. One is, that the pupil from the very first should be taught to take active part in doing things for the public good as they naturally arise in his own community; and second, that he should study the things nearest at hand in the matter of government, therefore in the concrete. Geographically, therefore, the work should begin with the village, city, or perhaps country township, in which the pupil resides. From here he will reach out gradually to encompass the government of the world. In taking these concrete steps we will find ourselves following what might be otherwise termed, the historic method. That is to say, in the activities and necessities of men's lives, we shall discover the need of forms of government, representing the three great functions known as the legislative, judicial and executive. We shall see how the executive, in caring for a multitude of things, builds up a machinery of bureaus, commissions, and other forms. We shall see how the judicial requires courts of high and low degree and, finally, we shall see how legislatures will come into existence, from the municipality to the nation. As the pupils grow older, of course, the concrete will be emphasized less and the abstract reasoning will find greater place. Then we can analyze the forms of government in a more abstract way to give orderliness to the concrete things that have been studied. Moreover, we can give some attention to general principles of government. For example, we may consider such problems as the rule of the majority, equality before the law, property rights vs. human rights, and taxation in its relations to representation.

Miss Carrie Truslow was the next speaker, her subject being "Selections and Music in the Grades." Miss Truslow said:

"In the grammar grades we must weigh well the artistic and the technical sides of our music and keep them well balanced, lest we neglect one side or the other. There can be no artistic freedom until the formal side of art is conquered. It is so in sculpture, painting, etc., and we can readily see its application in music. To appreciate the power and beauty of music the pupil must become familiar with well-written music in selections that shall be interesting from his own point of view, as well as advisable from that of the musician. As in primary grades, the beautiful song should be the basis for all work. A study of the lives of the great composers, both of the past and present, with their works, aids much in the cultivation of musical taste and interest. The phonograph is a great factor in the musical education of the masses, as good music may be had now in homes where before there was none at all. If we instill a desire for the best in our schools, it will be demanded in our homes. The ideal music work in the schoolroom is good song singing, ability to read from musical symbols, and a keen sense of musical appreciation."

At the close of the morning session Bishop Conaty spoke of the importance of carefully guarding the health of the schools, and said it was his desire to have the school co-operate with the health officers in everything that concerned the sanitary condition of the school and the physical conditions of the children. He advised that each school should have a physician visit it regularly and take note of the health conditions, and said that it was their duty to see that nothing be left undone to guard the health of the children.

Bishop Conaty also spoke of the schools of the diocese and said that there were forty schools in which the instruction was given in primary and grammar, as well as in High School and collegiate studies. There are about 8000 children attending school in the diocese. In the city of Los Angeles there are sixteen schools, colleges, academic, parochial and quasi-parochial, with a total attendance of 3500 pupils, while in the county there are six academies with an attendance of 800. Besides these, there are eighteen schools in different parts of the diocese.

The first speaker at the afternoon session was Rev. John J. Ford, S. J., who spoke on "The Method of Catechetics." Among other things Father Ford said:

"In religious teaching, which has for its end not only the enlightenment of the understanding but also, and even more so, the formation of the will, method is a fixed rule for the religious formation, intelligent and moral, of man. Method in teaching catechism should not be considered unnecessary. To teach catechism well is an art and for an art an artist is needed, but an artist, however gifted by nature, is formed and perfected by method. The art of the catechist is a most difficult one, for although he has the matter of teaching already at hand, he must so explain and apply it as to render it clear to the minds of children and the ignorant. He must make abstract propositions and dogmatic formulas clear and attractive and simple, and this cannot be done without a good method. He must bring down the supernatural to the senses, he must know how to proceed from the concrete to the abstract, from the known to the unknown, and from the simple to the complex. He must inspire his hearers with a love for the church, her authority, rites and ceremonies, her doctrines, sacraments and her devotions. As in other branches of instruction the catechist may follow either the analytic or the synthetic method. In the former the catechism is explained word for word; in the latter it is told in a simple way and afterward explained, and for cathetical instruction in the case of children, the synthetic method is preferable."

The last address of the session was delivered by Bishop Conaty, who prefaced his remarks on "Literature" by defining the purpose of education as a training for life in order that life may yield its best fruit and one may reach to the aim and purpose for which life has been given.

"The first great agent in education is religion, which alone perfectly solves the problems of life. Religion is something more than a vague sentiment of belief in or devotion to God. It is more than a general morality or a combination of accepted principles. It is higher than mere nature because it is from God and contains the positive law which God has laid down for man's belief and practice. Whatever tends to a better knowledge of God and directs the faculties to a closer union with the laws of God, is the soul of education. Education in its real sense is the attainment of truth in order that man may know what to believe and what to do.

"Science as an element in education has its proper place but it is not truth, that handmaid of religion which keeps it from error in the things beyond its knowledge."

Bishop Conaty spoke of culture as an agency in the work of education and added:

"More than any other agent, culture has been confused with education itself. The highest culture is that which has been thought, written or acted in the spirit or under the influence of the truth as made known to us by Christ. True culture is the flowering of scholarship, co-ordinate with and vitalized by Christian virtue.

"Virtue is the expression of goodness in human life, it is truth in action and virtue is the flower of true culture for it is the highest expression of truth embodied in human acts."

The Bishop dwelt upon the tendency of modern culture to be satisfied with the natural which, after all, at its highest possible mark, does not fit for heaven, for revealed religion alone gives us the goodness of supernatural life which makes the culture of the Christian.

Speaking of literature, the Bishop said:

"False intellectualism and false culture ar expressing themselves in various forms in literature. False theories of religion, false conditions of human life, disregard of restraint, false principles of philosophy, fixed antagonisms to revealed truth, these give ground work to the so-called religious, philosophical and social novel.

"Christianity is made to appear puerile and unable to cope with the modern spirit. Popular literature is without a thought of the supernatural. Life is largely a matter of naturalism, and oftentimes, animalism. It has lost its taste for God and is immersed in the material or the sensual. The spirit of modern literature is largely human and as a result education which looks to it for help will find that it is purely material.

"Indiscriminate reading is the evil of the day, and like indiscriminate eating, must result disastrously. A positively bad book is less dangerous than the book which comes like the wolf in sheep's clothing. There is a veneer of goodness which serves to make the writer appear as touched with the desire to do good in life, but oftentimes, this seeming goodness is only a preparation for principles which will destroy religion and morality. Every book should be an agent for goodness and an opponent to vice. It should make one realize that virtue and honorable action should be the sources of true manliness and womanliness, that the domesticvirtues are the ornament of the home, that the law of God in the highest law and the conquest of self is the greatest victory."

Bishop Contay dwelt upon the result of these false principles in the literature of the day, and said: "It is easy to see that the evil has been done by which man's faith in God has been weakened and the old-fashioned morality made to appear as a thing out of touch with modern conditions."

POSTAL OFFICIAL PROMOTED.

South Pasadena Man is Made Examiner of Stations in Los Angeles Odd Fellows Elect.

SOUTH PASADENA, July 8.—Roy Stephens, who for the past eight years has been the efficient postmaster at the local postoffice, has been promoted to the position of the Examiner of Stations at the Los Angeles postoffice. W. P. Smith has been appointed to fill the vacancy at this place. He has been connected with the postoffice business for thirteen years, and for three years past has been assistant to Mr. Stephens.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The recently-elected officers of the local lodge of Odd Fellows were installed last evening at their lodge rooms in Alexander Hall, Mission and Meridan, by District Deputy William Stinebaugh, as follows: Arthur Pierce, Noble Grand; Frank Allen, Vice-Grand; J. F. Crossley, Secretary; L. Pealer, Treasurer; Elmer Packard, Financial Secretary.

Authorities of the Pacific Electric Railway Company deny that there is any truth in the recent rumor that the company is about to extend its tracks east on Mission street to connect with the Oak Knoll line. The company has, however, made a slight change in its schedule, the Mount Lowe cars now running via the Oak Knoll line instead of through this city as heretofore, and they state that this is the only change in the schedule so far as it affects South Pasadena.

"The Divorce Evil, or Fundamental Ideas in Courtship and Marriage Essential to the Life-Long Union of One Man with One Woman," will be the subject of a series of sermons to be preached by Rev. John Oliver, pastor of the Methodist Church, commencing tomorrow evening.

G. S. Stone, residing on Sprague avenue, has leased the storeroom just south of the bank entrance in the new Ong building, corner of Fair Oaks avenue and Mission street, and will move his real estate office from Los Angeles as soon as the building is completed.

LODGE BOYS TAKE ALL NIGHT.

Glendale Knights Have Fun With Tropico Yokels and Give Them the Magic Passwords.

GLENDALE, July 8.—The officers of the Miradero Lodge of this place had complete charge of the installing of Vizor Lodge, No. 293, a branch of the Knights of Pythias, at Tropico tonight. The service was held in Logan's Hall, on San Fernando road, and the full team from the Glendale lodge assisted in the service.

During the evening an elaborate banquet was served in the adjoining rooms, which are occupied by the Tropico Chamber of Commerce. A large number of visitors were present during the evening, coming from Los Angeles, Pasadena, Hollywood, Glendale and other Southern California cities. The visitors were well entertained during the evening.

The following officers have been elected and will serve throughout the ensuing year: C.C., J. A. Spence; V.C., B. F. Cooke; P.J., A. Stone; M. of W., W. J. Hibbert; K. of R.S., F. H. Davis; M. of F., E. L. Young; M. of E., C. J. Jennings; M. at A., D. S. Erskine; I. G., W. J. Gould; O. G., R. S. Robinson. Following are the Trustees elected: A. M. Watson, A. T. Davis and C. A. Bancroft.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The Glendale Valley View Tract Improvement Association held an enthusiastic meeting last night in a large tent at the corner of Sixth street and Columbus avenue. The main speakers of the evening were Rev. J. H. Henry and Frederick O'Brien. Steps were taken whereby the building restrictions in the tract, which for the past few months have been repeatedly disregarded, may be enforced. A strong plea was made by the speakers for cleaner streets.

Invitations have been issued by the Four Leaf Clover Club of this city for a dancing party to be held in G. A.R. Hall, Glendale avenue, Saturday evening, July 15. Many young society people have been favored with invitations.

If you need a rest, the Times Free Information Bureau will tell you where to go.

Long Beach.

AGED WOMAN IS FATALLY HURT.

RUN DOWN BY MOTORCYCLIST ON PINE AVENUE.

Pretty Rmance Culminates in the Marriage of a Pretty Swedish Girl and a Long Beach Man. Personal Acquaintance Had Only Existed One Day.

LONG BEACH, July 8.—Mrs. Sarah Pickles an old and well known pioneer of Long Beach, today received injuries which because of her age may result seriously. Mrs. Pickles was crossing Pine avenue when J. W. Davidson, riding a motorcycle, camel along Third street. A number of people were crossing the street and he sounded he horn as a warning. The sound served to confuse Mrs. Pickles and she walked directly into the machine, which knocked her down and ran over her.

The injured woman was picked up and hurried to a hospital, where it was found that her right leg was broken just below the knee. She is also an mass of bruises and appears to be suffering internal injuries. Mrs. Pickles is 70 years of age. Evidence of witnesses all exonerates Mr. Davidson from any blame in the matter.

REAL ROMANCE.

A pretty romance culminated today when Miss Clara Anderson, a beautiful Swedish girl, aged 22, and Walter Watson, aged 28, boarded a car for Los Angeles to find a Swedish minister who would unite them in marriage. Until her arrival in the city yesterday Miss Anderson had never met Watson, their courtship and engagement having been carried on by correspondence and through a mutual friend. She came from New York to wed the man of her choice, despite the opposition of her parents, who feared for her to take the long journey alone to meet a stranger. Watson came here from Kingsbury a few months ago, and is employed by the Southern Pacific. He is a quiet mannered young man and has made many friends during his short residence. He owns a 20-acre ranch in the fruit belt where he will take his bride to reside. Miss Anderson had never been out of New York State since her arrivel in this country and Watson has never been farther East than St. Paul.

CHIEFS REPORT.

Fire Chief Shrewsbury last night presented his annual report to the Council. During the year there were sixty-two alarms. The property loss was $41,512 on buildings and $25,766 on contents with an insurance of $37,800 on both. The Chief asked for more fire alarm boxes and another auto fire engine, placing the present steam engine in reserve and saving $95 a month on horse feed and repairs.

TAKES TUMBLE.

H. S. Rautman, who came here recently for Chicago, fell from the roof of his new home today and escaped fatal injury by striking the rail of the lower porch, which broke his fall but split the railing into several pieces. Mr. Rautman has two dislocated ribs and many painful bruises.

CAN COME BACK.

Word was received this morning that the steamer Santa Barbara would arrive in the inner harbor Monday and discharge part of her lumber cargo at the municipal docks. The Santa Barbara is the steamer whose initial trip was made the occasion for the formal dedication of the city docks several weeks ago.

WATER PLANS.

The water commission during the coming week will probably take action looking to the employment of a consulting engineer who will make a complete map of the underground system of water pipes and also projected extensions which will cover the entire city, in order that where a street is to be improved new mains may be laid in advance.

NEW ENGLAND SOCIETY.

The New England society of Long Beach was formally organized last night at a meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms. A constitution and bylaws presented were after a few minor changes adopted. The object of the society is to unite all New Englanders for social enjoyment and acquaintance. Officers elected were Fred M. Ashley, Massachusetts, president; vice-presidents, D. B. Newell, Maine; D. F. Rogers, New Hampshire; J. L. Thomas, Vermont; L. B. Haskell, Massachusetts; Mrs. L. K. Potter, Rhode Island; Mrs. G. R. Stevenson, Connecticut; secretary treasurer, W. L. Camp, Connecticut.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Ernest Ebrite is threatened with blood poisoning, as the result of a spider bit on the arm, which occured while he was sleeping on the lawn. The arm is swollen badly.

Although the ordinance creating a park commission and tree warden is yet pending in Council that body is receiving applications for the position of tree warden. One received today was from C. Winthrop Bowen of Pasadena, who says he is a graduate of the forestry school of California University.

Tired of their ineffectual efforts to arrive at a definite recommendation regarding the settlement of beach titles, the arbitration committee of the Chamber of Commerce today appointed a subcommittee consisting of P. E. Hatch, W. H. Wallace, R. Reynolds, C. J. Curtis and Stephen Townsend, who will continue arguments with both sides of the controversy.

Get Rid of Belts, Elastic Bands, Springs and Leg-Straps—They Are Simply Slow Suicide.

Trusses like those shown above—the belt and leg-strap, elastic and spring contraptions—sold by drug stores, surgical instrument houses and many self-styled "Hernia Specialists"—make life miserable for everybody who wears them—wearing them is simply slow suicide.

And—even when drawn so tight you can scarcely stand to keep them on—they do no good whatever.

Instead, they often do immense harm—they squeeze the rupture, often causing strangulation—dig into the pelvic bone in front—press against the sensitive spinal column of the back.

The Plain Truth Is This.

Rupture—as explained in our free book—can't be relieved or cured—can't even be kept from growing worse—unless constantly held in place. Just as a broken bone can't "knit" unless the parts are held securely together.

And—just as a bandage or splint is the only way a broken bone can be held—the right kind of truss is the only thing in the world that can keep a rupture from coming out.

What a difference it will make when you get that kind of truss.

And you can get exactly that kind of truss — without risking a cent of your money.

It's the famous Cluthe Truss or Cluthe Automatic Massager.

Far more than a truss—far more than merely a device for holding the rupture in place.

Self-regulating, self-adjusting.

No belt, elastic band or springs around your waist, and no leg-straps—nothing to pinch, chafe, squeeze or bind. It is held in position by suction—can't shift or slip—the only truss in existence that is honestly guaranteed never to let the rupture come out.

Try It Without Risking a Penny.

We have so much faith in the Cluthe Truss—we have seen it work wonders for so many others—that we want to make one especially for your case and let you wear it at our risk.

We'll give you plenty of time to test it—if it doesn't keep your rupture from coming out when you are working and at all other times—if it doesn't put an end to the trouble you've heretofore had with your rupture — if you don't get better right away—then the truss won't cost you a cent.

In addition to holding Cluthe Truss or Cluthe sager is constantly strengthening ruptured parts.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

COTTON PROSPECTS FINE.

Imperial Valley Planters in High Feather Over Indications for a Big Crop—Volunteer Experiment.

IMPERIAL, July 8.—Cotton conditions in Imperial Valley are most promising, as the cotton plantations this season have received more care and attention. Ninety-five per cent. of the cotton fields are free from grass and weeds and show equally good stands well branched and containing abundance of forms, blooms and squares. Volunteer cotton is also making excellent progress and in many cases picking may be started by the latter part of July.

Should this method of volunteer cotton growing prove profitable in Imperial Valley, the cotton planters of this section have an unusual opportunity of producing this staple economically. Of course it will be necessary for the cotton planter to take the greatest possible care of the young plant and by ascertaining the necessary amount of water required from time to time, he will be assured of favorable returns, provided the cotton field is kept in a proper state of cultivation.

By the erection of a cotton gin near Seeley, for the marketing of the cotton, the planters in that vicinity and west of New River will be greatly benefited.

The section west of New River is one of the most favorable cotton growing sections in Imperial Valley. It is in this district that B. F. McDonald, whose profits last year were $10,000., J. A. Burton's 600 acres and D. H. Imler's large cotton plantations are located. Experts who have visited the cotton fields in this district predict that one and one-half bales will be produced in portions of the Imler plantation.

George A. Long arrived yesterday with thirty car loads of feeders from Utah. These cattle, which are principally three-year-olds, after a few weeks' feeding on the alfalfa fields in this county, will be in fine shape to ship to Los Angeles and other coast markets.

PROSPECTIVE RACE PLEASES.

CONTEST BETWEEN AUTO AND ENGINE INTERESTS FANS.

Los Angeles-Phoenix Road Exhibition to Have Unique Feature. bition to Have Unique Feature, Signature on a Me one Crate Causes One Brother to Buy from Another.

EL CENTRO, July 8.—Imperial Valley automobile enthusiasts are discussing the Los Angeles-Phoenix road race, to take place early in the fall, and a phase in its connection that may prove of special interest.

Leon Shettler of Los Angeles is planning to secure two private cars for Coast autoists who wish to watch the checking-in at Yuma. El Centro is also to be one of the checking points, and it is proposed that these special cars come to this city first, witness the checking-in here and then make the race by rail to Yuma, pitting the locomotive time against the road racers, so that the checking-in at the Colorado River town may be witnessed. The plan is simply in the formative stage, but it may be adopted, and would add much to the interest of the event.

NAME TRAVELS AFAR.

Gilbert S. Helms, who has a sixteen-acre cantaloupe patch at El Centro, and personally looked after the handling of his crop, was standing idly by a pile of melon crates during the height of the season and scribbled his signature on the end of a crate. The incident passed from his mind until yesterday, when he received a letter from his brother in Philadelphia, who stated that while at the public market he had his attention directed to a crate of particularly fine cantaloupes, and at once he saw Helms's signature. He immediately recognized the handwriting, and purchased all the melons he could carry home. Helms believes it pays to advertise, even on the end of melon crates.

DRUNKEN MAN DROWNED.

Dr. F. W. Peterson, Coroner of Imperial county, was called to Bard, on the Colorado River, this week, to investigate the case of a Mexican found dead near that town. It appears that the man was intoxicated and fell into a shallow pool of water and drowned, being unable to help himself.

VALLEY BRIEFS.

The Southern California Land Company, a corporation recently formed for the purpose of handling various townsites in the Imperial Valley, is giving notice that on July 15 the general offices of the company will be moved from Imperial county to Los Angeles.

S. D. Ballou, who resided northwest of Holtville, died on the evening of July 6. His body was shipped yesterday to San Diego, where his brother, G. H. Ballou, is a member of the firm of Ballou and Crosswell. The deceased leaves a wife and daughter in Los Angeles.

The warm days of the past week have been especially beneficial to the growth of cotton plants, and from all parts of Imperial Valley come good reports of the cotton situation. Volunteer cotton is developing rapidly and will be ready for picking early. It is expected that picking from such fields will begin the latter part of August.

General interest in the special election on the proposed Imperial irrigation district is apparent in all parts of Imperial Valley. This election will take place on July 12, and many settlers are delaying their summer vacations so as to be here at that time. Sentiment in favor of the district is constantly growing, and it is believed the required two-thirds vote will be easily obtained.

The first Independence Day celebration ever held in the newly-opened settlements on the Colorado River, in Imperial county, was a great success. Many Yuma people attended, and a patriotic programme and races and athletic events filled the day.

SAILORS' LASS MAY RUN SECOND.

Shower of Gold At Finish of Exciting Contest.

Check Written by Lyman J. Gage is Protested.

More Mexican Mangoes Seized by Commissioner.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A check for $150, given by former Secretary of the Treasury Lyman J. Gage, a reputed millionaire, was protested here today. The protest was made to the managers of a voting contest to choose a queen of the carnival in connection with the exposition ground-breaking ceremonies to begin July 19.

At the inauguration of the contest, it was announced by the committee in charge that nothing but real cash in exchange for votes would be accepted.

The contest closed tonight. At the beginning of the contest, Miss Georgiana Lee, choice of the sailors of the cruiser fleet, forged so far ahead that up to the time the fleet left San Diego she practically had no opposition. Recently leaders of society decided that someone other than Miss Lee should be queen.

Miss Helene Richards was induced to enter the contest. She soon had the backing of society. For the last few days, leading society women in automobiles canvassed the city for votes for Miss Richards. Miss Lee's friends rallied to her support, and tonight at the final balloting showered on the committee rolls of bills, gold and silver. Shortly before the polls closed, it was whispered about that if society expected to beat Miss Lee, a large sum of money was needed for votes. Mrs. Lyman J. Gage, one of the leaders of the opposition to Miss Lee, promptly called on her husband, who, with his every-ready checkbook, wrote a check for $150.

As the polls closed at 8 o'clock, friends of Miss Lee called the committee's attention to the rules, declaring that checks would not be accepted. The Richards' manager sent out the check to be cashed. By the time the money was returned it was declared time for the polls to close. The Gage money, however, was received amidst protests of Miss Lee and her friends. The count of ballots is slow.

SIEZE MANGOES.

Another lot of Mexican mangoes was siezed by R. E. Jeffrey, horticultural guarantine inspector, upon the arrival of the power boat San Diego from Ensenada today. This makes the second seizure made by Inspector Jeffrey. The mangoes were being brought in by passengers. The Horticulture Commission is taking every precaution to prevent the bringing in of the dreaded Mexican orange maggot, and though Insector Jeffrey has not found any of the maggots in the mangoes, thus far condemned, they are not allowed entry into this country and are destroyed as soon as inspected.

CHASES SMUGGLERS.

Under cover of darkness sometime last night the United States government revenue cutter McCulloch left the San Diego harbor and sailed south. To chase launches alleged to contain contraband Chinese is said to be the mission of the McCulloch. Besides Capt. E. R. Reed, master of the cutter, Capt. Ainsworth, of the immigration service, is aboard. Fishing vessels report that when last seen today the McCulloch was headed for Ensenada. For the first time since the recent insurrection in Lower California the local immigration officers yesterday received a tip that Chinese smugglers are again active.

DELL FREE CITIZEN.

After spending three months in the cuartel at Ensenada, Harry C. Dell of Oakland, was this week given his liberty. Dell returned to San Diego this morning by steamer. He is bitter in his denunciation of his treatment by Mexican officials, declaring he was given no opportunity to defend himself of the charge that he was a spy against the Mexican government and that his surroundings in prison were of the vilest character. Last March while at Ensenada Dell was arrested in a saloon and taken to Ensenada. It was stated by Mexican Federal authorities that he had boasted he was a rebel and had made threats against the government. Previous to going to Tia Juana Dell had spent several weeks in San Diego.

CLAREMONT.

CLAREMONT, July 8.—Great interest was aroused in Claremont yesterday afternoon, when fifty cowboys on Indian ponies rode through town. With them was an old-fashioned stage coach and all the paraphernalia for taking moving pictures. Costumes were on hand for transforming the entire bunch into Indians. The company was headed for Bear Valley, where a large number of moving picture films will be made.

The new automobile of B. A. Woodford, manager of the Southern California Citrus Exchange, was damaged badly in a collision which occurred on North Orange Grove avenue with a car driven by the son of W. H. Varcoe. Miss Woodford, who has just learned to run the car, did not turn out enough on the curve. The Varcoe machine was only slightly injured, but the Woodford car had the axle and wheel broken. The damage amounted to $100.

Advertising patrons of The Times living in Pasadena can telephone "Want" announcements to local agent or direct to the Los Angeles office. No extra charge will be made for telephone calls. Corona Man Buys Standard Rig and Will Test Land for the Magic Liquid.

CORONA, July 8.—With indications of oil on his foothill ranch south of Corona, Ben White of Los Angeles has purchased a $6500 standard oil outfit which is being delivered to his property. Four men are at work setting up the rig.

The Ben White nursery on the same property, now contains 10,000 lemon trees.

NEWS BRIEFS.

In a canyon west of the White ranch, John Firken recently picked up a good-sized gold nugget worn smooth by being tossed about in the storm water of many winters.

John Silvas, a native of California, died Wednesday in Del Mar. The funeral was held here yesterday morning from the Catholic Church, interment being in Sunny Slope Cemetery.

R. L. Willits has bought eleven acres of El Sobrante Land Company and is having it subdivided into sixty town lots. The property lies between Commercial and Quarry streets.

Mrs. Ruth Clapp Milam has sold to Mrs. Nettie Weston, through Bowen and Whitten, three lots with six-room house on Victoria street. Consideration, $3500.

Mrs. Mary Perry of Friendswood, Tex., and Mrs. W. A. Craig of Santa Ana are guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Stanfield. The ladies are aunt and sister of Mr. Stanfield.

C. L. Whitten and family arrived today from Fayetteville, Ark., and are guests of Mr. Whitten's brother, P. J. Whitten. They will live in California, possibly in Corona.

TELLS PRISONER TO STAND FAST.

MEXICAN'S TALK LANDS HIM BEHIND THE BARS.

Modena Calls to Garcia and Suggests a Policy of Silence Regarding a Stolen Watch—Garcia Tells the Jailer and the Blind Goddess Scores Heavily.

SANTA ANA, July 8.—Hearing that Francisco Garcia might give information against him, Jose Modena went to the county jail last night and held a conversation with Garcia, Garcia being in a cell and Modena standing on the lawn at the rear of the jail. Jailer E. W. Boynton chased Modena for two blocks and caught him and took him to jail. After jailing the man Boynton learned that he was the man from whom Garcia said that he had bought a watch found in Garcia's possession when he was arrested in Los Angeles while celebrating the Fourth of July.

Garcia will be freed, and Modena will be prosecuted for stealing the watch, which was taken from Ray Richards' room at the Allerton Hotel on June 18. Garcia said that Modena called to him through the bars of the jail not to give it away that Modena sold Garcia the watch.

NOTHING FOR STANTON.

The new town of Stanton will not get the $906 for which the Board of Supervisors ordered warrants drawn on Thursday. The order was made on the understanding that any new incorporation is entitled to its pro rata of road funds of adjoining districts. The transfers were made from district road funds. Dist.-Atty. Koepsel has given Auditor Lester an opinion that the pro rata must come from the general road fund only, and since this county has no general road fund, Stanton can get no money from that source.

MOTHER AND SON.

This morning mother and son were in the superior court together, each charged with a crime. Mrs. Nina B. Croft, wife of a Los Angeles policeman, was present with William Breeding, charged with immorality in that the two lived together without being man and wife. Their trial was set for July 18. Claude E. White, son of Mrs. Croft, was in court for arraignment on a charge of stealing a horse and buggy at Anaheim. He is to answer on July 10.

KNIGHT OF THROTTLE RETIRES.

Escondido Man Who Has Spent Forty-six Years in Cab Will Take Things Easy.

ESCONDIDO, July 8.—With a record of forty-six years in the cab of a locomotive, thirty-nine as an engineer, Ed. Quinlan, for the last seventeen years in the employ of the Santa Fe Railway, has retired with a pension from the Santa Fe and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and intends to pass the remainder of his life at his little home in Escondido.

He started his career as a fireman on the Illinois Central, his run being from Chicago to Champaign, in the days before trains were operated by aid of the telegraph, when wood was used for generating steam, and when a speed of fifteen miles an hour was considered fast time.

Since that time Quinlan has served as engineer in the employ of a number of railways, including the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, going out on the big strike of that road in 1887; on the Union Pacific, the Denver and Rio Grande, the Rio Grande Southern, the Manitou and Pike's Peak, the National City and Otay, the San Diego, Cuyamaca and Eastern and the Santa Fe. He was engineer of the first passenger train making the summit of the Pike's Peak road, in 1891, upon which road he had been running a locomotive during the construction. For the last seventeen years he has been on the Escondido-Oceanside-Fallbrook run, and more recently on the Escondido-San Diego run of the Santa Fe.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Vineyardists state that the crop will be somewhat later than last year and that the yield will not be as large, although the quality will be first class. Indications are for good prices, both for the green muscatel grapes and raisins and the wine grapes. One grower has been offered 6¾ cents for raisins on board the cars at Escondido. The yield of muscatel grapes from one of the largest vineyards is reported to have been sold at 1¾ cents, the buyer to do the picking and marketing.

The reports from the four banks of the city, two national and two savings, for the last six months, show a prosperous condition. The Escondido National has declared a semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent. and has increased its surplus to $24,000. The Escondido Savings Bank has declared a semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent. and has added $1200 to its surplus. The First National has declared a semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent. and has increased its capital stock to $50,000, while the Home Savings Bank has declared a semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent. and set aside the legal 10 per cent. of the net earnings to surplus.

Mrs. Amanda Mingus of Escondido is a grandmother of the two Overman children so brutally murdered near El Centro this week. The Overman family has been in the habit of spending a portion of each summer in Escondido and had planned on coming this year.

The 800 stockholders of the Escondido Mutual Water Company have received notices of a 10 per cent. assessment, payable before August 3. The levy will yield about $22,000, which money will be used for the improvement of the upper end of the system.

COLTON WANTS MAIL DELIVERY.

Inspector Goes Over City Streets and Apparently Favors Granting the Service Desired.

COLTON, July 8.—Postoffice Inspector Lowe, who makes his headquarters at Los Angeles, has spent the past three days inspecting the Colton post-office and matters pertaining to city delivery. Mr. Lowe, accompanied by Assistant Postmaster Fred Frazer and D. G. Thomas as city representative, took a trip to Colton this morning, the inspector giving as his opinion that the delivery should cover sixty square blocks. The people have asked for three deliveries in the business district and two deliveries in residence districts each day and three collections.

As Mr. Lowe seemed favorably impressed and his report to the postal authorities probably settles the question, Colton is now looking forward to delivery in the near future.

ORANGE.

ORANGE, July 8.—Word was received here today that Miss Vera Placida Gardner, daughter of H. F. Gardner of Orange, had graduated from the medical department of the University of Michigan with unusual distinction. She was the first woman of that university to be elected a member of Alpha Omega Alpha, the national honor fraternity of medical schools. Dr. Gardner will return here this summer.

C. I. Graham of Los Angeles was today fined $50 after he had pleaded guilty to violating the county ordinance requiring apiarists shipping bees into this county to give notice to the bee inspector so that the bees may be inspected.

YOU'RE SAFE AT FIRTH'S

Where Lemons Grow
With Little Ade

I call this "Orange Land"—but it's equally good for Lemons or for Grape Fruit. It is "Safe"—this means that soil and water conditions are as perfect as you could ask. Terms you can easily afford; $5 per acre cash and $5 per acre monthly. The price of the land, with water, is only $200 an acre. This land lies near Riverside, in a beautiful, high valley, protected by surrounding foothills. It's above the frosts—rich, warm disintegrated granite soil, with abundant water for irrigation. City advantages close by, with good train service to Los Angeles. Conditions are perfect for comfortable living and for the profitable growing of citrus fruits. Select five or ten acres here and get your grove started. I'll arrange to have it cared for properly, if you desire, or plant the grove for you so that you can continue in your present occupation.

In a few years your grove will be on a commercial basis—paying you a handsome income, and readily salable at twice its cost to you. These are facts, as investigation will demonstrate to your satisfaction. Come in and get my interesting booklet and arrange to go on one of my Free Excursions to the property.

Prominent Symptoms Catarrh

THE HEAD AND THROAT

This form of catarrh is most common—resulting from neglected colds—quickly cured with little cost by Drs. Shores' new treatment.

Is your head stopped up?
Does your nose discharge?
Is your nose sore and tender?
Is there pain in front of the head?
Do you hawk to clear the throat?
Is your throat dry in the morning?
Do you sleep with your mouth open?
You can be easily cured now. Don't let it run into complications.

THE BRONCHIAL TUBES

When catarrh of the head or throat is neglected or wrongfully treated it extends down the windpipe into the bronchial tubes and after a while attacks the lungs.

Have you a cough?
Do you take cold easily?
Have you a pain in the side?
Do you raise frothy materials?
Do you spit up little cheesy lumps?
Do you feel like you were growing weaker?

Don't risk neglecting these warnings—stop the disease before it reaches the lungs.

OF THE EARS

Catarrh extends from the throat along the eustachian tubes into the ears, causing partial or complete deafness.

Is your hearing failing?
Do your ears discharge?
Is the wax drying in your ears?
Do you hear better on some days?
Does a cold make your hearing worse?
Don't neglect this until your hearing is irreparably destroyed.

OF THE STOMACH

Catarrh of the stomach is usually caused by swallowing poisonous mucous which drops down from the head and throat at night.

Is there nausea?
Do you belch up gas?
Are you constipated?
Do you bloat up after eating?
Is there constant bad taste?
Now is the time to be permanently cured. Drs. Shores are curing hundreds every year.

DRINKS LIQUOR FOR HIS NERVES

Keep in Mind the Fact That Each Drink of Liquor You Take Only Creates Nerve-Demand for Larger Drinks and More of Them.

COME TO THE NEAL INSTITUTE NOW!

In THREE DAYS You Will Be Perfectly Relieved of the Drink Habit and All Those Symptoms Which Seem to Require Liquor as "Medicine" Will Disappear.

THE LIQUOR DRINKER AND HIS BUSINESS

NO MAN can afford to drink liquor—particularly a business or professional man whose success and possibilities of achievement depend upon a STRONG BRAIN—a brain that is always clear and ready for business. A whisky brain sometimes "feels" clear and bright and capable—but it isn't; it is all wrong. The "feeling" of alertness and ambition is short-lived STIMULATION of an organ that is weakened and paralyzed by the most insidious of all poisons—the POISON OF ALCOHOL. Under the guidance of a liquor drinker the best business in the world will fail—executive ability, stamina and logic are lacking.

Why does a drink of liquor seem to quiet your nerves?

Why do your nerves need "quieting?"

Your system has been accumulating alcoholic poison during your years of drinking. All these years you have been punishing your nerves with the worst possible kind of punishment you could inflict; they have come to DEMAND alcohol and will not be SUBDUED without it and you WHIP them into subjection by additional doses of poison. There will come a day when the vital organs of your body will no longer respond to alcohol, and it is well for you to anticipate that time by coming to the Neal Institute NOW.

The Neal Treatment eliminates the drink habit and does away with all the evil resulting from alcoholic poisoning in THREE DAYS. A longer period would be superfluous. It drives every trace of alcoholic poison from the system, thus doing away with the CAUSE of continued drinking, the CAUSE of drunkenness, the CAUSE of craving, desire and physical and nerve-demand for liquor. All these symptoms are but the EFFECTS of the accumulated poison—the CAUSE is stored-up alcoholic poison. The original Neal Three Day Liquor Treatment has been proven superior to all others. As it is a physician's treatment for the drink habit, an up-to-date treatment for up-to-date people. All others of ten, twenty and thirty years ago are old-fashioned and obsolete.

There are no hypodermic injections, no disagreeable features, no SUBSTITUTIVE STIMULANTS, no poison of any kind—a child could take the Neal treatment with perfect safety.

For further particulars call, write or phone the house physician, who administers the original Neal Three Day Treatment for the Drink Habit at the Neal Institute, 945 South Olive street, Los Angeles, Cal. There is no other place in Los Angeles or Southern California where you can obtain the original Neal Three Day Treatment for the Drink Habit. Open day and night. Phones Broadway 4602, or A4072. They treat all drug addictions with equal success.

CUPID'S SECRET WILL NOT KEEP.

Musical Prodigy is Married to Her Manager.

Remark Lets Friend Know What's Happened.

News of June Wedding in East Big Surprise.

A chance remark dropped yesterday let friends of Olga Steeb, wonder musician, and Charles H. Keefer, her manager, know that the two were secretly maried in Omaha on June 16, after making a trip across the Atlantic and half way across the American continent that their marriage might be solemnized with the least possible notoriety.

On June 1 they set sail from Antwerp on the Manitou, accompanied by Miss Steeb's mother, made an uneventful trip to Boston, and then took train without delay to Omaha. Arriving in the Nebraska city, Keefer immediately told his father, who lives in Omaha, that he was about to marry the sweetest and best little girl in the whole world, and the elder Keefer, greatly pleased, conducted his son, his future daughter-in-law and Mrs. Steeb to a little German Methodist Church, where the marriage was performed, a license having hastily been secured.

Mrs. Charles H. Keefer,

formerly Miss Olga Steeb, wonderful Los Angeles pianist, who traveled from Berlin to Omaha to wed with least possible ostentation the man of her choice.

About ten days ago Mr. and Mrs. Keefer, accompanied by the bride's mother, came to Los Angeles and have been staying at the Steeb home, No. 2645 Garnet street. Nothing was said of the marriage to friends.

TIRED OF SPOT LIGHT.

"We had had so much publicity for the past two years," Keefer explained last night, "that we were tired of being in the spot light. We knew that mention of our marriage would only mean a lot more of the thing we had left Berlin to escape, so we said nothing about it. If we had been married in Berlin it would have been impossible to keep it secret, as public notices are posted for six weeks and there is all manner of red tape and official investigations."

But the secret was too good to keep. Keefer forgot himself yesterday, and the friends of the couple were treated to a big surprise. Congratulations were showered upon them.

In November, 1909, Miss Steeb, a pupil of Philo Becker of this city, went to Berlin with her mother. At that time the girl was unknown to any one in Europe. Keefer was a musical critic and instructor, and Miss Steeb happened into his office. He heard her play, pronounced it marvelous, wrote a big story about the little American prodigy, and within ten days his "find" was the talk of musical Europe.

In Berlin on December 10, 1909, in the Bluthmer Saal, Miss Steeb gave her first European concert. Her fame was assured from that premier performance. She became known as a pianiste who who followed the method of no master, yet had one all her own that was a combination of the best of all the masters.

Miss Steeb has a repertoire of 1100 compositions, all of which she plays from memory. She plays more compositions than any other three of the world's greatest pianists.

In March of this year in Berlin Miss Steeb gave a series of nine orchestra concertos in thirteen days, a feat never before attempted.

Xavier Scharwenka, one of the greatest composers of the day, declared that Olga Steeb would have been a wonder on the piano if she never had had a lesson. This admission from the great Pole came after Miss Steeb had memorized in eight hours Scharwenka's concerto in F minor. It had taken the composer three months to memorize this work, which is fifty minutes in the playing.

Keefer's claims to fame will not be based solely on the fact that he is the husband and manager of a musical prodigy. About two years ago he discovered a system of harmonizing old church modes, an art that had been lost for 200 years. This achievement brought him into repute in Europe, and he was at once taken into the Stern conservatory in Berlin, where he was a teacher of composition until he left there to come to America with Miss Steeb. As a mark of recognition, a French musical society is planning to bestow a gold medal upon Keefer.

This summer Miss Steeb will tour the Coast in concert, and in March of next year will return to Europe. The Keefers expect to make their home in Berlin.

OBITUARY.

Andrew Damm, a native of Gramm, Germany, and a resident of this city for the past twenty years, died at his late home, No. 1111 West Second street, Saturday morning, July 1, 1911. He was born August 10, 1842, and came to San Francisco in 1861, where he resided several years and then went to Santa Barbara. From thence he went to Arizona, the first time in 1876, and was employed in government work. In 1878 he went to Nevada, returning to Arizona in 1880, and engaged successfully in prospecting and mining, and during that time built the Mammoth stamp mill. About twenty years ago he came to Los Angeles, and has made his home here ever since. He became an Odd Fellow in 1875, being a charter member of Channel City Lodge, No. 232, I.O.O.F., of Santa Barbara, and held his membership in that lodge until his death. He was also a Mason. He was a man of strict integrity and absolute honesty. All who knew him loved and respected him for his many good qualities. He leaves a brother in Germany and several nephews.

HOLLMAN Business College
100 Coulter Building, 213 So. Broadway
We wish to call special attention to the location of our school after much thought and deliberation. The Hollman Business College is on the first floor of the B. F. Coulter Building, 213 South Broadway. No elevators or one flight of stairs. The College Building is a substantial business block, provided with two modern elevators. The school is exceptionally well lighted and ventilated. The school is easily accessible from all parts of the city for one car fare, and no other school is so conveniently located. Situated as it is on Broadway, the most prominent business street in this city, directly opposite the City Hall, and being in the center of the activities of the city, the school naturally partakes of Los Angeles' spirit and enterprise.
Our close proximity to all prominent Office Buildings, Banks, Railroads, Express Companies, Wholesale Houses, and various Mercantile Firms, brings us in direct communication with employers of help. This affords us opportunities for placing our graduates in available positions, and at the same time enables us to keep our methods and work of our school abreast of the modern business world.
Prospective students should appreciate our central location as it is convenient to them. Here the business is done. Here you should secure your business training. Here you get in touch with the commercial spirit, and become imbued with the methods and customs of the business world.
A BUSINESS SCHOOL SHOULD BE LOCATED IN THE HEART OF BUSINESS ACTIVITIES.
Our Special 6 months course for $55.00 not only saves you money, but offers advantages that can not be had in any other school.

Be Careful!

DANGER FROM AUTOMOBILES OFTEN PEDESTRIAN'S FAULT.

Invesigation of Conditions on Crowded Streets Shows That Persons Afoot Take Foolhardy Chances, While Many New Drivers Are Reckless—Mutual Consideration and Precaution Necessary.

INVESTIGATION of the friction, always more or less apparent, between automobile drivers, pedestrians and traffic officers in Los Angeles, has brought to light practically an equal portion of foolhardiness on the part of handlers of machines and carelessness on the part of persons walking, and sometimes a too officious interpretation of the traffic laws on the part of the crossing patrolman.

The congested conditions of the downtown streets and intersections, the vast number of owners of new automobiles with which they have not become familiar, and the utter disregard of consequences on the part of the pedestrians in crossing thoroughfares where a half hundred street cars, automobiles and wagons are maneuvering for the right of way has caused many accidents, the majority of which could have been prevented by proper care on the part of driver and pedestrian alike.

Yesterday at Broadway and Fifth street probably one of the most typical incidents of the carelessness of those on foot was given a graphic exposition.

MOTHER'S CARELESSNESS.

A. C. Lusby of the Western Motor Car Company, was driving down Broadway in a 1912 Chalmers machine. As he crossed Fifth, running about five miles an hour, he saw a woman step from the curb, pushing a go-cart containing a pretty little baby, ahead of which walked a child of 7 years. The woman thrust the go-cart along and was looking back over her shoulder at something or some one on the walk, paying no attention to where she was going. Lusby saw the woman and stopped in an instant. Still looking back over her shoulder the careless mother pushed her baby directly against the front wheels of the automobile. A bystander, seeing what he thought was an inevitable accident to the woman and chidren, leaped from the curb in a wild effort to stop the woman. He slipped and fell headlong to the street.

Lusby leaned over his machine, and while the startled woman was extracting her baby carriage from the wheels he told her concisely and tartly of the narrow escape she had had, and advised her to always look in front of her when crossing a congested street.

This is but one instance of many in which the absolute foolishness of pedestrians is shown. It is the real reason of the stringent traffic rules now enforced at the various crossings.

NOW WHO'S TO BLAME?

The other day on Spring street a where it passes the Normal School, a trying curve has been the bane of numerous motorists.

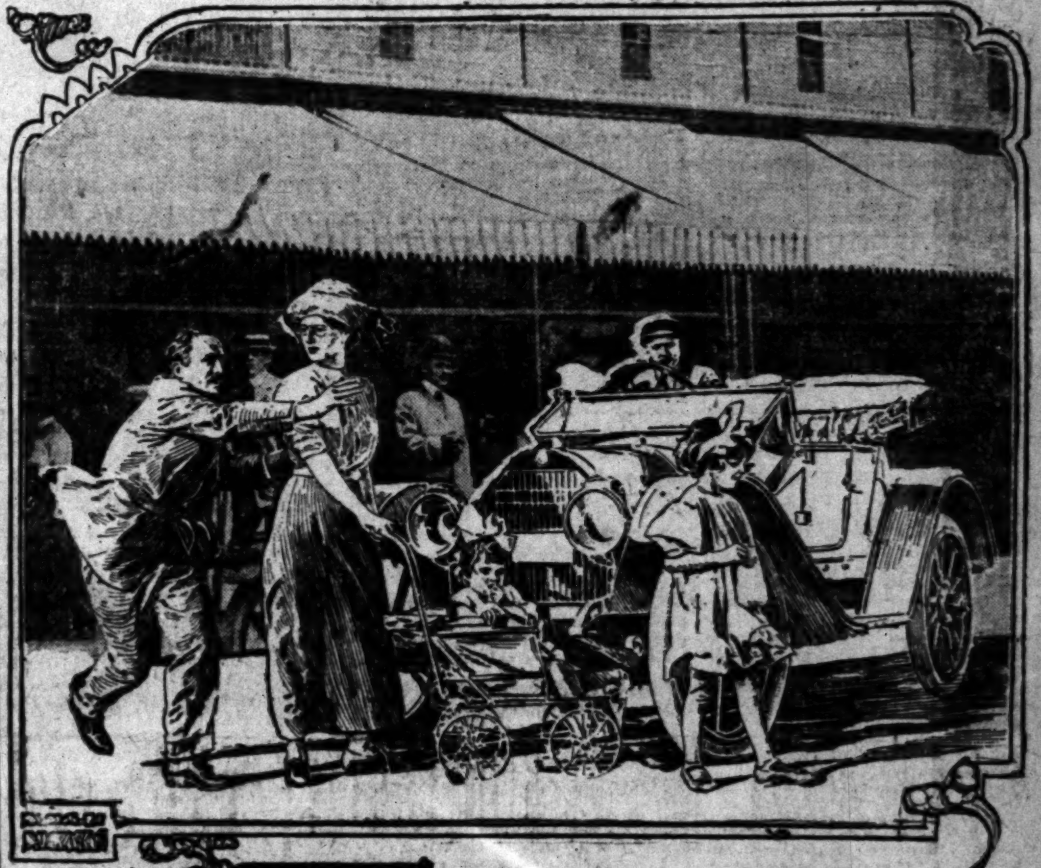
The grade approaching the turn is about 30 per cent., and the average motorist shoots his machine against it at high speed in order to avoid the embarrassing—to him—necessity of using the low gear. As a result the machines go around the corner at a speed little less than thirty miles an hour, and the telegraph pole that stands guard directly in front of the Normal School is battle-scarred from numerous machines crashing into it.

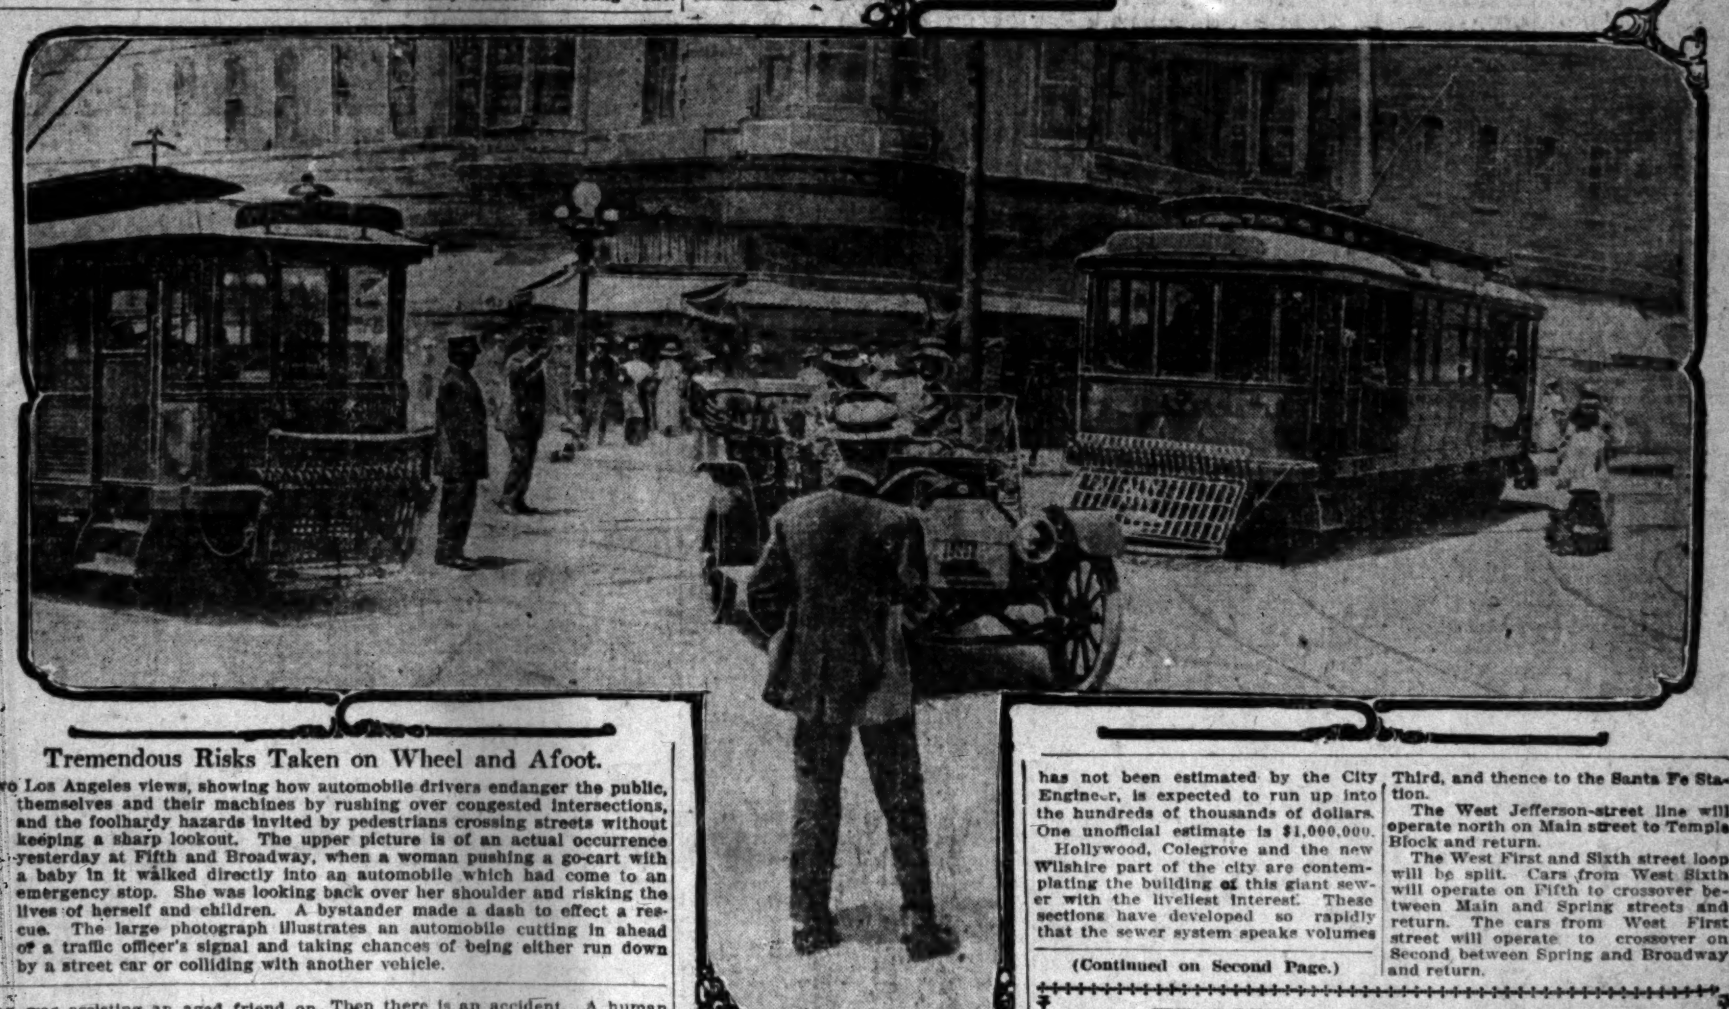
An added danger at this point is that machines coming down the grade are hidden from the rushing car coming up the street, and during the last year at least six bad smash-ups have occurred at this point. The solution, according to skilled drivers, is that every motorist should take the hills or grades in the congested part of the city on the low gear. There is also a car line on this curve, and times without number machines have crashed into cars as the chauffeurs were trying to negotiate the grade on "the high."

NEW ONES MAKE TROUBLE.

The traffic officers stationed at the dozen important crossings of downtown Los Angeles say that their greatest trouble is with the new owners of automobiles who have not learned the quick and accurate mastery of their cars. These drivers are enthused with the power which they control, and forget that the same power when not properly handled will cause trouble and damage.

The green handler of a new machine drives up to a congested crossing and watches carefully the officer in charge. When he gets the "high ball" from the traffic man he throws in his clutch, and nine times out of ten finds himself traveling within a few inches of another machine which may swerve a trifle. He finds in the middle of the crossing that cars are passing on all sides of him, and then he loses his head and begins to pull levers that he shouldn't, and the mildest and safest thing that ever happens is that he stalls in the center of the congested crossing and listens for a few heated moments to a plain but official American talk on the foolishness of drivers. If, on the other hand, he is really in a tight position, there is a collision, and his machine loses a fender or a headlight. Or perhaps there is an unwary pedestrian for whom there seems to be no controlling spirit who has darted out into the turmoil of the crossing. The driver endeavors to grab the proper lever and generally seizes the wrong one.





Tremendous Risks Taken on Wheel and Afoot.

Two Los Angeles views, showing how automobile drivers endanger the public, themselves and their machines by rushing over congested intersections, and the foolhardy hazards invited by pedestrians crossing streets without keeping a sharp lookout. The upper picture is of an actual occurrence yesterday at Fifth and Broadway, when a woman pushing a go-cart with a baby in it walked directly into an automobile which had come to an emergency stop. She was looking back over her shoulder and risking the lives of herself and children. A bystander made a dash to effect a rescue. The large photograph illustrates an automobile cutting in ahead of a traffic officer's signal and taking chances of being either run down by a street car or colliding with another vehicle.

man was assisting an aged friend on a street car. Then, without looking where he was going, started to back away from the car in front of three automobiles all moving at about ten miles per hour. Their horns sounded sharply and the man whirled about, facing one of them. The driver had halted his machine, and as the man turned toward him he threw in his clutch with a muttered admonition, and his machine leaped forward. At the same moment the man was suddenly seized with an idea to start ahead, and in a nervous frenzy leaped squarely in front of the auto. He was struck and thrown to one side. Three ribs were broken, and a suit for damages is the result.

The automobile men point out the absolute impossibility of their guarding against such an accident. They say that when pedestrians invade the streets they should do so with every sense alert.

The men in the automobiles are concerned in handling their machines, and while the control of these vehicles has been brought down to an almost perfect condition, it requires a great deal of the drivers' attention to prevent collisions with other machines, cars or wagons, and he has but little time left to look out for careless ones on foot.

On the West Sixth-street grade, Then there is an accident. A human being is maimed and eager for damages, if nothing more serious.

REGULARS GO EASY.

The commercial chauffeur is seldom in trouble. He is tried and seasoned in the difficulties of his trade. He knows his car as a man knows his own bedroom, and his hands work on the levers and controls absolutely automatically, and without sudden panic. He is friends with the traffic squad, and would rather jump off the wharf at Santa Monica than dart across a street before he receives the "high ball" from the officer. He realizes that he has a machine that costs several thousand dollars, and that his own precious life, not to mention the lives of his passengers, are at stake. Seldom does he come to swords points with the traffic squad, and when he does it may be the officer who is wrong. In this connection it must be realized that the traffic officer is not free from error.

The policeman watching his four corners of the crossing sometimes makes the wrong gesture or withholds the proper one, and the seasoned chauffeur, knowing the conditions perhaps as well as, or better, than the officer, takes it for granted that he should

END OF GARBAGE QUESTION?

Board of Supervisors May Shut It Out of County Tomorrow, So City Must Incinerate.

Acting upon the suggestion to the grand jury, members of the Board of Supervisors yesterday individually expressed their intention of passing an ordinance which will keep the county outside of incorporated cities free from municipal garbage.

The question of passing an ordinance is expected to come up in the meeting tomorrow. Anticipating such action on the part of the officials, Deputy District Attorney Hanna has drafted an ordinance. As it is known that this expresses the sentiments of the Supervisors, it will undoubtedly be adopted.

The passage of the measure will bottle up the city's table refuse within its gates. The county has endeavored to assist the city in finding a solution to the question which for months has been a bugaboo and now the officials find them severely censured for their actions.

If the officials adopt the measure which is prepared for them, the only course which will be left for the city will be to construct an incinerator, and this step is understood to be already determined on by the administration.

EIGHTEEN SQUARE MILES TO COVER.

Council Approves An Immense Sewer Project.

Takes in the New Southwest Part of City.

Mile and a Half of It to Be Tunneled.

The City Council yesterday approved in the Hollywood main sewer system, the largest assessment district in the history of Los Angeles. This sewer, which will take care of an area of 11,600 acres, is to be twelve miles long. The cost, which has not been estimated by the City Engineer, is expected to run up into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. One unofficial estimate is $1,000,000.

Hollywood, Colegrove and the new Wilshire part of the city are contemplating the building of this giant sewer with the liveliest interest. These sections have developed so rapidly that the sewer system speaks volumes

CHANGING THE CAR ROUTES.

Broadway Paving Results in Many Diversions From the Regular Runs, Effective This Morning.

Because of the relaying of the Los Angeles Railway tracks on Broadway and the effort made to rush the work to completion, numerous re-routings of cars have become necessary and will be effective this morning. All routing will be temporary and the lines will be put back under the regular schedules as soon as possible.

The North Depot line will switch back on Fourth street between Main and Spring streets.

The Cummings-street car will operate on Cummings street only, and transfers will be issued to main-line cars.

The East Seventh and Santa Fe Station cars will operate from Santa Fe to Seventh and Los Angeles streets, where a crossover has been installed.

The West Eleventh-street line will operate south on Broadway, but will run north on Main street, making the turn at Temple Block.

The Eagle Rock Valley line will be operated on Main street instead of on Spring street.

The Washington-street line will run in as usual to Fifth and Hill streets, but will run north on Hill street to Third, and thence to the Santa Fe Station.

The West Jefferson-street line will operate north on Main street to Temple Block and return.

The West First and Sixth street loop will be split. Cars from West Sixth will operate on Fifth to crossover between Main and Spring streets and return. The cars from West First street will operate to crossover on Second between Spring and Broadway and return.

CHURCH DEDICATION TODAY.

New German Methodist Church, Fifth and Olive Streets, Will Be Dedicated by Bishop Hughes.

The new German Methodist Church, which has just been completed at Fifth and Olive streets, will be dedicated this afternoon at 2:30, conducted by Bishop E. H. Hughes of San Francisco.

There will be a service this morning at 10:45, when Rev. Dr. Otto Wilke, district superintendent, will preach, and there will be an elaborate musical programme.

At the afternoon service, Bishop Hughes will preach, and a number of other ministers will take part in the ceremonies, which will be in English throughout. A platform meeting will be held this evening.

Tomorrow evening there will be a pipe-organ concert, and addresses by Rev. C. F. Kuhnle, Rev. E. C. Jannusch, Rev. H. Jacoby and Dr. George F. Bovard.

On Tuesday evening, a lecture will be delivered by Rev. Dr. Matt S. Hughes of Pasadena.

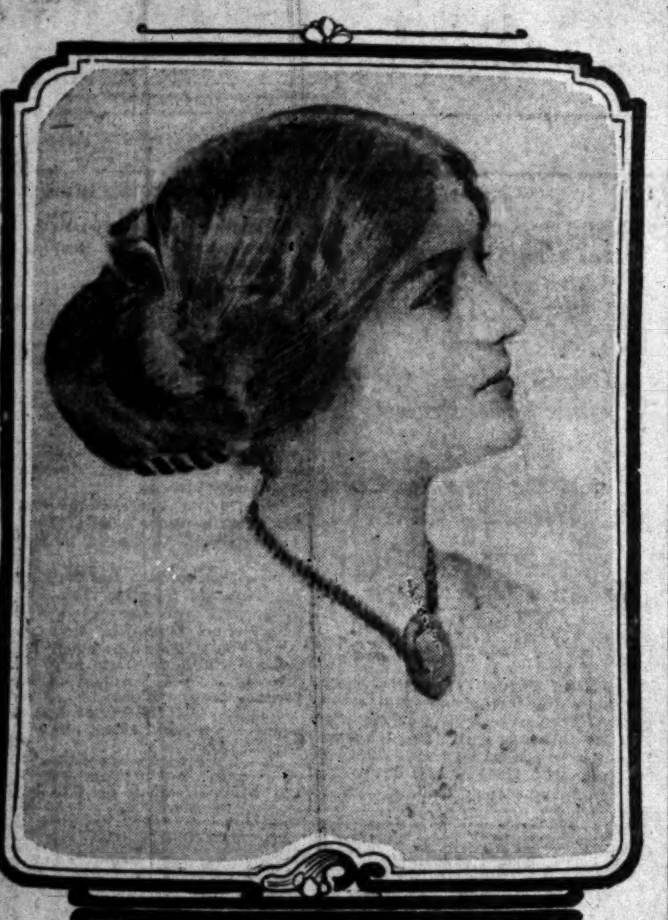
FROWNS AND SCOWLS

furrow your brow, wrinkle your face and serve no good purpose. Why indulge in them? A bright, happy, smiling countenance facilitates the transaction of business, promotes good health and makes you attractive to your fellows. Why not develop one? Smiles and good humor cost nothing and they not only add to the joy of living, but they are commercial assets. Forget your troubles. The sorrows of today are followed by the joys of tomorrow, and if you will look forward instead of backward life will have a new meaning to you. Don't argue, criticise or find fault, but be kind and read and use Times "Liners" and happiness and prosperity will be your daily portion.

The Times classified advertisements enlarge your sphere of activity and advance your material interests by putting you in touch with the person who has what you want or wants what you have.

These little "Want Ads" are alive with human interest and replete with money-making opportunities. They bring landlord and tenant and help and employment seekers together, recite the attractions of apartments, rooming and boarding-houses, exploit business chances, stocks, bonds and investments, and expedite the buying, selling and exchanging of houses, lots, acreage, automobiles, vehicles, musical instruments, furniture, household articles, live stock, poultry and innumerable other things.

TIMES "LINERS" PAY BIG



"Dolly Dimples" Beesley Chaffee,

telephone operator at the Angelus Hotel, who ran away with E. W. Chaffee, young son of a wealthy St. Paul grain operator, on Friday night. They were married in San Bernardino. Nothing has been heard from them since the announcement of the marriage by telegraph.

"Line's Busy."

"DOLLY DIMPLES" LEAVES SWITCHES WHEN DART OF CUPID STRIKES HER.

"DOLLY DIMPLES" ran away from the Angelus Hotel and was married in San Bernardino to E. W. Chaffee Friday night. Word of this reached "Dolly's" mother, Mrs. Hedley Beesley, No. 967 East Fifty-fifth street, yesterday by telegraph.

"Dolly Dimples" was not the girl's real name. She was blessed by a string of others—Jessie Lillian May Beesley—but none of them quite appropriate to her particular style of prettiness.

Her smile was one of those infectious kind that dimpled her face very markedly in several places, and won her the sobriquet "Dimples." The "Dolly" came from the fact that she was such a demure little creature, perfectly formed, satiny-skinned and a joy to the eye.

In her position behind the desk of the downtown hotel, it took only a few weeks before she had a host of admirers, all of whom remained admirers from the outside of the desk, for "Dolly" seemed to care for none of them.

Last April there arrived a young chap from St. Paul. He registered under the name of E. W. Corson and came here to assist in the identification of J. A. Caddigan who, with an accomplice, attempted an alleged gold-brick swindle on Mrs. Kendal, widow of a Toledo millionaire who was staying at the Lankershim.

It was stated at the time that the father of Corson had been swindled out of $25,000 by the same man, in practically the same manner. Corson appears to have laid the swindle to Caddigan.

Shortly after that his mother, Mrs. Chaffee of St. Paul, came to Los Angeles and went to reside at the Cambria Union apartments. Her son assumed his proper name and joined her there.

During his stay at the Angelus he had made the acquaintance of "Dolly Dimples." He was young, scarcely 23, acording to reports. He was small of stature and rather good-looking for a boy. These attributes made him more welcome perhaps than the many drummers, the countless married men who daily had recourse to the phone which "Dolly" looked after.

With his mother, Chaffee went to Coronado and to other surrounding places. His letters to "Dolly" were frequent and warmly appealing, according to report. When he returned he is known to have taken her out to the theater and also to dinner in company with his mother.

Last week Mrs. Chaffee returned to St. Paul. Her son refused to go back with her, urging personal business here. He remained. Friday night he was waiting at the Spring-street entrance of the hotel for "Dolly," presumably to accompany her home.

Yesterday morning the authorities at the hotel were called up by Mrs. Beesley. "Lillian did not come home last night," she stated in very anxious voice. "Can you tell me anything of her whereabouts?" At the hotel they knew nothing and so Mrs. Beesley, who has been ill, continued to worry.

An hour later she called and told the story as she knew it. "I have just received a telegram from San Bernardino stating that Lillian and Mr. Chaffee were married there yesterday evening. They said nothing more and I don't know what their plans are. I found that Lillian had managed to slip away some of her clothes and that answers part of the question."

Lillian's father is a real estate dealer, having his office at Central and Fifty-fifth street. She is one of eight children, and is only 19. Chaffee is said to come from a prominent and wealthy St. Paul family. His father is a grain operator.

GET NEWS OF BORDER CATCH.

WORD COMES OF ARREST OF NOTORIOUS SMUGGLER.

Capture Made in Escondido Valley Forty Miles from International Line—Five Chinese Laborers Taken Into Custody at Same Time by Immigration Inspectors.

Information was received yesterday by Capt. Charles T. Connell, in charge of the immigration office, that Juan Rios, the notorious Mexican smuggler, had been captured by Inspectors Conklin and Weddell in the Escondido Valley.

In the opinion of Capt. Connell, this is one of the most important captures made in a long time, for Rios was extremely clever, and he had succeeded in evading the authorities so long that it seemed as if he was able to elude the government sleuths almost at will.

With Rios, a smuggler whose name is not known, was captured, as well as five Chinese laborers, whom they were conducting through the passes and mountains into United States territory. They had reached a point about fifty miles from the American boundary when taken into custody.

On account of the fact that United States Commissioner Christian of San Diego is away on his vacation, the seven men will be brought to Los Angeles for further action.

The capture of Rios and his gang follows quickly upon the visit of Capt. Connell to San Diego, a few days ago, and it is the first round-up of the smugglers since the end of the war along the Mexican border. It has been understood for some time that Rios was arranging to begin operations on a large scale on account of the disturbed condition of the section traversed by the smugglers and their game, and the trip to San Diego was to "get a line" on Rios, if possible. Inspectors Conklin and Weddell were especially assigned to the job of running Rios to cover, and they have succeeded, after a hot chase.

It has come to the ears of the immigration authorities that the smuggers have recently been able to establish friendly stations among Mexican and American ranchmen living along the line of the underground railway, where it was possible to have the Chinese cared for and fed, and hidden, if necessary, to keep them from falling into the hands of the officers. This feature of conditions existing in that part of the State will be investigated.

Not Wise.

RECALL OF BENCH WILL BE HARMFUL

LAWYER SAYS JUDGES WILL BE UNJUSTLY INFLUENCED.

In Address Before City Club New Head of Utilities Board Declares Measure, If Attempted, Will Drive Good Men Out of Office and Hamper Justice.

Before the City Club yesterday, a majority of the members of which hold strongly opposing views, Lewis R. Works, president of the Board of Public Utilities, gave cogent reasons why judges should not be recalled.

He said that, from the beginning of the bench, there have been imperfections in the judiciary, and that perfection never can be expected. If men were always right, he contended, we would not have to depend on human law, but would have divine law all the time. The people are always endeavoring to do right, but they are doing that right through measures, and not by the law, as the courts are required to do. There is an inherent difference between the legislative and the executive, and the judicial branches of the government.

If the recall is held over the courts, he declared, it is bound to influence them. The only influence now exercised is the evidence and the law of the case. Judges are human, and may be affected by so-called trivial things. They ought to be relieved, as far as possible, from any extraneous circumstances.

If the principles of the recall are applied to the judiciary, the judges will be driven by that fact to legislation. If a judge is recalled because his decision was displeasing to a majority of the people, the judge who takes his place will understand that the people do not want any more decisions of that nature. That judge will decide by the vote by which the other judge was recalled, and there you will have judiciary legislation.

There are two classes of judges, the good, and the weak and evil. The good judge need not fear the recall, but there will be an influence over him in the existence of the fact that he may be recalled.

"I believe," he said, "that the best judges in California, if the principles of the recall should become part of our law, should be unjustly influenced in their decisions. If the recall is ever placed in operation against any judge on account of any particular decision, it will be applied to a good judge. It will operate upon the weak or evil judge more strongly than upon the just judge because being weak he will be subjected to influence and will be endeavoring to please the people. The recall will tend to drive good men from the bench and bring poor and weak men on the bench. The result will be that decisions of the courts no longer will be looked upon with respect, and the rights of the people will suffer.

"Judges must decide every case that comes to them according to the law presented to them. They ought not to be called on to decide according to the mere pleasure of the people.

"I think the question as to the recall comes down to the question that the decision is not pleasant. That is an improper basis for the exercise of the recall. When the recall is attempted to be invoked by the people, they will take a partisan interest in the suit. If they go into the question that the decision is not pleasant to them, they make themselves partisans. They determine to dispose of the judges by a majority rule. If you decide to dispose of the question by majority rule, no man's property is secure."

Dr. John R. Haynes spoke in favor of the recall at the conclusion of Mr. Works's address.

The uniform success that has attended the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy has made it a favorite everywhere. It can always be depended upon. For sale by all dealers.—[Adv.

Digging Into Past.

GOES FAR BACK IN LEGAL LORE.

CENTURIES UNROLLED IN THE ARGUMENT YESTERDAY.

Assistant District Attorney Cites Many Precendents is His Argument in the Case of the McNamaras, Alleged Dynamiters, Going Almost to the Time of American Revolution.

Legal statistics and precedents running back almost to the time of the American Revolution figured in the arguments in the case of the McNamaras, alleged dynamiters, before Judge Bordwell in the Superior Court yesterday.

When court convened yesterday morning the attorneys for the defense filed motions to quash the indictment against J. J. McNamara, charging him with dynamiting the Lewellyn plant. The motions were accompanied by an affidavit from the prisoner setting forth certain alleged facts in support of the motions.

After the filing of this document Asst. Dist.-Atty. Ford continued ihs argument commenced the previous afternoon, on the setting aside of the motions of the defense to quash the indictment against the McNamara brothers. In his statement of legal statistics and precedents, Ford took the court as far back as 1790. Citing the Calder-Bulwer case of that period—the legal questions at issue being similar to those of the McNamara case, as a precedent—Ford laid a foundation for his subsequent argument. The attorneys for the defense appeared surprised by the vigor and far-reaching system of the argument, and on several occasions indicated unpreparedness on the cases tried.

That the arguments on perfunctory matters attending the hearing of the alleged dynamiters' pleas will consume the greater part of this week is feared by Dist.-Atty. Fredericks. Asst. Dist.-Atty. Ford at adjournment time Saturday was not half through reading authorities into the record. Capt. Fredericks has several surprises to spring tomorrow afternoon on the defense.

BIG SEWER PROJECT.

for further development. As it covers such a vast territory, the cost by the assessment plan will be comparatively small.

Compared with the Sunset boulevard paving, the Hollywood main sewer system is a giant. The Sunset proposition was regarded as one of the largest assessment districts at that time, but the proposed sewer district is three or four times larger.

The sewer will start at Santa Monica avenue and Arlington street and extend north on Arlington to Jefferson street; west to Fourth avenue; north to the intersection of Tenth avenue and West Adams street; west to Twelfth avenue; north to Twenty-third street and across a private right of way to Crenshaw place to Eleventh street. The sewer will cross Washington and Pico streets and under the Arroyo de la Brea into Eleventh street.

From Eleventh street to the outlet, a forty-two-inch concrete and brick construction wil be laid. One mile and a half of this distance will be funnel, which will augment the cost of the system. From Eleventh street the sewer will extend east, across the old Country Club property to Wilton Place, thence across Wilshire boulevard to Fourth street, thence west to Norton avenue, north to Melrose avenue. At Melrose avenue the sewer divides. An east branch will continue in a northerly and eastern direction into Western avenue; continuing up Western avenue to Franklin street. The main portion of the sewer will be eight-inch pipe.

The west branch will continue west on Melrose avenue to Seward street, thence north along the west boundary of Colegrove to Sunset boulevard in Hollywood. Near these points there will be two branches, one draining the vicinity of Hollywood Hotel, and the other the locality near the Hollywood City Hall. After the construction of the sewer, lateral sewers may be built draining the rest of the populous territory.

The Hollywood main sewer will be the trunk or intercepting sewer for this entire district.

Engineer Knowlton, who prepared the details of this great public improvement, says it is one of the largest assessment problems that the department has had to tackle.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is the best of all medicines for the cure of diseases, disorders and weaknesses peculiar to women. It is the only preparation of its kind devised by a regularly graduated physician—an experienced and skilled specialist in the diseases of women.

It is a safe medicine in any condition of the system.
THE ONE REMEDY which contains no alcohol and no injurious habit-forming drugs and which creates no craving for such stimulants.
THE ONE REMEDY so good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on each outside bottle-wrapper and attest to the truthfulness of the same under oath.

It is sold by medicine dealers everywhere, and any dealer who hasn't it can get it. Don't take a substitute of unknown composition for this medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION. No counterfeit is as good as the genuine and the druggist who says something else is "just as good as Dr. Pierce's" is either mistaken or is trying to deceive you for his own selfish benefit. Such a man is not to be trusted. He is trifling with your most priceless possession—your health—may be your life itself. See that you get what you ask for.

OVERSUBSCRIBED.

A dispatch states that 200 women started a riot in Cleveland. It was oversubscribed. Just two women, and frequently one woman is sufficient to start a riot in Cleveland or in any other city of the world.

WEATHER FORECASTS.

Doesn't it seem wholly superfluous and entirely unnecessary that the Weather Bureau should send out the "fair weather" daily forecasts in California at this time of year? Everybody knows exactly that there will be no other brand in the land of glory right along until, say, the ides of November.

PATRIOTIC FISH.

There should be no fault found with the fish which have formed the habit of biting bathers' toes at our beach resorts. The finny denizens of the briny deep merely have in mind the idea of adding to the excitement of the scenic railways and other amusements.

THE OTHER ISLAND.

It is to be hoped, and it is fully believed, that King George and Queen Mary will be well received in Ireland. Not in a thousand years has a British monarch crossed the channel with such strong claims to the good will of the Irish.

There are two reasons for these statements. The first is that Ireland is about to be granted home rule, and the other reason is that King George refused to take the ancient anti-Catholic oath upon the occasion of his assumption of power.

AS TO CHERRIES.

The greengrocers have an abundance of cherries on sale, and the papers are full of the different ways in which they should be served. For us, we never found any improvement on the old style of climbing the tree and serving yourself about ten feet from the ground. And don't you remember how you used to shoo the birds away, while you filled up the cavernous spaces of a boy's stomach?

BLUEBERRY PIE FOR EVERYBODY.

Botanist Colville of the Bureau of Plant Industry has discovered the secret of the blueberry that will be of interest to the people who never had blueberry pie enough to satisfy them. He says the blueberry likes acid soil, soil that is so poor that it is worthless for anything else. Got a piece of "sour" soil on your place? If so, plant the blueberry and await results.

A KANSAS POET.

The Kansas poet, Eugene F. Ware, better known as "Ironquill," is dead. For a while he was Commissioner of Pensions, but it will be as a writer of strong verse that he will be best remembered. He was discovered by McClure's Magazine nearly a score of years ago, otherwise he would not have been known outside of Kansas. Ware was a peculiar man, and he cared but little for fame in the field of literature. His best poem bore the title, "The Song of the Washerwoman."

A REMINISCENCE.

Recollections of one of the most spectacular failures ever recorded on the Chicago Board of Trade are revived by the statement that Edward B. Harper, who lost $6,000,000 in twenty minutes in 1887, has gone broke. The failure of Harper dragged down the Fidelity Bank of Cincinnati, O., and Harper served six years in the Ohio penitentiary for the operation. His attempt to corner the wheat market was the cause of his undoing. Harper's present financial condition will recall his pyrotechnics to many an Ohio man in Los Angeles.

SHEATHING THE SWORD.

Whether the United States and Great Britain will ever again draw the sword against each other, will soon rest with the American Senate. The treaty that body will be called upon to ratify will bind both nations as far as any treaty may be irrevocable, and will conduce to the future peace of the world. It is announced that the draft of the important and epoch-making document is now completed except in a few unimportant particulars, to be revised by the British government, and it will soon be ready for submission to the Senate. It will mark an achievement upon which President Taft and Ambassador Bryce have been busily engaged for some months. It is hoped that the whole pact will be formally concluded before the close of the present extra session of Congress. That accomplished, there will be no more twisting of the English lion's tail, and John Bull will never again make a sour face at Uncle Sam.

A FREE-FOR-ALL RACE.

If the amendment to the Constitution of the United States providing for the election of Senators by popular vote shall be adopted and ratified, why not carry it to its logical conclusion, and make the elections of both Senators and Congressmen absolutely popular?

Dispense in such contests with both primaries and petitions. Make it a free-for-all race. Let every man who desires have an even chance and try his luck. Require only a deposit with the County Treasurer sufficient to cover the cost of printing the candidate's name upon the official ballot and turn the aspirants loose. Let the best man, or the man who has the most industrious and tireless jawbone, or the man who can buy the advocacy of the greatest number of free and independent newspapers, win out, and let the hindmost aspirant go seek the soothing society of the Enemy of Mankind.

THIEVES IN HIGH PLACES.

No, dear sir or madam, by thieves in high places we do not refer to [illegible] trust magnates, or slush-fund Senators, or fixers of prize fights, or journalistic lemon rebaters or any such small fry. The thieves in question belong to the honorable and ancient British aristocracy, who can boast three quarterings on their shields and whose motto is "Noblesse Oblige."

But when during the recent coronation ceremonies, in august assemblies to which none but the elect were admitted, pearl necklaces, diamond pendants, quarter-plate Soho cameras and other virtu and articles of value mysteriously disappeared, so that their owners in vain advertised politely and plaintively for their restoration, we begin to wonder how far the obligations of nobility extend. Of course apologists for all peccadilloes of the great and mighty will whisper "kleptomania," and that magic word will cleanse the ermine robes of all peers and peeresses who for a moment give way to the temptations which cost lesser mortals many weary hours on unsympathetic rock piles.

We have a kind of far-away respect for the bad baron of old, who sallied forth in the night and swiped a few thousand acres of fertile bottom land and herds of fat cattle and a few village-loads of muscular serfs and then retired safely with his ill-gotten plunder behind the massive walls of his moated castle and dared his despoiled antagonist to come and recover the booty. But for any modern peer who would sneak a kodak camera and plate holder—and only a quarter-plate camera, at that—from the deck of a hospitable battleship, during a Spithead review, we consider the word "thief" is far too dignified an epithet.

WHERE THE RECALL KICKS.

In the State of Washington the recall flourishes like unto an entire grove of green bay trees. In Seattle the Mayor was too lax in his enforcement of the liquor laws. The temperance people went for him hard. They voted to recall him and out he went. The Mayor of Tacoma, taking warning from the fate of his friend in Seattle, proceeded to rigidly enforce the liquor laws. The saloon-keepers were enraged, but they did not venture to attempt recalling the Mayor. They bided their time, and the time came, for—

"There never yet was human power
That could escape the patient search and vigil long
Of him who treasures up a wrong."

The Mayor of Tacoma was recalled for stopping a prize fight. It is true that prize fighting in Washington is a violation of law. But the sporting people of Tacoma were yearning for a prize fight. It helped the town, they argued. It brought crowds of people there from Steilacoom, and Olympia, and Skookem Chuck, and even from Seattle. Ten thousand people gathered at the prize ring to see the fight. Then the Mayor appeared and stopped the fight. That settled his hash. The crowd left in a body, went downtown and signed the recall.

In the State of New York both parties have declared against the recall of judges. The Democratic platform says:

"We demand the enactment of a constitutional amendment which shall place our courts upon a permanent basis, secure from attacks of any source, and independent of the legislative branch of the State government."

A similar plank appears in the platform of the Republican party adopted in that same year:

"We favor such amendments of the State constitution as will make the tenure of office of the judges of the present Supreme and Superior Courts as secure, with the exception of the age limit, as that of the judges of the Supreme Court of the United States."

If there ever was an unwise and unwarranted fad it is the recall of the judiciary, for it is at war with the spirit of free representative government and violates all the traditions of Anglo-Saxon rule. The members of the judiciary are the only guardians of the Constitution. The power to declare a law void for unconstitutionality, and so protect the people against unwise and improvident legislation, is vested in the judiciary alone. If, by means of the recall, the judges of the courts shall be stripped of that power, then the abnegation of all government except that of the mob would be as complete as it was during the rule of the Jacobins in Paris. By means of the initiative and the referendum the people could make and repeal laws at the polls. By means of the recall they could interpret the laws, constitutions would be mere abstract "declarations of political morality or action, having no force except such as public opinion may give them."

Prof. Dicey, in his "Lectures on the Law of the Constitution" says: "The American system, which makes the judges the guardians of the Constitution, provides the only adequate safeguard which has hitherto been invented against unconstitutional legislation. The glory of the founders of the United States is to have devised or adopted arrangements under which the Constitution became, in reality as well as in name, the supreme law of the land."

By means of the recall the voters by secret ballot could indirectly pass upon the constitutionality of a law. It would be equivalent to unlocking a bank vault, opening the front doors and leaving the premises unguarded all night, trusting to the honor of the passers-by for the safety of the funds.

The politicians who strike an attitude and bawl "let us trust the people" do not appreciate or do not care to see that the unfettered exercise of the popular will may often be a dangerous and destructive force. Edmund Burke said:

"Society requires not only that the passions of individuals should be subjected, but that even in the mass and body, as well as in the individuals, the inclinations of men should be thwarted, their will controlled and their passions brought into subjection. This can only be done by a power out of themselves, and not in the exercise of its functions subject to that will and to those passions which it is its office to bridle and subdue. In this sense, the restraints on men, as well as their liberties, are to be reckoned among their rights."

Judge Dillon, in his great lecture on the "Laws and Jurisprudence of England and America," says:

"The absolutely unique features of the political and legal institutions of the American republic are its written constitutions, which are organic limitations whereby the people by an act of unprecedented wisdom have, in order to establish justice, to promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to themselves and their posterity, protected themselves against themselves. What renders this the more extraordinary is that these constitutions are self-imposed restraints. The spectacle is that of the acknowledged possessors of all political power voluntarily circumscribing and limiting the plenary and unrestrained use of it. History affords many examples where the holders of political power have been forced to surrender or to curtail it for the general good; but the example of the people constituting the American political communities in limiting by their own free will the exercise of their power stood alone when this sublime sacrifice was made, and it has not been followed in any country in Europe, nor successfully put in operation elsewhere than in the United States. I said that in this way the people had protected themselves against themselves."

It is not meant that the people shall, by the legitimate restrictions of a constitution, deprive themselves of the exercise of any rightful power. It is intended only that they shall protect their calmer judgments, protect their sober second thought, protect their reason from being dominated by hasty passion in the making and interpretation of laws.

The recall of the judiciary would strike at the very vitals of constitutional government. Will the people of California inflict such a blow upon themselves?

SENATORITIS.

When the disease of "senatoritis" attacks a self-made multimillionaire, it attacks him violently. The right to write U.S.S. after his name (although, like Dogberry of old, he would more accurately classify himself by affixing the initials A.S.S. to his patronymic) possesses him to the exclusion of all other considerations.

If there is no available toga in the State where he lives there are many States where a Senatorial aspirant, or a lady seeking relief from conjugal oppression, can, in six months, acquire a legal residence.

Indeed actual residence is not always absolutely necessary as a pre-requisite to the acquisition of Senatorial honors. Four of the early Senators from Nevada kept their homes and their regular families in California. They asserted with success the legal maxim that "residence is a question of intention," and they intended to stay in Nevada for a few months during the campaign, once every six years.

There is no cure for senatoritis except an election to the Senate. One term usually suffices the sufferer. He finds that his previous business life has unfitted him to shine in the halls of high debate. He finds himself unable to think upon his feet. He finds that his unpremeditated utterances violate grammatical rules, and so he hires a Washington correspondent to write a speech for him, and when he reads the speech he stumbles over the pronunciation of the sesquipedalian words, and all the Southern majahs in the Senate who do not expect to borrow money of him, and all those who do not every few days feast at his board on terrapin at $50 a dozen, and quench their thirst on Pommery Sec, and fill their pockets with choice Partagas when they depart, skidoo to the cloakrooms, and those people in the galleries who are not asleep flock to the doors.

The new Senator finds the conditions unsatisfactory. He has been accustomed during all his business life to consideration and deference from the Wall-street lambs whose fleece he removed, and from the borrowers at his bank, and from the stockholders in the unbusted trusts he conducts, and from all who "crook the pregnant hinges of the knee that thrift may follow fawning." He obtains no such consideration in the Senate. His colleagues take his measure and place him quietly but inexorably at the foot of the class, when he expected to be at the head. He does not like the situation. He mutters to himself.

"Hated is he of gods and men accurst, Content as second when he has been first."

Even his amusements are contracted. He can play at the great American game like a master. But there is no fun in playing with Senators from the Far West, whose rule is to lose on credit and to win for cash.

He does not fight for a second term. Like the Frenchman who ate a live frog on a wager, he declines to make another bet of the same character, on the ground that he has "got his satisfy." Maw also is weary of life in Washington, where at every social function she must watch like a duenna to guard her daughters from the artful and impecunious attaches of foreign legations who are eager in pursuit of girls whose faces alone are not their fortunes.

And so after a single term the Hon. Kereases Hardcash steps out of office and another victim of senatoritis takes his place.

ALL FOR EACH.

Labor unions were organized originally upon the idea that all hand workers in mechanical employments had a common interest in securing the highest obtainable wages for the least number of hours of toil. Their purpose was to "charge all that the traffic will bear." They co-operated for that purpose and their motto was "all for each and each for all."

The "each" did not mean merely each member of an organized lodge of mechanics, but each worker, whether a member or not. The "all" did not mean all who signed the roll call of the union, but all workers. The doctrine of the closed shop was not advanced for many years after labor had organized. It was grafted upon labor-unionism by walking delegates and labor leaders, who saw in it a method by which they could extort larger revenues from those whom they misadvised and misguided.

One vice of labor-unionism is that it seeks to interfere with the law of supply and demand. It is for the interest of all the people that there should be as many skilled mechanics and laborers as possible—but labor-unionism limits the number of apprentices in any trade.

But militant unionism's pervading and controlling iniquity is that it uses force instead of reason, violence instead of persuasion to accomplish its purposes.

Between the man who forces an employer to hire him by menaces, expressed or implied, of picketing, boycotting and dynamiting, and the highwayman who forces the traveler to give up his watch and pocketbook by a threat of taking his life, there is morally but little difference, and that in favor of the highwayman, for the latter makes no hypocritical pretence of having a right to take your purse.

UNCLE WALT.

The Poet Philosopher.

My garden is sickly, and littered with wrecks; the beans wilted quickly, and passed in their checks. The sight, it is saddish; the cabbage is dead; the onion and radish lie cold in their bed. The night zephyrs whistle o'er wreck and decay, and only the thistle is blooming today. My strenuous labors this garden has known, while indolent neighbors looked on with a groan. I said: "I'll be eating fine succulent sass, while those men are treating their stomachs to grass." They said: "You may hoe, sir, and dig till you're sore, but we from the grocer will purchase our store." I slugged and lambasted the weeds with a hoe; my work was all wasted, and I'm full of woe. My garden is dreary as Sidon or Tyre, and oh, I am weary, while twanging my lyre! And this is the moral for others who fail to cultivate sorrel and onions and kale: A man needs some training his task to pursue, or he'll be complaining, disgusted and blue.

Back East there is a popular movement on foot to "recall" the weather man.

The "dear" season has already opened at the beach towns in the vicinity of Los Angeles.

How the neighbors crowd the courtroom when a divorce action involving a family row is on trial.

Why not call the local pay-as-you-enter cars the prepayment cars? That would sound so Bostonese.

We hasten to announce that the meeting of the "Gift of Tongues" sect in Pittsburgh is not a conference of suffragettes.

King George and Queen Mary spent yesterday among their loyal subjects in Ireland, and not a man threw a brick.

In the crush of matter and the wreck of worlds what has become of Walter Wellman and his esteemed equilibrator?

Judging from the sensational developments it should be called the "Absolute Fake," instead of the "Absolute Life."

It may be just possible that Evelyn Arthur See has his eyes on a few vaudeville dates. He might draw in the ten, twent', thirt's.

It isn't so pleasant to be a king, after all. He is compelled to sit through an entire operatic performance, although he may prefer a few rag-time selections.

Works is the leading pitcher in the American League so far this year. It appears to be quite a year for the various members of the Works family.

The music teachers of California will meet in Los Angeles next year, spending a part of the time at Avalon. They will find plenty of scales at Pleasure Pier.

Another new theater is promised for Los Angeles. Now if we had a few really successful playwrights, this town would be on the theatrical map with a whereas.

President Taft is spending Sunday aboard the Mayflower, but the fact that he is at sea does not apply to his political prospects. On the other hand, quite the contrary.

Be it said to the eternal credit of the American newspapers that they have got onto the curves of Senator La Follette. Watch them bat him out of the political box.

Isn't it about time that the name of Judge George Gray of Delaware be mentioned for the Presidency? Every four years he is trotted in front of the political grand stand.

The big mercantile establishments of this city began their half-holiday yesterday, and it will continue during July and August. Nothing is lost by treating employees with consideration. And don't think for a minute that they do not appreciate it.

The silence in the vicinity of Oyster Bay is oppressive. Isn't it about time for Col. Roosevelt to rise in his place and tell us why he is in favor of the recall of the judiciary in Arizona and against it in California?

It is hoped that the delegates to the National Christian Endeavor Convention will not be beguiled by the nickel-in-the-slot machines along the boardwalk of Atlantic City. They are very enticing, if anyone should ask you.

Jim Jeffries is about to strike Los Angeles after his trip across the seas. Hope he left his grouch on the other side of the big pond. Jim must be all cut up after seeing the swath cut by Jack Johnson along the Strand.

Sherlock Holmes might write a thriller on the Lorimer investigation. The title of the best seller would be: "Shadowed by Three." But where would Dr. Watson come in? Oh, yes, he might be the Lee O'Neil Brown of the story.

With the passing of the high jinks in England, the next thing to attract the reading public is the revolt in Hayti. Some strong policeman ought to arrest the Haytian "army" and lock it up on the charge of disorderly conduct.

The Democrats in Congress are doing nothing about changing Inauguration Day to some date later in the year. Probably they figure that, with Taft renominated, there is no use for Democrats to get excited about it. They won't be so much interested.

What funny things they do in little old New York! A few days ago a man in that town delivered a funeral oration over the dead body of his mother-in-law. And in the language of the country correspondent describing the strawberry festival at the village church, "a pleasant time was had."

We shall have all sorts of fun when the muck-raking magazines are haled into court to answer the charge of conducting a trust, and an "unreasonable" one, at that. A magazine editor wearing stripes would be a rare sight worth pages of illustrated comment in any of our celebrated monthly publications.

The Public Service: City Hall and Courts.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Two suits which grew out of the financial mess created by C. B. Miner, a defaulting broker, were heard in the Superior Court yesterday.

Senator Perkins, who sought to escape liability as a stockholder, must liquidate his share of the indebtedness of the Karma-Ajax Consolidated Mining Company, according to a report filed yesterday by Referee Helm.

A dressmaker charged with violation of the 8-hour law testified in Police court yesterday that girls are prevented by the measure from providing against a "rainy day."

At the City Hall.

ORDINANCE NOW FINALLY PASSED.

LIGHT AND POWER RATES FIXED BY THE COUNCIL.

Three Members Vote in Negative Bue Necessary Two-Thirds Majority Obtained—Schedule Goes Through Unchanged As Figured Out by Committee.

The ordinance fixing the rates to be charged for light and power rates was passed by the Council yesterday morning, the vote standing 6 for and 3 against. Thus passes into history a notable battle in which the Lissner Board of Public Utilities was the target. The ordinance becomes effective in thirty days. Meanwhile, no legal rates are in effect.

The rates are a compromise, and are as published in The Times, being based on a 7-cent rate, and 75 cents for ten kilowatt hours or less consumed in one month. The power rates are a minimum charge of not less than 50 cents a month per horse-power installed.

In the beginning of the last battle, Williams was absent and the sergeant-at-arms was directed to bring him. Washburn asked to be excused, and when Stewart objected, he withdrew his motion which had already been granted. But meantime a motion had been put to excuse him, but it was lost. He had prepared a statement expressing his views, saying that as he was in the minority on the adoption of the ordinance, there was no occasion for him being present.

In this statement he said that the Board of Public Utilities is made the rate-making body by the Council.

"If the Council feels called upon to haggle with the commission over every detail of its findings when substantial justice has been accomplished, then our commission is a failure, and we had better save $25,000 or $30,000 a year that it costs and trust to luck in our rate-making."

He called attention to the fact that the Council overruled the commission last year in the matter of telephone rates, and that "our intense humiliation over the very expensive and ineffectual effort to disprove its findings is very recent. Unless a different state of facts exists than has been presented, I feel that we are not justified in again overruling the commission."

Before instructing the City Attorney to prepare the ordinance, the members of the Investigating Committee were careful to ascertain that the rates as fixed would be sustained in the court, provided a suit is brought. Engineer Scattergood, who figured on them, said he would stand by them and moreover could get other capable engineers as witnesses.

Notwithstanding this, Washburn, Stewart and Whiffen voted against the ordinance. Whiffen stood out for a 6 1-2-cent rate.

O'Brien, who, at the last session, questioned the wisdom of the city asking bids for street lighting, brought up the question yesterday. He declared the Council was haggling over small rates and overlooking large sums. It was his idea that the Council should have the street lighting on the same basis as the light furnished consumers. City Attorney Shenk set his mind at ease by declaring that the matter could be regulated.

Betkouski moved the passage of the ordinance which gave O'Brien the chance to say that "We had better trust to luck and drive a bargain than to seal our fate by a board of engineers."

Andrews declared his intention of supporting the ordinance although he declared the rates are far beyond what they ought to be. "We are up against a stone wall," he said, and proceeded to butt it by voting for the ordinance. The only difference he saw between these rates and those of last year is that last year the minimum was $1 and now it is 75 cents.

The Southern California Edison Company, which has kept quiet during the month's battle, protested against the proposed rates, claiming that they are insufficient to produce receipts necessary to maintain the plant and take care of renewals. The communication was filed.

Just to show that it could not let the opportunity go by without getting in the game, the Municipal League gave out copies of a letter addressed to the late members of the board, in which it extends its congratulations and expresses its sincere admiration to Lissner, Darlington and Hunter "for the faithful, capable and courageous work done for the city during the eighteen months of their service."

PRODS COMMITTEE. HOLDS UP APPORTIONMENT.

The budget committee notified the Council yesterday that it is handicapped in providing in the budget for the Bureau of Fire Alarm and Police Telegraph by the fact that a special committee of the Council has before it and has not acted on a recommendation of the Fire Commission for a comprehensive plan for fire alarm and police box system. This plan was prepared by Banks Cregler, whose system in the University district has been approved.

The estimate submitted by the Bureau of Fire Alarm and Police Telegraph is $134,000, and the budget committee asks that the special committee act on the Cregler plan so that it can figure on the bureau's allowance. This prod may stir the Committee into doing something. Since its appointment, the chairman says he has not been able to call it together.

MAN PICKED OUT. MAY BECOME INSPECTOR.

The Board of Public Works has selected a man to fill the position of inspector, the duties of which office are now being performed by W. M. Humphreys. His name will be sent to the Supply Committee of the City Council tomorrow for approval.

Mr. Humphreys for various reasons yesterday declined to release the new man's name. He says he is able and efficient and the choice, if approved, cannot fail to be satisfactory.

The position is provided for under the city charter and is one of the most important and onerous in the list of departments. The salary will be fixed by the Council and ranges, according to the views of the various Councilmen, from $5000 down to $3000 a year.

Will Put Up Funds.

J. G. McKinney, general manager of the Los Angeles Ice and Cold Storage Company, came to the bat yesterday by offering in a letter to the City Council to supply the funds to provide the City Sealer with a weighing device in his crusade against alleged short-weighting. The City Sealer's report of his recent investigation was referred by the City Council to the Supply Committee. He asked for an appropriation to obtain a wagon and driver to follow ice wagons and check up deliveries.

Tracks Above Grade.

The Board of Public Utilities had referred to it yesterday the question of putting the tracks of the Pacific Electric on its Long Beach line, at grade. The City Engineer had already reported that there was nothing to prohibit the tracks being lowered. It was also found that, under its franchise, the company can be compelled to lower them. As far as Washington street the tracks are at the official grade, but beyond that point, at Twenty-fifth street, Thirty-eighth street and Vernon avenue, they vary above grade from sixteen to thirty-eight inches.

Garbage Data.

Inspector Humphreys of the Board of Public Works is sending out 2038 cards to householders to supply information with reference to the garbage question. These cards will go to private houses, apartment-houses and hotels, and when the date is furnished he will report to the Council the result of his investigation as to the necessity of a six days a week collection of garbage in the residence, apartment-house and hotel districts.

Appointment Confirmed.

The Council yesterday confirmed the appointment by the Mayor of George W. Stockwell as a member of the Fire Commission to succeed C. O. Hawley, resigned. Stockwell is a retired grocer. He was a member of the City Council during the administration of Mayor Rader. Wallace Stockwell, clerk of Police Judge Frederickson's court, is his brother. Stockwell after he was sworn in, called on the Mayor to chat over the duties of the office.

Waiting on Switch.

The members of the Rose Hill Improvement Association are in the way to obtain a 10-minute service on the Pacific Electric between Rose Hill and this city. The Council adopted yesterday the finding of the Streets and Boulevard Committee, based on a letter from the railroad officials, that this service will be granted as soon as the company has had installed a cross-over switch at Sixth and Main streets.

City Hall Brevities.

The Council yesterday decided that the Finance Committee should pass on a resolution offered by Councilman O'Brien providing that $5000 be transferred from the general expense fund to the municipal railway fund, under the control of the Board of Public Works, to be used for obtaining right-of-way for the railroad.

Chairman Works of the Board of Public Utilities, dropped into the Council chamber yesterday to see how the wheels run and to keep posted on matters pertaining to his department.

The Budget Committee, in its pruning of expense, asked the Council to look into a plan for the city carrying all of its own insurance. The city carries insurance on all its public buildings. It is proposed to pay into an insurance fund the sums called for in premiums.

The ordinance prohibiting boys under 21 years to enter saloons, gambling houses or houses of questionable character, was adopted by the Council yesterday.

HE JUGGLES WITH CASH OF OTHERS.

SLIPPERY METHODS OF BROKER EXPOSED IN COURT.

Man Who Takes French Leave of Clients Plays Both Ends Against the Middle—School Bond Used As Security, But Court Holds it Is Not Negotiable—Counter Suits.

The many financial tangles which C. B. Miner, a stock broker, wove before he suddenly departed from the city last August, leaving many persons to mourn because they had put faith in him, are slowly being disentangled by the courts.

Two suits which were caused by Miner's tricky financiering were heard before Judge Craig yesterday. One of them was that of the Clune Amusement Company against the National Bank of California. In the other the plaintiff was the bank, and the defendants were Miner, Nellie M. Fowles, Wilbur Morgrace, Luther H. Green, John B. Tait, the Clune Amusement Company and the First National Bank.

Miner's methods of juggling around the securities of his clients were partially exposed. It also developed that he was not averse to forging names when such procedure suited his purpose.

The defaulting broker was given a high school bond valued at $1000 by the Clune Amusement Company to sell. Instead of doing so he deposited it with the bank as security for a loan. The judge held that the company could not recover it, as it was negotiable paper.

The second suit has not been decided. The jurist had partially given his decision when one of the attorneys against whom the tide was going asked for permission to file a brief.

The bank sued Miner for $17,000 on a note and also brought an action to foreclose on securities which he had deposited with it. Green was sued for $5000 on a check bearing his name which the broker put up as collateral. He declared that the signature was a forgery and was released from liability.

Miner deposited a check for $2970 with the First National Bank and received a cashier's check. He deposited this with the National Bank of California to be applied on his note. Within a day the former institution declared that the check deposited with it was forged and it has since refused to pay the cashier's check which it gave him.

The standing between Mrs. Fowles and the bank had already been litigated and she was released from liability. Morgrace and Tait were also dismissed at the bank's request.

IS ALSO LIABLE. SENATOR MUST PUNGLE.

That Senator Perkins is one of the stockholders in the Karma-Ajax Consolidated Mining Company and must stand his share of liability as such, is the finding of Attorney Lynn Helm, who was appointed a referee to assist in straightening out some of the tangles of a suit in which the company is involved.

A. D. Bond brought suit against the company in Kings county two years ago and obtained a judgment against it for $10,000.95. Several months ago he instituted suit in this county in an endeavor to make the stockholders pay up.

Senator Perkins and Mrs. Nellie Gird, widow of Richard Gird, a noted mining engineer, sought to escape liability by pleading that they had merely loaned money to the concern and had never purchased any of the stock.

In the report filed by Referee Helm yesterday, it was found that Perkins and Mrs. Gird were among the heaviest stockholders in the concern and that their liability is proportionately large.

Others found to be stockholders were the firm of Lawler, Allen, Van Dyke & Jutten. They received stock for legal services.

One of the defenses set up was the allegation that the first suit was not properly instituted. Helm held that the judgment is not subject to attack in this proceeding.

COURTHOUSE NOTES. BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

DESERTED HER. When Mrs. Anna Haley returned from the matinee more than a year ago, she found that her husband and most of his clothing were missing. She has not seen him since. Judge Monroe yesterday granted her an interlocutory decree of divorce.

SUIT FOR INJURY. Amanda J. Kennedy is seeking to recover $25,000 from Samuel A. McKee because his automobile, operated by one of his employees, struck her while she was walking on Spring street on June 13.

BAD BUSINESS. R. A. Gooding yesterday filed suit against Dr. E. E. Eads for $10,000 damages, alleging that the physician performed a criminal operation on his wife, seriously damaging her health.

INCORPORATION. Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday by the Crown City Transfer & Storage Company; director, W. R. Layne, capital stock $50,000, subscribed, $300; the Yellow Poppy Mining Company, directors, Ida C. Young, William Brown and Jane A. Maxwell, capital stock, $200,000, subscribed $250; the Western Chemical Company, directors, A. B. Greenewald, J. H. Parrent and F. E. Fehr, capital stock, $10,000, subscribed, $30; the Investors Company, directors, Charles L. Hubbard, Grace C. Hubbard and George H. Woodruff, capital stock, $100,000, subscribed, $300; the California Realty Company, directors, O. E. Farish, Gilbert E. Gardner, Frank Simonds, H. Stanley Benedict and F. H. Rowley, capital stock, $200,000, subscribed, $25.

In the Inferior Courts.

CONVICTED BUT NOT CONVINCED.

LAW APPEASED BUT NO ONE IS HELPED.

So Declares Dressmaker Found Guilty of Violation of Eight-Hour Law; Who Tells of the Trouble the Statute Inflicts on Business in Her Line.

Mrs. A. M. Waite, a dressmaker, charged with a violation of the eight-hour law for women, was found guilty by Police Judge Chambers yesterday. Sentence will be pronounced Monday morning. Mrs. Waite conducted her own defense and told of the hardships inflicted upon those who conduct businesses like hers on a small scale.

June 6 was the day on which she was charged with the violation by Henry H. Lyon, Assistant Deputy Commissioner of the State Bureau of Labor Statistics, and J. F. Nolan, a special agent of the bureau. Mrs Waite admitted that her employees had worked nine hours on that day.

On the 1st inst. Mrs. Waite was forced to give up her rooms at No. 339½ South Hill street and conduct her business at her home, No. 2191 West Thirty-first street, because the additionaire nt was burdensome with the eight-hour law in effect.

Mrs. Waite declared that dressmakers, and especially those who do not keep much help, are feeling the brunt of the law.

"The women who order their gowns on short notice and demand that they be finished on a certain date are of course not affected by the law, yet they demand delivery on the date agreed," she said. "If the gown is not finished they will not accept it, and the dressmaker loses. But a short time ago a friend of mine, another dressmaker, accepted an order for a $125 gown. It was planned for a special occasion. A portion of the work had to be done over and the woman would not accept it, though it was finished the next day. My friend lost $125. Had she been able to work overtime on the gown it could have been finished.

"There is a busy season and a dull season in my business," she said, "which is more pronounced perhaps than in most. In the busy season a dressmaker is forced to turn out a great amount of work so she can keep her girls at work during the slow part of the year. If the eight-hour law is enforced to the letter it will result in many girls being out of work during the quiet season and only allowed to make the regular rate during the busy season."

Mrs. Waite was asked about a statement she was understood by the court to have made in reference to dressmakers keeping a list of employees who complained of being worked nine hours instead of eight hours.

"I only told my girls when the eight hour law went into effect that they better not talk too much because dressmakers are not inclined to hire girls who have made trouble in other establishments," she said.

As Mrs. Waite must appear in court Monday she told her employees who accompanied her to court to appear at her home for work Tuesday in place of Monday.

LAUNDRY FIGHT UP. HIGHER COURT TO HEAR.

Assistant City Prosecutor Nimmo left the city for San Francisco yesterday morning to appear before the State Supreme Court to argue against the liberation of Quong Wo on habeas corpus proceedings.

Quong Wo is proprietor of a Chinese laundry at Seventh and Flower streets. When that section of the city was declared to be in the residence district, he was ordered to move. He combined with the proprietors of several other laundries and decided to test the case.

He is in jail awaiting the hearing on the proceeding which is now before the Supreme Court. Quong Wo contends that the law discriminates against laundries.

TWO FACE CHARGE. DEATH CREDITED TO THEM.

George Githens and Alfred E. Evans, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of John B. Montgomery, whose body was found on the pavement near No. 325 Towne avenue Wednesday, were arraigned before Police Judge Rose yesterday and held for a preliminary examination the 18th inst.

Githens is charged with having struck Montgomery the blow which felled him and caused his head to strike upon a stone so as to produce a fatal cerebral hemorrhage. Evans is suspected by the police of having been involved in a brawl which led up to Montgomery bank knocked down.

"Trimmed" for Trimming.

Lewis Rees, No. 133 West Forty-second street, who recently hired two boys to trim the trees in front of his house so they would not strike the hats of pedestrians, was fined $1 yesterday by Police Judge Williams for not having secured a permit.

Waits Longer.

The day upon which S. Lopez will gain his liberty was postponed one month by Police Judge Rose yesterday because Lopez in his eagerness to shake off the restraints of the East Side Jail and its vegetable garden, made a break for liberty Friday. Lopez was sentenced to another month. Lopez had taken but a few steps from the onion patch when he was seen by the guard, who quickly stopped him.

Railway Men Defendants.

Complaints were filed in Police Judge Rose's court yesterday against George Kurtz, chief engineer of the Los Angeles Railway, and J. Zuber, a foreman, charging them with tearing up the pavement at Washington street and Grand avenue without having secured a permit from the city to do so. The railroad company did the work in order to lay a new section of track. They will appear in Police Court tomorrow.

Theodore Shocked.

Theodore Brethorst, who was arrested Friday night at No. 1826 North Broadway, the headquarters of the Electric Club, the police say, was arraigned before Police Judge Rose yesterday on a charge of having violated the liquor ordinance. He will be given a trial Wednesday. He deposited $100 as bail.

Doyle Still Active.

M. Klassen, foreman for Carl Leonardt, contractor, must appear in Police Court tomorrow morning to answer to a charge of having excavated in the alley running north from Eighth street between Spring and Broadway without having secured a permit from the Board of Public Works to do so. Patrick Doyle, inspector for the board, filed the complain yesterday.

Most Appropriate Rugs for Summer

Colonial "Ragstyle" and modern "Po rugs, such as are shown at the "Californ —are, from every possible standpoint, most appropriate and practical for sum use.

They combine the great utility of the time home-woven rugs, with a degree artistic beauty, which shows the marvel advancement of the rug-weavers' art the days of our grandmothers.

They are made entirely of cotton and therefore, delightfully light, cool and tary for summer furnishing. They woven in dainty and restful colorings, harmonize delightfully with the cre and taffetas so much used nowadays.

These rugs are obtainable in almost desired size from the 30x60-inch size, up the large room size, 9x12 feet. The range from $2.50 to $3.75 for the small —to $20, $25 and $30 for the large sizes.

Considering their service and beauty prices are very moderate.

We cordially invite you to come and these dainty summer rugs and the other appropriate and unusual summer nishings we show.

The showing of Colonial "Ragstyle" and "Poster" rugs in our window this week will interest those who contemplate the selection of any summer furnishings.

BUILDING PRIVILEGES.

e building of the Young Wo- 's Christian Association at No. South Hill street, is an adminis- ve and education building only. l work of the educational and ical training departments is ac- ited by the public schools of Los eles and by colleges and univers- e association, under whose auspices the school is to be conducted, occupies an eight-story building in the heart of the city, and offers every convenience of a modern clubhouse.

In the large public lobby are free telephones and information desk, with adjoining library and reading-room supplied with all the best periodicals. The mezzanine floor affords writing-desks, waiting-room and open balconies on the court, which is bordered with flowering window boxes on four sides. On the fourth floor is a rest room filled with couches. On the seventh floor is a large social room, beautifully furnished, and open to the public for general use, and available for special functions, such as receptions, parties, etc. Adjoining it are a tea-room and a dining-room. A roof garden, looking out upon the city and distant mountains gives opportunity for recreation.

Applicants for enrollment in the school are requested to fill out the blank inserted in the catalogue and send it to Miss Ella Stevers, Young Woman's Christian Association, Los Angeles, as early as possible.

Students will register at the educational office, in the association building. The office will be open for registration after tomorrow from 9 o'clock, a.m., until 5 o'clock, p.m., and from 6 to 8 o'clock, p.m. Students are requested to register before July 16, if possible, to avoid confusion at the opening of the session. Only registered students will be admitted to classes.

Certificates stating the amount and character of the work done will be granted to those who satisfactorily complete regular courses.

Persons attending the school can secure board and lodging at reasonable rates, by making early application through the board and room directory of the association. In making such application the preference as to hotel apartments for light house-keeping, single or double room, room and meals or room only should be stated. Such accommodations can be secured for $2 per week, and up. Meals can easily be secured in cafes and cafeterias, both in the association building and near by.

Excursions to the various resorts in the vicinity of Los Angeles will be arranged for every Saturday. Among the places of interest to be visited are Mt. Lowe, Catalina Island, Pasadena, Riverside and the Indian School, San Gabriel Mission, Laurel Canyon, Long Beach, Venice, Santa Monica, Balboa, San Pedro and others. A fell day or week-end will be needed for many of these trips; others can be taken in a few hours. FALL OF THE BASTILE.

French Society's Annual Celebration Will Be Marked by Most Ambitious Programme Yet Given.

All plans for the annual celebration of the Fall of the Bastile by the French Society of Los Angeles at Luna Park next Friday were completed yesterday and show the most ambitious programme ever prepared by this organization.

More than 5000 French-Americans are expected to take part in the big celebration, as well as many thousand American friends. Mayor Alexander is to make an address, and besides, there will be speeches by Jean Castera, president of the society; Louis Sentous, Jr., resident French consular agent; Gen. Frank C. Prescott, Leon Escallier, president of the day, and Hector Alliot, director of the Southwestern Museum.

The French Society's own orchestra of forty pieces will play "La Pere la Victoire" and selections from "Carmen" in the afternoon. "La Marseillaise" will be sung by Frank Roques, late of the Paris Conservatory of Music, and Mrs. M. G. Gonzalez will sing the "Star-Spangled Banner."

There will be children's dances under the direction of Mrs. Gonzalez in which twenty-four beautiful girls of the French colony will take part. Also there will be games and prize races characteristic of the celebration of the Fall of the Bastile as observed in France.

In the evening there will be a grand march and ball, followed by fireworks on an imposing scale.

CLASSIFIED DIRECTORY.

Larger and more comprehensive than ever before is the seventeenth edition of the classified business and numerical telephone directory, just issued by George L. Ralston and Edward K. Hoak. The new directory has, in classified order, the names and telephone numbers of all firms doing business in the city which have either Home or Pacific telephones. The book also has sections devoted to individual subscribers, by which it is possible to learn the name of any party whose number is known. This is a service not obtainable from "central."

Wrinkleless Skin Now Easy to Have

(From Family Physician.)

There's no excuse for any woman having wrinkles now. It has been found that a simple mixture of saxolite and witch hazel has a remarkable action upon the deepest wrinkles, no matter what their nature, whether caused by worry, habitual frowning, a debilitated condition or the ravages of Father Time. This harmless remedy, which anyone can easily make and use at home, acts both as an astringent and a tonic. The combined effect of tightening the skin and heightening its vitality is to immediately affect every line and wrinkle, keeping the cuticle smooth and firm as in youth.

The proportions are one ounce saxolite (powdered) to one-half pint witch hazel. The solution should be used as a wash lotion. It is equally effective in disposing of flabbiness of cheek and neck, as well as sagging below the eyes.

PEDESTRIANS' FAULT.

move ahead even if the policeman has not given the signal. Then there is chaos, and the chauffeur must good-naturedly back his machine to the far side of the crossing and await the passing of every other vehicle on the four streets.

COURSE OF SPROUTS.

Automobile dealers have adopted a rule that when a man buys a machine and is not a skilled driver they carefully put him through a course of sprouts. They take him out into the outlying districts first and show him many of the crossings of the electric lines and the steam roads, and by illustration point out where the danger lies in runnig over a crossing, no matter how open it is, without first stopping to make sure. They take him to places where orange groves or walnut orchards obscure the lines of the cars, and show him graphically how he must not take the crossings without first stopping. Then they bring him back downtown and take him over all of the congested streets and crossings, carefully working out the crossing signals, and making certain that the new owner knows how to proceed.

After this they advise him to employ a professional driver for at least a month, always ride in the front seat with him, and watch his method of procedure.

The other day Lewis Stone, the actor, who owns a beautiful large Lozier car, and who is a skilled driver, met with an accident at Fifth and Broadway. Stone had his car under perfect control, but the streets had just been sprinkled, and the grip of the tires on the asphalt was not firm. A pedestrian darted in front of Stone's car, which was moving about ten miles an hour, and with a wrench Stone whirled his steering wheel to escape the foolish walker. The machine slipped and skidded until the wheels struck the curb and the machine partially turned over. Stone was absolutely blameless in the matter, and if he had not been an expert motorist he would probably have driven over the foolish pedestrian, who was unscathed, while Stone's machine was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars.

HITS BOTH WAYS.

Perhaps the greatest cause of so-called minor accidents at crossings is the habit many pedestrians have of walking out in the gutter when waiting for their street cars, instead of remaining on the curb. These folk stand huddled together, or moving about, so that the motorist who is closely watching the traffic officer for his signal to proceed is forced to take tremendous chances in slipping by them and making his crossing. There is no ordinance against pedestrians thus blocking the street, but if they would remain on the curb or sidewalk until the cars come to a standstill, many accidents would be avoided.

The happy medium in the automobile world will never come, say the motorists, until there is a mutual consideration between the pedestrian and the driver. When the man or woman on the street realizes that the man running an automobile has considerable on his hands without looking out for pedestrians, and the man driving the machine recognizes that the pedestrian has important rights on the street; when the driver thoroughly masters a motor before running it, accidents in the congested district will disappear, or become so infrequent as to be negligible.

PRISON LIFE IS HEALTHY.

Regular Hours Required of Prisoners Enables Them to Live to a Ripe Old Age.

[Emporia Gazette.] A Massachusetts man with a head for that sort of thing has been wading through several tons of statistics, and contributes to a Springfield paper an article showing that the average of mortality in State penitentiaries is lower than anywhere else. Convicts seldom die unless old age takes them, or they have incurable diseases contracted before going to prison. The majority of them, when their terms expire, leave the penitentiary in magnificent health.

All this seems reasonable, when you come to think of it. The life of the convict is like clockwork. Absolute regularity prevails from the day he enters the prison to the day he leaves. He is not permitted to smoke or drink or follow other bad habits, which are destructive to health. He does enough work to keep his muscles in trim, and his appetite on edge, but not enough to exhaust him. He has a sufficiency of wholesome food, without any of the fancy trimmings which cause dyspepsia. He retires to his downy couch at a certain hour in the evening, and rises at a certain hour in the morning, and sleeps soundly in the interval.

People outside of prisons violate the rules of health, through carelessness or ignorance, every day, but the convict isn't permitted to. He lives safely and sanely, whether he wants to or not, and good health is inevitable if he has a sound constitution in the first place.

Nowadays people spend a great deal of time worrying over their health, and a lot of faddists make a fat living in inventing new "systems" which cost money and do little good. The sanatoriums of the country are crowded with invalids who pay fancy prices for fancy treatment, and the real secret of health is offered by the penitentiaries. When a man is sick, lock him up, and see that he leads a sane and wholesome life, and after a while he'll be feeling like a convict.

PRISON LIFE IS HEALTHY.

Regular Hours Required of Prisoners Enables Them to Live to a Ripe Old Age.

[Emporia Gazette.] A Massachusetts man with a head for that sort of thing has been wading through several tons of statistics, and contributes to a Springfield paper an article showing that the average of mortality in State penitentiaries is lower than anywhere else. Convicts seldom die unless old age takes them, or they have incurable diseases contracted before going to prison. The majority of them, when their terms expire, leave the penitentiary in magnificent health.

All this seems reasonable, when you come to think of it. The life of the convict is like clockwork. Absolute regularity prevails from the day he enters the prison to the day he leaves. He is not permitted to smoke or drink or follow other bad habits, which are destructive to health. He does enough work to keep his muscles in trim, and his appetite on edge, but not enough to exhaust him. He has a sufficiency of wholesome food, without any of the fancy trimmings which cause dyspepsia. He retires to his downy couch at a certain hour in the evening, and rises at a certain hour in the morning, and sleeps soundly in the interval.

People outside of prisons violate the rules of health, through carelessness or ignorance, every day, but the convict isn't permitted to. He lives safely and sanely, whether he wants to or not, and good health is inevitable if he has a sound constitution in the first place.

Nowadays people spend a great deal of time worrying over their health, and a lot of faddists make a fat living in inventing new "systems" which cost money and do little good. The sanatoriums of the country are crowded with invalids who pay fancy prices for fancy treatment, and the real secret of health is offered by the penitentiaries. When a man is sick, lock him up, and see that he leads a sane and wholesome life, and after a while he'll be feeling like a convict.

WHOSE PATENT IS IT?

The Autosales Gum and Chocolate Company, filed a bill in the United States Circuit Court, yesterday, praying that the Pacific Vending Company be restrained from making further use of what is known as a coin controlled attachment for theater chairs. The complainant claims the patent right.

"Our friend who has passed away was one of that band of giants. He was given to close, incisive, analytical reasoning, rather than to flights of fancy. If you admitted his premises there was no escape from his conclusions. Yet he sometimes soared to heights of eloquence. His apotheosis to patriotism in the Hardy impeachment trial, produced wild cheering in the legislative hall. His union speeches during the Civil War were excelled by those of no other orator in California, and his address to the jury in the Laura D. He seldom indulged in personalities unless first assailed, but when he did so, his keen Scotch wit cured his opponent of any desire to again attack him.

"Judge Campbell was both fearless and courteous, both strenuous and gracious. He was at once scholarly and practical. He would have argued with Socrates in the groves of the Academy at Athens concerning the proper construction of a Greek Iambic, and he would have ended the discussion by persuading the philosopher of antiquity to vote the Republican ticket. He was a willing and unselfish laborer on every public work that had for its object the good of man, either for the betterment of his material life, the development of his intellectual growth, or the uplifting of his moral and spiritual nature. No good cause ever lacked his assistance and no wrong that needed resistance ever failed to find him in the vanguard of its opponents."

REDS INDICTED BY UNCLE SAM.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY FINDS NEUTRALITY VIOLATED.

Body Concludes Its Work by Returning Largest Number of Indictments in History of Court and Is Dismissed—Others Will Probably Be Arrested for Same Offense.

Most important among the twenty-two indictments returned by the United States grand jury, when that body made its final report yesterday, was one charging members of Los Angeles' "red" colony with violation of the neutrality laws. Included in the list are Gen. J. H. Mosby, who is languishing in the San Diego jail; J. Rhys Pryce, Librado Rivera, Anslem Figueroa, Pedro Sells and Enrique Magon, who are lodged in the County Jail in default of bond.

Warrants will probably be issued for the arrest of other alleged offenders, as it is understood that other indictments have been returned, charging violation of the neutrality laws.

The number of indictments returned yesterday was the largest ever returned in any one sitting in the history of the court. During the six months' session of the grand jury fifty-four indictments were returned.

After making its report the grand jury was dismissed by Judge Wellborn, and the Circuit and District courts adjourned for the term. The new term will begin Monday.

The other indictments returned were as follows: Francesco and Richard Nejo and Arthur Charlie, charged with having conspired to effect the release of Rafael Charlie, who was in the custody of the United States authorities, for practicing the profession of medicine illegally; Mateo Ghio, shooting Enrico Castagnola on February 22 at San Diego; Laura Booker of Calexico, receiving opium through the United States mails; L. V. Wilcox, Henry Sommar, Virgil Whiteman, John Martin and J. W. Henry, all of San Diego, for smuggling horses across the line; also an indictment against Henry for having opium in his possession illegally; Randolph Rainey, smuggling cigars across the Mexican line; Elmer Osborn, San Diego, smuggling a pair of ear-rings worth $40; W. L. Cowie, forging a signature to a money order; J. N. Lacey, alias J. de Lacey, bringing Adelina Galindo from Mexico for an immoral purpose; Gitaro Madokomo, violation of the Chinese exclusion act, in bringing Ng Sing and Wong Yet across the border. The accused is the owner of a large ranch near Calexico.

The most of the indicted men are in jail in San Diego, but those in custody in Los Angeles will be arraigned tomorrow morning in the United States District Court.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Paternalism Gone Mad.

LOS ANGELES, July 6.—[To the Editor of The Times:] A reformer is usually possessed of the idea that he is selected as a guardian for his fellowman. He allows incidents, accidents and at time mere vagaries, to influence his line of thought, and if he chances to get office he thinks of ridiculous things and attempts the regulation of other men, with strange results.

Los Angeles is now in the hands of the reformers, and the people should not be surprised at any idea of dictatorial or paternal government attempted. The people evidently like to be governed and taken care of by these new apostles of right, because they elected them to office. The "safe and sane Fourth of July" in Los Angeles is an example of reform; but a national disgrace.

The authorities made it a criminal offence to allow children to show national spirit, and the city was as lively as a winter graveyard.

Not satisfied with denouncing the Constitution of the United States as out of date, the reform does not care to celebrate the date of the Declaration of Independence, and because a few boys had burned their fingers in former celebrations they order that usual demonstrations be prohibited, and the result was that 150,000 people in Los Angeles spent $500,000 going to places where they could see some fireworks and enjoy an "insane" Fourth, if you please.

We do not care to raise a generation of mollycoddles, afraid of a big noise, who would cry like a baby because a "squib" chanced to burn their fingers and not know how to shoot a gun or handle gunpowder if occasion required.

The reformers quote Roosevelt continually, but he would despise a boy of that kind. However, Los Angeles reformers have peculiar ideas regarding life-saving laws.

He stops the celebration of the Fourth of July, but allows prize fights, aviation meets and automobile races when the people are disappointed if they do not witness a killing. Because some idiot kills himself with an aeroplane or automobile, why don't they pass laws prohibiting their use?

Now these meddlers propose to make it a crime to cross the street except at street crossings, forgetting that the right of citizens to the public highway is over a thousand years old. When it comes so that a man cannot cross a public highway, if he assumes the risk, paternalism is with us sure.

I would suggest that with this regulation the Los Angeles cranks should make it a crime to pass one of the new and expensive public comfort stations without at least trying to use them, even if not inclined. It would be hygienic and more sensible than many other regulations.

The Los Angeles reformer makes it a crime to shake dice for the drinks, but allows open games of dice for cigars on the public streets.

They make it a crime to have a slot machine which gives you a poor chance for your money, but allows five-cent machines which display scandalous and demoralizing pictures in public places.

The saloon regulations are so paternalistic as to become comical.

Some silly officials ordered glass doors without screens to be installed and I have yet to find the man who could explain what sense there was in the move.

The Los Angeles reformer shuts up the "red light" district and drives disreputable women all over the residence section.

Late developments prove that if money enough is in sight, little red lights can be lit.

Nothing escapes these fellows. In Los Angeles a citizen cannot sell or give away his garbage; the city pays a fortune to a monopolist who does about as he pleases with it; but creates so much talk over the question that none but native sons would think of eating California pork.

In California there reformers have commenced to adopt New Zealand laws regarding labor. In that country they fine a man for working in his own garden Sunday or after work hours, and in Los Angeles the Lord only knows when it is safe to work, and getting worse every time one of these reform bodies gets together and takes action—personal rights are not considered.

It is getting so that all you have to do to fasten some additional tyrrany upon the citizens is to impress one of these cranks in office with its importance, especially if it interferes with some other peoples' business; and zip! it is made into law.

It is clear to any student of political economy that these men intend to use the water power when developed to destroy the value of the $60,000,000 invested in public utilities in Los Angeles. They intend to force them into municipal ownership or bankruptcy.

Their rate-making and taxing powers give them power to destroy. In fact, it is the intention of this new national element to bring the business, the morals, the pleasures and the conduct of the people under a more complete control of bilious-minded reformers than is exercised by the Czar of Russia.

A Socialistic tyranny is more dangerous than that of an Emperor, because it is governed by whims, erratic and unreasonable, while a tyrant can be argued with and checked.

But go it! Los Angeles you are drawing near to that Socialistic heaven where everybody attends to everybody else's business. It will end in disgrace, graft and disaster, but the people like it, at present.

If the citizens enjoyed our safe and sane Fourth, they would enjoy a funeral. I had a couple of grandchildren come in from Arizona to see the Fourth, but felt like an old fraud for mentioning it to them.

ED. F. BROWNE.

Locomotive Engineer's Suggestion.

COLTON, July 7.—[Editor of The Times.] The constantly recurring accidents at railroad crossings at grade calls for some new law to protect the people who travel in vehicles, also the railroads from the carelessness of these same travelers.

Having been in train service for many years and at the head end where I had the best opportunity to observe conditions, I have no hesitation in asserting that the greater number of accidents are due to the recklessness or lack of proper care in approaching and passing over such crossings. And the injured party is ever ready to swear that the bell was not rung nor the whistle blown by the approaching train.

Not many months since, I was descending Beaumont Mountain and nearing the Redlands Road where the view was obscured by an orange grove and shade trees. Having given the regulation whistle, and the bell dinging, my fireman called to me to "hold her," and knowing that only danger ahead would call for such an exclamation, I applied the air brake full force checking the speed of the engine and just in the nick of time, for an auto containing two men, and running at a twenty-mile gait, crossed in front and so close, that the pilot of the engine barely missed the rear tire of the machine.

The firman's watchfulness and the sudden checking of the engine alone saved the machine from destruction, and possibly two lives.

This is but one of many instances that have come under my personal observation, and no doubt in all these cases the parties would be wiling to swear that the engine crew were not doing their duty.

Let us have a law that will compel all vehicles to come to a dead stop before crossing any railroads outside of city limits, with a penalty of placing the entire responsibility upon parties violating such law, of any and all accidents.

Of course there will be many accidents, even with such a law in operation, but it will place the responsibility where it belongs, and save much litigation, as a stop for a crossing gives the driver an opportunity to stop his 'joy talk' and see if the way is clear.

C. A. MCDONALD.

Why Actresses Never Grow Old

(Theatrical World.)

Nothing concerning the profession seems more puzzling to the dear old public than the perpetual youth of our feminine members. How often we hear remarks like, "Why, I saw her as Juliet forty years ago and she doesn't look a year older now!" Of course, allowance is made for make-up, but when they see us off the stage at close range, they need another explanation.

How strange women generally haven't learned the secret of keeping the face young! How simple a matter to get an ounce of mercolized wax at the drug store, apply it like cold cream, and in the morning wash it off! We know how this gradually, imperceptibly absorbs old cuticle, keeping the complexion new and fresh, free from fine lines, sallowness or over-redness. We know, too, that this mercolized wax is the reason actresses don't wear moth patches, liver spots, pimples and the like. Why don't our sisters on the other side of the footlights learn the reason, and profit by it?

CALIFORNIA BRIDE GETS IRISH ABBEY.

San Francisco Girl Owner of Old Muckross.

Place Rich in Legends and Natural Beauty.

Ruins Treasured Landmarks of Killarney Region.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

DUBLIN, June 12.—To Irishmen, especially those from the South, the most interesting news of the day is that the Muckross property, including the famous Abbey, has been leased by the San Francisco millionaire, William Bourne, who plans to buy it later on.

Close by the Abbey is Muckross House, a fine Elizabethan mansion with a matchless view of the lakes of Killarney. This house has been given by Mr. Bourne to his daughter who recently married a Limerick lawyer and farmer named Arthur Vincent. Here the Californian heiress is thoroughly enjoying herself, delighted with the scenery and the legends that surround the house, the Abbey and the lakes.

This Muckross demesne is without equal for beauty in all Ireland. As long ago as the fifteenth century it was famed among the monkish orders. The Franciscan Monastery of Irrelagh, or Muckross, was founded there in 1440, on the site of a still older establishment, by Donal MacCarthy, Lord of Desmond. This monastery flourished right along, with sundry restorations, till Cromwell invaded Ireland, when the Franciscans were ousted.

Today the ruins of the two principal parts—the residential quarters and the church—are among the treasured landmarks of the Killarney region. Evidently Cromwell's soldiers did their devastation thoroughly, for in 1750 the bell that used to summon the inmates to prayer was found at the bottom of the adjoining lake. Under the floor of the church there are many tombs of descendants of Eoghan More, both lay and cleric, and in the center of the choir a large altar tomb which formerly covered the remains of the McCarthy Mor and, more recently, the O'Donoghue Mor of the Glens.

NATURE REMEDIES DESOLATION.

Nature has to some extent remedied the desolation of the residential portion of the ruins, by supplying a decoration of wild and verdant drapery. The cloister, a quadrangle of moderate size, is by far the most beautiful and elaborate part of the Abbey. There is an arcade of twenty-six arches, ten of them semi-circular and twelve pointed. In the center of the quadrangle an immense yew tree affords a leafy shade to the entire cloister. A history of Kerry, written 160 years ago, describes this yew as being one of the tallest specimens known. Very likely the tree is as old as the monastery, for the yew tree was considered an appropriate ornament of such establishments from the earliest times.

According to old writers, a miraculous image of the Virgin used to be kept in the Abbey. Close by is the Muckross or middle lake of the Killarney group, and round that region hovers the spirit of legend and romance. In the long ago the great Chief O.Donoghue dwelt in his castle on Ross Island and ruled the Killarney territory. He was a brave and hospitable man, very unlike other prince of his time, but one day, for some unexplained reason, he plunged into the lake and disappeared.

Once a year, according to Irish belief, he revisits the lakes, galloping, one morning toward the end of May, clad in a suit of glittering white armor, mounted on a milk-white charger, along a course strewn with flowers by ghostly youths and maidens. And some years he pays an extra visit afoot, walking by the shore of the lake, or playing "hurly" on its surface.

TALE OF MAIDEN FAIR.

On the shore of the lake in that "once upon a time" a beautiful maiden named Melcha dwelt in a cottage. She was of a melancholy temperament and spent most of her time gathering wild flowers in the glens or wandering on the mountains. One evening, when on one of these rambles, she sat down to rest and while gazing into the water fell asleep, presently to be awakened by the sound of most charming music, drifting towards her over the lake. Gradually it became louder and she noticed with alarm that the surface of the lake was strangely agitated. Then a form, like that of a knight on a white steed, rose and approached her. She would have fled, but her trembling limbs refused to obey her impulse. Dismounting directly he reached the land, the rider drew near to her and bared his head. Instead of a fearsome specter, as she expected, Melcha saw a young and handsome chief, who with respectful tenderness strove to calm her fears.

On both sides it was a case of love at first sight, with ardent declarations of mutual attraction. His name, he said, was O'Donoghue, and for an offense against the Spirit of the Lakes he was doomed to wander over them till a young and beauteous maiden consented to become his bride. For centuries he had been in quest of her without avail. Then he gave a graphic picture of the life at the bottom of the lake, with its happiness in store for her if she would forsake the world and live with him. To all this Melcha listened with delight and at length consented to become his bride on an appointed day.

BRIDE GOES TO TRYST.

That morning dawned bright and beautiful, but with mingled feelings Melcha repaired to the trysting place at Glena, arrayed in bridal robes that soon were flecked by the dewdrops falling from the foliage. There she stood on a high rock overhanging the water, till once more the unearthly strains were borne upon her ear and then to her entranced vision came the picture of a procession of youths and maidens across the placid water, which glowed like a sheet of burnished silver in the morning light. Heading the procession rode O'Donoghue, in shimmering white, save for the scarlet scarf given him by Melcha at their first meeting.

Opposite the rock the procession drew up and the entire company ranged itself motionless in a semi-circle, facing the bride. Melcha realized with fear that she was expected to join her lover by leaping from the rock. Would she not drown? Would her knight have power to save her? These questions passed like lightning through her mind till she heard a low voice whispering in her ear:

"Fear not, fear not, lady fair;
Nothing shall harm thee in sea or in air."

The O'Donohue extended his arms toward her, as with a bound she plunged forward, and in a moment he caught her ere she fell. Together they sank into the clear lake, while again the unseen musicians played their bridal march. Never to this day has Melcha reappeared in the haunts of men.

Such is the region where the California heiress now holds sway—a region unmatched in all the world for legendary lore or natural beauty.

GOSSIP OF THE FOREIGN STAGE.

LONDON, June 17.—William Faversham, who with his wife, Julie Opp, is, as usual, spending the holiday at their English country house, is full of a new scheme to organize a Shakespearean company, with which he will start operations in America early next year. With this in view he has approached Ellen Terry. It would appear, she is not wholly indisposed to listen to the voice of the charmer, always supposing that he comes duly equipped with a fat checkbook. She has, in short, signified her willingness to consider a proposal on the condition that she receives $500 a performance with a minimum of seven performances in each week. That strikes Faversham as rather a steep proposition, and he is taking time to think it over. Among the parts which the fair Ellen would play are Emilia in "Othello," and the Nurse in "Romeo and Juliet." Faversham's company would further include himself, Julie Opp, Lauretta Taylor, of whom I hear excellent accounts, Tyrone Power and Frederick Ward. By-the-bye, Faversham tells me that he has acquired another play by Edward Knoblauch, entitled "Discovering America," which he proposes to produce next season.

I daresay the news has crossed the Atlantic of the success of the Irish players, who have their headquarters at the little Abbey Theater in Dublin. They are now appearing here at the Court, where they have been very cordially received. They are all racy of the soil and in their own domain are hard to beat. Their strength lies in the portrayal of Irish life and character and they rejoice in the support of a small group of native dramatists who display extraordinary cleverness in fitting them with roles. At the head of the organization stand the poet, W. B. Yeats and Lady Gregory, both extremely ingenious and imaginative playwrights. Arrangements have, I hear, just been made for the first appearance of the company in American next fall, and unless I am greatly mistaken they will do well.

In Manchester, Miss Horniman, daughter of the wealthy tea merchant of that name, is engaged upon a work very similar to that accomplished by the Abbey Theater people in Dublin. She has established there a Repertoire Theater, at which she produces pieces by untried dramatists or dramatists of the advanced school of Bernard Shaw, Granville Barker and John Galsworthy. She, too, has enjoyed considerable success, although, of course, she has enough money at her command to run the enterprise, were it necessary, as a losing concern. The fame of her company has got abroad and before the year is out its members are to be shipped to your side.

Both the Horniman and the Abbey Theater companies are eventually to make their way to Montreal, where at the Prince's Theater they are to be seen in a series of selections from their repertoires. There is, I am told, a project afoot to establish a National Theater in Canada, just to show the millionaires who founded the New Theater in New York how the thing can be done on a paying basis. When they have succeeded in proving this I would suggest a visit by the organizers to the mother country where we are still as far from having a National Theater as we ever were. The nearest approach to it is His Majesty's and it would surprise me in no way if, a few years hence, Tree should have parted with his property in order that the word "National" might be written over its portals and he himself appointed general manager.

George Alexander wants a holiday and, consequently, announces the last weeks of "The Witness for the Defense" at the St. James. To keep the house warm he will revive "The Importance of Being Earnest" again, with Hamilton Revelle in his own part, and A. E. Matthews in that formerly played by Allan Aynesworth. For some little time past you have enjoyed the monopoly of the services of both these actors and it will be interesting to see how absence has affected their respective methods. Early in September Alexander returns to his own theater to produce Henry Arthur Jones's new comedy, which, by the way, was written before "We Can't Be As Bad As All That." Apropos of Allan Aynesworth, he tells me he has practically concluded arrangements to sail for America shortly. William Brady has made him an offer to come over and support Grace George, and he is now only waiting confirmation by mail of the terms settled by cable. Now that he has abandoned juvenile roles, Aynesworth has ripened into an excellent actor and should find favor with your public. He is essentially of the English type, tall, fair and robust, a good sportsman and a capital fellow.

Theatrical managers are certainly the last people likely to rejoice over the coronation season. Earlier in the year many of them were disposed to wax jubilant over the prospects of a splendid harvest. Alas, their hopes have been turned to bitter disappointment. The cold snap we have experienced during this week has helped matters just a little and served to stimulate attendance somewhat. But I think everybody will be pleased —decorators and carpenters excepted —when matters have settled down once more into their accustomed groove and people have not to study seriously ways and means for getting about the town.

DEFERRED TWO MONTHS.

The District Court of Appeals has made an order that the hearing of all cases heretofore set for July 24, 25 and 26, 1911, be continued to September 16, 19 and 20, the call for hearing to be had upon the dates in September corresponding to the days of the week in July, upon which the cases were originally set. It has also been ordered by the same court that the examination of applicants for admission to the bar be continued from Monday, July 17, to Monday, September 25, 1911.

LIFE FLICKERS, FLAMES AGAIN.

SOCIAL LEADER, VICTIM OF AUTO, RECOVERING.

Woman Injured Last Month by Being Struck by Machine As She Was Getting Off a Car—Improves But Her Husband Says She Will Likely Always Bear Scars.

After hovering between life and death for three weeks, the result of having been knocked down and run over by an automobile as she was getting off a car at Ninth and Flower streets, Mrs. F. Earl Brown, wife of Dr. Brown, is recovering at the Burlington apartments, where she resides with her husband.

Mrs. Brown, who is one of the younger society leaders, was planning a series of entertainments and receptions for the visiting physicians of the A.M.A. when she fell a victim of the accident which nearly cost her her life. That her escape from instant death was almost miraculous is the belief of those who witnessed the accident, and her husband. Dr. Brown says that it is more than likely that she will always bear scars of the injuries sustained.

She received a severe surface fracture over the right eye, resulting in concussion of the brain, bruises of the face and body, and a broken right ankle, in addition to the severe nervous shock and general shaking-up.

It was at first feared that Mrs. Brown might be suffering from a compound fracture of the skull, but Dr. Brown says that as far as it is possible to determine at present the injury is not any more serious than an outer fracture. The injury is still too sensitive to more closely examine, he says.

Mrs. Brown will be able to walk with the aid of crutches in a few days.

The accident, in which Mrs. Brown was injured, occurred in the afternoon of June 19. She had just stepped from an east-bound West Ninth-street car, when she was struck by an automobile, owned and driven by F. W. Young of No. 1012 Grand View avenue. She was thrown to the street, the wheels of the automobile passing over her. She was knocked unconscious and was taken into a near-by store, from where she was taken to her home by her husband.

Young declared that he was attempting to dodge a man crossing the street, and did not see Mrs. Brown until too late to avoid running over her.

STAUB TO RESUME.

Proprietor of Boot and Shoe House Secures Very Desirable Lease, on Broadway.

The C. M. Staub Company, whose elegant shoe store in the Byrne building at Broadway and Third street was recently burned out, has determined to re-enter business and has leased the store formerly occupied by Godfrey's restaurant at Nos. 336-338 South Broadway, just south of Blackstone's. Mr. Staub and his associates will soon open for business with a new and fashionable stock, and will again be counted among the leaders.

COLLEGE MEN'S OUTING.

The College Men's Association of Southern California is arranging for an outing at San Pedro and Long Beach next Staurday afternoon. Points of interest about the inner and outer harbors of Los Angeles and Long Beach will be visited, after which there will be a dinner at the Virginia in Long Beach.

CONTRACTOR IN TROUBLE.

Henry B. Parsons, a building contractor, filed a petition in bankruptcy yesterday. His liabilities, secured and otherwise, are given as $10,344.80, and his assets, of which $100 is claimed as exempt, are scheduled at $961.87.

…GIRL COLDER.

… the American girl is … less emotional than the … girl, and her attitude toward … of unfailing good comradeship. Yet at the same time women are considered by the American men as a race apart, who must be placed upon a pedestal and propitiated by much attention and many offerings. In a sense, the chivalric instinct is almost too implanted in the American man, and in many of his ideas concerning women he is, although he would be horrified to be told so, curiously medieval. And here again we come upon one of those deep lines of cleavage which divide the American ideals of womanhood from the English.

In England before marriage the man and the girl see comparatively little of each other, but after marriage the common life is a necessity and the woman must be prepared to study his interests and to make them more or less her own. In America before marriage the man and the girl are excellent friends and comrades, enjoying much freedom in their intercourse; after marriage the two seem to lead separate lives.

The man is wholly wrapped up in his business, and the woman, when her work in the house is over, devotes most of her energies to the pursuit of social pleasures. In fact, they cannot be said to lead a common life. To a large extent this is the man's fault, for he as a rule considers his wife such a delicate object that she is, so to speak, put under a glass case and all cares and worries and even rightful responsibilities are carefully kept from her.

"She takes no active part in the man's everyday life, for she is often completely ignorant of his financial position and is absolutely dependent upon him for every penny. The idea of marriage settlements or a definite allowance is abhorrent to the American mind; and yet when all is said and done the American woman, with all her independence, is the most dependent of women, for is not he who holds the purse strings after all the real master?

PROBABLE DIVORCE CAUSES.

"In no other country does one feel more profoundly that the women are largely what the men have made them. It is more than probable that the large number of divorces in America are due to the unconscious desire on the part of the woman to find a real partner and comrade in life instead of the mere financial agent that the average American man is contented to be.

"It seems well-nigh impossible that with all her wondered brilliancy and energy of mind the American woman should fail in the future to bring her great talents to bear on the national life. At present these talents seem largely wasted, but there are signs that the awakening is at hand, and one cannot but believe that it will not be long before the American girl and woman awaken to the fact of the important part they have to play in the social welfare of their country.

"Today the English girl and woman seem to be in a state of transition, and one can only hope with confidence that the English women of the future will be able to apply their natural practical instincts to the solution of the many social problems of the day, in which they already take so large an interest. At the same time they would do well to take a leaf out of the book of their American sisters in the art of making the best of themselves both in looks and conversation. It is also about time that the English girl should abandon the attitude of past generations of her sex in regarding every man in the light of a possible husband and should begin to cultivate that habit of mind which makes real friendship and comradeship between the sexes a possibility."

QUONG WO'S CASE.

Under the writ issued by the State Supreme Court, in the habeas corpus action brought by Quong Wo to test the legality of what is known as the residence-district ordinance adopted by the Los Angeles City Council, it is ordered that the Chinese be on hand tomorrow when the writ is argued befort the court, in San Francisco. But a stipulation has been made by the attorneys representing the plaintiff and the city that it will not be necessary for Quong Wo to appear in person. The writ further orders the release of Quong Wo, on the deposit of $100 in cash, pending the disposition of the case, and this was done yesterday. He has been in the County Jail for more than a month.

Take Off The Fat Where It Shows

Most women suffer much humiliation and inconvenience, especially during the hot summer months, because of great quantities of fat, so located that, no matter how they dress, everybody sees that they are abnormal. This is the season and the day of the slender figure, and the fat women are simply not tolerated either in business or social affairs. Women may not know it, but men when they see a fat woman pass them on the street make all manner of sympathetic remarks about her. They do not mean to be unkind or to seem unmanly, but it is natural for a man to dislike fat on a woman. Where fat shows the most there is where it must be removed, and as quickly as possible. Hot weather dresses seem to be made for the fat woman's misery and the slender woman's delight. They expose all the charms of woman and her ugliness as well. Exercise and diet will not remove fat. This has been proved. The famous Marmola prescription which has met with such phenomenal success and has so many of our society women as its sponsors, is now being sold in tablet form to meet the demand of the public for this style of treatment. These little tablets go into your system just like food. They stop the stomach and digestive apparatus from producing fat and reduce the fat upon the body at the rate of from 12 to 15 ounces a day. They are harmless in hot as well as cool weather, and can be carried in your purse and taken even after you have indulged in a hearty meal away from home. They are sold at all drug stores at 75c a case, or if you prefer you may write the Marmola Co., 235 Farmer's Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

Traffic Record.

TO TAKE PLACE OF SANTA ROSA.

CONSTRUCTION OF STEAMSHIPS WILL BE RUSHED.

Fast Boats May Reduce Running Time Between Los Angeles and San Francisco—University of California Demonstration Train Very Popular.

A report has been made of the "farmers' demonstration train" conducted by the University of California and run by the Southern Pacific over its lines in California. The report shows that more than 76,000 farmers and others visited the train during the 1910-1911 run.

The train was first run by the railroad company in 1908, and in that year 37,270 persons viewed the exhibits in the cars. The number has grown greatly each succeeding year. The train covered 2608 miles in 1908, and held 239 meetings during the sixty-one days the train was out. During the 1909-1910 season, 3436 miles was covered, 220 meetings held with an attendance of 73,663, the train being out sixty-three days. More than 4000 miles was made during the 1910-1911 season. The train was out seventy-six days, 225 meetings were held at which there was a total attendance of 76,236.

This year the train had ten cars, five of which were coaches containing exhibits; two baggage cars, one standard sleeping car, one dining car, and a baggage car fitted with sleeping accommodations for the crew.

Ships to Cost Millions.

The loss of the Santa Rosa will probably lend a spur to the construction of the two new steamships recently ordered by the Pacific Coast company. The order is for 8000-ton vessels for the passenger trade. They will be built at the Huntington ship yards at Newport News, and will cost close to $2,000,000 each. They will be capable of making twenty-eight knots an hour and will tend to a further reduction of the running time between Los Angeles and San Francisco. It is expected that the new boats will be in commission in two years.

Commerce Member Coming.

Franklin K. Lane, member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, is coming to Southern California for his annual vacation. He will leave Washington this week and after a stay in San Francisco, will go to Santa Rosa to visit his parents, after which he will visit Southern California. Before returning to Washington, he will hear cases of minor importance in this and other cities of the State, concerning matters relating to interstate transportation. Application has already been made for the use of the Supreme Court room for the hearing to be held here.

Excursions to San Diego.

The Pacific Navigation Company, operating the Yale and Harvard, has arranged a special excursion trip to San Diego. The date is Tuesday, the 18th inst., and the occasion the exposition ground-breaking festival, opening the 19th. The Santa Fe railroad has also announced a reduced rate for the occasion.

Large Party Goes.

The Southern Pacific carried 250 members of the D.O.K.K. to Santa Barbara on a special train leaving the Arcade station at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. They will spend the day at the coast resort, returning to Los Angeles tonight.

POLITICAL TIPS.

It is alleged that Champ Clark may withdraw his name from further consideration in connection with the Democratic Presidential nomination next year unless ex-Gov. Folk withdraws his name, the reason given being that Mr. Clark will not be responsible for a split in his party in Missouri. The State convention last year indorsed Mr. Folk for the nomination, and Clark is said to feel that Folk should withdraw or else he himself must cease to ask for support before the national convention. This is really considered a shrewd way to bring the matter directly to Mr. Folk and put up to him the responsibility for any possible split in the Missouri Democracy.

Vice-President Sherman will go down in history as the presiding officer of the Senate who has decided more tied questions than any official in his line. He broke the record last session, when on three successive roll calls his vote was the deciding factor, the principal measure being the mail subsidy bill. Students of statesmanship then racked their memories to recall when a Vice-President previously had been called upon to exercise his particular vote-casting prerogative on an important question.

Congressman John A. Martin of Colorado is having the finger of Fame pointed at him because he has elevated himself from the former position of section hand on the Missouri Pacific Railroad to a place among the national lawmakers. The A.R.U. strike of 1894, which proved the undoing of so many railroaders who went out in that strike and lost their jobs forever, really proved the making of John Martin. He struck with the rest of the firemen on the Santa Fe road and when he found he could not return to railroading he went to studying law. He located in Pueblo, engaged in the law practice, became prominent as a Democratic politician, was elected to the State Legislature and finally to Congress, he now serving his second term as member of the national Legislature.

The Wisconsin Senate has hurt the tender sensibilities of United States Senator Stephenson by refusing a subscription of $25,000 for State parks, and by refusing to name a park after him.

When Senator O'Gorman of New York resigned his seat upon the Supreme Bench of the State and accepted one in the United States Senate his friends lauded him for answering a call of duty that took him from a position paying $17,500 a year to one paying only $7500, and one that would immediately plunge him into the vortex of politics. Those who did not know the Senator so well wondered why he did it. Perhaps if they knew that the Senator had picked up one fee as a lawyer since making the change equal in amount to the difference in his salaries they might cease to wonder. On the bench he could not practice law. Off the Bench, he becomes a member of a leading law firm as well as a United States Senator and can practice all he pleases. His prestige as a judge and that as a Senator both become assets in business to him.

Gov. Hadley of Missouri, who said recently that he wanted to know intimately every plant on his farm, has been studying botany since, and has made some interesting discoveries. A day or two ago he came across a strange and rambling plant, which he examined thoroughly. Now his hands and face are hot, but his ardor for botany has cooled. It was poison ivy.

England's election laws are certainly drastic. Sir Seymour King, who had been a member of Parliament for the Central Division since 1885, was unseated the other day because he had distributed coal and candies among his constituents in celebration of his semijubilee as their repsentative. The court held that his acts must naturally and necessarily have an influence upon the electorate although no corrupt motive was imputed to Sir Seymour.

President Taft may visit the Pacific Coast in September. He expects to make a western trip at that time though up to the present he has given no encouragement to the Pacific Coast suggestion. The President's itinerary for the September trip is still far from completion, but Tennessee, Michigan, Kansas and probably Utah and several other widely separate States will get a glimpse of him. The complete list of stopping places is to made public in August.

Baltimore has already secured subscriptions for considerably more than the $100,000 fund necessary to take the Democratic National Convention of 1912 to that city. The disposition of the National Committee cannot, of course, be learned at this early date. For many years—and especially since the Civil War—the Middle West has appealed forcibly to all national committees in the selection of a convention city and for the very good reason that it is more easily reached from all parts of the country.

Ex-Senator James Smith of New Jersey, whose re-election to the Senate Gov. Woodrow Wilson blocked, will have to be conciliated before the Democratic organization of Essex county takes up seriously the Wilson boom for the Presidential nomination, says the Washington correspondent of the Baltimore American. Mr. Smith is all-powerful in the party affairs of his own county, and has a large following in other parts of the State. He is very wealthy, and is known as a liberal spender in and before political campaigns. The election of Gov. Wilson is credited to the Smith influence by the partisans of the former United States Senator. Mr. Smith is the owner of the Newark Star, the most influential Democratic newspaper in the State. The Star supported the Wilson ticket with enthusiasm, as its owner believed at that time that if the Democrats won the Legislature would, with the backing of the Wilson members, send him again to the Senate. Since the Senatorship went elsewhere, and largely through the influence of the Governor, neither Mr. Smith nor his newspaper has had much to say in praise of the new executive.

The chances for the election of a Republican to succeed Gov. Hadley are deemed so good that the Republican party in Missouri is confronted with the prospects of a sharp contest for the gubernatorial nomination. During the past few weeks nine men have been mentioned for the Governorship, in addition to John E. Swanger, John C. McKinley and Judge John Kennish, heretofore suggested. In 1908 the party leaders and the rank and file were unanimous in their opinion that Gov. Hadley, then Attorney-General, should be the party's nominee.

The feature of the present session of the Georgia Legislature is the fight for the Senatorship left vacant by the death of Senator A. S. Clay and now held by Joe Terrell by appointment. The contest probably will be between Senator Terrell and Governor-elect Hoke Smith; but there are others who may figure in the fight, provided the opponents of Hoke Smith gather sufficient strength to bring about a deadlock.

"There is no question that President Taft is growing in the estimation of the people," said Edwin M. Clendenning, general secretary of the Commercial Club of Kansas City, in an interview in the Washington Post. When he signed the tariff bill there were many persons in the West who were inclined to doubt his courage, but the public mind has undergone a change since then, and his calling of an extra session of Congress has undoubtedly won him many friends. The people like moral courage in politics, and they have come to the conclusion that the President has this most admirable quality, as well as wisdom."

D. A. Canfield of Greeley, Col., a bank president and builder of great irrigation works, says in a Washington interview that "President Taft is getting stronger in Colorado each day, and those who were once against him are now his warmest friends. I feel sure that he will [illegible] in 1912 against any [illegible] crats can name."

[illegible]MAN BOSS OF BUNGALOW BUILDING, TURNS TO ARCHITECTURE AND PLAYS.

Book-Loving Maid and Mistress of Los Angeles Drift Away From Novels and Take to Works on Agriculture, New Thought, Poultry Raising, Law and Travel. Bible a Big Seller.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

"[F]IND out what the women are reading," said the editor. Now I know a woman who considers [illegible] knowing Chesterton deserves [illegible] inferno where the pen- [illegible] are the comic colored supple- [illegible] and the works of the sweet [illegible] of Michigan, and another who [illegible] that her fair young life would [have] been forever blasted if she had [illegible] the mauve-and-gold-covered [illegible] of Myrtle Reed, and [illegible] both real nice girls, too. So

"What kind of women?"

[illegible] of kinds. And I don't mean," [illegible] kindly but firmly, "what [illegible] were reading six months [illegible] or what they're going to read [illegible] summer, but just what the up-to-[illegible] woman is reading today."

[illegible] sounds very final. So I hur- [illegible] to a Broadway book- [illegible] I be out of date when I [illegible] wasn't a new book liable [illegible] any minute? In fact, don't [illegible] statistics tell us there are forty [illegible] every day, or every week, I [illegible] which, and that a person would [illegible] read 200 pages an hour, or [illegible] like that, to keep up with [illegible] books that are printed?

[illegible] turned to a heap of [illegible] and asked me if I meant the [illegible], and I said, No, I meant [illegible] much more subtle than [illegible] books all sorts of women [illegible]. I explained that I sup- [illegible] added the club woman's [illegible] and her maid's Bertha [illegible] together, one would probably [illegible] average on David Graham [illegible] he think so?

[illegible] with laughing apology [illegible] Bill Nye was asked what [illegible] helped him most, he had [illegible] his pocket book—which [illegible] irrelevant until one reflected [illegible] a dealer's views might [illegible] to be a little influenced [illegible] financial standpoint.

"[illegible] the play's the thing," the deal- [illegible] obligingly. "Zangwill, Ib- [illegible] Sudermann, Stephen Mil- [illegible] Galsworthy, Fitch, Pi- [illegible] women are demanding [illegible] in shoals. This city has [illegible] the largest reading publics for [illegible] in the United States.

"ANTI-MATRIMONY" FOR HER.

[illegible] in a white tailor suit [illegible] hat Nance O'Nelled in, [illegible] one of the new plays. [illegible] on the verge of Gals- [illegible] "Mary Magdalene,"—his lat- [illegible] finally decided on Percy [illegible] "Anti-Matrimony."

"[illegible] student?" I asked when [illegible]

[illegible] he guessed so, but [illegible] not alone in its [illegible] plays. "Club women, shop [illegible], everybody is [illegible]. No, I don't think it's [a] fad. I believe it's because [illegible] dealing with the problems of [illegible] social and ethical life, [illegible] other class of writing."

[illegible] a plain, but old lady, with [illegible] and her hair slicked back, [illegible] and asked for Maeter- [illegible] "The Blue Bird."

[illegible] little disciple, by all that's [illegible] mentally. "Now, [illegible] does she want of that [illegible]

[illegible] at home says it's [illegible]," she said sim- [illegible] and the mystery was [illegible] it's safe to refer to what the "classes" read, since in these days of evening high schools and study clubs, you are quite as apt to find your maid taking her afternoon off reading "Pragmatism" or Bernard Shaw, as in poring over Robert Chambers's thrillers. Mrs. Southworth may be backed right off the boards by the "Squaw Man," even with the gentle maid who brings in your hash. Even the pretty girl with the silver locket and latest coiffure at the glove counter who sold me my red silk elbow-lengths, when I asked her what she was reading, said she "didn't like them silly love stories very much," but confessed to a weakness for one of the high-class women's journals—didn't I think it was nice? And when I assured her it was "nice," and asked her how she liked the articles in the magazines on political and social questions, said, with a lighting up of her daintily pretty face: "Oh, you bet! Me for them strong!"

SCRATCHING HEN IS HERS.

Just then, a woman in a smart tailor suit and walking hat and driving gloves came in and asked for a copy of "Agriculture in America."

"I just came in from the ranch," I heard her say. She turned and I recognized an old school acquaintance.

However, it appeared she hadn't allowed either her sense of humor or her sense of clothes to sag or run down at the heel, even if she did raise poultry and alfalfa.

"What are you reading?" I asked her.

"Mrs. Basley's Poultry Book," she answered promptly.

"Mrs. Basley"—I'm sure my mouth dropped open.

"Yes, you know when you see a chicken sitting on his elbows, you know that's not a natural chicken attitude, and you go in and ask Mrs. Basley about it, and she always knows. And I want some other books, too. Yes, 'Marie Claire,' by that French seamstress, will give me exercise in my French. And that Yale professor's book—Phelps' 'Modern Novelists,'—I must have that." And having paid for her books, she took herself briskly away.

The book dealer explained that this woman's purchases illustrated the attitude of women in the reading world. They are reading the same books as their husbands and brothers, and the men they work for. If a woman is working for a lawyer, she reads law books—they told me at the library, by the bye, that their copies of Blackstone are never in—if she is working for an architect, she reads magazines and books on architecture.

Presently, a handsome white-haired club woman drifted in and, looking vaguely round, asked for something on art. The bookseller handed her Irving Babbitt's "Confusion of the Arts," and "The New Laokoon," and she drifted out again, and into her limousine, and away down Broadway.

"There's a tremendous lot of reading being done by women, nowadays, on art," said the bookseller, "as a matter of fact the era of novel-reading is going out rapidly, even among women."

BIBLE BIGGEST SELLER.

At another bookstore, further down Broadway, they told me that they sold more Bibles that anything else—twenty-five to one!

"There aren't so many Bibles sold now, because the times are good, but take hard times, and we sell lots of them," the clerk told me naively.

Then something occurred that I simply must tell—though "those who don't know how to take it, had better not," as Fra Elbertus says.

A severe lady in spectacles stood near the Bible counter. In blew a harmless little lady in a fresh-laundered linen suit and white Panama, and asked for something to read. The severe lady stepped over, and with a disapproving glance at the little lady's fresh toggery, pointed a prim finger at the heap of Bibles.

The freshly-clad lady was in a quandary. She started, blushed, and wishing not to be rude, stammered, gently: "I—I—to tell you the truth, I've read that!"

And the severe lady faded away.

Then a quietly well-dressed young woman stepped up to the polite little lady who serves you with fiction. "I want Price Collier's latest book," she said, and the clerk handed her "The West in the East." She paid for it and went out. Much to my surprise the polite little lady said:

"That girl is a parlor maid out on Adams street. She works for a club woman. She has seen such books as this lying about. Doubtless she catches the club woman's spirit from little talks most women indulge in with their servants, and she is a good customer of ours on all the books that deal with up-to-date questions. And she's rather surprisingly typical of her class, too.

"But really," she went on, "the most popular books we have,"—I heard this in all the places I visited, by the way—are Olive Schreiner's 'Woman and Labor' and Ella McKee's 'Love and Marriage.' As a matter of fact women are reading on all the questions that relate to the betterment of their sex, and also books dealing with civic reforms, public playgrounds, etc. There is a series of books published by the Russell Sage Foundation in civic improvement, housing reform and tenement relief, and these are greatly in demand. 'Women in Industry' is another of the popular books that up-to-date women are reading."

WILD CALL GETS CALL.

A tourist-looking lady came in and demanded some books on summer travel, and I learned that "Yosemite Trails," Muir's "My First Summer in the Sierras," and "A Vagabond Journey Around the World," by Henry Franck, and even Hichens's old books on Egypt and Jerusalem, are eagerly read by women at present.

At a well-known bookstore around on First street, a clever lady holds forth. She said:

"We're selling more of 'The Rosary' and 'The Mistress of Shenstone,' than of any other novels, though 'Love's Pilgrimage,' by Upton St. Clair is running a close second, and next in interest comes 'The Prodigal Judge,' by Kester. But the brutal realism and cynicism of such writers as David Graham Phillips have somewhat disgusted women with novels. They are turning from them to problems of everyday life. But not from taste, I believe. If they can get the romantic novel, the novel that turns out well, that's what they like. Curiosity compels them to read other things; but just give a woman a good sniffy old novel, with big chunks of love-interest, and high-voltage thrills, and the hero and heroine doing a strong clinch on the last page, and she'll pass up Ibsen and Bernard Shaw every time."

As if to prove it, in came a fat lady and asked with a longing look for "that there sequel to 'The Rosary.'" She got it, gave it a hungry glance, clasped it in a pudgy arm, and went out with a sigh of satisfaction.

"Souls in Action," and "Christ-born Men," telling of conditions in the lower walks of life, I found also to be selling at a lively rate, and as I was bending over a new catalogue, two beautifully dressed women came in and asked for "Twenty Years in Hull House," by Jane Addams. They discussed it earnestly, bought it and went out, and I was told that this book is among the big sellers.

Down at the Public Library, a thin, nervous woman was absorbed in a book which she had picked up from the counter. The girl was checking off the pile from which the woman had taken it, and asked her for it. She didn't answer. She was too absorbed. Again the young woman politely asked her to hand back the book. Still she did not respond. I looked at the title: "The Moving Finger," by Oppenheim. Then I didn't blame her. She was at one of those thrilling pages in the center of the book. Then the girl gently took hold of a corner of the book, and the woman looked up wildly, jerked the book away, and exclaimed: "Mind your own business!" That was a dreadful thing to do, of course. But—Well, you remember the attic, and the Arabian Nights, and mother's call to supper—Yes, I see you get me. Same thing.

A meek little lady in glasses came in and asked, very low, for something on woman suffrage, looking all the while as if she were afraid her husband might catch her at it. The girl handed her "Vindication of the Rights of Women," and I'll bet she keeps it under the cosy-corner cushions, along with the two dollars she's saved up from her housekeeping money, and young Tom's deck of cards, and "snatches a fearful joy" in reading it when hubby isn't there, same as young Tom does playing cards.

A woman with bright, black, uneasy eyes, leaned across and asked for Stedd's book on spiritualism. There were marks of suffering on her face, the haunted look of the mystic, and hungrily, eagerly, she was glancing through its pages, even as she passed from our sight. Beside her, a thin, intense, little woman, with burning eyes, had waited for the other to get through. Then she asked for Lombroso's "After Death, What?" and one learned that books on spiritualism, new thought, and kindred subjects in the occult are among the most popular on the shelves. Women are absorbed just now in Sir Oliver Lodge's "Silence and Immortality," Pollak's "Hygiene of the Soul," and Trine's "On the Open Road."

In contrast was a wholesome woman of the sort who lives in a bungalow, and has a husband with a job, and three children. She wanted something on architecture, and went away happy with Wilson's Bungalow Book tucked under her arm.

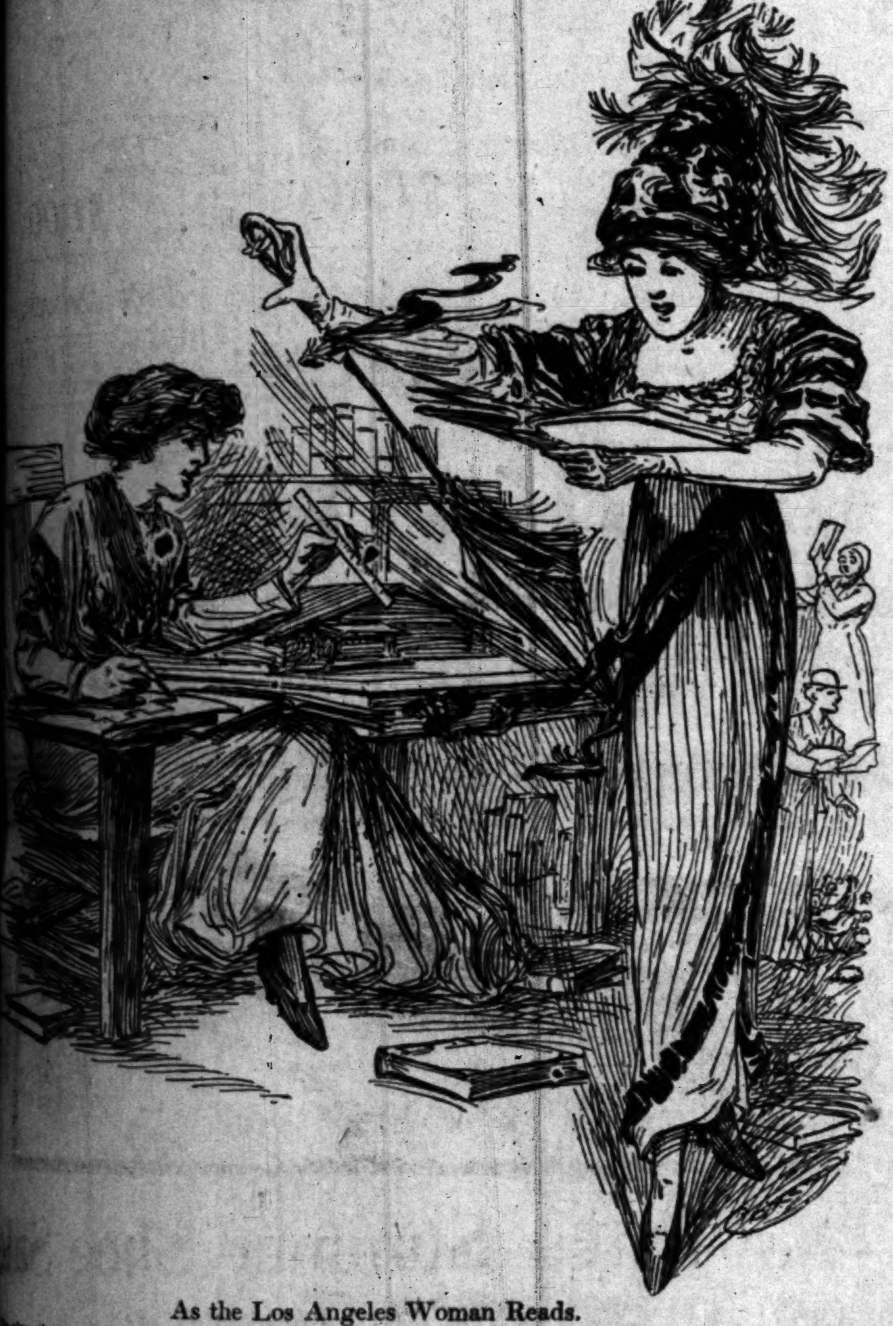
"It's the women largely who are doing the building, now-a-days," said the attendant, "and we receive a tremendous lot of calls for the book I just gave out, and for 'The House Beautiful.'"

Just then, two kid girls, with their hair down their backs, took away "Bohemian Paris,"—Heaven knows why, and a small girl in spectacles came in and asked for Lafacadio Hearn's Essays.

It seems that placid-faced old ladies run to blood-curdling detective stories, while their younger sisters are solving the problems of the universe, and as I left, a sweet old soul in a black bonnet was asking for Oppenheim's "Lost Leader."

And as for poetry, alas, alas! Except for some latter-day verse—Theodosia Garrison and Stephen Phillips—the poor poet may get back and starve in his little odd garret for all the woman of the day cares.

But as an encouraging offset, she's developing a sense of humor, and is buying Mark Twain—and Howell's and Henderson's delightful "Lives" of him—as never before.



As the Los Angeles Woman Reads.

[illegible] play, the book of bungalow-planning and building, and chicken-raising are among her favorite topics.

FACTS FEATURES AND FANCIES FOR WOMEN.

By Olin Gray

DAILY BEAUTY HINT: A girl who has a fine complexion tells me that she uses frequently a wash of borax and water, almost full saturation, allowing it to dry on the face. She also uses a considerable quantity of powdered borax in her bath. Possibly this might not agree with every skin, but judging by her appearance, it is worth trying.

I learned something the other day which was rather shocking to me, and I feel certain that it will be to you. That is the manner in which some women abuse the privilege of returning goods to the stores. You know it IS a privilege and not a matter of course, that goods may be returned after they have been taken home; but some women do not seem to realize it.

One of our feminine faults is changing our minds. I have even heard it said that the only compensation for being a woman was the privilege of changing one's mind. I do not feel that way, and I am sure you don't; but, really, I try to avoid changing my mind very often even when I want to. Sometimes I force myself to continue with what I have started, even when I am convinced that it would be better not to; and when I have made a mistake in buying something and wish I hadn't, I go without something else, just to teach myself better, rather than humor myself by exchanging it.

One of the salespeople in a big store tells me that they sometimes have goods returned long after they have ceased to carry that kind. One lady brought back an article, when the girl who sold it to her had been dead and buried over two years. The long-ago buyer said that the article had never been out of her trunk in all that time and she did not see why it should not be returned. I once heard a woman boast that she had taken back a pair of shoes which she had bought a year previous and had taken East, thinking she would need them, but as she did not happen to like their style later (perhaps the styles had changed!) she took them back.

When it was discovered at the exchange desk that a certain article was not purchased at that store, the shopper said: "No, it was not; but So-and-So would not take it back and I knew you were liberal about exchanges, so I thought I would try it here."

Now I am sure all this is thoughtlessness, rather than an intention to defraud, or to impose upon good nature. Just think of the amount of money wasted in the labor of clerks, wrappers, and delivery man in the mere exchange of goods! Think that each store must maintain a special department for exchanges. If any appreciable proportion of these exchanges had a shadow of good reason it would be different; but, in many instances there is absolutely none. This is so well recognized that at most places they do not ask a cause; but simply "take their medicine," as the saying is. Of course, where there is anything wrong with the goods, that is different. That is how the exchange department originated; but, I am sorry to say, all women did not truthfully explain why the goods were exchanged. There is no doubt that the custom has grown into a great nuisance; and I hope that when it is called to their attention, many women will do their share toward mitigating the evil. If any of my readers have the exchange habit, let us join hands to cure her. A daily draught of "Do as you would be done by" is excellent for such a trouble.

Selling Out.

In a high-class millinery establishment, which is selling out, owing to ill-health of the owner, one may find some excellent bargains. For instance, I was offered for $5 a dress hat which had been priced at $15. A hemp shape formerly $6 was marked $1, and so on. Fine flowers are also marked very low for this closing-out sale.

Bargains for Men.

I notice that men are not slow to take advantage of bargains. At a big Broadway store which is holding a clearance sale I saw men buying pretty neckties—two for a quarter, which had been twice that price, and for less than a dollar those which had been double that. These were handsome and in good style. There were some extremely cheap ones which I heard some men declare were plenty good enough for summer wear with negligee.

At Another Place.

At another establishment on Spring street I noticed that the men had found the high-class outing shirts for half price and were laying in a supply, just as we do of gloves, handkerchief, hose or any other always-needed articles when bargains are offered.

Annual.

Bright and early on Monday morning, there will be a throng before the door of one of the big ladies' furnishing establishments on Spring street! There is no doubt about this, for at that time the annual sale of this store will open. Women who like exclusive styles and really high-class ready-to-wear garments, wait and watch for this sale. It is better than ever this season, I understand. You see the heavier garments for fall use are already coming in, and that makes it necessary—or at least prudent—to make room by disposing of the summer stock.

For Sunday Dinner.

The wise housekeeper will simplify the Sunday dinner in summer. If she wishes to have dinner at home, instead of out under the open sky as she really should—it is best to plan so that she will not be obliged to spend the whole day in cooking and washing dishes. Many foods may be cooked or prepared the previous day, and for dessert—if she wishes to give the family a genuine treat, she will order one of those delicious bricks of ice cream which are so inexpensive and so appetising. Just to know that ice cream of this character is to complete the summer day's dinner, lends zest to every dish upon the table! I know one housekeeper who always makes a mystery of the dessert; but when it is ice cream, she always manages to place in full sight the dishes habitually used for this dainty, so that the family "discovers" what is coming. She says that this "clue" makes the entire meal a grand success.

Household Hint.

The good housekeeper says that she always saves odds and ends of cheese for grating to make cheese dishes. She prevents these pieces from moulding by putting them away in salt until needed. This helps to dry them and prevents them from gathering moisture.

A New Picnic Dish.

During this season when eating in the open is such a pleasure, a new way of preparing eggs for fresco service is really a boon. Some time try this. Boil a dozen eggs for about twelve minutes then drop them into cold water and remove the shells without breaking the whites. Cut the eggs through the middle, remove the yolks and mix with them chopped ham or chicken, salt and pepper, a tablespoonful of bread crumbs, one tablespoonful of minced parsley and a few drops of lemon juice. Fill the eggs with this mixture, but not too full, and put the eggs together. Press tightly and roll in the white of an egg, then in bread crumbs. Fry in deep fat to a delicate brown. Served cold with a mayonaise, these are a delightful change from the usual cold boiled eggs, or deviled eggs.

WHATS' DOING IN THE CLUBS.

H. E. Huntington, founder and perpetual president of the Jonathan Club, is expected to arrive here from New York for an extended stay some time the latter part of this month. Out of deference to long expressed desire of Mr. Huntington there will be no demonstration nor reception or anything of that kind when he returns. The always efficient attendant on duty at the portals of the club will take Mr. Huntington's hat and bag to the trolley builder's accustomed quarters, and the latter will drop into some accustomed groove, perhaps a game of dominoes with one of his old associates, or a chat with a coterie of men who may be associated with him in one or more of the numerous enterprises with which Mr. Huntington is still allied, and from which he has not removed his dominating hand.

There will be another of the "regulars" return this month. W. E. Dunn, personal attorney for the Huntington interests, shortened his trip abroad because of the death of Walter Trask but returns greatly improved in health because of his three months sojourn across the Atlantic. Dunn had charge of the negotiations which finally resulted in the transfer of the interurban trolley lines controlled by Huntington to the Southern Pacific several months ago, and he went abroad for a rest.

Apropos of the trolley deal there is something of concern to the Jonathan Club. With the transfer of the trolley properties was included the Pacific Electric building occupied by the station and various offices, and the top two floors the quarters of the club. While the Southern Pacific officials are entirely too polite to mention it and the customary exclusiveness that hedges the club prevents open discussion for outside ears there is every probability that when the club's lease expires on its present quarters it will vacate them, perhaps for a new and modern building to be occupied exclusively by the club. The Southern Pacific and its allied companies, including the Pacific Electric, need the space occupied by the club. But the club is wealthy, with a large and comfortable surplus on hand, and while no-one is disposed to admit it, it is understood that a "secret committee" is prospecting for a site for the new club building. The lease has still a year or two to run and there is plenty of time, but it is safe to predict that the club will have a new building.

History is perhaps not out of place here. When Huntington built the Pacific Electric he confronted the problem of finding tenants for the numerous offices in the building. To meet this demand he and his associates proposed leasing the top floor of the building to the flourishing California Club. But this proposition failed of anything near unanimous approval and from the storm that arose the Jonathan Club was born. It grew and grew and the offices in the building were taken. Perhaps much of the early prosperity was due to the very nominal rent Mr. Huntington exacted from the club, but be that as it may, this nominal rent does not appeal to the present owners of the building, combined with the fact that the Southern Pacific and its numerous auxiliary organizations really need the space.

The California Club is something of a flourishing institution itself. It has its own building at the northwest corner of Sixth and Hill streets, but in order to preserve its own individuality is opposed to expansion in either its membership or its building. Quite recently it was suggested that the club enlarge but it was successfully opposed on the theory that too large a membership destroyed the very essence of club life in that such an organization is supposed to include a membership devoted to comradeship and a close acquaintance which a larger membership and bigger quarters would tend to lessen if not destroy. Anyway the club does not propose to increase its membership, expand its building, or sell its present high priced realty for the purpose of building in a neighborhood where real estate is not worth so much. One of the chief assets of the club is its accessibility to its membership.

Like its contemporaries, the Jonathan and the California, the Union League Club, in its new quarters at Second and Hill, is well up to its limit of membership, and is very comfortable with no desire for a change, the members taking a just pride in the success that has attended the history of the organization.

Douglas Keith, superintendent of the California Institute for the deaf, dumb and blind, is being investigated. The charge is made that he does not understand the sign language. He urges in defense that he has been trying to teach the inmates lip movements. If necessary he will get one of the instructors to coach him up on signs.

POSTOFFICE ROBBER TALKS OF HIS REFORMATION.

Secures Position in Eucador As Agent for Phonograph Concern; Expects to Leave Following Trial of Attorney Who Appropriated Embezzled Money.

"I'm going away to start all over again. I have made many mistakes and suffered for them, but I believe there is yet a chance to make a man of myself and live honestly."

The speaker was Orlanda Fallieres Altorre, the young Afro-American, who stole $15,000 from the Los Angeles postoffice in June, 1909, and then, as he asserts, told Attorney Fred H. Thompson where the money was cached, with the result that Thompson appropriated the cash and charged it to attorney fees. Thompson denies this allegation and whether or not the contention of Altorre is correct, it occupied the attention of a jury in the United States Court for nearly two months, only to result in a mistrial on account of the illness of Juror Ingersoll.

Altorre was in constant attendance at the trial, and he called yesterday at the office of United States Marshal Lee V. Youngsworth, for the purpose of securing his fees, amounting to about $75. But he did not get the money, as the fee fund has been exhausted and the voucher will be held until there is something to draw from.

Altorre said that he expected to spend the time until the next hearing of the Thompson case, in September, in San Francisco, and after the conclusion of the case he will go to the city of Quito, the capital of Ecuador, where he has secured a position as agent of a large phonograph establishment.

"I have friends in South America, and I believe I can make good," Altorre said yesterday. "But I shall be here to tell all I know about Thompson and give the authorities the benefit of my connection with his case."

Panama Government Lands

Will Soon Advance

From $5 to $6 Per Acre

The Opportunity of Buying Panama Government Lands at Any Price Will Soon be Gone. The Present Price of $5.00 Per Acre Will Expire August 1st. On and After That Date the Price Will be $6.00 Per Acre.

These lands are the most fertile in the entire world. There is not an acre of land we can offer you that will not be worth ten times its cost by the time the Canal is opened, while if you buy in localities where American colonies are to be established, it is likely to be worth from $500 to $1000 an acre.

If the selection of the lands be left to us, we will locate you in just such districts. With a soil map showing the character of the land, and its proximity to the improvements of the district, a buyer can obtain as accurate an idea of his purchase as though directly on the ground. The time to buy is NOW.

EUROPE IS SINKING.

The Dutch Coast Line Sinks Eight Inches Every Century—Subsidence Occurring Elsewhere.

Geologists have of late years come to the conclusion that the entire Central European plain, which extends from Southwestern France through the low countries and North Germany to the Russian Baltic provinces, is slowly sinking. The lowest section of this great coastal region is that part of Holland which lies from fifteen to twenty feet below sea level and has to be protected by immense dams and dykes against the danger of being submerged.

A Dutch engineer named Ten Cate has studied this subject and he deals with Holland's danger at length in De Ingenieur, a Dutch technical paper. His investigations go back 2000 years, and his conclusion is that the Dutch coast line sinks eight inches every 100 years. This does not seem very alarming, but every little counts in a country which lies naturally so low as the Dutch coastal provinces. Besides, there is no justification for assuming that the settling down process will always be regular, and a sudden subsidence would be a very grave matter, indeed.

Ten Cate proves his assertions by pointing to the situation of remains of Roman settlements in the low countries, which he calculates must now lie from five to fifteen feet below their original level. They were built some sixteen centuries ago. There are, of course, the historical facts of the formation of the Zuyder Zee, the Dollart and other bays at great flood tides.

Sufficient data exist for the last 200 years, according to which the subsidence of the Dutch littoral can be figured out to a nicety, and for the period it amounts to thirty-six centimeters, or about 14⅕ inches. A further indication of the lowering of Holland's level is the fact that the low hills or mounds to which, as late as the middle ages, people and their cattle used to flee for safety at flood times would not now afford the necessary protection.—[Baltimore American.

PERFECT HEALTH

Do You Know that Oxygen is the Essence of Life and Health? It is Oxygen that Imparts Life and Energy to the Blood. What the System Needs is Oxygen to Vitalize the Blood. Oxygen Kills the Germs at Once

THE OXYPATHOR GIVES

PERFECT HEALTH PROTECTION

No Doctor Bills---No Drugs---
No Electricity---No Massage

Few of us stop to reason why pure, fresh air is good for us. It's because the great active principle in air is oxygen.

The purer the air the more oxygen it contains. Scientists have found that 95 per cent. of the vital force of the human body is derived from the air we breathe.

Then do you wonder that so many people are ill when this vital matter is so generally neglected?

Disease is largely, if not wholly, caused by the lack of Oxygen in the body, for the blood is then deprived of the power of clearing out the germs and poisons. The only known method of restoring to the blood its normal supply of Oxygen is by the OXYPATHOR. It causes every cell of your body to absorb this life-giving element in immense quantities until your whole system vibrates with strength and vitality.

You or some one near and dear to you is suffering from weakness or disease. Drugs and doctors have given only temporary relief—they have failed to cure.

You have often said to yourself, "How I wish I knew of something that would surely cure."

Your Wish Will Come True

All that we ask is the opportunity to positively prove it to you—absolutely remove all your doubts and misgivings—to help you to verify with your own eyes and ears all the good news.

If the glad tidings seem to be too good to be true just remember that this is the age of wonders and then give yourself the privilege of investigating it for yourself as you have other conquests of modern science.

It is an impressive sight to view the great mass of letters before us, testifying to the remarkable work that OXYPATHY is doing in relieving and curing the sick and suffering of their diseases—diseases that in many instances had been pronounced by the attending physicians as beyond the reach of any earthly aid, as these letters will show.

The Oxypathor

HAS overcome nearly every disease with Oxygen. A thousand people here in Southern California will indorse FROM THEIR OWN EXPERIENCE these testimonials:

A Letter of Intense Interest to Women.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 14, 1911.

* * * You will remember what a terrible time I had when first taken sick in September. Physician said he could do nothing for me. Was in bed five weeks in that condition. Then we got an OXYPATHOR and in a very short time I could eat anything and I gained 10 pounds in 3 weeks. Just after Christmas I was taken seriously sick, caused by too much excitement and overdoing when we moved. The OXYPATHOR was applied at strong force and gave almost immediate relief. I use it every other day and doubt if a day passes that it is not in use, and I often loan it to a friend for an afternoon to relieve some pain. It has never failed yet. My husband's eyes have been helped by it to a great extent. I only hope my experience will help others, especially women to avoid their many troubles. Sincerely, 1445 West 1st Street. MRS. C. L. WOODBURN.

Cured Terrible Headaches

Pasadena, Cal., March 8, 1911.

The Oxygenator Co.,

Gentlemen: From the time I was an infant I have been greatly troubled with sick headaches usually occurring about once a week and lasting for about 48 hours. No one can conceive the terrible suffering caused by these sick headaches. To afford relief I resorted to headache powders, the excessive use of which affected my general health which began to fail me five years ago. I was also troubled with Insomnia, seldom getting to sleep before four or five o'clock in the morning, and at times have gone as long as 48 hours without five minutes sleep.

My kidneys were also affected. One doctor said I had Bright's Disease. I also had Catarrh very badly, so you see my troubles were numerous, and but for the OXYPATHOR I would still be a total wreck and unable to earn my living.

Through all these years I have searched for a remedy that would restore my health, but all alike were failures, until I found the OXYPATHOR.

This is the first Winter I have ever gone through without catching a severe cold. I can now sleep at any time and under all conditions. I can eat most anything and I go paddling through the rain like a duck without the slightest inconvenience, thus one by one my ills left me. Tongue nor pen can never express the thanks which I owe you for having promoted this most wonderful of all inventions. Yours very truly,

Raymond avenue. LEMUEL VEILEX.

Neuritis and Insomnia—in Less Than Two Months in Perfect Health

Cor. Orange and Citrus, Redlands, Cal., May 15, 1910.

Gentlemen: On the 12th of September, 1908, I purchased an Oxygenator at your office for my wife, who had been afflicted for several months with a severe attack of neuritis and insomnia. Previous to purchasing an Oxygenator we had exhausted all other means to get relief, and as a last resort we decided to try Oxypathy. From the first treatment she began to notice beneficial results, and the pain which could not before be relieved by continuous use of morphine, now began to diminish rapidly and after two weeks she was absolutely free from pain. She continued the treatment as per directions and in less than two months she was in perfect health, with the whole nervous system built up to its normal state.

Personally, the Oxygenator has cured me of a very annoying case of muscular rheumatism in less than one month's time. The Oxygenator has already saved me many times its cost, and money could not induce me to dispose of it unless I could procure another one.

You have my permission to use this communication in any way you wish, as I consider it an honor to be able to endorse a curative agent that possesses so much merit and represents such a noble cause. C. L. JEWELL.

A Family Doctor

Los Angeles, Cal., May 25, 1910.

The Oxygenator Co.,

My Dear Friends: We have tried the OXYGENATOR for two months and can say it is a wonderful life saver as well as life preserver.

It has kept the sick from dying and the well from getting sick. It has been tested in a severe cold for my sister who is here from Indiana, who has never before known what it is to have it broken up, but was always laid up from a month to six weeks. In this case it commenced with a severe cough and sore lungs, at other such times she could not sleep at nights for coughing, but after applying the OXYGENATOR, slept all night without coughing and in three nights the trouble was entirely broken up. We also tried the OXYGENATOR in case of vaccination of this sister's little boy, who was in a terrible fever, running high, and sick at the stomach. In 20 minutes after applying the OXYGENATOR, the fever lessened, the stomach ceased its heaving, and before morning the fever was entirely gone and by nine next morning the little boy was out of bed and his arm was soon well.

We also used the OXYGENATOR for any one of the family who might be too tired to sleep at nights. Its restful influence in the morning was felt not alone in the morning, but fully realized throughout the day.

It is certainly a wonderful invention, and we can recommend it to any one sick or well, young or old.

Sincerely yours for the advancement of the OXYGENATOR.

Sciatic Rheumatism

El Paso, Texas, Jan. 21, 1911.

The Oxygenator Co.,

Gentlemen: I am 76 years old. Have had rheumatism for the past 20 years. Have been to five different hot springs, including those at Little Rock, Arkansas, and Santa Rosaline, Mexico. I have been treated by numerous physicians, taken all kinds of medicines and have even carried an Irish potato in my pocket. That looks foolish but the potato did me as much good as the medicine and the doctors. About five years ago my hip joints got so stiff that I couldn't get into a buggy. I had to have an extra step put on the buggy.

On the 1st of April, last, I bought and used an OXYPATHOR and at present I feel twenty-five years younger. I can get in and out of my buggy without trouble, and I can get on my horse, a thing I wasn't able to do for fifteen years. My knees pained me so at night I had to put a pillow between them, but I don't do that now. The OXYPATHOR has improved my eyesight so much that I have had to get my glasses changed.

Infantile Paralysis

Lindsay, Cal., U.S.A., Feb. 4, 1911.

So. California Oxygenator Company,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Gentlemen:—I write to acknowledge receipt of the OXYPATHOR O. K. I have been using it on a little girl, the daughter of a friend of mine, who has Infantile Paralysis.

She has been treated by two physicians who claim she would be crippled for life.

She has used the OXYPATHOR for only a few times and can now use her limb some, which she can raise up and almost stand on.

You can imagine the joy of the parents and friends of this child. I feel sure the treatment is going to prove one more VICTORY FOR OXYPATHY. You will hear from me again very shortly. Respectfully yours, J. C. WARD.

A Pacific Hospital Graduate Nurse, whose patient bought an Oxypathor for paralysis, wrote to us after six months' use as follows:

Speaking from a Graduate Nurse's point of view, having had eight years experience in therapeutics both in Institutional and private nursing, I feel able, and desire to express my opinion of the OXYPATHOR.

Have tried for various ills, acute disease as well as chronic conditions; can truthfully say it accomplishes RESULTS where doctors and medicines fail. I have given my undivided attention to Oxypathy the past six months, and find it never failing; results WONDERFUL in acute conditions, for instance, Tonsilitis, Indigestion, Headache, Biliousness, Insomnia, etc., a treatment ALWAYS giving prompt relief, whilst results in chronic and long-standing conditions are equally marvelous. THESE ARE MY OWN OBSERVATIONS.

I am becoming more enthusiastic over Oxypathy and wish to give it my time and attention in the future, regardless of my own medical profession.

Another One Writes

My Dear Mr. Clarbour: "I want simply to say to you, the OXYPATHOR purchased from you six months ago is doing its work gloriously. I find after fifteen minutes' application the most excruciating Locomotor Ataxia pains disappear, and my friend sleeps peacefully."

Don't Take Any Chances; Have The OXYPATHOR Ready

The OXYPATHOR if applied before the disease has broken down bodily resistance too greatly for any relief will bring instant help while the ultimate cure is rapid and wholly successful.

"Oxypathy" our beautifully embossed book—72 pages, in 2 colors—telling the wonderful story of this modern triumph, also a copy of our magazine, the Searchlight, containing a few of the grateful letters written us by people in all parts of America whom the OXYPATHOR has already cured (many of them, no doubt, of complaints, similar to your own) all gladly given FREE if you send for them at once. Write us today.

NOW, DON'T FORGET.

OXYPATHY IS RIGHT

It is a preventor of disease even more than it is a cure.

As it treats the cause of disease rather than the disease itself, of course, the kind of disease is no factor in determining its results.

Since it operates by elimination of wastes and poisons, and by blood aeration again restores vitality, it builds back to normal regardless of the duration of the illness.

The gentle stimulation and the gradual and sure increase in strength and health that follow the introduction of the oxygen by this ideal method, make the severest ailments easy to remedy.

As OXYPATHY is a radical departure from all former systems of treatment, it is necessary to state that failure of previous methods is absolutely no criterion of OXYPATHY'S success.

It is a sensible home system that anyone may use—whatever the ailment may be—thus securing freedom from examinations. It also enables one to retain complete privacy.

Here is a system that is at once safe—sane—simple and sure, and that—furthermore — secures its results quickly and at no cost, since the OXYPATHOR costs nothing after its original purchase price and lasts forever without loss of force.

After centuries of exploitation by various schools of treatment and various systems—each of which required more money every time you used them—a remedy has appeared in Oxypathy which well deserves the compliment of "matchless," and its entire reputation is based on its RECORD OF RESULTS.

These results have been obtained in every State in the Union and in various foreign countries—in all manner of cases and on people in all walks of life.

The story of OXYPATHY reads like a romance. In the history of therapeutics, in all the ages gone, nothing like it or approaching it has ever been shown.

Scientists, physiologists and physicians have worked bravely and nobly in the laudable effort to ameliorate and improve the physical condition of mankind, and to emancipate its members from the suffering and sorrow that disease entails. Much has been done in this direction, but the fact must be confessed, and cannot escape the observation of the most casual observer, that a great many diseases still continue to defy the skill of the most eminent and able in the medical profession.

Take, for example, Pneumonia. Its mortality, which has always been terrible, is constantly increasing, as statistics will abundantly show, and it is annually sweeping away its millions of victims. Typhus and Typhoid Fever, Scarlet Fever, Diphtheria and the various zymotic diseases still continue to dumbfound the most skilled exponents of medicine, and the dreadful toll of death by them collected has been lessened little, if at all, by drug therapy in all the ages since the days of Hippocrates. So it is with infantile diseases so prevalent and so pitifully fatal everywhere. "The little white hearse goes glimmering by"—daily and hourly, carrying to the grave the precious clay wherein resided the life and joy of budding youth—ruthlessly cut down by a disease that no human hand could stay. Infantile Paralysis and other spinal affections are alarmingly frequent everywhere, despite the arts of the physician and children with bent and shriveled limbs are a common sight in every community.

The Searchlight proves beyond question that the diseases above enumerated yield to Oxypathic treatment in a way wholly unknown to any other form of medication. So also it is with Rheumatism, Kidney and Liver Troubles and other maladies resulting from autoxemia or blood poisoning, or a congested or impaired circulation.

The curative agent employed in Oxypathy is oxygen—oxygen from the air—a natural and perfectly harmless material that under Oxypathic treatment enters the body through the pores of the skin and constitutes the most effective germicide ever discovered, and that renovates and cleanses the body fluids, and thereby fortifies the system against the presence or encroachment of disease and morbific matters. To make the matter clear as to how this is done it is well to state that the OXYGENATOR (or the OXYPATHOR, as it will hereafter be called,) does not generate Oxygen, as some people mistakenly suppose, but it does cause the body to absorb oxygen by a simple process based on the science of electric affinity, which our literature elucidates fully, and in a way so simple and clear that the most ordinary mind can understand it.

Suffice to say that OXYPATHY is a evolution and a revelation in the treatment of disease. Moreover, it is a complete system of cure in itself. It works through the force of oxygen alone accomplishing cures that were never before dreamed of. We ask you to read the letters of people who have tried OXYPATHY. We ask you if you ever witnessed such an array of corroborative and convincing evidence—evidence relating to such diverse conditions, all tending to prove the great and matchless power of OXYPATHY over diseases hitherto regarded as incurable.

OXYPATHY marks the dawn of a new era. It is carrying relief, comfort and health to thousands of homes where once dwelt the darkness of despair. It is clean and honest, and in harmony with the laws of nature to which alone it owes its unprecented success.

Parents, if your children show signs of Scarlet Fever—chills, vomiting, sore throat, with rapid rise in temperature and sometimes convulsions—APPLY YOUR Oxypathor AT ONCE. Don't be frightened. Keep cool. Follow out the book instructions and you will conquer the fever. Remember there is no drug medication whatever for Scarlet Fever.

While the Oxypathor is to be implicitly relied upon for curing long-standing, chronic diseases, after every known remedy has been employed, its results are MOST NOTICEABLE in acute, sudden and dangerous illnesses, arresting and curing them in a few hours.

Much of the misery of the world is caused by Constipation and resultant autoxemia or self-poisoning. The Oxypathor is a grand corrective of this difficulty.

If you want to know about Infantile Paralysis read November "Review of Reviews," and December "Hampton's" and "Current Literature." Therein you will learn how utterly and absolutely helpless the "germ chasers" and "virus givers" are when confronted with this disease. If you want to know how this disease is CURED, read the Searchlight. It's a revelation.

Oxypathy Saves From Surgery

One grand thing about OXYPATHY is this. Its application makes needless many surgical operations upon men, women and children that might otherwise be attempted. The dark blot upon surgery today is the tendency of many of its votaries to essay operations for the removal of vital organs of the body, which operations all too often work ruin and death. Many of these operations are prompted by mercenary motives and have not the shadow of warrant in reason or morals.

There are some self-appointed egotistical critics who are trying with might and main to injure the reputation of OXYPATHY. Why? Because OXYPATHY is treading on their toes. Because OXYPATHY is curing their patients with nature's cure, where these doctors demanded enormous fees and didn't cure. Because OXYPATHY keeps their former patients in perfect health, much to the doctor's disgust.

Our instruments have been cut open by certain curious critics. Not finding anything therein which their limited brains could grasp they have condemned OXYPATHY. We suggest that such people also cut open the doctor's pills to see how his dope works, the phonograph cylinder to find the voice, or the vacuum bottle to find its insulating properties. They may also cut open the common horsesho magnet to find the magnetism.

Every possible ridicule has been heaped upon OXYPATHY by these narrow-minded bigots, it has been referred to scornfully as "Gas-pipe therapy," its cures have been asserted to have been obtained by "suggestion" the sale of its instruments ordered stopped, and yet in spite of all this, the sales of OXYPATHORS are increasin by leaps and bounds, and today in VERMONT, where the State Board o Health pronounced it a "Fake" and threatened to arrest our agent if he sold them in that State, the OXYPATHOR is selling faster than ever before, BECAUSE THE PEOPLE THEMSELVES HAVE PROVED THAT THE DOCTORS ARE WRONG, and the doctors have had to back down, and look like a set of fools.

The fair-minded and just public ar going to judge Oxypathy by the re sults it obtains, particularly in grave cases, rather than by the false opinion of its traducers.

Five hundred years ago there live in Italy a man named Galileo. H made a telescope, declared that he ha discovered four satellites around Ju piter and his countrymen laughed. H observed that a lamp swinging i church kept perfect time, discovere the secret of the pendulum, used th principle in determining the patient' pulse. The world mocked at him. F nally he declared that the eart moved around the sun. That was th final straw—it broke the camel's bac He was tried twice and finally put u der constant guard, every movemen checked. He ended his life in miser still bearing the taunts of the unbelie ing world.

Today Galileo's doctrines are a cepted as truths.

About the same time Galileo wa making history in Italy, there was young English physician named Wi liam Harvey who was rapidly risin in his profession. Everything wen splendidly until one day he discovere the circulation of the blood. At onc he was looked upon as a maniac, h patients deserted him, his fellow ph sicians called him "liar and slanderer and the grave professors of the cont nent laughed at and mocked him. Ha vey had discovered the secret of li and at that moment practically ruine his own life.

It's the selfish pessimist wh laughed at Galileo, at Harvey, at C lumbus, Bell, Edison, Morse and Fu ton. It's the pessimist who woul keep the world as it was in the gl cial period. It's the pessimist who r fuses to believe that Oxypathy c cure disease without dope or drug.

Thanks to Our Doctor Friends

We wish to express our thanks the many physicians who are usin and indorsing the Oxypathic tre ment in their practice and who a voluntarily sending in statements pe taining to the work of the OXYPATH OR. They belong to that class progressive physicians, of which the are many in the world, who are wil ing and anxious to utilize any metho of cure that combines merit wi safety, regardless of pre-establishe customs or the mandates of ethic procedure. These physicians deser respect and support and are sure ul mately to enjoy it. They are the lea ers in their profession.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL'S HAPPY THOUGHT.

Installs First Director of Religious Education.

Unique English Custom of Singing from Tower.

First Congregational Folk Are the Leaders.

Probably the most unique movement on the part of any Sunday-school in California, is that of the school of the First Congregational Church, this city, which has made a pioneer innovation in electing a director of religious education, who will develop the school along the lines of the public schools irector of religious education in a leading Los Angeles Sunday-school, who will develop it along public school lines.

Rev. Harold S. Tuttle,

the city. Rev. Harold S. Tuttle, a ghly educated and energetic young an from Berkeley, has been chosen fill the position, and has already ken up his residence at Sixteenth d Oak streets, this city.

This strongest Congregational urch on the Pacific Coast, is presided over by Rev. William Horace y, D. D., who succeeded his father, . Warren F. Day, as the active pas- , the latter being retained as pastor eritus. It has in many ways kept the front rank—in membership, in sion contributions, and in advanced cational methods. The younger Dr. y was the pioneer in delivering Sun- y evening sermons on his travels, d illustrating them by means of reopticon views. He has been wanderer in all parts of the world, d his congregations have thus ared in their own liberality.

The new educational movement aims systematizing the work of the Bible hool, so that students will come rough it with an accurate knowledge the Scriptures. It will begin with cher-training, and following this, a reful grading and separation of the hool along public school lines.

In his college days at the University the Pacific, Tuttle was active in the M.C.A. work, but having educated nself for business, he spent several ars "on the road," following his aduation. At the close of that pe- d, he had made up his mind that he uld go into religious work, and en- ed the Pacific Theological Seminary, m which he graduated after a two ars' course.

Mr. Tuttle is not only an active edu- cor but he is a fine public speaker, first appearance in Los Angeles ving been some years ago, when he s a student, and came here to rep- ent his college in a debate with the iversity of Southern California.

The First Congregational Church is of the largest structures on the ast, devoted exclusively to church ivities, containing between twenty d thirty rooms. Beside all the ordi- ry church organizations, the con- gation maintains a large orchestra, oral Club, Men's Club and Boys' Bri- de, the latter having just returned m a two weeks' encampment on talina Island.

Another unique innovation, so far as Angeles is concerned, and possibly the first time in America, will be revival of an old English custom s evening. The choir and Choral ub, comprising a large body of sing- , will sing from the top of the big are tower of this church, at 7:15 s evening, 132 feet above the level the street. It is believed that this attract a large number of people the streets surrounding the church. This custom has been followed in gland for 600 years, at the Magda- Church tower in Oxford, where the ople regularly gather in the streets hear the music.

OKS CHILDREN CHOOSE.

This List Includes Names Given by he Young Readers Who had En- oyed Them.

Some teachers in a city shool who been asked over and over again recommend books for summer ding for boys and for girls worked an interesting plan. They asked the children in the school above ertain grade to send in lists of the ks they liked to read. It was not be a list of the books they know y ought to like, but books they roughly enjoyed and would recom- nd to other children.

These lists were examined and the plicates stricken out. Then a com- ttee of young folk was entrusted h drawing up a final list for gen- l publication. The children on this committee, be it said, were so conscientious that the teachers had sometimes to intervene and save some old favorite which was frowned upon as being not quite aristocratic enough to suit the young censors. The result was at last a thoroughly democratic selection, so to speak, where Miss Alcott hobnobbed with Shakespeare and Kennet Grahame's "Golden Age" with the "Chronicles of Froissart," Lanier's version.

Or rather, not exactly hobnobbed, for the books were arranged in classes, as history, poetry, travels, fiction, American tales, stories of adventure and so on. Kipling's "Many Inventions" was there as well as the "Barrack Room Ballads." Stevenson, Dumas, Verne, Barrie, Conan Doyle, Hugo and Blackmore were represented. Crawford and Booth Tarkington. Bulwer, Cooper and Scott were not forgotten, nor the "Golden Treasury," nor Longfellow and Tennyson, of course. "Tom Brown" and "Stalky," and the "Prodigious Hickey" came along with Jane Austen and Howells and Thomas Bailey Aldrich and Anthony Trollope. Short stories especially were made much of, that the ball games and tennis might not too rudely interrup one's bookish absorptions. Miss Wilkins is named and Hopkinson Smith, and Hawthorne's "Wonder Book" and Thackeray's "Rose and Ring."

Out of this medley it would seem easy enough to find what would charm any child, and yet it appears to be all healthy reading enough. However, other schools might follow this example set and do a great deal for the children, not only in putting good books into their hands in preference to others that ought not to be read, but also by stimulating an interest and pride in their better literary friendships on the part of the children thus asked to declare themselves formally as to what things they really love.

GLIMPSES OF SAN FRANCISCO.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—People still stand on Market street and gaze curiously at several buildings which are said to be out of plumb because of the last earthquake. The owner of one of the buildings was angry. He put out a sign: "This building did not budge. Stop rubbering and get to boosting." Ever since the quake the newspapers have had a great deal to say about the hot wave in the East.

The only shake we have this week has been the shake-up in the police department. Chief White may be green in the business but he knows how to change the men around so the tenderloin can get results. The lid is off and is going to stay off regardless of praise or censure.

There are daily many arrivals of teachers from all over the country who will meet here next week in convention. They appear to be intelligent people and are behaving nicely. The school children are still enjoying vacation and the presence of their natural enemies in force is not worrying them in the least.

Even the most circumspect will admit that the wife of "Spider Kelly" is too particular. She is trying to divorce him because she says that he hung her out of the window by the feet. "Spider" may urge in defense that it was merely to test her prehensile qualities, but it is doubtful whether the court will concede this connubial privilege.

The works board asks the supervisors for $270,000 for the general construction of the Geary street railway. It is practically settled that the work will be done by day labor. That means a good long job and plenty of work for the men who will do the right thing by the administration on election day.

It is almost certain that enough votes will be cast for James Rolph, Jr., to give him the Mayoralty. The question is whether they will be counted for him. Already the charge is freely made that all the election officers will be administration men. The registration also is entirely in the hands of the present government and is will be no trick at all to add a few bogus names.

Already the Socialist officials of Berkeley are fighting among themselves. They have been in office but a few days and the Mayor and a councilman have been at each other's throats. Strange to say it is not over a matter of principle but over patronage. What will happen in four years is hard to tell.

The local suffragettes are supposed to be angry at Mrs. W. S. Wattles, president of the Town and Gown Club of Berkeley. She said that only jobless women advocated female suffrage. Our zealots are eager to convince her to the contrary. The whole matter will come up for settlement in October, so the suffering men move that it be laid on the table till then.

THE LANCER.

tion of dropping your false teeth on your plate may be done away with by a little finesse. Tap the teeth two or three times with your fork, and remark nonchalantly, "Dear me! I came very near swallowing a bone." Then cover them up quickly with mashed potatoes. (You may get them from the cook after the meal by giving her a small tip.)

Susan de H.—If you are the hostess and an awkward lull comes in the conversation, it is always entertaining to lean far over the table and pick your teeth. This furnishes amusement and diversion for your guests.

Beau B.—If, as you suggest, the lady opposite should mistake you for a footstool and put her feet in your lap, an original and amusing way to treat the situation would be to remove her shoes and hand them to her across the table. This would be a gentle hint that her feet were in your lap. Furthermore, she would have to remove her feet in order to put her shoes on again.

Anon.—Yes, making spots on the tablecloth is a very common and awkward occurrence. There are many ways of coping with the situation. The best way is to hold your hand over the spot. If, however, you need your hand to eat with, surreptitiously spread a little butter over the spot and place a biscuit or a cracker thereon. The butter will keep the biscuit from sliding off the spot.

John D.—If you accidently tip your plate of food into your lap, the only thing to do to avoid embarrassment is to reach over and kick the person opposite you on the shins. If you kick him hard enough he will yell and jump, thus diverting attention from yourself. This will give you an opportunity to put your plate back on the table. The food, of course, you will have to let slide to the floor. But if you are skillful, you can kick it under your neighbor's chair so that he will get the blame.

E. G. G.—No, it is not considered polite to whistle at the table when invited out to dinner,—unless, of course, you are trying to attract the waitress's attention. If your mouth is too full to whistle, beat your tumbler with your knife, and if the waitress is well trained and knows her business, she will respond.

Relief for the Heavies.

There is relief in sight for the stout ladies who for over a year have been nobly endeavoring to meet the demands of fashion.

For two years, the cut of feminine garments has looked for all the world like a conspiracy of the lean against the fat. There has been positively not one particle of clothing in the whole of the modistes' wardrobes that was at all "possible" for ladies whose waist diameter exceeded eighteen inches.

Not one!

The hats were broad and dumpy, with the sole object of adding latitude and not longitude to the human figure.

The coats were short, thereby displaying the rotundity of the hips.

And the skirts! A fat woman in a hobble skirt! Oi! Oi! Honestly, now, was there ever a garment so unsuited for stout women as the hobble skirt?

I pause for reply.

Then there were the low pumps, with the short vamps and Cuban heels. Fat women were built for comfort and not for speed. And when they endeavored to circumnavigate in low pumps with high heels, it was a fierce job. In the first place, the heels weren't wide enough at the bottom to insure equilibrium. And there was always a terrible bulging around the top of the pump.

But cheer up, all you stout girls; your day is at hand. At last you are coming into your own. The dressmakers, this year, have considered your avoirdupois—whatever that is. They have designed dresses, hats and shoes whose sole intention is to reduce the figure, and to do away as far as possible with the protruding parabolas of hip and bust.

Furthermore, the thin girls will be out of the running. In the new modes they will look thinner than ever. Their sun has set—at least temporarily.

First, the hats will be narrower and higher. This elongates the face and adds to the height.

Second, the coats will be semi-fitting and long—long enough to cover up those hips. For which let all of us fat girls give three cheers and a tigress.

Third, the skirts will be almost straight up and down from the hips to the ground—no pleats and no hobble-bands. Furthermore, they will be longer than last season's skirtsfl What more could any fat woman desire in the way of a nether garment?

And last, but not least, the pumps will have broader heels, and two or three straps across the front, which will keep the leg from falling out.

And there you are.

Vive l'embonpoint!

Massaging Detectives.

In quarters where one least expects to find it, the sweet and polyandrous flower of philanthropy blossoms forth. Only a few days ago in the columns of this very paper there was a long account of how some imposter adorned himself with a police badge, assumed the name of C. A. Jones, a local detective, and made the rounds of several bathing parlors and massage establishments.

All the supposed Jones had to do was to ring the bell, show his card, and immediately a wave of sweet philanthropy swept over the owners of these establishments.

Mme. Pomade's heart would melt. No doubt a globule of brine glistened in her eye as she looked upon the poor detective. And then she would invite him in, and treat him free of charge.

After having his masseter massaged, his trapezius kneaded, and his occipito-frontalis lubricated, this gentleman with the great desire for cleanliness would then beat it to another massage parlor, where he would be supplied with unguents, alcohol, and electrical treatments, gratis.

This being insufficient, he would then no doubt go to a steam bath parlor, where the proprietress would gaze upon him pityingly and offer him the use of her bathtub and soap without compensation.

And yet we, in our cynicism, assert that people are becoming more selfish and uncharitable!

There is something almost touching in the itinerary of this massageomaniac. At several places where he went and showed his card, the cold cream and the Turkish towel were handed him free of charge.

Far be it from us to inquire why the philanthropic spirit of certain masseuses should effervesce only in the presence of detectives. All philanthropists choose the people whom they wish to make the object of their kindnesses, and if certain masseuses, out of the goodness of their souls, think that policemen are in most need of charity, it would be petty of us to criticise them in this minor detail.

Such a sweet and unselfish condition of affairs is no doubt due to the spread of the ennobling ideals of the G-G. B.

STANLEY AND HOLT,
THE WORLD'S GREATEST PSYCHICS,
247—S. HILL ST.—247.

LOW FEE—FOR THIS WEEK—LOW FEE.

Prof. Stanley desires to state that he has associated with himself Prof. Holt, who has just returned from Europe, and who is without question one of the greatest psychics the world has ever known. He being a member of the Psychical Research Society of London and Paris, also belongs to the famous adepts and Magi of India, having spent 6 years of his life in that country under the tuition of the greatest teachers of psychology the world has ever known.

KNOW THY FUTURE.

Byron Stanley is too well known that any introduction is necessary. He has been a resident of this State for 33 years and a constant worker in this city for the past nine; is a property holder. If you want the benefit of these able psychics, and want the truth, you will consult Stanley and Holt.

DO YOU WANT TO KNOW ABOUT YOUR BUSINESS, HEALTH, MARRIAGE, LOVE AFFAIRS, OR HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR CONDITION FINANCIALLY AND SOCIALLY?

ALWAYS CONSULT THE BEST. IT IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END. IT IS BETTER TO CONSULT NO CLAIRVOYANT THAN ONE WHO IS NOT ABLE TO HELP YOU.

If you want the truth, with reliable advice, you will consult Stanley and Holt on past, present and future. Also remember what has been told you, which too often is not the case. Before you go into anything of importance—or undertake anything serious—in business or love or marriage, or before you make any change—you should consult the master mind of PSYCHICS.

STANLEY AND HOLT

fully appreciate that in this day of sensational advertising there are more false claims and misrepresentations chaperoned through the columns of the daily press than the most hypential tongue could utter in a lifetime, until one cannot be blamed for doubting almost everything they read. Therefore, they say to you—come to them this very day and let them give you a complete reading, telling you every hope, fear or ambition, better than you could explain yourself. They will tell you the bad as well as the good, keeping nothing hidden from you. They will tell you everything upon matters of love, marriage, divorce, business, health; in fact, they will read your life like an open book.

Don't struggle with a burden you can divide. A troubled mind begets a morbid conscience. Sympathy, consolation and timely advice heal the worst of wounds. Be advised and relieved of anxiety.

Readings, 10 to 8, daily and Sundays.

Stanley and Holt do not read by mail and have no time to wait on people who call through curiosity.

by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigation along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY, HONESTLY PRACTICED, WILL NOT tell you your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life.

Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity can all be told you through scientific palmistry WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

WANTED—THE U. S. NAVY IS TODAY composed of the finest body of picked men in the world. It has no place for the ne'er-do-well or the failure.

More than 1000 men apply for positions in the Navy each week. Only about 20 per cent. of them pass the examination and are accepted. This shows that the Navy picks its men with rigorous care and pains.

The Navy does not urge any man to enlist. But it does urge both parents and sons to investigate the opportunities the Navy offers young men (17 to 35,) either as a four years training or as a life's work.

The life is healthful, the work agreeable, environment wholesome and helpful, and the man who wishes to learn by study and travel or to learn a trade will find ample opportunity, as will the man who desires to save money and win promotion and retirement on three-fourths pay.

The nearest Navy Recruiting Station is at San Fernando Building, Fourth and Main streets, Los Angeles, California. The officer in charge will be glad to see parents and sons, and explain everything you wish to know about work, pay, promotion, retirement, recreation, etc. Or send for "The Making of a Man-O-Warsman"; it is free. Address BUREAU OF NAVIGATION, box 225, Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

HOLD POSTPONED FEASTS.

Two Men of Japan Who Were Married Several Weeks Ago Give Banquets in Honor of Their Weddings.

Two wedding feasts, which had been delayed three weeks, were given yesterday afternoon and last night on North San Pedro street, by K. B. Massoto and Y. Suzuki, each of whom was married nearly a month ago. The two men are business partners in a fish company at Central avenue and First street. When, three weeks ago, Massoto told his partner he was going to Vancouver to marry Miss Bessie S. Butler, an American girl, his friend told him that when he returned he might find that he, Suzuki, would also be a benedict. Massoto returned to Los Angeles a few days ago and found that Suzuki had married Miss Ai Enowaye, a Japanese girl of Los Angeles.

On account of the sickness of Mrs. Massoto the wedding suppers were postponed until yesterday, when nearly 2000 friends of the brides and grooms enjoyed the hospitality of the happy pairs. At the Wakafuku restaurant, No. 220 North San Pedro street, a banquet was tendered yesterday afternoon to the employees of the firm of Suzuki & Massoto, and late last night the Shio Tei restaurant, No. 121 North San Pedro street, was thronged with Japanese priests, newspaper men and many men and women prominent in the society of local Japanese. The samisens twanged to the songs of the Orientals and congratulations were offered with every toast.

Massoto had known his American sweetheart ten years. They will make their home at No. 400 East Sixth street.

R. G. Yuasa, president of the Japanese Association of Southern California, and representative of the San Francisco Japanese American, who was present last night, said that he does not believe in the intermarriage of Americans and Japanese, but he hoped that the two contracting parties in this instance knew what they were about, and that nothing but happiness would result from the union.

HONORARY PALLBEARERS.

The following-named have been appointed honorary pallbearers to represent the Los Angeles Bar Association at the funeral of ex-Judge Bicknell, Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock: Henry T. Gage, Robert N. Bulla, A. W. Hutton, Charles Silent, Albert Crutcher, Charles Monroe, J. W. McKinley and William M. van Dyke.

Talks on Teeth

Good Teeth Health

There is no middle ground for the man who has poor teeth or not enough teeth to properly chew his food.

In a pinch he can get along and be fairly comfortable with other parts of his anatomy missing, but he must have enough teeth, or the human engine will go wrong and break down.

Good teeth are vital.

How about yours?

We have a sensible, rational and entirely effective plan of restoring missing teeth through our Rex Dental Co.'s Alveolar Method, and we accomplish this result without having to half fill the mouth with a partial plate or torture the wearer with an ordinary piece of bridgework.

A partial plate can't be made so it will fit for any length of time, because the gums are constantly changing their shape.

One can't "bite" on any such contrivance or chew his food properly.

An ordinary "bridge" is high in the middle, like a "Cantilever" structure, and it is both dangerous and painful to bite on—dangerous because it is apt to snap in two under the strain, painful because the constant strain irritates the teeth to which it is anchored and finally ruins them.

When we place the Rex Dental Co.'s Alveolar teeth in your mouth we say: "Go and use them just as you would nature's teeth; crack nuts with them if you want to. They will stand the usage."

We take all the chances.

They are good to look at, too.

So nearly do they resemble natural teeth that even dentists have to look twice when examining them.

There is no pain about the installing of the Rex Dental Co.'s Alveolar Teeth, no surgery, no boring or cutting into the gums, nothing about having them put in your mouth that you need fear, so come to one of our offices and have the work done right away.

All we require is that you have two or more teeth in your jaws.

We will supply the rest.

First you must come in for an examination, so we can look your teeth over and talk with you about them.

You don't obligate yourself to spend a penny with us simply because you come here out of curiosity or to have your teeth examined.

In fact, you put us under the obligation.

Surely your health is of enough importance to call for a little of your time for such an investigation.

But you may be too far away to call, in which case send for our big 40-page illustrated book, which tells you all about the Twentieth Century plan of restoring teeth—the Rex Dental Co.'s Method. It is a great work on the subject of the teeth in general, and their relation to health.

Send for a copy today if you can't call.

Good Start, Bad End.

BALLOON CRASHES DOWN, A WRECK.

Dirigible Car Hits a House, Yet She Rises.

Carter and Unger Sail Away After a Record.

Drop Near Saugus, But Get Off Uninjured.

Too busy waving good-bys to their relatives and friends to notice the drift of their big dirigible balloon, Albert Carter and E. Unger permitted the airship to crash through the tops of a clump of small trees and smash into a two-story house at St. John street and North Main, about 12:50 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Carter's Dirigible Smashing Into House, at St. John street and North Broadway, yesterday afternoon, and sailing away in wrecked condition. Above, to the left, is E. Unger, the pilot; to the right is Albert Carter, the builder and owner; in the middle, the balloon is just clearing the building, and below it is shown five hundred feet in the air.

Nothing daunted by the partial wreck of the car and the loss of a large part of the five days' supply of provisions and other impedimenta, the aeronauts pulled their dirigible loose from the building and sailed away to attempt to break the record for endurance flight.

Late in the afternoon they were sailing over a spur of the Sierra Madre Mountains beyond Van Nuys apparently in good condition. At 5 o'clock the airship crashed to the ground three miles north of Saugus, a wreck. The aeronauts escaped injury.

When the dirigible struck the house the force of the impact broke the forty-foot car in two but the pieces were held together by the cord attaching them to the netting. The blow knocked loose a number of bags of sand and scattered provisions and bundles in every direction while the crowd of a thousand persons which had collected to bid bon voyage to the aeronauts set up a wild outcry.

Several men climbed onto a one-story addition to the building but before they could assist in freeing the airship it ascended because of lightened weight of its freight and sailed away. The frame of the car knocked over the top of a chimney on the house and tore up a strip of shingles along the combing of the roof.

In the excitement, Carter prepared to leap from the car just as it was starting up, but Unger yelled to him to remain aboard, as they were in no danger. Unger tried to loosen the guide-rope so the crowd could pull the balloon to earth for repairs, but the knots defied his efforts and when he finally loosened the rope, the dirigible was away in the air.

The balloon is not equipped with an engine, and the flight is the only one without power ever attempted in a dirigible, it is believed. Carter wished to test the endurance of the big 70,000-foot gas bag before converting the craft into a passenger-carrying machine. In Unger he found an experienced balloonist who was willing to make the trial with him, and they prepared for the start in an empty lot near the Economic gas plant.

The car was weighted with as much ballast as possible, in order to permit of prolonged flight, and the aeronauts miscalculated the initial lifting capacity. The car floated just too far from the ground for the crowd to pull it back to earth, but did not rise rapidly and the pilot and his aide failed to notice the proximity of the trees and building or they would have thrown out ballast immediately.

When the crash in the trees came, the aeronauts had all they could do to steady the craft, and before they could pitch out ballast, the car struck the building.

The balloon, after finally getting away, floated westward at an altitude of about 1000 feet. The aeronauts could be seen busily making repairs, but the break of the car was shown plainly, and it had the appearance of a stick broken near the middle and bent about twenty-five degrees.

Those who saw the flight marveled at the hardihood of the aeronauts in continuing the voyage when a pull on the rip-cord would have lowered them to safety, but they preferred to carry out their project.

INSULT TO MAN SAYS SUFFRAGIST.

CONTENTIONS OF THE ANTIS DECLARED FALLACIOUS.

Punctures Theory That Women Voting With Men Would Be Contaminated—A Dissertation on "Inherited Criminal Tendencies of Oysters" Indulged in by Speaker.

That eugenics is closely related to the woman suffrage question was the decision of Mrs. Seward A. Simons, president of the Political Equality League, after having had an address by Mrs. Mary Teats of Illinois, in Choral Hall, yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Teats began her address to an audience of men, women and children, by taking up the theme proper of political equality. She spoke with enthusiasm of women's rights, followed with a dissertation concerning the rights of children, branched off into theology, for a diversion, and concluded by giving the address of the place of publication of her favorite magazine, the editor of which delights in informing the public on "murderous inoculation," "nature's laws in animal life as applied to humans," "inherited criminal tendencies of oysters," and kindred subjects.

Mrs. Simons, commenting on the speaker's address, said that while these subjects do not deal directly with the campaign for woman's ballot, the right of children to be well born has to do with the freedom of women, and therefore the remarks made were relative to the subject of political equality.

Mrs. Teats also said that the idea that women would be contaminated or insulted when they essayed to take their places by the side of men at the ballot box, is not only a fallacy, as has been proven, but that the assertion is an insult to the decent manhood of the country.

"No nation has ever risen higher in power and culture than its women," declared Mrs. Teats. "The world is awakening to this fact and is striving for better things for women. The present social unrest is simply an indication of better times to come."

The meeting was also addressed by Prof. Locke of the Polytechnic High School, who said that nearly all the teachers of Los Angeles are advocates of votes for women. He predicted victory in October for the suffrage workers and said that Wisconsin will follow California's example in 1912.

The meeting next Saturday at Choral Hall will be addressed by Burr McIntosh.

A suffrage meeting was held last night at the home of Mrs. Percy Wilson, No. 1006 Westlake avenue, at which Mrs. Cora Lewis spoke.

ROBBER PUTS SHOT TO HEART.

LIQUOR MERCHANT SLAIN BY MYSTERIOUS VISITOR.

Neighbors Hear Scuffle Followed by Report of Pistol—Victim Discovered, Terribly Wouded and Dies Within Few Minutes—Police Look in Vain for Clews of Assailant.

While attempting to defend his property against an unknown robber, J. A. Pressman, a wholesale liquor dealer, of No. 319 East Ninth street, was shot and killed shortly after 11 o'clock last night.

Pressman was alone in the store at the time, and was preparing to close up when the unknown one entered and engaged him in conversation. He subsequently was decoyed into the rear of the store, where a scuffle occurred, and the two men clinched. Neighbors heard them fighting, and a moment later the sound of a pistol shot attracted the attention of a number of passers-by and an investigation followed.

The liquor merchant was discovered lying on the floor with blood pouring from an ugly wound in the left side directly over the heart. He was placed in an ambulance and hurried to the Receiving Hospital, but the unfortunate man died while being examined by Dr. Kidder. The body was removed to Bresee's undertaking establishment to be held pending the Coroner's inquest.

Detectives hurried to the scene of the murder but were unable to obtain the slightest clue to the identity of the slayer. It is known that only one man entered the place and after having fired the shot escaped through the front door and ran down a convenient alley in the immediate neighborhood.

The victim was well known in that section of the city. He is not known to have had enemies. The police are working on the theory that the murder might have resulted from a personal grudge. Pressman lived with his wife and son at No. 1303 Linwood street.

OPIUM RAID IS BIGGEST IN CITY.

Many Places in Chinatown "Caught" Last Night.

Federal Officers and Police Join in Seizures.

Oriental Quarter Is Stirred to Its Depths.

Acting on the initiative of the State Board of Pharmacy, a campaign of extermination against the opium evil in this city was begun by the police department last night, in conjunction with United States customs and immigration officials, resulting in the largest raid ever made in local history. More than 150 officers were engaged in the roundup and eighty-six Chinese places of business were searched for evidence of the illicit selling of opium.

Throughout the night agents of the pharmacy board were busy breaking open strange-looking casks and searching secret hiding places while the police under the personal command of Chief Sebastian kept guard over the premises to prevent the escape of the inmates.

As fast as evidence was obtained the prisoners were rushed to the central station in automobiles and held under $100 bond on the charge of violating a State law by having a narcotic in their possession. The details of collecting evidence were planned and carried out by State officers in charge of Commissioner E. T. Off and Inspector F. C. Boden of the State Board of Pharmacy. Since April 8, secret agents have been almost living in Chinatown and on scores of occasions purchases were made without the slightest difficulty. It soon was known to the officers that large quantities of the drug were being smuggled into the city and sold to known users of the narcotic, almost under the eyes of the officers.

TIGHTEN THE NET.

Yesterday morning it was announced by Inspector Boden that sufficient evidence already had been obtained and a consultation was held in the Chief's office as to the best plan of searching the suspected places.

As a result of the conference Capts. Lehnhauser and Haupt were detailed to have 150 patrolmen in citizens' clothes in the Chinatown district exactly at 9 o'clock last night to assist the State officials. Each officer was given the address of a suspected place and was told to enter the premises and hold the inmates prisoners until the arrival of the State agents.

This plan was carried out to the letter with the result that few of the suspects succeeded in escaping. Meanwhile more than a dozen United States customs officers under the direction of Special Agent Johnson began a search for smuggled and unstamped opium. At the same time Special Agent Connell of the Immigration department with eight assistants, went through the district in search of Chinese illegally in the country.

The appearance of Chief Sebastian in his automobile was the signal for the raid and in less than a minute the streets were filled with half-frenzied orientals seeking to escape the meshes of the net that already was closing in upon them. Many of the frightened men sought to leap from rear windows but in nearly every case these exits were guarded by officers and the fugitives were forced to return with their companions, and submit to search.

At No. 317 Marchessault street the police under Capt. Lehnhausen discovered a full-fledged opium joint which seemingly had been built for no other purpose. A large number of pipes and teakwood chests of the drug were found in a small, dark closet, while in the general smoking room were a number of orientals actually engaged in "hitting the pipe." All of this contraband stuff was sent to police headquarters together with the prisoners found in the joint, to await trial.

In other places the drug was found concealed in innocent-looking bags of beans or other lawful commodity and many hours were consumed by the officers in completing the search.

The following places were raided:

Ferguson Alley—Nos. 207, 209, 211, 213, 215, 217, 223, 221, 208½, 212, 232, 224.

North Los Angeles street—Nos. 432, 34, 36, 38, 504½, 516, 18, 20, 20½, 22, 24.

Ballerino court—Nos. 23, 725, 717.

North Alameda street—Nos. 721, 25, 27, 29, 731, 31½, 35, 37, 41, 745, 49, 53, 57, 59, 61, 65, 54, 58.

Napier street—Nos. 313, 12, 16, 20, 30, 40.

Marchessault street—Nos. 208, 302, 4, 6, 6½, 8, 10, 20, 22, 22½, 28, 15½, 16, 19, 33.

Juan street—No. 808.

China alley—Nos. 3, 4, 6, 8.

"I am somewhat disappointed with the result of the raid on account of not finding large quantities of unopened tins of the drug, such as we found in San Diego," said Commissioner Ott early this morning, "but we have discovered sufficient of the drug in opened cans to satisfy the ends of justice. I believe that the Chinamen intuitively understood that we were on their track and were unusually cautious in not keeping large quantities of the narcotic on hand. The drug that was captured can be used only for smoking purposes, as it has no medicinal value, whatever, and we believe we shall experience little difficulty in obtaining convictions."

Big Doings.

NO "CASH" CALL SPOILS THE FUN.

Hamburger Force Disports At Long Beach.

Joy and Frolic Reign During Happy Holiday.

Thirty Special Cars Required to Handle Crowd.

With games and feasts and music and dancing, preceded by a parade through the city's streets and a merry trip to the shore in thirty special cars, employees of Hamburger's big department store and friends to the number of 3500, celebrated their fourth annual outing yesterday by taking possession of Long Beach and holding the fort until it was no longer fun to play the proprietor.

Residents of the seaside resort welcomed the invading army with open arms, and if there was anything in the whole place that was not turned over to the pleasure seekers it was because the latter didn't want it.

This being the third trip of the employees of the great white store to Long Beach, they felt that it was like a home-returning and greeted the beach combers as old friends.

The merry army reached the seashore at 2 o'clock, and from that hour until the last waltz had been tripped off there was something doing every minute, and some minutes two or three things.

The trains unloaded at the High School, and the sports of the afternoon were held on the school's playground.

RACES AND GAMES.

Followed in quick succession a sack race for boys, potato race for girls, a tug of war between members of the wholesale and retail departments, fifty-yard dash for women, ditto for girls under 18, seventy-five-yard race for women, a relay race, baseball game, and, as the crowning glory of the programme, a pie-eating contest. Blackberry pies being the ammunition used, the identity of the contestants was an open secret the rest of the day.

After the game, line of march was formed and to the tune of lively music played by the Long Beach band, which was the property pro tem of the Hamburger family, the army made its way down Pier avenue to the sands, where it disbanded. Programme and concerted action were cast into the breakers, and until dance time in the evening everyone did as everyone pleased.

At 8:15 a grand ball was held in the auditorium, which had also been deeded to the joy crowd. The band, having been captured in the afternoon, still were kept prisoners and were compelled to furnish music for the light fantastic.

C. E. Adams acted as master of ceremonies in yesterday's campaign. He was assisted by the following committees:

Executive Committee: Elmer Woods, N. C. Robinson, F. C. Adams, Catherin Swan, E. K. Albrecht, J. R. Collins, Jacob Dryfus, Irving Farian, George Bradly, H. A. Dunlop, Eliza Miller, E. V. Robinson, M. GIRLS WHO WON.

The afternoon sports events turned out in this wise: Sack race, boys, won by Lee Height; potato race, girls, won by Norma Farrell, Myrtle McEwen second; tug of war, won by wholesalers; 50-yard dash for women, won by Emily Sohler, Jennis Stoll second; 50-yard dash for girls under 18, won by Annie Swope, Stella Johnson second; 75-yard race for women, won by Carrie Blake, Emily Sohler second; relay race, won by L. Evans's team.

The baseball game, between the Fats and Leans, nearly ended in a riot, because it was claimed the umpires were dubs. The Fats were given the benefit of the doubt, it being declared that having scored seven runs to the Leans's four, they were in the lead when play ended.

When it came to the pie race the fact quickly developed that Everett Brunner was the hungriest kid in the bunch, and by reason of his appetite and displacement was able to beat the band by a crust. He got pie all over himself, but that didn't dampen his ardor, as a new suit of clothes was his prize.

Prizes won in the grand march were as follows: Miss Newboy, $10; Mrs. Joe Cottingham, $7; Miss Bustelloues, $5; Miss Irma Peachman, $2; Miss Julia Kelly, $1.

M. A. Hamburger, W. Fitzpatrick, George Hisle and Will C. Heffelfinger were judges of the prize waltz, which was won by Miss Madge Lawson and George W. Burt. The prize was a cut glass bowl.

Six women salesmen of Hamburger's and six Long Beach women acted as judges in a house and lot contest. It was announced that a prize in the form of a homestead would be awarded the handsomest man in the store. The lucky Adonis proved to be J. A. Carmahan.

MAD DOG ON RAMPAGE.

Animal Afflicted With Rabies Bites Several Persons About Artesia—Victim Under Treatment.

Three children and one man living near Artesia are the victims of bites of a Spitz dog which has been found to have been mad. Dr. Stanley P. Black, who made an examination of the head of the animal after it was killed, announced yesterday his finding that the dog had rabies.

The canine belonged to Mr. Miller, who has a ranch two miles east of Artesia. Several days ago it ran onto the E. A. Clampit ranch and bit Vernie, the 12-year-old son of Lee Gibson, foreman. The bites took effect on the boy's leg and arm. He is under treatment by Dr. Black.

Running from the Clampit place the dog entered the ranch of Mr. Ball east of Artesia and bit Mr. Ball's daughter. Returning to the home of its owner the animal bit Mr. Miller and also his son. It was caught and tied after which it lived two or three days.

NORTHERN JUDGE HERE.

Judge James W. Bartlett and wife of Weaverville, Trinity county, arrived at the Lankershim yesterday. Judge Bartlett is one of the interchangeable judges of the Superior Court, who will occupy one of the local benches for a short period.

Maj-Gen. A. M. Fuller, his wife and two daughters arrived at the same hotel in the evening. Gen. Fuller is stationed at Fort Riley, Kan., and is on a furlough.

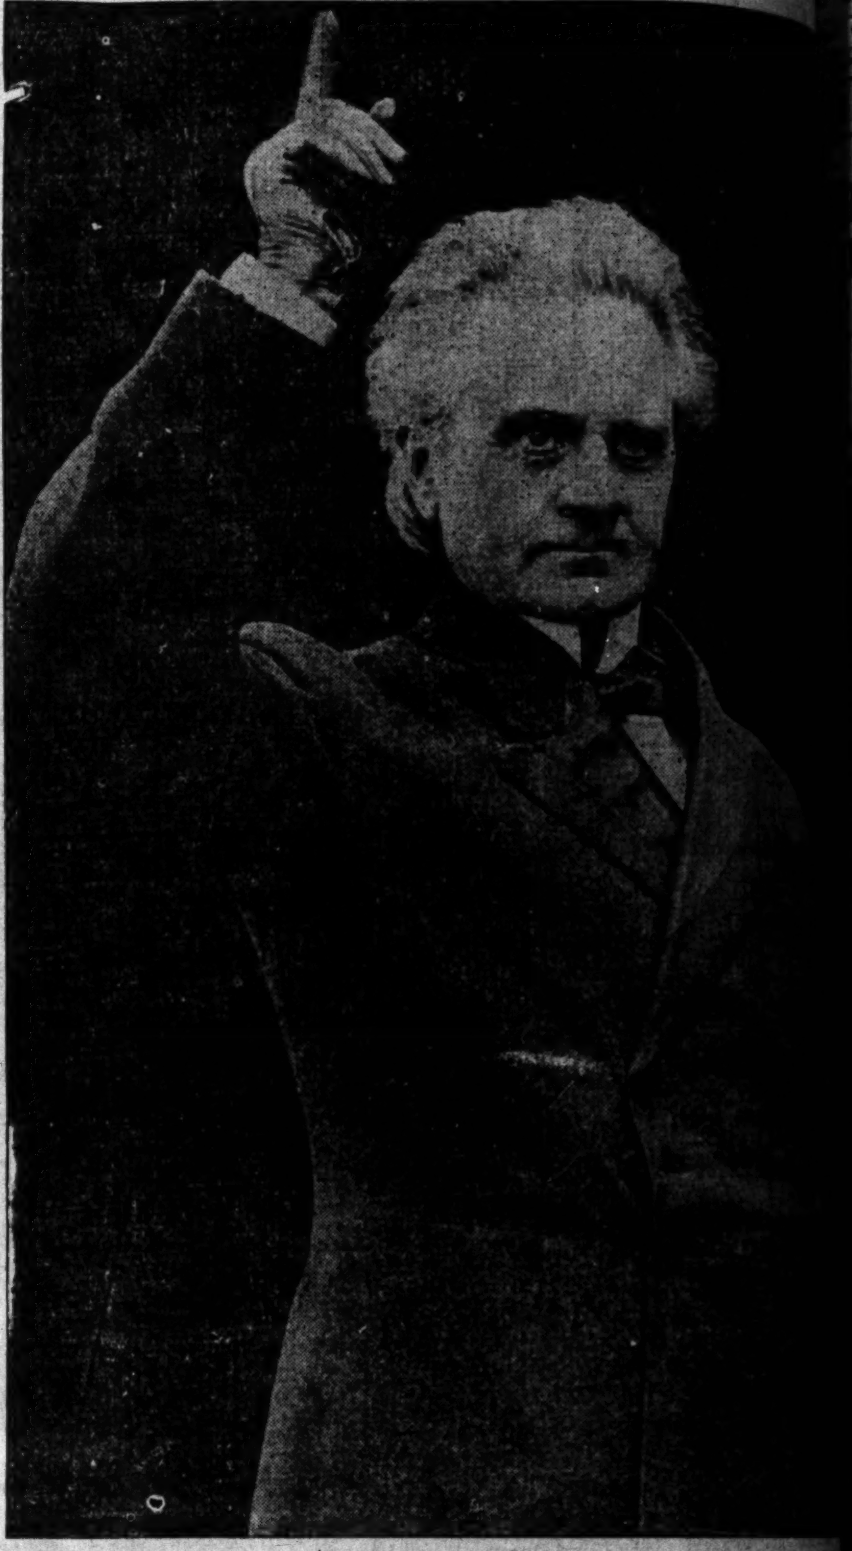
"My Compliments to Senator Wo



PROF. JAMES M. MUNYON

I am sure if I reach that great, good place
Where nations are blended into one common
Where caste is unknown and creeds are no mo
Where the rich and the poor alike enter the d
I shall hear a voice saying, "Here's a jewel for
As ye did unto others, Ye did unto me."

—Munyon

Every person in California, in fact, every person in the civilized world ought to give thanks to Senator John D. Works for the noble effort he is making for the people. He is combating a Doctor Trust that is far more dangerous to the welfare of the community than any other known trust that menaces the country's right. Think of it! Sixty-four thousand doctors, many of them politicians working by every art and artifice known to unscrupulous demagogues, to monopolize the administration and sale of medicine.

They would prohibit the sale of all remedies unless prescribed by one of the physicians who has graduated from one of their subsidized colleges. Legislatures are being deluded, cajoled and induced to enact laws in favor of this obligarchy. Talk about the oil, meat, tobacco and money trust! They are saints compared to these jugglers in human suffering.

They would form a trust that would prevent the druggist from selling you a headache or a toothache remedy, or a laxative pill, and force you to come to them and pay from two to five dollars for a prescription. Instead of the Government giving protection to this infamous attempt to bridle the liberties of the people, they should throw down the bars to competition. Why should there not be competition among healers of the sick just as there is competition among lawyers, scientists, engineers, merchants? Why should there be restraint? Why does not the interstate law apply to physicians as well as to any other vocation?

But broader, higher than all these questions is the one of personal liberty, the inherent right to employ any system of cure one chooses to adopt. What right has any medical fraternity to say that the Christian Scientists, or the osteopaths, or the mental scientists shall not minster to the sick? When they attack faith cure they attack Christ and all his teachings, for Christ said, "What I have done, ye can do also, and more."

He either told the truth or a lie. And those who have made any study of this subject know that he told the truth. If this doctor trust were the only ones who could cure disease, then I should say give them a monoply, but how is it that with every tick of the watch some one dies? Yet they are attended by learned and regular graduated physicians from the leading medical colleges. If the doctors understand their business, if the medicine they prescribe will cure, why do these people die? Children are snatched by death from the breast of mothers through simple diseases. Men and women in the prime of life are hurried to untimely graves from diseases which are supposed to be curable and thoroughly understood by physicians.

Why, I ask again, do these people die if medicine will cure? If these poor victims had been attended by Christian Scientists or advanced thinkers, they would have been thrown into prison as teachers of a false doctrine, just as [illegible] as Hahnemann was when he introduced Homeopathy in Germany.

I can understand that professors of medical colleges must find something to do for their graduates. They are today a glut on the market. It is said that in Boston more than 500 regular physicians are working on street cars at $14 a week, and I compliment them for changing their vocation to carrying persons to their homes instead of their graves.

If I had my way I would have physicians schooled to be high priests of health, whose mission should be to go among the people advising them what to eat, and how to live in order to prolong life. They should be family counselors, and like the Chinese physicians, receive pay only when the family remained in good health, for as I have persistently contended, the presence of a cheerful physician in the sick room is more beneficial than all the drugs he prescribes.

Homeopathy is a solution of the present difficulty, as it administers both to the mind and body. I want to declare most emphatically that I do not believe that all diseases can be cured without medicine, any more than I believe that no disease can be cured without medicine. I am not prejudiced in favor of any particular school. I have adopted the best that is in all systems. I have preached the doctrine, "Don't take medicine unless you are obliged to." Depend upon pure air, cold baths, cheerful associations, temperate living and a love for your fellow man.

But when you do take medicines, do not take the drastic drugs that paralyze the organs and set up inflammations and irritations that undermine the general health. Only a little over one hundred years ago they had a medicine in England called the "Golden Discovery." There were nineteen drugs in this compound and the patient was obliged to swallow a pint at a dose, and if one lived through this ordeal the remedy was called the marvel of the age. If he died (and they generally did) it was attributed to an act of the Almighty. Take my little rheumatism pellets. I can prove to every skeptic, to every doctor, that it contains no salicylic acid, morphine, opium, cocaine or any of the drugs that are commonly used in the regular school practice. Yet these little pellets do neutralize the uric acid, do cure sharp, shooting pains in a few hours, and do speedily correct stiff and swollen joints and reduce all forms of inflammatory rheumatism. Thousands of testimonials can be shown to prove this statement.

FACT AND COMMENT.

To use an expression which more than one of the readers of these comments must doubtless have listened to in the dim recesses of the parental woodshed in days gone by, the Fact and Comment man wishes to say that what he is about to utter will hurt him more than it can possibly hurt anyone else. Be it known that what follows is frankly and undisguisedly a rap at Los Angeles. It is the reverse side of a story that people have become accustomed to thinking has no reverse side.

The writer has long had it in mind to put certain facts as they are going to be put in the following paragraphs. There is really no satisfactory and convincing apology for the state of affairs. An almost brutally frank remark by one of the delegates to the great convention of doctors in this city a week ago settled the thing so far as its embodiment in these columns goes. This doctor, an old practitioner in one of the larger eastern cities and a cultivated and observing and withal open-minded man who has traveled extensively, had this to say about Los Angeles:

"You have the most wonderful city in the United States when growth of population and general material advance are taken into consideration, and I have been amazed beyond expression at your climb into the world-beating class. But let me tell you right now that you also have one of the most unkempt looking big cities in the country. Los Angeles, with all its magnificent buildings and its evidences of whirlwind progress, is a horrible example of untidiness when compared with Pasadena. The Crown City is as neat as a pin."

More Than Half Right.

Wow! and then Wow!

It is to be feared that this visitor—he was from clean and beautiful Minneapolis—was more than half right. He was speaking, of course, of the city as a whole, for no one can deny that there are sections here which are in every way model. Any honest observer must admit, however, that this doctor was too near the truth for real comfort.

How many convention delegates in the past few years to this, the aspiring convention city, have gone away with similar opinions of us?

This is not to be the standardized "city beautiful" talk. It has nothing to do with the expenditure of municipal funds for public buildings, formal parks, works of art or high-priced opinoins by eastern experts on city planning. The Times has ever been in the front when it comes to the development of the American City Beautiful idea in all of its many phases. Every movement looking to the beautification of the city that has been worthy of the name has received generous consideration in this paper.

For Individuals.

The persons whom the Fact and Comment man wishes to call to task are the individuals—they are thousands in number—who, without sense of shame or pride of decent emulation, and most certainly without any sane consideration of their own personal and property interests, permit vacant lots to become eyesores in otherwise attractive neighborhoods. It is actually disheartening to a dweller in this city to take a visitor from the East out for a street car or automobile ride. Go where he will, he will be forced to pass hideous billboards wedged into the loveliest of settings. His most cherished visions of green lawn and hedge and flaming flower gardens will be spoiled for him and his guest by the presence in the most unexpected spots of weed-grown, refuse-littered lots lying uncared for in the midst of homes whose owners bestow constant care and attention upon them.

It is generally the city that is knocked for such conditions, and goodness knows the city is jumped on enough nowadays. Why should the city find it necessary to interfere in such cases, even if it could effectively do so? The city's jurisdiction stops somewhere even as its responsibility has a limit. (As an actual matter of fact there is an ordinance covering the weed question.) Strangers in Los Angeles find enough fault with the municipality for its comparative neglect of the streets. There ought to be enough civic pride upon the part of individuals in Los Angeles to solve this problem of disgraceful vacant lots. Pasadenans have done it, why not the people of Los Angeles?

No Indulgence Permissible.

It may be urged—it has been urged, and by the present commentator among others—that Los Angeles' dilatoriness in this regard is to be accounted for by the fact that the city is growing too fast to bother overly much about temporary appearances. It is held in unconvincing extenuation that all the vacant places will soon be built upon anyhow.

Indulgence vouchsafed on such flimsy grounds is sadly misplaced. Some of the ugly spots in this city have grown venerable with age. The reader probably sees many of them in the course of a daily car ride and there is no need to specify. It is an actual, if shameful, fact that in a ride from the outskirts to the business section of the city the closer one gets to the center of things the more violently are one's eyes assailed by the unkempt lots. Most of the worst offenders are old offenders.

The most hopeful sign, in fact, is that in the newer and remoter districts now being developed in all directions there is evident a real desire for general tidiness.

Time for Action.

These columns have been given up many times to the discussion of methods for the remedying of the conditions mentioned. Particularly disgusting examples of civic slatternliness have been given individual attention. The various improvement associations of the city and the Los Angeles Realty Board have labored hard and at times effectively for the realization of civic standards that in Pasadena seem to be taken as a matter of course. Individuals have worked hard and unselfishly for the same end.

The present comment is frankly a confession of disappointment upon the part of the commentator that so little in the way of result shows in the city at large. Los Angeles was not at its best at the time of the doctors' convention, nor has it been as presentable as it ought to have been, at any other convention ever held here.

The time for action is at hand if there is ever to be a time for action. Los Angeles is aspiring to be the great convention city of the United States, and what Los Angeles aspires to it usually gets. It is for the individual owners of the property which disgraces the city and causes every visitor to Los Angeles to qualify his praise, to wake up. If Los Angeles is, as has been alleged, one of the most unkempt of the big cities of America, it is high time every dweller in the city had a shamed realization of the fact.

Greed and Indifference.

The individuals whose greed for a paltry income prompts them to rent vacant properties to disfiguring billboards and those who deliberately permit a lot to run to a riot of weeds have failed to grasp the big idea that is making the American people of today more and more particular about the kind of cities they live in. Some kind of a modified form of Henry George's great dream plan that would force property owners to pay over real money in the form of special taxes on every bit of city ground which was not improved at least to the extent of being decently carpeted with grass, plus a law which would make the erection of a billboard on a residence lot a capital offense, might help.

WESTLAKE ACTIVITIES.

Fine Home Sites Purchased in Popular Close-in Subdivision—Buyers for Most Part Builders.

Sales in the Westlake Addition tract are reported by W. F. Radis, manager of the lot department of Bryan & Bradford, as follows:

A lot on the east side of Vendome avenue, north of Council street, to W. L. Yard, who is building a six-room bungalow on the site. The lot, 50x127 feet, sold for $1500.

E. R. Miller has bought 40x120 feet on the west side of Robinson street, south of Temple, paying $1280. Miller is building a handsome bungalow.

The southwest corner of Temple and Dillon street, 163x127 feet, has been purchased by C. H. Whally, who will build. The consideration paid was $4500.

To Teresa Dool has been sold 100 x127 feet on the west side of Dillon street, north of Council, the consideration being $3300. A home will be erected on this site. The same buyer bought 50x120 feet on the west side of Vendome street, north of First, for $1650.

STAUB SECURES STORE.

Shoe Dealer Formerly Occupying Byrne Corner to Locate Again on Broadway.

A lease was closed yesterday morning through the firm of Metcalf & Ryan whereby C. M. Staub Shoe Company has secured for a term of five years the storerooms at Nos. 346 to 348 South Broadway from Willard Stimson, the owner of that property. The consideration involved in the lease is reported at $60,000.

The rooms will be extensively altered and new store fronts put in before the lessees take possession of the site on September 1. An entirely new stock will be installed.

C. M. Staub, president of the leasing company, stated last night that, through his attorneys, he would within a short time institute a damage suit for $100,000 against John Byrne of San Francisco, owner of the Byrne Block, at Third and Broadway, the corner storeroom of which was occupied by the C. M. Staub Shoe Company prior to the partial destruction of the building by fire several months ago. The allegation is that Byrne acted in a high-handed manner in dispossessing the shoe concern of its location in favor of the J. W. Robinson Company, the latter of which concerns is to take possession of the entire first story of the Byrne Block on September 1. Staub maintains that he had a long-term lease on the site and that this was unlawfully ignored in the contract made by Byrne with the J. W. Robinson Company.

A similar suit for the sum of $79,000 damages was filed a short time ago by Meyer Siegel, another of the former first floor occupants of the Byrne building, and E. C. Collins, another former lessee of a store in the same property, has declared his intention of instituting a like suit.

The J. W. Robinson Company in the meantime is going ahead with its preparations to take possession of the Byrne Block site and to maintain it as an integral part of its large and growing Broadway business. The company has recently greatly enlarged its interests through the acquisition of the Unique store, immediately adjoining the Byrne building on the north. Jacob M. Schneider, president of the former concern, last night emphatically denied a rumor that his company had also purchased control of the Marvel store, situated between the present J. W. Robinson quarters and the Unique.

INVESTOR BUYS BLOCK.

Brick Building at Sixth and Hope to Be Enlarged by New Owner. Profit Is Substantial.

W. B. Merwin & Company report the sale of the southeast corner of Sixth and Hope streets for D. P. Phillips and others to a local purchaser, the price paid being $85,000. The lot is 60x120 feet in size, and is improved with a three-story brick building, containing five stores and rooms upstairs.

W. B. Merwin bought the property a few months ago for the present sellers for $80,000. It is the intention of the purchaser to build a $20,000 addition to the building at present on the site.

REPORT RECENT SALES.

Recent sales by F. H. Ballinger, with T. L. O'Brien & Co., follow: Clara G. Flanders to W. L. Gerwood, 40x125 feet on Mettler street, between Thirty-sixth and Santa Barbara, $875; Anton Kluge to Emma T. Casale, 45x 142 feet on Main, between Forty-first and Forty-second, $1475; Mrs. J. P. Schorn to Charles H. Hendricks, 50x 110 feet, improved with five-room cottage, No. 204 West Thirty-third, $2800; Charles H. Hendricks to Mrs. J. P. Schorn, lot on Wittsett avenue, in Walnut Lawn tract, 50x125 feet, $1000; A. E. Ladner to W. E. Patterson, four lots on East Thirty-fifth street, 50x125 feet each, $10,000; T. L. O'Brien and F. H. Ballinger to F. J. Wilde, 40x125 feet, improved with five-room house, No. 654 East Forty-first, $2300; W. E. Patterson to A. E. Ladner, corner Thirty-fourth and McClintock, improved with six-room bungalow, $5000; W. E. Patterson to A. E. Ladner, 40x135 feet, improved with six-room cottage, No. 1131 East Thirty-fourth, $4000.

NOT THIS BENNETT.

The F. E. Bennett whose name appeared in the Tuesday's issue of The Times as having been sued on account of issuing a check with no funds in the bank, is not the F. E. Bennett with W. B. Merwin & Company. As Mr. Bennett himself expresses it, his friends are aware of the above fact without being reminded of it, but mere acquaintances might be misled.

BUYS WALNUT RANCH.

H. V. Wall & Co. report the sale of a forty-acre walnut ranch near Los Nietos for George Rebman of Hollywood, the consideration being $30,000. Mr. Rebman took in payment income property located in East Los Angeles belonging to Christina Staub.

BACK AT WORK.

C. C. C. Tatum returned yesterday from a month's visit in the East. While away he studied the realty situation in many of the larger cities of the country and returns better satisfied than ever with the Los Angeles real estate situation.

LIFE AND VITALITY

can be injected into a dead business by careful and systematic advertising. In trade matters publicity is a life-creating force and judicious advertising makes the difference between success and failure. The recognition of the value of properly placed advertisements is universal, but money expended for advertising space is wasted unless it yields a reasonable profit on the investment. The result getting powers of a newspaper's advertising columns can best be attested by the number of "Want Ads" it prints. This also is the very best evidence of a newspaper's standing and the purchasing power of its circulation. During the month of June The Times printed 61,621 separate "Liners," or 6119 more than the aggregate number printed by the four other Los Angeles papers combined.

The Times not only prints practically all the "Want Ads" carried by the four other local papers, but in addition it prints a vast number of "Liners" that are not carried by any other newspaper.

The very decided preference of expert advertisers, as well as the majority of local residents, for this journal clearly indicates that it is only by reading and using Times "Liners" that you can get your proportionate share of the big volume of business transacted through the medium of classified advertising.

Undoubtedly the most scenic residence property ever offered the American public. It combines all the conveniences of high class city property, with elevation and scenic grandeur that cannot be found in any other residence property on the market.

A HOLLYWOOD HOME.

There are many beautiful homes in Hollywood, yet you will find beauties in this one that will surpass anything you have ever seen. The situation, the views, the surroundings and the beautiful grounds will first captivate you, but when you have entered the house and wandered through some of the handsome rooms, noting the exquisite hangings, the artistic lighting fixtures and the wonderful luster of the highly-polished hardwood floors everywhere, your admiration will leave you without words to express it.

The house is built of hard blue brick to second floors; the rest in frame. Its architectural beauty will not escape you. A broad cement front porch makes an ideal outdoor living-room, overlooking the spacious grounds and the beautiful Hollywood hills. On entering the reception hall, a vista of large, well-arranged rooms opens up before you, giving a general impression of elegance and refinement, fully carried out by the remarkable beauty and finish of the hardwood paneling, the expensive tapestries decorating the paneling, the high quality of the hardwood floors and the splendor of the lighting fixtures. The reception hall is attractively finished in curly birch; the living-room and den have that rich, aristocratic tone always associated with Tobasco mahogany; the dining-room, finished in oak, has an atmosphere of solid comfort and good cheer, heightened by its handsome buffet and splendid center light; the kitchen, a model of convenience, is finished in sweet, clean cedar, a protection against ants or other insects. Off a large rear hall on this floor there are 4 closets, 1 bedrooms and a tile bath, and on the second floor are 3 more large bedrooms. All bedrooms are finished in pure white enamel and exquisite wall hangings; doors of solid mahogany, with cut-glass knobs, large closets, many windows, separate wall switches for each light, full length mirrors and tile mantel are some of the special attractions in these rooms.

The lot is 150x200 feet, with an east front, on broad roadway, with wide parkings. There is a two-story garage in rear, large cement basement, furnace. We will gladly show you the place upon request.

"EAST FRONT."

We offer you a handsome two-story EAST FRONT house in the Wilshire district, close to Wilshire Blvd., on a nice elevated lot, highly improved, for the above price. This is one of the FINEST BUYS we have had for over A YEAR in this district. House contains 7 splendid rooms, beautifully finished, well arranged and of good size; four good bedrooms and all other comforts that make a house pleasant. Grounds are beautiful. Bungalows in this district sell for $5000 and $6500. This is an exceptional good buy.

HANDSOME BUNGALOW BARGAIN.

$3550.

Here it is! Don't look any further. A fine six-room bungalow, strictly modern—hardwood floors and every convenience. As pretty a little house as any one could wish. And the location is close to Western ave. on West 29th street, on a 50-foot lot, well improved with lawn, flowers and shrubbery. We haven't seen a bargain like it for a year. The bank loaned $3000 on it. Now the owner must sell. He leaves for South America this week. Be wise and take the chance here offered you. Only $3550.

ATTRACTIVE WESTMORELAND HOME.

The man who desires a close-in home will look far before he finds the equal of this. An 8-room house of that attractive chalet bungalow style, built but a short time, and with all the modern and cosy ideas to make a delightful home. Hardwood floors downstairs, polished above; big living-room, handsome dining-room and small breakfast room; a garage and a big 60x160-foot lot, well improved. You could not get it nicer. And the location is Westmoreland, close in. Price only $6750.

MAGNOLIA AVENUE.

$7500.

Located on the west side of Magnolia ave., between 11th and 12th sts., close in to two car lines, we have a very modern, 8-room home, with hardwood floors, cellar, furnace and with every modern convenience you might desire. The lot is 50x165 feet to an alley and is well worth $5000. Location is on high ground, close in, and at the above figure is a decided bargain.

HANDSOME WILSHIRE HOME, MANHATTAN PLACE.

$8500.

Stop and think what we are offering. A beautiful, 8-room home, only a few months old, with hardwood floors throughout, on a lot 50x150 feet. The owner of this property has left the city and the family will follow as soon as the home is sold; possession can be given at once. Let us show you this decided bargain on one of the handsomest streets in the Wilshire district. It requires only $2400 cash to handle it; $50 and interest per month on the balance.

ELDEN AVENUE NEAR PICO.

$9750.

A real snap—located on Elden ave., between Pico and 12th sts., facing east, on a 62x150-foot elevated lot. The home of 8 rooms is very artistic and one of the best built houses in Los Angeles, with hardwood floors, cellar, furnace and large garage. The lot alone is worth $100 a foot and the improvements about $7000, so you can readily see what a bargain you are getting. The property overlooks the Westmoreland Place with an unobstructed view of the mountains. Very easy terms can be arranged.

BEAUTY ON HIGH GROUND.

$11,500.

This magnificent new house is situated on an east-front lot at the highest point of beautiful Rampart Blvd. There are 9 large rooms, with oak floors throughout, handsome wall hangings, two up-to-date bathrooms, gas furnace, and fine garage with plumbing and servant's quarters. The grounds are beautiful with shrubs and roses in profusion. Easy terms.

ON BEAUTIFUL MARIPOSA AVENUE.

This magnificent home has just been completed on a lot 75x150 feet, having an east frontage, in the Wilshire section, with an unobstructed view of the mountains and Hollywood, and the lot is the highest one in the entire section. The interior finish is in selected hardwoods; Tabasco mahogany in the dining-room, Circassian walnut in the hall, Peruvian mahogany in the living-room, and fumed oak in the library. The other rooms are in beautiful egg-shell enamel. There are three bathrooms, two of which are tiled and equipped with showers in addition to the usual plumbing, and five well-arranged, airy bedrooms and a splendid sleeping porch. Basement contains fine furnace and Monarch heater. Large, two-story garage, with chauffeur's rooms and bath, finish this property, which we believe cannot be duplicated for the above figure.

HANDSOMEST HOME IN THE WILSHIRE SECTION.

Standing on a beautiful, large lot in the most desirable part of the exclusive Wilshire district, is this unusually attractive, 12-room home of cement plaster construction, with genuine tiled roof and large porch extending entirely across the front of the house. The finish throughout is superb, Peruvian mahogany being used in the spacious living-room, Tabasco mahogany in the large reception hall and quartered oak in the handsome dining room. In the billiard room, adjoining the living-room, the newest ideas have been incorporated and the breakfast room is a little dream. Kitchen and butler's pantry are model and the servant's quarters are carefully secluded from the balance of the house. A broad staircase, in mahogany, leads from the reception hall to the upper floor, where are five delightful sleeping rooms and two tiled baths equipped with the latest sanitary plumbing. The decorations are unequaled and most artistic and harmonious. Garage following the same style of architecture as the house, containing man's room and bath on second floor, completes this charming home.

TERMS TO SUIT.

This beautiful home may be had for a few days at the above figure. We consider it a big snap. It should bring $4500. As owner had built for a home, the house is complete in every detail and is about half furnished, with all built-in effects. Located on one of the main streets in one of the choice western residence sections. Its increase in value during the next year should be $1000, besides the saving in rent during that time. Owner has recently purchased a larger house and will sell this property on your own terms. Small amount of cash to secure this sale.

WEST ADAMS SACRIFICE.
11-ROOM RESIDENCE.
$12,000—WORTH AT LEAST $15,000.

We can show you an actual value of $15,000 in this splendid home. Located on a high and sightly southwest corner. Size 100x165 to alley. The house of Spanish bungalow design, is built around an open court, size about 20x45. Best of finish throughout. Living-room 20x30 feet. At one end is the den, size 20x20, with broad open fireplace. Six large, airy bedrooms, three fine baths; one has a shower. Maid's room and bath separate. Basement has three good-sized rooms and a splendid furnace, piped to all rooms. Two-story garage, with servants' rooms above. Yard highly improved with many rare and beautiful plants and flowers. An inspection of this property will verify our statement that the sacrifice price of $12,000 is fully $5000 under value. Owner is in trouble financially and is absolutely forced to sell.

FOR SALE—$5750, $1500 CASH. 752 N. Mariposa blvd., upper Wilshire district, 100-foot street, one of the very finest bungalows in the city, is decidedly different from any you have seen, nine large rooms, two large brick and cement verandas, hardwood floors throughout, piped for furnace, house has many unique features, the conservatory alone is worth seeing, is a beautiful room, opens to living-room through double French doors, has seat and flower benches, living room 15x20 feet, with massive brick and copper mantel built to ceiling, is decidedly unique, beautiful dining-room, opens to side veranda through French doors, swell front buffet, 9 feet long, complete buffet kitchen, with woodstone drain board and ventilator; unusually fine breakfast room opens to dining-room and kitchen; complete bath with shower, built-in dresser and wardrobes in bedrooms, separate servants' room off screen porch, with lavatory and toilet; large garage, cement driveway, cement cellar. Entire house beautifully fitted and finished, and is unusual value, lot 50x182. Heliotrope drive car to Mariposa. CRAIG, Owner, 216-18 Laughlin Bldg.

FOR SALE—WILL MAKE THIS PROPOSITION to responsible party. I have a modern 1½-story bungalow at No. 322 Tamarind ave., north of Franklin ave., in Hollywood, on a lot 60x140. House and lot cost $5400; Barker Bros. made furnishing and furniture that cost $1040. Will sell property with furniture for less than what the house and lot alone cost, viz., $5300 and accept $1000 cash as first payment and give time on balance at $40 a month. The location and the property is in every respect desirable. I took the property as part payment on a ranch and have no use for it, which accounts for the unusual opportunity I am in position to offer. Not only a beautiful bungalow at less than cost, but with splendid furniture thrown in. J. N. WILLIAMS, 302 I. W. Hellman Bldg., 411 S. Main.

FOR SALE — 5-ROOM BUNGALOW, JUST finished and as fine as anything in the southwest; one that you may be glad you purchased before the other fellow, for it is worth all your trouble to see for yourself that it is all we claim. It does not require a big payment down, and $25 per month will handle it. Do not pass this up for this fine home will not wait long. Come out today. Get off at 54th st. and Normandie ave. Look for Southwest Home Buildings Co.'s sign. 1253 WEST 54TH ST., or ring West 486.

STOP HOUSE HUNTING!
A NEW, COSY BUNGALOW.
IN BEAUTIFUL HOLLYWOOD.
Only $2300.
$200 cash, $25 a month, including interest.

If you search the entire city you cannot possibly find a bargain i na 5-room modern bungalow even remotely approaching this one. Hollywood has become the finest residential section of the greater city, due to the desirability of the environment and to the improved car service. This house is as perfect as the skill of the builder could make it—carefully designed, substantially constructed, admirably finished both inside and out. The interior is second to none in Los Angeles. The lighting fixtures, panel wainscoting, cabinet kitchen, bath, and woodwork generally are exquisite and pleasing. The location could not be better—on the Highland ave. car line, between the Hollywood and Colegrove lines. The lot—40x128 feet to alley—is neither too small nor too large, but just right for the house and spacious enough for an attractive lawn and gardens of flowers. Streets will be oiled and graded at our expense, and standard sidewalks and curbs installed. Don't read this and think no more about it if you are seriously looking for a home you will be proud to own. Act on it! Come to the office and let me tell you everything about this bargain.

This house was built for people who were forced to remove to another part of the U. S., after occupying it only one month.

It is in a beautiful location, high ground, fine neighborhood, convenient to street cars, schools and churches, and connected with gas, electricity, sewer and water.

The house has large living-room, dining-room, breakfast-room, library or den, exceptionally well equipped kitchen, dainty sunny breakfast-room, three large bedrooms, 2 bathrooms, cement cellar, furnace installed, and connected with every room, laundry, attic storeroom, linen closet, and eight large roomy closets.

Lower floors are hardwood, with exceptionally handsome fixtures, built-in buffet, etc.

Garage just finished when people had to go.

The price is at least $1000 under value; easy payment terms can be arranged if desired.

Phone us for engagement to show the property.

—"WHY"—

Because they are about one-half furnished with built in furniture, they are more complete than anything ever put on the market in Los Angeles.

If you will read this description you will investigate.

They have polished oak floors, in the living-room and dining-room, stippled floors in the bedrooms, linoleum on the kitchen and bathroom, floors, stone drain board on the sinks, large plaster hoods over stove space, hot water boilers, and heaters, full cabinet kitchen, six and eight feet buffets, in dining-room, bookcases and writing desk, very fine electric fixtures, hand painted window shades, screens on al windows, best hardware and plumbing, we also put in lawn, flowers, and trees, cement porches, and steps both front and back.

Sewer, Gas, and Electricity,

Do not forget

We give you your deed and title for this small payment down just the same as if you paid all cash; we do not sell on contract.

Remember

I pay the taxes for the first year and the fire insurance the first three years, also furnish all papers.

Come out today and see something that will do you good whether you are in the market for a home or not.

Take San Pedro car, get off at 52nd place one block from Los Angeles, most beautiful Park, South Park.

BUILDERS!!

This is for YOU!

We will sell to responsible builders, TWO (2) MORE LOTS in our popular close-in tract at "39th and Western," on terms that will enable you to build, sell and "Take Your Profits," with very little of your own money invested; not only are the terms most liberal, but the lots are wonderful bargains at the price. GOOD ONES at $900 and LESS. Close to car line; street MACADAMIZED and every other high-grade improvement; pay us only TWO HUNDRED ($200) and we'll give you a clear deed so you can borrow full amount to build; pay us the balance on a Trust Deed at $15 per month. BUILD RIGHT and you'll sell your home before it's completed; for QUICK RESULTS you could not build in a better tract in Los Angeles, and we offer you the BEST PROPOSITION in Los Angeles; that is, on DESIRABLE, SALABLE PROPERTY. We now have a lot of fine homes building and contracted for, so will sell only TWO MORE LOTS on these favorable terms. ACT AT ONCE, if at all.

"See us for the best buys."

FOR SALE—

GRAB IT!
LOT 72x300, $350.
$10 CASH, $10 MONTHLY.

Yes, grab it! You'll have to, if you want it. This lot will certainly be taken quickly—so if you're interested, better get it right away! It's only 17 minutes away, on the best car line; not off in the country somewhere. Measures 72 feet wide and 300 feet deep—a big, level, productive lot, in a good neighborhood, and easy to get to and from on the car. The soil here is a true garden loam. Abundant water is furnished in large steel mains under natural pressure. In buying this lot at $350, you get a bargain. Even if you let it lie, it will pay you a handsome profit. Put up a bungalow here. Room, too, for a profitable little farm, on a lot as large as this—a place that will supply your table with eggs, poultry and vegetables—and you know what this means in these days of the high cost of living. $10 cash takes this lot, and $10 monthly pays for it. Now, come right away, if you're interested.

FOR SALE—
ARLINGTON SQUARE.
IT'S BEAUTIFUL THERE.

Invest $25 in a lot in Arlington Square and you'll never regret the purchase. You can pay at the rate of $15 monthly, and you'll find your lot will be steadily growing in value. Prices are only $725 up—that's for the present only—they can't remain as low as that for long. For Arlington Square is a finished district, ideal for moderate cost homes. In the southwest, with splendid street car service by several lines, five-cent fare. Gas, electricity and telephones, graded and oiled streets, cement walks and curbs, and wide, tastefully planted parkings. Restrictions here that ensure you good neighbors, and yet, are by no means burdensome. Go see the property if you want a home place that will please you and satisfy you, not only today, but as long as you live there. Come to my office and have me take you out in my automobile.

FOR SALE—

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.
ONLY $10,750. WORTH $15,000.
ALVARADO ST. APARTMENT PROP.
FACING WESTLAKE PARK.

We are offering this grand piece of apartment or family hotel property at a tremendous sacrifice, to prevent immediate foreclosure. The total mortgage indebtedness with unpaid interest amounts to nearly $9000, part of which is a bank mortgage at 6 per cent., 1½ years to run; the judgment liens against this property amount to about $1500, making up the balance of the purchase price. We are merely trying to get some one to take over the property to prevent foreclosure and a deficiency judgment being entered against present owner.

We have plans for a three-story frame apartment, containing from 48 to 55 rooms, which can be erected on this lot, and can be leased for five years at from $6 to $6.50 per room; the 10-room house now on the property pays $600 per year net rental, and could be moved two or three blocks up from the park, where lots cost little, and a profit of $2500 made, on a resale of this magnificent house.

Call at once regarding this unusual opportunity.

FOR SALE — OR LEASE: EXCEPTIONAL offer in industrial and business property. I am the owner of a tract, 250 feet front by 165 on North Main street, in 1600 block and adjoining this in the rear: 397 feet front by 175 on Naud street, free of incumbrance, both properties can be served with spur track by the Santa Fe, as well as Southern Pacific. Being desirous to realize cash money now, I offer a big bargain for cash and time, the entire or part purchase of this promising tract with hypothecary guaranty for the refund of all moneys paid thereon, inclusive 5 per cent. interest and taxes, if at the expiration of five years buyer should feel inclined to renounce such purchase. Beyond question, double the amount may be realized within the time mentioned and better prospects yet, if Union station be erected at its logical point; being in close proximity of the junction of the three roads, might eventually be needed for a site. Am also willing to consider a fifty or ninety-nine years' lease. My reasons in offering such inducements are advanced years, lacking cash funds and indifference, making more money by holding on to it. Take time by the forelock. Here is your chance and no risk. FOR SALE—

ATTENTION.

YOU ARE NO DOUBT AWARE THAT THERE IS A GREATER DEMAND FOR SUBDIVISION PROPERTY AT THE PRESENT TIME THAN FOR ANY OTHER CLASS OF PROPERTY IN OR AROUND LOS ANGELES. THE REASON IS THAT THERE IS A GREATER DEMAND FOR RESIDENCE LOTS FROM THE SMALL PURCHASER THAN EVER BEFORE IN THE HISTORY OF THIS CITY. THE DEMAND HAS MADE IT VERY HARD TO FIND ADVANTAGEOUS BUYS EVEN WITH CASH IN THIS CLASS OF PROPERTY.
NOW LISTEN.
I AM IN A POSITION TO OFFER 80 ACRES
RIPE FOR SUBDIVISION ON WHICH YOU CAN MAKE AN ENORMOUS PROFIT IN THE NEXT TWO YEARS.
PRICE $80,000.
ON WHICH WE CAN ACCEPT CLEAR PROPERTY TO $30,000, BALANCE MORTGAGE. ADJOINING ACREAGE HELD AT $1250 AND CONSIDERED CHEAP AT THAT.

A beautiful 2-acre ranch home place, well improved, with buildings and fruit; located just off of W. Washington st., on Valley st., "Palms," about thirty minutes from the center of Los Angeles, via Venice short line electric railway; improved with a good 1½-story house, good barn, chicken buildings, and yards, large plant house, a sixty-foot 8-inch well, a 2500-gallon storage water tank on studded and sided tank house, water is piped to buildings, lawn, etc.; the water equals any mountain spring water in the State. A good family orchard, consisting of oranges, assorted peaches, Satsuma plums, English walnuts, apricots, loquats, figs, dwarf cherries, quince, guavas, assortment of table grapes and an abundance of black and dewberries. About 1¼ acres is into alfalfa. There is an abundance of flowers, shade and shrubbery, palms, etc.; this property has been held at $7000, and is subject to a straight three-year 7 per cent. $3000 mortgage, placed June 28th, 1911; same can be paid off if desired.

You will have to see the above property in order to realize its value.

Take any Venice short line car leaving Hill st. station on the hour or twenty minutes after, get off at Seventh st., Palms, walk back one block to Valley st., turn to left, and this property is the first improved place on the right side of Valley st. Or if going by auto go out W. Washington st., turn to your right on the first street after you cross the Playa del Rey electric railway where it crosses W. Washington st. Said street being Valley st. This property is the first improved on the right side of same, after you leave Washington st. and cross the Venice short line railway.

AND BE HAPPY.

You can do both, if you'll invest just a very little money today at Bay City, Sunset Beach or West Newport.

These beaches have advantages that would make the older more northerly beaches green with envy, had these three towns, which are only now being fully developed, been in the race at the time, the others were first thrown open to the public.

As soon as you visit any one of these, you'll recognize the truth and force of this claim.

The entire trio of towns, under the one name of HAPPYLAND, are now on the market, and

FOR SALE—
WHERE NATURE SMILES.

Come to the San Joaquin; to that broad, fertile valley, "where nature smiles for miles and miles;" where a favorable climate brings money to the rancher; you can almost see things grow. Come to the best part of the San Joaquin, onto the rich, level land of the Fresno Valley tract. This land is not a disappointment. When you go to see the Fresno Valley Tract you can expect to look on some of the best, most profitable land in California, and it will fully come up to expectations. You can raise, at a good profit, almost anything that grows in California. You can become, in a few years, one of the ranchers that have homes in the city as well as on the farm, with automobile and plenty of "spending change." The conveniences and advantages are many, and extraordinary. The Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroads both cross the tract, having stations there. Quick transportation and good oiled roads to Fresno and other near by towns; surveys completed for a new electric line; good neighbors on adjoining ranches; you can have land already in alfalfa, or ready for it, if you wish. Water is "dirt cheap" from ditches and pumps. The prices are $40 an acre up, on terms of one-fourth cash, and the balance in four equal annual payments, or monthly terms, if you prefer. Come in for information. Get my booklet, with photographs. Don't wait, don't delay, don't put it off.

FOR SALE—

I SELL THE EARTH.
R. S. BASSETT.
"LOOKS PRETTY GOOD."

Reader, as a rule we do not advertise for sale, lands that we have not seen, but the following two properties "look good" to us, so we give them to you as reported on to us.

700 ACRES

Located in the little valley running up between the mountains above Porterville. We have been in this valley and like it very much. The earliest oranges in the State come from this section. Fine fruit, too, comes in for the early Thanksgiving Day trade, with big prices then you know; oranges all in the market, and money in the bank, before we gather our oranges down here. On this 700 acres there are from 100 to 200 acres of good orange land, 400 acres more of plow land for fruits and alfalfa.

Tule River runs through the property. Lots of fine old oak trees. Good family orchard; about 5000 nursery trees, 10,000 seed bed stock; horses, cows, all farming tools, etc. House and barn. Good water right, 1-6 interest in Mt. Whitney ditch with 200 inches of water. Close to two postoffices and small towns; this is a great fruit, stock and farming proposition. Come in and see me about it. I believe it is just what you are looking for.

ALSO 240 ACRES
up in the mountains in Mariposa county, only 12 miles from the Yosemite. About 180 acres of good apple land, no better apples grow in the State. About 6 miles from Mariposa county seat, public and High School. River runs across a corner of the property. Price only $16 per acre. $1840 cash, bal. 1, 2 and 3 years. Healthful locality, 3000 feet elevation. Good for any one with lung trouble or asthma.

HOW ABOUT IT?

FOR SALE—COUNTRY PROPERTY.

$6.00 per acre; 5000 acres, 8 miles from Cloverdale, Sonoma county; fenced; farm buildings; 3 rivers; 40 acres fruit; 1000 acres open land; balance covered with oak. Fine cattle, sheep or hog ranch.

$2.50 per acre; 28000 acres patented land; fenced; controls additional 30 acres Government land. Santa Clara county.

$5.50 per acre; 8000 acres near Red Bluff; plenty water; 200 acres bottom land; 2000 acres grain land; balance grazing land.

$40; 1000 acres level land; fine subdivision of S. P. Ry., near Willows. $12.50 per acre cash; balance 5 years at 5 per cent. Will retail at $75 to $100 per acre.

$50 per acre; 320 acres, near Winters; fine alfalfa or fruit land. Will take $20 per acre cash or good trade; balance at 5 per cent.

$40 per acre; 2200 acres fully equipped and stocked, near Le Grande, Merced county. Take ½ cash or good trade; balance at 6 per cent.

$12.50 per acre; 760 acres, 25 miles N. of Fresno and 7 miles from Ry. Fenced in five fields; set of farm buildings; 5 springs, stream water; 65 acres alfalfa land; 400 acres tillable; balance all good grazing land. A bargain. Will consider some trade.

$17.50 per acre; 2000 acres Sacramento Valley; 2000 acres bottom land; balance slightly rolling. All good fruit land.

GOVERNMENT LANDS— And Land Script.

GOVERNMENT LAND

SCRIP

Government land can be entered without residence and cultivation by the use of valid scrip for that purpose. One person can take a thousand acres or more in his own name. Title passes immediately upon approval of the application by the General Land Office. Ranchmen, stockmen, timber operators and others desiring to secure desirable tracts or water rights should write for prices and particulars.

When you purchase the Scrip from us, we fully prepare all the necessary papers, file it in the Land Office and look after the same until patent issues, without extra charge to you.

We have Scrip that will acquire title to the surveyed and unsurveyed public lands of the United States and Alaska. All our Scrip is positively guaranteed and the purchaser takes no risk.

OIL PROPERTY—

STANDARD DRILLING RIGS—

We have just purchased three complete standard drilling rigs, with the Ideal rig irons, extra heavy, each rig is complete in every respect, with Boble under-reamers of all sizes; bits, jars, steam pumps, boilers, engines, fishing tools, hydraulic jacks, warehouses, portable house, tool houses, lumber and loading rack; pipe and casing of all sizes; the above rigs were only used to drill one well each. Everything used was the very best that money could buy. Everything must be sold within thirty days.

All the above rigs and casing are located in the Sherman oil field. Take the L.A.P. R.R. Sawtelle car, get off at Sherman Junction; walk north a short distance. Inquire for the McDor and Grador oil wells. See watchman. Or call up the ADAMS PIPE WORKS, F1317, or Broadway 1364, Hollywood 123.

THE STANDARD, UNION AND AMALGAmated Oil companies and other "big fellows" are quietly gobbling up land and leases in the Fullerton-Olinda field. Are you going to sit still while they get all the best properties? There you can see oil wells flowing 200, 500, 900, 2000 and one (the Menges) is good for 6000 barrels daily. It is a delightful trip, only a few hours from Los Angeles. Nearly all this land can be planted to oranges, lemons, walnuts, alfalfa, etc.; go and see and be convinced that there are more opportunities and safer investments, promising quick returns, in this field than in all the other fields of California; a small investment now may in a short time make you absolutely independent. I have several tracts of land and several good oil leases for sale. If you are interested come in and see me. Please remember that I have competent men in the field, who have examined and recommended the properties now offered by me. M. KINNEY, 606 Story Bldg., city. Phones F5495, Main 4931.

GROUND FLOOR PROPOSITION OFFERED to men with $500 and up who will join syndicate to operate fine oil lease near Palmer gushers in Santa Maria field. FOR EXCHANGE—OR SALE.
$125,000.
Magnificent Country Estate.

Containing 400 of Nature's grandest and most productive acres, over 2300 acres tillable land, balance in luxuriant pasture, covered with huge oak timber, and interset with neverfailing springs and many large streams. The standing wood alone being over 100,000 cords. An average rainfall of 30 inches assures large crops, and abundant pasture. The property is fenced and cross-fenced, with over 20 miles of fencing and is stocked with several hundred head of beef cattle, horses and hogs. The buildings consist of warehouses, dairy barns, stock sheds, blacksmith shops, employees' quarters, and a typical old Spanish residence.

Located in the most favored section of the State, situated but a half day's ride from L. A., within a few miles of a thriving town along a scenic lakeside road.

The property combines the many advantages of an ideal country home, and an exceptional income producing estate. Terms of $25,000 cash and the balance at 5 per cent. interest will be accepted, and a fair portion in exchange.

We have personally inspected this property and know it to be all that we claim.

A NUMBER OF PROMINENT LOS ANgeles business men have acquired an immense proven gold and copper property, comprising 63 claims, part of which are patented, upon which the development work has proven the property, expending therefor a large amount of money. It is located within a short distance of one of the largest paying mines in the country.

They are preparing to continue the active development of this property, and offer to pre-organization investors for a limited amount of money a liberal stock bonus and a secured guarantee of the return of the money within one year, with interest at the rate of seven per cent. per annum.

This is a high-class proposition, managed by representative men, who have taken every precaution to protect their own investment, and the investments of others, assuring a certain return of the money to the pre-organization subscribers. Full particulars at interview only with principals. Address Y, box 275, TIMES BRANCH OFFICE.

"HOME BUILDERS" GUARANTY SHARES have a guaranteed earning power of at least 80 per cent. on the purchase price; which is protected to the original investor. These shares, now selling at $2.20, can only be bought through "HOME BUILDERS GENERAL AGENCY," which issues the guaranty. "HOME BUILDERS" transferred common shares are a very safe investment, but will receive no dividends on the guaranty and are not entitled to the General Agency's facilities for re-sale, or to protection from its assets. Such transferred or non-guaranty shares can be purchased from any reliable broker and are an excellent and profitable investment. The Guaranty, as issued by the undersigned, is not transferable, and purchasers buying from others much not expect to receive the same, nor the extra dividends thereon, all of which are for the original purchaser's protection and profit, and are given only by "HOME BUILDERS GENERAL AGENCY," at 129 S. THE REASON.

There are many reasons why Midway Northern should be worth and selling for one dollar per share within the near future. The chief reasons are that the company has the ground, the oil, and the CONTRACTS and at fancy prices. The ground is all that could be desired, prolific sands and big wells. The oil is high grade and in big demand. The contracts call for a big supply and at fancy prices.

Well No. 1 has been flowing since June 9, at about five hundred barrels per day and this from only a half-inch opening in the casing. This will gradually be opened until the production will be greatly increased. If a half-inch opening will produce five hundred barrels per day, what will the well do, when the opening is enlarged to four or six inches? This is a big well flowing steadily without a hitch and with no signs of diminution.

Well No. 2 has recently come in and as expected, it is one of the biggest wells of that district. It is at this writing too early to say just what it will produce, but for a few hours it was allowed to flow wide open and the production was at the rate of 20,000 barrels per day. From all indications, this well will be good for at least two to three thousand barrels per day, month in and month out. Figure anyway you may, and you will see that the company is making money and that the income will be increased. One or two more wells are to be drilled soon. Now then, with less than seven hundred thousand shares outstanding you can figure for yourself what this company can soon do in the way of dividends. There are no debts and money is accumulating in the treasury. You better buy the stock now if you ever intend to, because the company is now an assured success and the stock is in for a big advance. Stick to the company that has the oil and the contract to sell it. Call or write us regarding any oil investment.

FOR SALE—
Furniture.

FOR SALE — JULY CLEARANCE SALE now on, never before in the history of L. A., have such prices been quoted on high grade and medium grade furniture. It is a mistake to think that you must buy on Broadway to get the best. We handle the same grade of furniture that the Broadway stores do at 25 per cent. less. The reason we can under-sell them is on account of the difference in rent. If we had the same size store on Broadway, we would pay three or four times more rent and would have to charge more for our goods.

If the customer does not pay the high rents who does?

We handle the same lines of furniture that they do, embracing such durable lines as the Crocker Chair Co., of Sheboygan, Wis. (The best line of medium-priced chairs in the U. S.)

The Ottawa Furniture Co. of Holland, Michigan. Best line of Circassian walnut bedroom furniture in the U. S.

Newark Furniture Co. of Newark, Ohio. Best line of high grade pedestal, dining tables in the U. S.

Jamestown Cabinet Co. of Jamestown, N. Y. Best line of high grade birdseye maple dressers, chiffonieres and dressing tables.

Union Wire Mattress Co. of Chicago. Best line of metal springs and sanitary couches in the U. S., at the lowest prices.

Pittsburgh-Hickson Co. of Butler, Pa. Best line of cheap and medium-priced iron and brass beds in the U. S.

The American Go-cart Co. of Toledo, Ohio. (Best line of collapsible go-carts in the U. S.) at the lowest prices.

Humphrey Bookcase Co. of Detroit, Mich. Best and cheapest line of sectional bookcases in the country.

Alexander Smith & Sons Co. of New York. The cheapest and best line of tapestry and Axminster rugs in the U. S., at the lowest prices.

Be sure and see our large stock of durable goods at the lowest possible price (quality considered) in Los Angeles. Remember we are the poor man's friend, as we make a specialty of furnishing small homes or bungalows on the installment plan.

A small payment down and a little a week or month (as you get your pay,) will furnish your home completely.

FAMOUS RETREATS OF THE BAD MEN.

Bandit Whitney is Now Safe In One of Them.

Supposed to be Hiding in "Pullman" Trail.

Something About the Outlaws Who Went Before.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SALT LAKE CITY, July 7.—Bandit Hugh Whitney, whose life or capture is sought by more than 200 possemen of Utah, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming, appears to have successfully eluded his pursuers and reached the outlaws' retreat in the wilds of western Wyoming. His conduct leads many of the old-time man-hunters of the Rocky Mountains to believe he is one of the remnant of outlaws who have made the numerous rendezvous along the old "Pullman route" their asylum for many years. The recent killing of Abe Murdock and the pursuit of Bud Meeks in Eastern Utah indicate that the outlaws have swung back into civilization to replenish their supplies. Whitney's actions indicate that he is familiar with the country.

Thus far, in the present affair, Whitney has killed one man and wounded three others. He commenced this session of deviltry by holding up a saloon in Monida, Mont. He was pursued by officers and was located on a southbound passenger train from Butte. Conductor William Kid attempted to assist Deputy Sheriff Milton to make the arrest and both were shot by the bandit, the conductor dying. After escaping from the train, Whitney was pursued by various posses and wounded at least three men, eluding bloodhounds by traveling long distances in the middle of streams, hiding by day and riding by night. He so frequently doubled his trail that his pursuers were nonplussed. He has not been seen for so long that it is practically certain he has reached the Jackson's Hole country in Wyoming, if not the famous "Hole-in-the-wall," which is an almost certain guarantee of freedom.

IN A FRIENDLY COUNTRY.

If Whitney is now on the "Pullman" trail he will meet with no difficulties. He will be aided in every effort by former bandits who are now in the class of inoffensive ranchers and cattlemen. All the posses in the offended States could not capture him without the betrayal of his fellow outlaws. And such a thing is not expected.

The old "Pullman" trail is the course which outlaws for forty years have traveled from Mexico to Canada. There is, in fact, two well-beaten trails through Arizona, New Mexico, Utah, Nevada, Idaho, Wyoming, Montana and the Dakotas. One of these passes from the Black Hills country into Wyoming to an almost inaccessible district known as the "Hole-in-the-wall." Her, it is joined by a branch into Canada through "Jackson's Hole," Yellowstone Park and Central Montana. Southward from the "Hole-in-the-wall," the trail leads to Powder Springs in Western Colorado, and thence westward to "Brown's Park." From there it crosses Green River, near the mouth of the Duschense, southerly to the crossing of the Rio Grande Railroad near Book Cliffs. From the cliffs there is a devious course to Henry Mountains, the location of the "Robbers' Roost." There are many other stations along the "Pullman" to Mexico, but these are the most important ones of the western trail. The western trail crosses the Colorado at Bright Angel and takes a course through Pioche, once the wildest camp in America, and thence through Ely, Elko and through Idaho to Canada. There was a branch line along the Snake River to the Columbia and to Portland.

MOST DIFFICULT PLACES.

These trails were laid out in the most difficult of places. The valleys were avoided where possible and the trail seldom led along the sky line of the mountains, but rather near the summit, so as to enable the travelers to successfully conceal their movements by daylight or by moonlight. The roughest ground served to cover the trail, whereas, in the valleys, the footprints of horses and cattle would make pursuit less difficult.

The "Pullman" trails were used for twenty-five years by the boldest and most successful cattle thieves in the West. These cattle thieves would drive their stock from Mexico, or Texas, along the trail by easy stages and in small bands until the Northern Pacific was reached, when the cattle were misbranded and sold to the local shippers. Or, if the thefts were made in Canada, or in the Northern States and Territories, the bands were driven southward and shipped from the most convenient points. It was impossible to apprehend these men so long as they confined themselves to the stealing of cattle and the marketing of their plunder, but the life they led made it a great temptation to go to the settlements and hold up banks, or trains and stage lines and, as a rule, it was not long until they came to grief.

Among the best-known riders of the "Pullman" trail and guests, or residents, of the various "roosts" and "stations," was Ben Tasker, the king of the stock thieves. Tasker had a large ranch at Desert Springs on the Pioche route, and carried murder into his stock-stealing operations. He once stole a band of 30,000 sheep and marketed the sheep in California. This theft was accomplished by means of forged bills of sale which he delivered to the herders, and then employed the herders at high wages to assist him in moving the sheep to market.

MURDERED HIS WIFE.

His wife was a huge negress, whom he murdered when he suspected she had disclosed to officers his plans and crimes. He was often arrested, but escaped on alibis. Once he was convicted in Southern Utah of murder and was sentenced to life imprisonment, but he escaped from Beaver jail and went to Mexico, where, it is believed, he is now living.

Tom Nance, a disreputable lawyer, operated among the outlaws and led a bloody career himself. In a fight with his brother-in-law, "Bill" Thompson, in a gambling den at Durango, Nance established his name as a 'bad' man. He and Thompson fought under a table, he with a knife and Thompson with a six-shooter. Thompson's face was cut into strips and his aim was bad. The only shot taking effect was one that struck in the leg of "Old Hickory," an outlaw, who was sitting on the table. Thompson was easily "finished" when his chambers were empty, and Nance fled with a hunchback gambler named Gene Blanchard, to Tintic, Utah, where he shot a barber named LaBoa, and got three years in the Utah prison. Blanchard, or Blancet, was killed at Tintic by Hank Parrish. These men fought for a while in a gambling den, and later met by appointment in Pat Shea's slaughter pen, where the job was finished. Parrish was tried and acquitted. He then went to Pioche, where he killed a man at faro, was convicted and hanged at Ely.

Tom McCarty and his gang probably first used the "Robbers' Roost." McCarty was a small man, but not a coward. He would give an officer an even break in a gun fight. "Mac's" lieutenant was his brother-in-law, W. E. Christenson, who had a half dozen aliases. Best known of these aliases were Mat Warner and Ras Lewis. McCarty was reared in San Pete county, Utah, and Christenson in Juab county, near Manti. This gang robbed the Telluride bank and got $21,500. They were pursued and took the "Pullman" to Wyoming, where they wintered.

OTHER DEPREDATIONS.

From there Warner and others went to Oregon and committed many depredations; thence to Rosslyn, Wash., where they robbed a bank. McCarty's brother, "Billy," lived near Baker City, Ore., and Tom visited his shortly after the bank robbery at Rosslyn and was trailed there by officers. "Billy" was a friend of the Sheriff and begged the officer not to go into the house but the Sheriff and his posse would not be persuaded. The result of the raid was that the officers were disarmed by Tom, "Billy," "Billy's" wife, and son, Fred, and a hired man, and the Sheriff's life was only spared on "Billy's" pleading. But this changed Billy from a peaceful citizen to an outlaw, and he and his son were later killed at Delta, Colo., in a bank robbery in which Fred, then but 20, killed the cashier. Tom McCarty is dead and Warner is serving time for the murder of two men in Uinta county, Utah. He has been spoken of as a brother of the notorious "Butch" Cassidy, but this is not credited by those who knew the butcher. Cassidy was loyal to the McCarty outlaws, and when Warner needed money to defend himself in the Uintah trial, Cassidy and a partner named Leigh raided the bank at Montpelier, Idaho, and secured about $11,000. They went to a station near Evanston, Wyo., and wired for an attorney. On his arrival arrangements were made for the defense of Warner and others who were in custody for various crimes.

The following spring Cassidy and others held up the paymaster of the Pleasant Valley Coal Company at Castle Gate, Utah, and relieved him of $8000. "Kinch" Kinney, one of the Cassidy gang, is now said to be running a saloon in the Klondike region. He had a evry sensational escape form the Cheyenne jail in 1891.

KILLED IN CALIFORNIA.

Another of the "Pullman" service was Phil Foote, who held up Harry Hind's gambling place in Salt Lake in 1891. He was arrested and jumped his bond, returning to the Roost. He afterward gave up and beat the case. Later he quarreled with the Montgomerys in California and was killed. C. L. Maxwell, "Gunplay," was one of the gang that infested the trails and raided the towns. He was killed by Deputy Sheriff Johnson at Price two years ago. Maxwell had served time for bank robbery and is believed to have murdered several persons, among whom were a couple of his pals, whom he suspicioned of leaking about a transaction at Albuquerque. "Butch" Cassidy is now believed to be in Peru.

It was a practice of the "Pullman" trailers to circulate the report that members who were wanted by the law had been killed in some far-away mining camp, or by an accidental fall from a horse, or into a stream, and officers were often thus persuaded to abandon the trail. This enabled the least criminally inclined to take up lawful pursuits, and many of these are believed to be living under aliases in Utah, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado today. But the blood runs hot and strong when one remembers the wild-eyed and gaunt men who rode the famous Pullman trail, and one wonders if some of the remnants of these murderous gangs are not frequent visitors to the cities along the route today. The many clever and desperate hold-ups and murders of late years look like the work of the old-time gun men.

The Seaward Trend.

BANKER TO BUILD STATELY MANSION.

PLANS BEAUTIFUL HOME AT CITY'S WESTERN EDGE.

Corner of Wilshire Boulevard and Westerly Drive to Be Site of New Southland "Show Place"—House to Be of Spanish Renaissance Design—Project Significant.

The permanence of Wilshire boulevard as the city's most fashionable residence thoroughfare and the confidence of capital in the seaword trend of Los Angeles are most convincingly attested by recent developments at the city's western edges. The opening of the beautiful $1,000,000 Windsor Square Tract as an exclusive subdivision is only one of the significant projects within immediate hail in this district.

Following his convictions as to the city's trend, W. H. Holliday, president of the Merchants National Bank, has decided to erect a splendid mansion so far out on Wilshire as to be remote from all present gas, electric and water facilities. The extension of the zone of these conveniences to westward limits undreamed of in the contemplations of the not-so-remote owners of this great and sightly region is of course signalized by this determination of Mr. Holliday's.

The site selected by the banker-financier is one of the most attractive in Southern California, commanding as it does a panorama including the entire city, leagues of smiling valleys and hundreds of miles of mountain ranges. The grounds are at the southeast corner of Wilshire and Westerly Drive, fronting 150 feet on the former by 325 feet on the latter highway. There is also a frontage of 160 feet on Eighth street.

The house itself will be one of the most attractive homes in the Southland, the plans by the architects, Hunt & Burns, calling for a large and stately mansion of the Spanish Renaissance type, cost considerably over $30,000 exclusive of all furnishings and appointments. It will present an exterior of white walls, set off by wrought iron balconies at the windows and surmounted by a roof of green and purple variegated slate. The trimming will be of stone.

The structure will contain twelve main rooms most of these being finished in white enameled cedar. The doors will be of mahogany, the floors throughout of hardwood. The interior treatment will follow Renaissance lines.

The main entrance hall will etxend through the house to a gerden court between the two rear wings, and will be flanked on the left by drawing and sitting rooms, which in turn will open onto garden porches and paved terraces. The dining-room will be on the right of the entrance hall.

The basement will contain a large combination billiard room and supper-room connected with the first story by both guest and servants' stairways. The second story will be devoted to sleeping quarters, the chambers of the owner being on the right side of the house. There will be a lbastorytefioter- tstadsionway)tgflas number of sleeping porches on this story and each room will be provided with a separate dressing-room. There will also be a library on this floor. The attic will contain space for additional bed-rooms.

The garage at the rear of the grounds is to have a capacity of three machines and will be situated in line with the servants' wing of the house. The interval between is to be enclosed to form a kitchen service yard apart from the house garden and lawns. The grounds elsewhere will be formally laid out.

BURNS AGAIN CAPTURES THE WEEKLY PRIZE.

Hester Jewell of Azusa Makes Sensational Score---Half-Million Mark in Sight in "The Times" Greater Contest---Holiday Week Was a Stunner---Three Leaders Are in Close Touch and Either May Carry First Position at Any Time---Scholarship Contest Running Fast---Clark Cook of Pasadena Leads With Willis Baird of Los Angeles in Second Place---Something About the Scholarships to Be Awarded to Contestants.

SPECIAL PRIZES.
For the Month of July, $300.
First Prizes $75.00
Second Prizes $50.00
Third Prizes $25.00
[illegible] each of these to be awarded to the male and female contestants securing highest number of Subscription Points.

Monthly prize scores will be computed only from subscription orders signed during the current month. No orders signed during preceding month will be counted for the special prizes.

PRIZES FOR THE WEEK.
Ending at noon, Saturday, July 15—$25.00 to Male Contestant, $25.00 to Female Contestant Receiving Highest Number of Subscription Points.

The week has been a hummer for contestants in The Times Greater Contest and Scholarship department. [illegible] in the middle of the week [illegible] breaks up the business of the [illegible] especially in a contest of this [illegible] when subscribers do not [illegible] the transaction of this business [illegible] of vital import, and when a [illegible] comes on Tuesday, the rule is [illegible] such business as is necessary [illegible] on Monday and Wednesday.

[illegible], all the more credit is due [illegible] contestants for the remarkable [illegible] they have made.

[illegible] week, if a good one (and there [illegible] to believe it will be otherwise [illegible]) should show the [illegible] in this contest well over 300,000 and engaged in a hot chase to [illegible] half million mark.

There seems to be no question as to [illegible] the men's prize of $25 [illegible] ending at noon yesterday, [illegible] are all pretty much in, [illegible] announcement cannot [illegible] Tuesday morning, in [illegible] out-of-town contestants [illegible] opportunity to forward [illegible] they have secured.

[illegible] the blind Los Angeles [illegible] tallied 53,435 for the week! [illegible] like a winner.

[illegible] jogging along quietly for several [illegible] Burns seems to have hit [illegible] for he has set a pace this [illegible] which is a difficult one for anyone to keep even with, and much more [illegible] to beat.

[illegible] week Burns labored under a [illegible] handicap, as he was not in the [illegible] health, and he says his big St. Bernard dog also had a sympathetic [illegible] and without the St. Bernard Burns cannot navigate quite as [illegible] otherwise. This big dog shares no small part of the excellent work done by Burns in this contest. It is one of the most intelligent specimens of its kind, and seems to instinctively understand the spoken directions of its master.

The Odd Fellows and the Methodists are keeping up their warm-hearted and freely-given support of Burns, and there will be no diminution of their activity as long as the contest endures.

John Scott, Jr., of La Habra finished his week with 39,550, which is a rattling good score at any time.

L. O. Lieber is now on his way East with the Shriners, and consequently his campaign lacks his individual attention, but his well effected organization of street railway men who are working in his interest will keep up his score during his absence.

Among the women the highest score at noon Saturday was that of Hester Jewell of San Dimas, who made the remarkable record of 9400. Miss Jewell has been going along in the contest thus far without any sensational spurts until this week, but now she is down to work in earnest and great things may be looked forward to from her section in the future.

Mrs. Carlin of Long Beach, who has been hitting things up at the rate of 20,000 or so a week, had scored up to Saturday 2450, but that was from the early part of the week, and her report for the week ending will doubtless be received in the mail tomorrow, as will also that of Mrs. Tout of Calexico, from whom we have not heard this week.

These reports may change the official announcements of the week's prizes.

The prize winners for the week, whoever they may turn out to be after all of the out-of-town returns are in, were particularly fortunate, because there were quite a number of sprints made by contestants who have been further down the line for some time.

Gertrude Linsenbard, who is one of the newer contestants, scored 5275, and Alyce Larrieu, who has been working along steadily in a small way, made a fine record of 3800. Alys Sweet, whose record is always good from week to week, finished at noon with 7325.

Among the men, Lewis P. Black of Monrovia-Duarte came through in a rush with 16,175, and E. Rietzke of Glendora-Ventura tallied 30,400. Rietzke is making a whirlwind canvass, as this is barely his second week, and he is already in eighth place, well up among the leaders.

Leo Morinaga, the Japanese contestant, whose total runs into the twenty-odd thousand class, scored 7100 during the week. Arthur Goldsmith, the Ocean Park boy, has evidently been busy in his community, for he has 3675 to his credit for the week.

Amos Colburn of Upland, who is well past the 10,000 mark, added a couple thousand to his score for the week, and Leo Germain did likewise.

G. W. Beck of La Habra scored 2150. Oscar Willenberg and Russell Kreichbaum did well with close to 2000, and Harry Miehle of Riverside added 3000 to his tally.

SCHOLARSHIP DEPARTMENT.

Among the Scholarship contestants Clark Cook of Pasadena leads with 10,330. He is closely followed by Willis Baird of Los Angeles with 6090.

Wallace J. Stadiman and Martha F. Tilburn of Fernando hold third and fourth places with 2724 and 2106 respectively, and Liston M. Oak of Colton fifth with 2093.

These last three are so close together that one subscription will change the complexion of same.

As we promised our young friends several days ago, we have something to say this morning of some of the scholarships that are offered in this department.

All of you know, of course, all about the University of Southern California. Little need be said at this time of the unsurpassed facilities of that institution in every department.

A little later we will enter into details of the several courses which we are offering in the University; and from time to time we will tell you something of the intimate details of the several institutions whose scholarships will be awarded to the successful contestants.

This morning we have picked out a number of them, feeling that those of you who are earnest in this contest will be intensely interested in the character of the institutions in which you may have opportunity to take a course of study. A few of them are given here.

SCHOOL OF WHISTLING.

The California School of Artistic Whistling in the Blanchard building, the only institution of its kind in the country, originated and established by Miss Agnes Woodward, (director of the school,) formerly of Detroit, Mich., but now a resident of this city, has won for itself a distinct place in the musical circles of Los Angeles and the cities of the Coast. Pupils from all parts of California have attended the school, and even the States of Ohio, Indiana, Minnesota, New Mexico and distant New Zealand have been represented.

Whistling as an art was unheard of twenty years ago, but the progress of the ages advancing all things, has advanced whistling to the present artistic standing it now holds.

The reasons given by the pupils for taking up the study are many—some for an accomplishment, others for a vocation and still others for health, there being no better exercise for developing the lungs than the deep breathing required for whistling. Bird imitation to which the whistle seems so admirably suited, is made a special study, this branch of the work being in charge of Miss Edna Zyl Modie, who is well and favorable known for her artistic whistling anu inimitable bird imitations.

In connection wtth this school are a vocal department in charge of Mme. Anna Elaine Fisher, formerly with the Heinrich Opera Company of New York, a teacher of wide experience and ability; a piano department in charge of Miss Ella MacGlashan, a successful intructor of the piano, especially with children, and an organist of note. The expression and violin department under the supervision of Miss Clara Iverson of the Columbia College of Oratory, Chicago, and Harold Walberg, a favorite pupil of the celebrated violinist, Wilchek, both successful teachers in their respective lines.

Monthly studio recitals are given, at which time pupils from the different departments contribute to the programme, thus giving them the experience and confidence necessary for large entertainments.

Four scholarships are offered: One each in whistling, expression, violin and vocal courses.

ISAACS - WOODBURY BUSINESS COLLEGE.

A business course in this well-known college is one of the scholarships much sought after by contestants.

This college has been established twenty-five years and is now located in light, sanitary, dust-proof and noise-proof quarters on the fifth floor of the Hamburger building.

It is entering upon its second quarter-century. It aims at all times to be a consistent and persistent leavening agency in raising the public's sentiment to a higher appreciation of business education. The continued and increasing patronage of the school is evidence that the workings by this institution are being appreciated.

It is not dependent upon endowments or contributions, but entirely upon its own merit for success. The managers of this college are its owners and, therefore, not handicapped or restricted in any way by outside affiliations. Its teaching force comprises men and women of character and ability, each a specialist in his or her particular department.

The commercial course which is offered here qualifies the student for intelligent, money-earning business activity in general, and for office work along the lines of book-keeping and typewriting. It is thoroughly practical throughout, and is invaluable to any and all who aspire to become intelligent and successful business men or women. It is also invaluable to that large number who are not in business, but who come in daily touch with business people and business affairs, and who should be able to do so in a way that is creditable to themselves and satisfactory to all concerned.

The Isaacs-Woodbury Commercial Course is highly systematized, and unquestionably one of the strongest ever devised. In a general way, the subjects taught are practically the same as in all commercial schools, but the methods of presenting the subjects, and of conducting the office and business practice department are vastly different. The office and business training is not a kindergarten affair, nor a place for wasting time or acquiring loose and indifferent business habits. All the student's time is spent in acquiring practical knowledge.

The president and manager is E. K. Isaacs, who has had over thirty years' successful experience in school work and enjoys a national reputation.

OSTEOPATHY.

A course in the Pacific College of Osteopathy is offered in this contest. This college is located at the junction of Daly street and Mission road and occupies a three-story building especially designed for its use.

The board of directors and the faculty comprise men who are nationally known in their profession, and it is one of the leading institutions of its kind in the country.

The man or woman who desires to enter upon a professional career does not always find it easy to decide what his life-work shall be. In this age of intense competition and of the over-crowding of nearly all of the professions it is necessary to look carefully over the field and to consider well before making the choice upon which so much depends. A new field must be found for the thousands of ambitious, intelligent, educated, energetic, and courageous men and women whose ability and desires call for a life work in which they can benefit mankind, and at the same time occupy an honorable position in the opinion of their fellowmen. It is such a field that osteopathy opens and to such a work that it invites the earnest student of today.

The Pacific Colleg of Osteopathy was the second institution in the world established for the professional preparation of osteopathic physicians. It was opened in May, 1896, at Anaheim, Cal., thirty miles southeast of Los Angeles, and on July 14 of that year received its certificate of incorporation, giving it the legal right to grant degrees to its graduates. Under this authority the Pacific College conferred the first doctor's degree (D.O.) ever received by an osteopath.

A year later it was found desirable to re-incorporate upon broader lines and to secure a more convenient and advantageous field. This was done by removing to Los Angeles. Here the school found a home commensurate with its needs and each year thereafter brought with it an advance in the grade and thoroughness of the work done.

A few years later the necessity for a still broader preparation was recognized. The instruction was placed upon a thorough scientific basis. The best of laboratory facilities, chemical, histological and bacteriological, were now supplied and the Pacific College became a leader in what is now a national movement in osteopathy for a curriculum basis upon laboratory methods and clinic training with sufficient time for a thorough professional education. In its efforts to attain this end it was of the first osteopathic schools to introduce and make compulsory a thirty-months course of study.

HOLLMAN BUSINESS COLLEGE.

Three of the most attractive prizes in this department are scholarships in the Hollman Business College.

To be successful at the present day in business pursuits, young men and women must be educated for business—they must be qualified. Even the degree of proficiency required to meet with success has changed in recent years, and one must possess better qualifications than formerly if he would succeed.

The curriculum of the commercial school of today is more thorough and comprehensive than twenty years ago. The demands of the times require it to be so, and the better class of business institutions of learning are increasing and strengthening their facilities and endeavoring to meet the demand by keeping abreast of the times. The old cry heard years ago that business college graduates were not qualified as accountants and as business young men, has changed, and business houses of the present day apply to the better class of business schools for office help as accountants, salesmen, stenographers, etc., with the confidence that their deeds will be fully met.

D. L. Hollman is president and manager, superintendent of departments, Graham shorthand specialist, penmanship and general business branches.

Mr. Hollman's experience in business college work and success as a teacher in this city is well known to the public, he being one of the founders and secretary of the Southern California Business College. Mr. Hollman possesses the faculty of inspiring his students with an ambition to excel, and as a teacher of Graham shorthand he has few equals. His students have met with universal success, and are found in nearly every business building in Los Angeles.

SSCHOOL OF LANGUAGES.

Prof. Rafael M. Gallegos, M. A., principal of the Gallegos School of Language, rooms 327-328 Pacific Electric building, came to Los Angeles several years ago thoroughly equipped for his chosen work in life. He came here a stranger, but with credentials that served as a sufficient introduction to Los Angeles as to his ability and standing in his profession. Among his papers are letters from King Alfonso XIII of Spain, Count de Andino, Private Secretary of His Majesty the King of Spain, President of the Republic of Peru, President of the Republic of Ecuador, President of the Republic of Guatemala, Prime Minister of Chile, State Secretary of Ecuador, Director of the Institute National of Peru, the entire press of the cities of Quito, Guayaquil, Lima, Valpariso and Santiago de Chile.

The great importance of having a practical knowledge of the Spanish language cannot be too much emphasized. One cannot effectually realize how essential it is to be able at least to understand and be understood by Spanish-speaking people, until one comes in contact with them. The absolute necessity of learning Spanish is especially felt in California and the other west and middle-west States.

The growing trade with Mexico, Central and South America, and all the other Spanish-speaking countries of more intimate intercourse, like Cuba, Porto Rico, the West Indies, and Panama, present to Americans of ambition and enterprise a really vast field of endeavor, but in which a knowledge of Spanish becomes indispensable. The opening of the Panama Canal will unlock the door of the wonderful coast of South America with its immense wealth and many opportunities in mining, farming, banking, professional lines and in all other branches of industry and commerce known and yet to be known.

Having carefully considered all these facts, Prof Gallegos has been faithfully at work during the last eight years in Los Angeles teaching the Spanish language, and furnishing the public with all possible information concerning the Latin-American countries.

A course in Spanish in this college is one of the scholarships offered in this contest.

MILITARY BOYS.

Page Military Academy, a scholarship which you will find in the list, is known as the Big Strong School for Young Boys. It is especially designed to give small boys the discipline and bearing that goes with military training. The officers and privates are all grammer school boys. They learn to stand erect, pick up their feet when they walk and obey orders. An athletic instructor supervises all of the games and the scholars are not left to play alone and get into mischief. In this excellent school constant effort is made to eradicate faults in character, bearing of speech, and the record of the school thus far has shown it has met with eminent success along these lines.

The boys are given frequent outings, such as trips to mountains and beaches, accompanied always by a teacher. They have the choice of the infantry or cavalry department.

This school is excellently conducted and has a handsome home at 137 West Adams street.

DE CHAUVENET CONSERVATORY.

Three scholarships are offered in this well-known school of music and dramatic art; one for piano or organ, one for violin, and another for vocal instructions.

The aim of the De Chauvenet Conservatory of Music is the nearest possible attainment of perfection in each and all branches; the cultivation of a healthy love and understanding of music; masterful technic; a well-grounded and artistic musical interpretation; a broad intelligence along all music lines; the encouragement both by example and precept of conscientiousness, honesty and enthusiasm in all work; lofty ambitions and the development of the moral self while acquiring this knowledge and skill.

The standard is "the highest good to each pupil." This is best accomplished, not only by supplying proficient and artistic teachers, and giving the pupils every adcantage possible, but also by giving a well-planned, sincere and conscientious course of study which well fulfills the requirements of earnest students, teachers and artists. Pupils who show marked ability in any line of study will be encouraged toward the highest results but never at the expense of a well-grounded musical education.

The advantages of conservatory work are numerous, among which may be mentioned the following: The necessary regular attendance; the musical atmosphere created by fellow students and public recitals, and the free lectures and class work in harmony, musical history, pedagogy and sight reading, all of which are essentials in a thorough musical education and which are impossible to be even touched upon by the private teacher in the lesson period. Aside from these stated advantages in conservatory study may be mentioned the earnest persistence and untiring effort required of each pupil in order to obtain a standing sufficient to receive the well recognized and time honored Teacher's Certificate or diploma.

L. A. SCHOOL OF ART AND DESIGN.

This is the only Southern California art school recognized in Europe. There are two courses to be awarded here; one scholarship in drawing and painting in oil and water colors and another in designing, illustrating and cartooning.

Intending art students should reflect that in this school they have the great advantage of European and thoroughly all around educated artists, whose work has been accepted by the chief galleries in Europe and America.

The system of individual instruction permits of a student making double the usual progress possible in large classes—again making the tuition economical in results.

The marked success of students of this school all over the country demonstrates the thoroughness of the training. The studios are located at 602-10 Alvarado street on the roof garden and partly in the open air, overlooking beautiful Westlake Park and in full view of the near-by mountains and the Pacific Ocean, thus gaining all the advantages of California climate, scenery and outdoor work nearly every day in the year—an inspiration to an artistic temperament.

The thoroughness of the instruction of this school is shown in three directions.

First, the frequent placing of students in good positions, designers, illustrators, cartoonists, teachers, etc. Seven have been placed the last vacation, while many have found places for themselves.

Second, by the success of students whenever they exhibit, always as professionals. The last national exhibit was at the Alaska-Yukon Exposition at Seattle, when three pictures from this school were awarded diplomas and two bronze medals.

Third, whenever a student from this school enters any reputable art academy they are always given the highest credits, never lower than credited by this school.

This school was founded in 1887 by E. L. G. Macleod, who established the high standard that has earned this school an enviable reputation, not only in America but in Europe, and a year ago the Julian Academy of Paris, France, founded in this school a yearly free scholarship in the academy. This honor comes to this school as the final seal of approval of its educative methods and standards from the leading art academy of Europe.

EGAN DRAMATIC SCHOOL.

Among the scholarships which The Times is offering this year one of the most interesting is that of the Egan Dramatic School, which, under the management of Frank C. Egan, has forged ahead with remarkable strides during the past eighteen months, until now it is the second institution of its sort in America, in point of effectiveness, number of pupils and mere material size.

Los Angeles is one of the biggest theatrical centers, outside of New York, in the United States, and the attention of young people to dramatic pursuits, and the learning of them, is therefore especially keen.

The Times scholarship department procured the Egan scholarship, accordingly, to cater to a taste which it knew would be found developed to a strong degree among its young workers, and it anticipates a keen and considerable rivalry for the place in this school.

The scholarship is valued at $250 cash, and is one of the most valuable which the department has secured this season.

It represents a complete course in dramatic art under accredited masters, stage deportment, fencing, dancing, the use of the singing and speaking voice, and a study of the classic and modern drama in all its relations to our present stage.

Egan school is headed by Frank C. Egan, and is under the chaperonage of John Cort, foremost of the independents, and the president of its board of managers is Oliver Morosco, a foremost local theatrical figure.

The faculty, which is to be greatly enlarged next season, now includes—and will then include: Mr. Egan as principal and director: Alfred Allen, teacher of life study and the development of the drama; William Bernard, stage director of the Belasco Theater, as technical director and producer of plays; Mme. Mathildita Ferrando, late of La Scala, in dancing; Richard Krueger, fencing master; Arthur Alexander, noted tenor and organist at Temple Auditorium, musical director; and Mrs. Mae Orcutt Brooke, pianiste, as assistant.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE.

Dearth of Business Marks the Close of the Week on the Local Market. Changes Not Notable.

The week's end on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange marked a bum week's business. Beginning with a holiday and ending with hot weather was too much of a conspiracy for the broker. There were no features to distinguish the market.

Yesterday morning the Union issues flashed across the horizon, and especially was the trading brisk in the Union Provident. All the sales were made at 101.25 and the stock closed at that quotation. California Midway was in the dumps closing at 39 1-4. Palmer sold at 1.30 but closed at 1.27. Consolidated Midway was a weak sister at 11 5-8.

Every day now there is some activity in the low-priced mining stocks.

SAN FRANCISCO EXCHANGE.

No Changes in the Quotations Are Noted—One of the Old Members is Called by Death.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—There was very little business on the exchange today and the session adjourned at 10:30 on account of the death of I. Hersberg, one of the old members.

There were no changes anywhere throughout the list of any importance either in the Comstocks or Southern Nevada issues and the close was about on a parity with last night. Most of the brokers will have returned by Monday and better business is expected next week.

Following are the closing bid and asked prices:

Timidity About Weather Conditions and Heavy Movement of the Recently Threshed Cereal Weight the Market Down in the Closing Hours of Session.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 8.—Timidity in regard to wet and cooler weather pulled the wheat market down today in the last hour of the session. The heavy movement of the new crop was also a big weight upon values. Closing figures were 1-4 to 1-2 under last night. Corn and oats finished unchanged to within 1-4 decline. Hog products made a ragged wind up, varying from 2½ advance to 22½ falling off. During the day, September wheat ranged from 91 to 92½, and closed weak ½ net lower at 91 1-8. September corn fluctuated between 65-3-8 and 66-3-4, closing a shade net lower, but firm, at 65 3-4. Cash grades were steady. Number 2 yellow finished at 63 3-4@64. High and low levels for September oats were 47 and 46, with the latest trading at 46 1-4, a decline of 1-8 from last night. Packers took the selling side of provisions. Support was poor and the market weakened, but in rather erratic fashion. Ultimately pork was off 10 to 22½, but changes otherwise were less than a dime.

Cash quotations were as follows: Flour, firm. No. 2 rye, 84; feed or mixing barley, 70@88; timothy seed, 9.00@13.50; clover, 9.00@15.50; mess pork, per barrel, 15.75@15.87½; lard, per 100 lbs., 8.30; short ribs, sides, (loose,) 7.75@8.50.

NEW YORK COTTON MARKET.

[Special Service to The Times by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members of the New York Stock Exchange, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, July 8.—The market was influenced to lower levels by heavy selling and general liquidation due to reports of heavy general rains throughout Texas, where the drouth is thought to have ben broken. Sentiment is almost universally bearish with perhaps the exception of several of the old bull crowd, who show do disposition to let go of the new crop holdings. The south was again a heavy seller and a small volume of buying was continued almost entirely to spot and trade in this. McFadden was a good buyer of August from 13.75 up to 14 cents.

Logan & Bryan's letter says:

"The general disposition today appeared to be to lighten long lines of cotton in view of the indications for further unsettlement of weather over the cotton belt. In addition, the ring crowd were quite aggressive on the selling side and in the absence of well organized support, prices receded sharply, but there appeared to be a fair demand for the fall and winter months, around the 13c level. August was conspicuous for its weakness during the major portion of the session, but in the last half hour urgent short covering accompanied be meagre offerings caused a sharp upturn, which imparted strength to other portions, but considerable feverishness was in evidence at the cose. We are rather disposed to think that unless favorable growing weather is witnessed during the remainder of July and throughout August and unless the rains prove to have been timely over the belt, the odds will greatly favor purchases during weak periods, although admitedly the disposition of July and August to narrow their premium over the fall months may continue to cause unsettlement for a time."

SAN JOSE FRUITS.

REPORT OF GRANGE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSE (Cal.) July 8.—The fruit report of the San Jose grange this forenoon was as follows: Apricots, $65 to $85 a ton green, and 17 cents a pound for dried cots. The Campbell growers have agreed not to sell for less than $80. Prunes—Latest reports from abroad are that there will be only a half crop in France, Austria, Servia and Bosnia and that all quotations in Europe have been withdrawn. In consequence prices here have advanced one-quarter cent and 4½ cents is now being offered. Peaches, from $75 to $40 for freestones and $40 to $50 for clings are offered, with no sales.

Shares and Money.

TRADING IS LIGHT IN WALL STREET.

HARD TO DETERMINE DRIFT OF SPECULATIVE SENTIMENT.

Copper, Shares, Canadian Pacific, General Electric and Brooklyn Rapid Transit Rise to Higher Levels and a Few of the Usually Inactive Issues Sell Off Sharply.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 8.—The copper shares, Canadian Pacific, General Electric and Brooklyn Rapid Transit rose to higher levels today and a few inactive issues sold off sharply. Otherwise prices were little disturbed by the day's trading which was of such small proportions that it gave no indication of the drift of speculative sentiment. The commodity markets were watched closely, but neither the decline in cotton nor the advance in wheat and corn proved an incentive to trading. Operators have become so throughly confused by the many conflicting reports of weather conditions in the west that they were disposed to await the government crop report on Monday. The bank statement bore out forecasts in that the loan expansion under the average system amounted to over $41,000,000 while the actual expansion was scarcely more than $600,000. The lawful reserves fell by over $100,000,000 which directly reflected the enormous interest and dividend disbursements of the mid-year as well as payments in connection with the Panama bond issue. The bond market was steady. Total sales, par value, $1,006,000. United States 4's lost ¼ on call in the week.

New York Curb Stocks

[Special Service to The Times by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members N. Y. Stock Exchange, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, July 8.—There was very little action in any of the curb stocks today. The feeling was inclined to be bullish on brighter prospects, 6⅜ was bid for Giroux all morning, it was offered at 6½ with no sales. Mines of America closed strong at 5½, 200 shares selling at that price. With a little encouragement the market will do better. The Boston coppers were very dull, but strong. North Butte is being accumulated and should be one of the leaders when the copper market gets a good start. East Butte also showed renewed activity.

THE COPPER INDUSTRY.

[Special Service to The Times by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members New York Stock Exchange, No. 118 West Fourth street.]

Judging from the fact that for six or seven years there has not been a new mine discovery in the United States, Mexico or Canada of a high-grade copper property, except possibly small properties adjacent to some big producer in the well-known camps, it is becoming more and more apparent that it will be only through improved metallurgical methods that increased production of copper can be obtainable beyond the prospective production from the 2 per cent. porphyry ores. Up to five years ago copper ores, other than at Lake Superior, that contained less than forty pounds copper per ton of rock, were of no more value than the granite rocks of New England, and it was only the wonderful improvement in the metallurgical treatment of ores that made these 2 per cent. porphyry ores available, and it will be only through still further progress in the development of metallurgical problems that will eventually permit of the general treatment of 1½ per cent. and then possibly 1 per cent. ores, and any increased copper supply in this country will apparently only come about through such development rather than the discovery of new properties.

One who has just been underground at Mowhawk tells us that the mine is improving every day, that all of the shafts are looking good, particular improvement being noticeable in No. 5 and No. 6 shafts, and that the yield will be better than seventeen pounds copper to the ton this month.

Houghton Copper shaft has now attained a depth of 405 feet, and the ground is looking better than ever before. We are reliably informed a crosscut will be run to the lode at a depth of 500 feet.

Wolverine took first place last month among the Michigan mines with a record of 29.3 pounds of copper per ton of rock stamped against 28.5 for the Calumet & Hecla. The famous conglomerate lode of the latter company in 1900 yielded an average of 59.33 pounds copper to the ton.

Inspiration drill No. 61, 600 feet northeast of the Joe Bush shaft, has recently gone through 100 feet of 2.8 per cent. ore, while drill hole No. 31, 600 feet east and 300 feet north of the same shaft, encountered 2.4 per cent. ore.

South Lake has the ground cleared for its shaft about half way between holes Nos. 1 and 12. Boilers are now on the property, and other machinery is expected to be received any day.

The ore coming from the Ahmeek shafts Nos. 3 and 4 is averaging between seventeen and eighteen pounds to the ton.

Mayflower No. 14 drill hole, located 600 feet southwest of No. 13, is now down 800 feet, having encountered two lodes, one showing fair and the other carrying some copper.

All sixty Deister tables are now in operation at the Ohio Copper Company mill, and are showing an increased saving of about 5 per cent.

The Boston Ely, according to our Ely correspondent, continues to find stringers of ore on the 1245-foot level. The last strike was a six-foot streak containing native copper and copper glance, which was struck in the east drift, and would seem to, in a measure, at least, confirm the theory of a more substantial ore body at depth.

While Japan is the fifth largest producer of copper outside of the United States, that country's production in 1910 of 111,000,000 pounds was less than one-tenth the production of this country. Among the larger mines contributing to the Japanese production last year were the Ashio, Besshi, Kosaka, Hidachi, Ozarizawa, Furokura and Ikuno, producing, respectively, 15,800,000, 14,850,000, 14,100,000 10,750,000, 4,850,000, 3,050,000 and 3,000,000 pounds.

Very soon the Magma and Arthur mills of the Utah Copper Company will be completed, giving the company a capacity of 20,000 tons of ore daily, or the annual milling of over 7,000,000 tons of ore, more than is mined yearly by all the Lake Superior mines together, and twice the amount of ore mined by all the properties in Butte.

A year ago last spring when Lake copper was advanced marketwise from a few dollars a share to $94, every little development at the property was published and magnified, and every time a new level was cut, from $10 to $20 was added to the price of the shares. Nowadays, comparatively little is heard of underground developments at the Lake property, and the eighth level was recently opened without affecting the price of the shares one dollar, although the eighth level was found as rich as any of the upper levels, and drifting so far has disclosed the same copper richness as above. The Lake lode has now been opened up to May 1, by 12,000 feet of drifts, of which nearly 8000 feet, or two-thirds, was accomplished during the past year, or since the excitement in the stock in the spring of 1910 subsided.

The fifth level south, and the fourth and sixth levels north, are richer than anything disclosed on the first three levels, to say nothing of the seventh and eighth level developments. Besides this the company has $350,000 cash in its treasury.

The recent advance in the price of copper from 12 to 12 3-4 cents per pound, if sustained, means that the present rate of dividends on several important copper stocks can be earned with something to spare, when on 12-cent copper only four companies could show earnings equal to dividends. Calumet & Hecla, Utah Copper, Nevada Consolidated and Old Dominion could maintain dividends at the present rate on 12-cent copper, although only Old Dominion could show a respectable margin over dividend requirements.

On present copper market the list is considerably expanded so that the companies which are not earning present rate of dividends are in minority, Old Dominion is making the best showing with earnings of $3.63 per share against present rate of $2. Excluding any provision for meeting $1,700,000 notes coming due March 1, 1912, Calumet & Hecla is earning about $30 per share, against dividends at the rate of $24 per share; but sinking fund requirements in this case bring earnings down about to the $24 basis. The porphyries—Utah and Nevada Consolidated—show up well, with earnings well in excess of dividends, even on their present restricted output. Granby is not now paying dividends although earnings compare favorably with many companies which are.

WANTS HER CHILDREN.

Judge Monroe of the Superior Court, yesterday issued a bench warrant for the arrest of A. S. Maurer of Escondido that he may be brought into court and show cause why he should not be compelled to surrender the custody of his children to his wife, Lillian Maurer.

Mrs. Maurer appeared before the judge and alleged that her spouse is not the proper person to have charge of the little ones.

Mauer recently sued for divorce. A decree was denied, but he was given the custody of his children. He was served with notice two weeks ago to visit the court with the children, but ignored it.

STORY OF AMBUSH TOLD BY CONVICT.

Are Serving Time for Murder Over Mining Claim.

Row in a High School About Sale of the Property.

All Bids for the Phoenix Polytechnic Rejected.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) June 25.—Deep interest is being taken all over the territory in a report of the confession of Robert Stewart, a twenty-five year convict in the Florence penitentiary, in which Sheriff J. H. Thompson of Gila county, his cousin, Bob McMurray and Jack B. Newman, the wealthiest resident of Globe, are all accused of complicity in the murders of A. J. Daggs and George Dittmore, locally known as George Hunter, near Superior, Pinal county, January 1, 1908. Thompson has served as Sheriff of Gila county for several terms and is widely known as one o fthe nerviest peace-officers in the southwest. Newman is reported to be worth at least $1,000,000, made by him in mining ventures. He is a heavy owner in the Old Dominion Hotel in Globe and owns a number of business blocks in that city.

Daggs was a lawyer from Missouri, in partnership with his brother, R. E. Daggs, since deceased, in the incorporation business in Phoenix.

MINING CLAIMS.

Daggs had a number of mining claims in the Superior mining district, covering ground in which interest was also claimed by Newman, Thompson, McMurray, Stewart and Ed Fondren. Daggs had been expecting trouble and when he went into the Superior country, was accompanied by Dittmore, an ex-Pinkerton man, who had found it expedient to change his name to Hunter because of pursuit for revenge by the Western Federation of Labor, against which he had served in Colorado mining troubles. They were ambushed on a lonely trail by two men, the affair being witnessed by a single miner from the top of a hill over a mile distant, though the assassins could not be identified, owing to the distance.

Daggs first was shot dowh. Dittmore was pursued and killed several hundred yards away. Daggs' body was found in a gully a score of yards distant from the trail, apparently having been again shot after the first wounds were inflicted. While the murderers were chasing his companion, Daggs scribbled in pencil in his notebook, "Bob Stewart shot me," and used his last strength in throwing the book behind a bush before the murderers returned to finish up their awful deed.

Stewart and Fondren were convicted of the crime at Florence, the latter being given ten years in the penitentiary, the juries in the cases appearing to find some weight in charges made concerning the character of the murdered man, this being the only excuse why the death penalty was not inflicted. Evidence also was almost wholly circumstantial and had within it some weak points.

SAY THEY WERE EMPLOYED.

Now Stewart has filed with the Territorial Board of Control an affidavit, supported by evidence of various sorts gathered around Superior and Globe, in which is stated that he, Fondren and McMurray were employed by Thompson and Newman to kill Daggs, Fondren was to have been one of the principals in the affair, but backed out, and McMurray took his place. Stewart states that in ambush and armed with a shotgun, he shot Daggs in the back. Daggs, apparently little affected by the wound, jumped from his horse and ran forward with a revolver in his hand, whereupon he was shot down by McMurray, who remained under cover during the whole affair and could not have been seen by the victims. Dittmore, according to the story, shot twice with a revolver at Stewart, but missed him. Stewart then fired the last load of the shotgun, mortally wounding the ex-Pinkerton man. Stewart insists that Fondren was not present at the time of the killing and that he had no part in it.

Sheriff Thompson is now in Phoenix, where it is told that he, Newman and Hugh Daggs, son of the murdered man, are applying for a patent on all the mining property, over which the killing took place. A contest has been filed by Fondren through his niece.

ROW IN A SCHOOL.

Last night, at the Central school building was a general row, which took the place of a meeting of electors advertised as advisory by the district school trustees concerning the proposed sale of the Central school block for $150,000. The money is needed by the school district for the building of at least one more large grammar school, on grounds already owned by the district in the northeastern part of the city. The sale was opposed, however, by a number of property owners on the eastern and western ends of Washington street upon the idea that further development of the north central part of the city would be to their business detriment. The subject at issue was not discussed at all. The faction opposing the sale got control of the meeting and the other side finally forced an adjournment by a decisive vote without discussion upon the main question. It is probable that another meeting will be called, to be held within a month.

All bids for the construction of the new Phoenix Polytechnic High School have been rejected and new advertisement has been made for bids to be opened July 19. This action was caused by a protest upon granting the contract to the lowest bidder, whose letter, it is claimed, was received after time set for the opening. This bidder was G. W. Bell of Los Angeles, who offered to construct the five buildings for $124,417. The bids ranged from this to $174,425. The plans for the new school have been drawn by Architect Norman F. Marsh of Los Angeles, and are upon the group system, with buildings placed around a central campus. The material is to be brick, with stucco finish, the general style being Grecian. Three city blocks will be occupied by buildings and grounds, lying north of East Van Buren street, between Fifth and Sixth streets, in the northeastern part of the city.

ABANDON THE WORD.

Use of the word "Territorial" has been abandoned in the advertisement of the next Arizona Fair, to be held in Phoenix, in November. While Statehood can hardly be expected before the first of the new year, it is believed that the Territorial government will be on its last legs by the date of the next fair. The Fair Commission has just outlined its plans for the racing. Purses of $3000 each are to be up for 2:19 trotting and 2:12 pacing races, included within the Arizona copper stake. A 2:09 pacing race is to have a $1500 purse and a similar purse will be hung up for a 2:14 trot. Beside smaller offerings, there will be nine $1000 purses for other harness events. An addition of sixty feet is being made to the grand stand, giving seating capacity of 4500. Few have been the afternoons heretofore when the grand stand could hold the crowds applying for seats.

From Yuma comes a prediction that water will be flowing by January 1 through the siphon and shafts by means of which irrigation is to be given the lands around that city. The air compressor machinery in the shaft on the Arizona side of the Colorado River has been tested, and men are now within the locks, sending up the quicksand that has impeded progress heretofore. Within ten days work will have progressed to the point of starting the tunnel under the river from the bottom of the shaft. Most of the operatives are skilled air-lock men, brought from New York. One of them, William Winn, was overcome by the effects of the excessive air pressure a few days ago and had to be taken to the Reclamation Service Hospital.

YIELD OF BEETS.

Beet yields of twenty tons to the acre are being reported around Glendale, with several fields going as high as twenty-three tons. These heavier yields returned a profit of $75 an acre, with the product sold to the sugar factory at $5 a ton. The best yields have come from old alfalfa land.

Earl Waugh, a late arrival from Los Angeles, said to have been sent here on a pauper's ticket, is in the County Jail, after creating more than one man's share of excitement in the city. His star performance was to break past the doorkeeper of a local vaudeville house, swinging a small snake by the tail. Half way down to the stage he was captured and handed over to the police. Before that he sought fame by stopping automobiles and extending unappreciated advice to the drivers on the subjects of speed and lights. He is believed hardly unbalanced enough for residence in the insane asylum and the authorities are taking time in the consideration of his case.

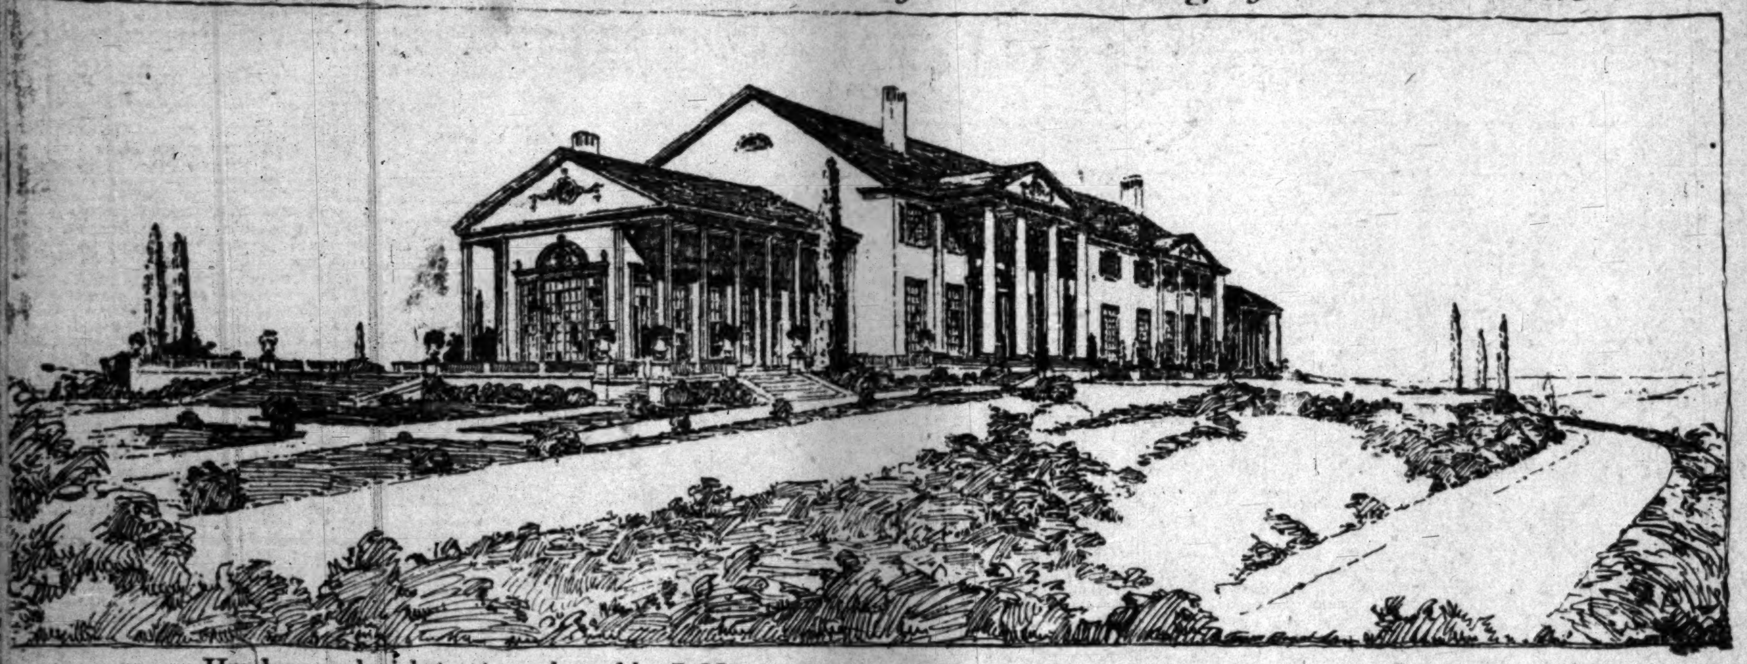
Design for Ultra-Exclusive Country Club's Magnificent Clubhouse.



Handsome colonial structure planned by J. Martyn Haenke for Southland's most fashionable out-of-door organization.

Ultra Fashionable.

XCLUSIVE CLUB TO BUILD AT ONCE.

lans Under Way for Stately Colonial Structure.

uilding to Crown High Knoll in Ramona Acres.

rounds Laid Out for Tennis, Golf and Polo.

Working plans for the ultra-exclu- ve Valley Country Club's proposed ub home at Ramona Acres are now nder way in the offices of Architect Martyn Haenke, who has been mmissioned by that organization to sign both the building and the ound layout and to superintend e entire work of construction in nnection with this noteworthy enterprise. The project is one of the ost extensive and elaborate of its nd ever undertaken in the West. e organization responsible for it is mposed of wealthy members of the sadena, San Gabriel, Anandale and tadena country clubs.

The purcha e by the club of the 2-acre site for $187,000 was re- rted in The Times in May at which ne also the organization of this e Southwest's most fashionable and clusive out-of-doors club, was ted. The property, which is one the most sightly in the San Ga- iel Valley, was purchased from the nas Investment Company, O. E. own, Althouse Bros., and Jean zerang, the deal being engineered the first named company, together th E. A. Stafford and the N. M. urray Company. Not only is the ilding one of the most beautiful the Southland, but it is one of e most accessible to the larger ies of the section.

In the ground plans prepared by e architect, the clubhouse itself is t upon a beautiful knoll which will approached by a winding auto- bile drive. The main entrance to grounds will be from Wilson ave- e. The knoll upon which the club- use is to stand will slope gently to e polo field, golf pavilions and ten- courts, which will be three of the tures planned.

STYLE IS COLONIAL.

The club building itself it to be ecuted in the New England Colon- style. From the wide paved ter- es and porches of the principal trances contour walks and drives ll lead to the various points of erest on the grounds. From the in reception hall and looking from front and back entrances vistas l be had of a sweep of terraces d formal gardens. The lounging om will overlook all of the drives, polo field and a magnificent pan- ama of hill and dale.

ard-rooms will open off the loung- -room and adjacent to the recep- n hall will be the offices of the b management. At one end of reception hall the main stair- ys will wind up to the bed-room tes on the second floor. Just off reception hall will be located the ies' reception, writing and retir- rooms, while a staircase beneath main stairs will lead down to ladies' locker and bath-rooms.

he dining-room of the club will en onto dining porches and will k across country in three differ- directions. The kitchen will be ated between the dining-room and grill and will be so arranged that re will be no crossing of the lines service. The billiard and bar- ms will be adjacent to the grill just off the main corridor. The ker and bath-rooms for men will large and well appointed.

he building will be long in front- and will lend itself admirably the contour of the knoll upon ich it is situated. All the rooms be open to an uninterrupted d of air and sunshine. The treat- nt of the structure will be ex- dingly simple, the charm of the hitecture of the Colonial period m which it is adapted and its ing and proportions being de- ded upon to make the whole eme effective. In point of equip- nt the building will represent the word in country club construc- and arrangement.

n the general scheme of the club unds fine large stables, an exer- yard, large garage and polo and nis pavilions are contemplated. t entrance from Hellman avenue lead to the golf pavilion.

TAKING CAR, HIT BY AUTO.

F. R. Rose, 50 years old, living at No. 3841 South Olive street was struck by an automobile at First street and Central avenue yesterday morning. His right shoulder is believed by Dr. Carter, Police Surgeon, to have been fractured. Rose was taken to the Receiving Hospital and afterward removed to his home. The machine was driven by a young man who gave the name of C. H. Elger. The automobile was running parallel to and in the same direction with a car. Rose stepped forward to get on the car and the machine struck him.

AMERICAN BUSINESS.

BY WALTER J. BALLARD.

It has been often said but is worth repeating, that "as goes iron, so goes business, generally." Thus the reports that are coming now from the iron and steel trade authorities are quite encouraging.

The Iron Age says:

"The improvement in the steel trade continues. The volume of business shows a steady gain. This is not due to a spurt in any special branch, but to an increase in orders from a multiplicity of sources. Orders booked in eastern territory for buildings, bridges, etc., the past week totaled over 15,000 tons, with quite a number of orders pending. The Carnegie Steel Company is over 40,000 tons ahead on actual orders compared with the same date in May."

The Iron Trade Review says:

"Export steel business continues very active and the first half year bookings of the United States Steel Products Company will approximate 1,000,000 tons, an increase of about one-third over the bookings of the first half of last year. Heavy orders from Argentina and Chile for corrugated galvanized sheets, the Mexican Northwestern Railroad has ordered several thousand tons of steel wheels and axles, and another Mexican line 3000 tons of steel rails."

Exports of iron and steel goods in the eleven months, ended May 31, of this year, amount to a value of $210,415,298 (Bureau of Statistics,) showing heavy increases over the corresponding periods of 1910 and 1909 fiscal years, as follows:

1910	162,629,892
1911	210,415,298
Increase, 1911 over 1910	47,785,406
Increase, 1911 over 1909	79,243,677

That result is convincing.

Without going into details (too lengthy) suffice it to say that the Bureau of Statistics' very full records show a large gain for May this year over May last year, in the live stock and grain traffic of the country, including flour and packing-house products. This is true also of the five months ended May.

Railroad receipts have been somewhat "under the weather" these past few months, but are picking up. For instance, Southern Railway gained in May and for from July 1, 1910 to May 31, 1911, show gross earnings (the real business barometer) of $55,729,530, a gain of $2,960,576; the Erie road follows suit with gross earnings of $51,740,311, a gain of $1,543,011.

FACTORY IMPORTS.

Note some of our imports for factory use in the eleven months ended May, 1911, and the increases over the preceding similar period (Bureau of Statistics:)

	Imports.	Increase.
Raw Silk	$68,100,000	$7,300,000
Tin in bars	35,900,000	8,100,000
Copper in pigs	29,300,000	1,000,000
Raw cotton	23,000,000	7,700,000
Cocoa, crude	13,300,000	3,100,000
Wood pulp	12,700,000	2,000,000

Raw wool imports decreased from $49,900,000 to $21,800,000 (a drop of $28,100,000) which is quite as well in case the Democrats succeed in reducing the import duty to 20 per cent. Champagne imports dropped from $6,100,000 to $3,100,000, but we stand that, as also the $6,700,000 drop in diamonds imported.

EXPORTS.

Exports reached a value of $1,906,954 in the eleven months; enough to $501,525,502 over, beating the prepay for all our imports and leave ceding similar period in the excess by $321,500,000.

This is how we got the $321,500,000 improvement:

	Increased exports.
Crude materials for manufacturing	$133,600,000
Completed manufactures	92,200,000
Manufactures for re-manufacturing	37,000,000
Foodstuffs, partly or wholly manufactured	18,000,000
Decrease in total imports	82,000,000
Total	$332,000,000
Less drop in crude foodstuffs exported	10,500,000
Net gain	$321,500,000

Where we gained in exports

	Exports.	Increase.
Europe	$1,232,570,493	$170,000,000
Canada	242,482,455	48,000,000
Central America	30,836,407	3,500,000
West Indies (and Cuba)	78,402,080	10,400,000
Mexico	56,483,646	3,500,000
South America	98,804,156	13,500,000
Asia	78,624,280	22,000,000
Oceania	59,403,847	13,600,000
Africa	21,452,720	4,300,000

Showing gains in our exports to all parts of the world, and giving us geographical division totals greater than ever before in any similar eleven months. This is very gratifying as exports particularly of factory products) are the best kind of American business.

COKE PRODUCTION.

Nineteen hundred and ten was a record breaker, in American coke production as to quantity—41,681,410 short tons, worth $99,696,267 (Geological Survey.) That is nearly $10,000,000 more than in 1909, and $37,000,000 more than in 1908.

BILLION DOLLARS FOR COTTON.

Official statistics show the value of the American cotton crop of 1910 to be $963,180,000. The 500-pound bales, seed and all, were worth $87.15 each, against $50.37 each in 1906, a gain of $36.78 per bale. That is how the South is getting rich. In this connection it is interesting to know that California has seriously and successfully begun the cultivation of cotton. A 72 per cent. increase in value in only four years (and no signs of decrease) is a big thing in American business.

INCREASES IN MANUFACTURING.

A few recent census figures tell a big story of increased manufacturing by States in the five years, 1904-1909:

	Capital.	Value of products.
Texas	$216,876,000	$272,896,000
Increases	101,211,000	122,368,000
Wisconsin	665,966,000	590,466,000
Increases	193,319,000	179,326,000
Colorado	162,668,000	130,044,000
Increases	55,004,000	29,900,000
Virginia	216,392,000	219,794,000
Increases	68,403,000	70,937,000
Tennessee	167,924,000	180,130,000
Increases	65,485,000	42,170,000

FARM VALUES.

Recent census reports give the values of farm property (land and buildings only) in 1910 and 1900, and the figures work out this way for the States named:

	Value in 1910.	Increase in 10 years.
North Carolina	$455,715,000	$261,059,000
South Carolina	361,833,000	205,071,000
Arkansas	308,129,000	172,947,000

Why retard a continuance of these satisfactory increases by free trade in farm products with Canada, or any other country?

JULY DIVIDENDS.

According to the Journal of Commerce of New York the dividend and interest disbursements this month will amount to $233,739,730, or $21,000,000 more than in July of last year.

Some of the contributions will be:

Dividends:
Industrial companies	$42,000,000
Railroads	36,000,000
Street railways	9,000,000
Banks and trust companies	7,000,000
Interest:
Railroads	$86,000,000
Industrials	41,000,000
New York street railways	2,000,000
Government bonds	3,000,000
New York city bonds	2,000,000

Practically all of these great sums, or by far the major part, will be immediately returned to the channels of American business.

IS MUCH-ARRESTED MAN.

Held by Police on Serious Charge and May Be Made to Serve Suspended Sentence.

No disposal of the case of Henry Shaw, alias Moyniham, was made by the police yesterday, and he is still in the City Jail. Shaw was held in jail several months ago while an investigation was conducted by the police to determine if he had had any connection with the death of his brother, Frederick, whose body was found in the bottom of the elevator shaft of the Citizens' National Bank early in December.

Shaw was released under suspended sentence of six months a short time later, when charged with a misdemeanor, and the police are now pondering whether it would be better to ask Police Judge Rose to send him to jail to serve the term or to take him before the lunacy commission.

When he was first arrested, Shaw was believed to be the notorious Jack the Ripper, who terrorized Whitechapel, London, Eng., several years ago.

Miss Edith Tyson, a half-sister of Shaw, who joined him in San Francisco about a year ago on promise that he would secure work for her in America, charged Shaw with having mistreated her.

Shaw was taken into custody Friday night, when reports reached the police that he had been improperly treating several young girls. He was found in a rooming-house on East Second street.

HASTE COSTS LEGS.

Salesman for Local Commercial House Attempts to Board Beach Car in Motion and Wheels Crush Him.

In his haste to get on a car for Redondo Beach yesterday morning, T. H. Davis, a salesman employed by the Rivers Bros., produce merchants, fell beneath the rear wheels and both of his legs were crushed. He was removed to the California Hospital, where they were amputated.

Davis lives at No. 1128 Dewey street. He has been in the habit of going to Redondo Beach each morning, and has boarded the car at Pico and Grand each time. Yesterday morning the Pico-street car was a trifle late in arriving at the crossing and the beach car had started when Davis ran from the Pico car. Davis is 45 years old.

BRIDGE VICTIM IN DANGER.

Joseph Billingsly, the carpenter who was injured when the old Salt Lake bridge across the Arroyo Seco collapsed is still unconcious in the Pacific Hospital and little hope is held out for his recovery. Billingsly fell about eighty feet when the bridge collapsed, and was picked up suffering from a severe injury on his head. It is believed his skull is fractured. He lives near Slauson Junction. A. B. Antunez, a laborer who was injured, is reported to be recovering rapidly.

Robert E. Shea, son of T. J. Shea, the contractor who was tearing the bridge down, is recovering at his home, No. 6431 Pasadena avenue. He was only bruised.

PUBLIC HEALTH FETE.

The Public Health Society will entertain members of the American Woman's League and their friends at a garden fete tomorrow evening, at Prince's Court, No. 3311 West Temple street, corner of Robinson street. The Princess John Edward de Guelph will preside.

Visalia.

INSPECTORS TO WORK TOGETHER.

TULARE OFFICIALS TO COOPERATE WITH STATE BUREAU.

Radical Regulations Adopted, and Will be Enforced to Compel Dairies to Furnish Pure Milk to Their Customers—Los Angeles Bank Trying to Enforce Notes.

VISALIA; July 8.—The Supervisors of Tulare county today, after a hearing lasting two days, instructed Dist.-Atty. Lamberson to draw up an ordinance providing for two dairy inspectors to work in Tulare county under the supervision of the State Dairy Bureau and also to provide for a quarantine of Tulare county against shipments of dairy cows that are not inspected first and declared to be free of tuberculosis.

The hearing before the Supervisors was a strenuous one. The dairymen of the county were out in large numbers before the Supervisors and presented an ordinance providing for inspection of dairies and for allowing dairymen a year's time to get rid of tuberculous cattle. Another ordinance was submitted by Tax Collector J. W. Fewel, representing the Visalia Board of Trade, providing for the immediate inspection of dairies and for the immediate testing of all dairy herds for tuberculosis and the segregation of such animals as were found to react to the tuberculin test. This last clause was objectionable to the dairymen, as it was declared that it would put a number of them out of business.

The dairymen won a victory before the Supervisors. The ordinance ordered drawn by the District Attorney, however, was made with the understanding with the dairymen that they might expect compulsory examination of their herds for tuberculosis. It is thought that by that time the movement may be general all over the State and that burdens would thus not be placed on the shoulders of Tulare county dairymen that dairymen in other parts of the State are not compelled to bear. Among the speakers before the Supervisors were State Veterinarian Keane, who favored the ordinance drawn up by the Board of Trade representatives, and State Senator Larkins, who was engaged as attorney to represent the dairymen.

ANGELENOS IN SUIT.

A case that is attracting considerable attention is now being tried in the Superior Court before Judge Allen. It is that of the Broadway Bank and Trust Company of Los Angeles against Moses T. Durrell and others of that city. The case has been on trial now for two days and the end is not yet in sight. The suit is brought to foreclose on a mortgage securing notes for $3000 and interest at 9 per cent. Durrell, in his defense, maintains that the land, consisting of eighty-seven acres in the Waukena tract, southwest of Tulare, is worthless, being alkaline in character, and that he was bilked on the purchase. He bought the property through an agent named Luten, unsight and unseen, and later sold it to third parties. He has subpoenaed witnesses to testify that the land is practically worthless. Durrell viewed the land before he sold it to others, but says that he did not realize that it was as bad as it is. He paid $1900 on the purchase price of $5125. Now he wants the balance of the notes cancelled. Each side in the case is represented by able legal counsel of the Los Angeles and local bar.

INCREASED VALUATION.

According to an estimate of County Assessor Blair made today, there will be an increased valuation of Tulare county property this year of 25 per cent. over last year. The total assessed valuation will run close to $40,000,000 this year, as compared with $32,000,000 a year ago this July. The southern part of the county has made the greatest strides in the increase of wealth, and in some cases in that section the increase will be fully 50 per cent. There is little gain in the northern part of the county while the eastern portions will show an average increase through orange groves coming into bearing. The books of the Assessor will be turned over to the Supervisors next Monday, when the exact figures will be announced.

STILL READ.

In spite of the warm weather recently, the free public library in Visalia continues to do a good business. The report of the librarian for June shows new readers registered, fifty-three; number of books issued, 1543; average daily circulation, fifty-nine; largest daily circulation, ninety-two; total number using reading and reference rooms, 1186; average daily attendance, forty-five; largest daily attendance, sixty.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The report of County Veterinarian Rey for the month of June, submitted to the Supervisors today, shows two cases of rabies, the head of an animal sent from Exeter showing unmistakably the presence of negri bodies in the brain. The other was the case of a dog killed in Visalia. Both cases were pronounced genuine cases of rabies by the authorities of the hygienic laboratory at Berkeley.

At the meeting of the City Trustees last night, the salary of City Health Officer of Visalia was boosted to $25 a month. It has been $12 per for some time, and for that sum it has been impossible to secure a physician to accept the position. It is hoped that the extra shekels will be attractive to some local doctor. The Trustees also took initial steps toward securing drinking fountains and rest rooms to be located at several different parts of the city. It is said that since the saloons have been closed out in the city, some places should be provided that would furnish the conveniences that they offered.

For the first time in the history of the city, Visalia has a poundmaster who has made money for the city. Dog Catcher Jim Mitchell last night turned over to the Trustees the sum of $24 in cash, secured from the sale of dog licenses. He had killed and buried nineteen dogs, for which he was paid $19, leaving a net balance of $5, the first coin, it is said, that the city has ever received from any poundmaster. Mitchell was appointed two weeks ago. The [illegible] pressed themselves [illegible] know that the dogs [illegible] out and compli [illegible] fine record.

MADE TELEPHONING ACROSS THE CONTINENT A POSSIBILITY.

Men Who Developed the Transmitter, the First Step Towards Universal Service—Problems of the Wire and the Two Men Who Solved Them—John J. Carty and His Wonderful "Phantom Circuit."

THE latest triumph of telephone engineering, which has brought New York and Denver within speaking distance of each other and makes it possible for two persons to carry on a converstaion with 2200 miles separating them, marks a stage in a development of the telephone which, those most familiar with it believe, is rapidly nearing its consummation. That consummation will be a universal service, making it possible to carry on a conversation by telephone between any two points in the United States.

The development of the long-distance telephone, which began thirty years ago, is due in a most striking way to a group of brilliant scientists and inventors, each of whom contributed one or more factors to the success of the whole. But for the discoveries and sicentific devices of these men the original invention of Prof. Alexander Graham Bell would not be the wonderfully practical means of communictaion that it is, and talking over continental distances would be out of the question. With but a very few exceptions, these men, who by their improvements on the Bell instrument, have made the long distance telephone a reality, are alive today and actively engaged either in the further dvelopment of the telephone or in other scientific pursuits.

The part played by each of these men in the development of the telephone appears most strikingly when the successive difficulties that were met and overcome in the work of making the instrument a practical success are recalled. There was often much that was dramatic or romantic in the way in which at critical periods, when it seemed that progress was blocked, they came to the front, one after another, with solution of the baffling problems. While much progress was made by systematized research and experiment conducted with business-like organization, the great steps in advance were made as the result of brilliant discoveries.

COMING OF THE TRANSMITTER.

The first great improvement on the original Bell instrument—the first step toward an ultimate universal service—was the transmitter, that part of the telephone that conveys the vibrations of the voice from the diaphragm, against which one speaks, to the wire.

At the time, in the late seventies and the early eighties of the last century, when Prof. Bell's claims to the invention of the telephone were being contested by scores of rivals, and when war between the Western Union Telegraph Company and the Bell Company was at its height, each threatening to branch out into the business of the other, Thomas A. Edison, who was working independently on the telephone, brought out a transmitter which made his telephone far superior to the Bell instrument of the day; and this invention he sold to the Western Union.

At this juncture, a young man from Massachusetts, named Francis Blake, stepped to the front. He had received a High School education in Brookline, Mass., and had served for a dozen years in the United States Coast Survey. He had developed early a passion for science and for some years had been devoting his leisure to the making of experiments in physics, especially in the branch of electricity.

One day Blake went to the Bell people and said: "I have a transmitter that is as good as Edisons."

The Bell people quickly discovered that the young man had contrived a marvelously effective device, and the Blake transmitter, which has played an important part in the development of the telephone, immediately placed the Bell telephone in a position to meet all rivals.

Blake was 28 years old when he created this device. He had been attracted by a curious instrument called a microphone, the invention of a Kentucky professor, whose name was David E. Hughes. The microphone, by which sounds could be tremendously magnified, so that, for instance, the footsteps of a fly could be made perfectly audible, was itself a development of the telephone. It was little more than a scientific curiosity, and it remained for Blake to see its possibilities. He made of it a practical transmitter. Since then Mr. Blake has patented many electrical devices. He is a member of many scientific societies and in his private laboratory at his home in Weston, Mass., he gives much of his time to scientific research and experiment.

A CLERGYMAN'S CONTRIBUTION.

The next step towards the ultimate service that is looming up in the near future was the improvement of the transmitter by an English clergyman, the Rev. Henry Hunnings, and a most important step it was. He conceived the idea of using fine grains of coal as the means of making the connection between the vibrating diaphragm and the wire. Previously, a piece of carbon had been used to make this connection, but it was found that the grains of coal, making a looser contact, reproduced much more exactly the quality and articulation of the spoken word. This apparatus Mr. Hunnings made was crude and unsatisfactory, but the value of the idea it embodied was quickly recognized; granular carbon is, in fact, an important feature of the transmitter as we have it today. Hunning's invention was improved and finally perfected by the late Anthony White and a corps of trained assistants.

The original inventor of the transmitter was not Edison, however, nor was Mr. Hunnings the first to use a loose contact between diaphragm and wire. It was ultimately decided by the courts that the original inventor of the transmitter was a young German named Emile Berliner, and he it was who first applied the principle of a loose contact. His idea in this connection, however, was greatly bettered by Mr. Hunnings.

At the age of 19 Berliner had landed in New York, poor in everything but ambition. About the first job that he got was that of washing bottles in a chemist's shop. The impulse that started him on his career as an inventor came from a book—a book on physics that a friend lent him. He immediately began making experiments on his own account, and presently set about constructing a telephone on an improved plan. He discovered that a loose contact such as the grains of carbon employed by Mr. Hunnings would act as a telephone transmitter, and he was the first to use an induction coil in connection with a transmitter, to strengthen the electric current and intensify the vibration of sound. He was only 27 when he patented this invention. But, although he was ahead of Edison by a few weeks, his invention was for a time overlooked. It was afterward purchased by the Bell company.

Dr. Berliner, whose home is in Washington, D. C., has patented many other inventions and in recent years has given much attention to the pure milk question and scientific means of preventing disease.

GETTING RID OF NOISES.

After the problem of the transmitter had been solved, so that it was possible to convey by means of the electric current the exact pitch, quality and articulation of sounds, there came the problem of getting rid of the mysterious noises, which for a time, seemed to make long distance telephoning impracticable. It was impossible to hear the spoken words because of these strange sounds, which came roaring, rattling and squeaking over the line. It was known that they came from the earth, for at that time the electric circuit, which is as necessary in telephoning, as for telegraphing, was completed by grounding the two ends of the wire, that is, connecting them with the earth. The electric current then made a complete circle, going over the wire from one end to the other, and then through the ground to the first end of the wire. In its journey through the ground it picked up those strange noises. While this was understood, for a time, no one ventured to make a practical solution of the problem of getting rid of the noise.

A long-distance telephone line had been built between Boston and Providence, but it had not proved a success. It was possible to talk over it—sometimes; the rest of the time all that came over the wire was noise. While experts were arguing about the way to overcome the difficulty, a young man named John J. Carty, who had gone into the telephone business at the bottom some years previously, went ahead, and practically conquered it. He simply connected two lines of wire together, so that the electric current did not have to complete its circuit by passing through the earth, but returned to its starting point by means of the second wire. Thus was inaugurated the "metallic circuit." The idea was not new. It had been suggested and discussed, and it was independently developed in this country and in England. But Carty was the first to put it to a practical test, which he did on that line between Boston and Providence. The effect was magical. The uproar ceased and the line became a practical success.

But the trouble was not entirely removed. It was found that disturbances were likely to be caused by the proximity of another wire to one of the wires of the metallic circuit. Current from this third wire would upset, as it were, the equilibrium on the circuit. The solution of this problem was undertaken and accomplished by a young Vermont Yankee, John A. Barrett, who was on the engineering staff of the telephone company. A remarkably clear-headed and accurate man, he set about overcoming the difficulty by a most systematic investigation. He discovered that if both the wires on the metallic circuit could be brought equally within the influence of the disturbing factor, that influence would be neutralized, and he found the practical solution of the difficulty in transposing the wires of the metallic circuit. He simply crossed the two wires at regular intervals, so that for their whole length they were subject to practically identical conditions.

Mr. Barrett has solved other big problems of telephone engineering in the same systematic way. One of the most important of these had to do with the method of laying wires underground. He devised the lead-covered cable and the loose paper wrapping for the wire, which afford practically as good insulation underground as may be had overhead.

PROBLEMS OF THE WIRE.

It was discovered early that the best material for long distance telephone wires was either silver or copper. Silver was out of the question, and there were serious practical difficulties in connection with the use of copper. The copper wire that was at first used was so soft that it would hardly bear its own weight, but it was the only kind that was to be had. Theodore N. Vail, who had identified his fortunes with those of the Bell telephone at the time when most people were disposed to regard it as an impractical toy, and whose business and organizing genius has been the greatest factor in its successful commercial development, saw that in this matter of the copper wire was a problem that had to be solved. He turned it over to one of the young engineers of the staff, Thomas B. Doolittle, a Connecticut Yankee.

"We want a copper wire that will stand up under the strain. Find it," said Mr. Vail.

Before long Doolittle had discovered that there was a way of drawing copper wire that would produce on it a hard shell. That was just what he wanted. The shell gave just the strength and rigidity that were needed. Hard drawn copper wire, now a standard article of commerce, is one of the discoveries that have made the long distance telephone practicable.

THE "PHANTOM CIRCUIT."

But there was still another invention or discovery to come before telephoning over continental distances could be made practicable. This invention, which is perhaps the most astonishing of all those that have helped to make long distance telephoning possible, is known as the "phantom circuit," and it originated in the brain of John J. Carty, who had been the first to employ the metallic circuit.

Mr. Carty discovered that by looping together two pairs of wires, each pair making a complete circuit, a third circuit could be formed which

PEN AND SQUARE MEN ARE BUSY.

Customary Summer Dullness Does Not Materialize.

Building Continues Feature of Realty Situation.

Local Construction Activity Astounds Country.

The lull in building which is ordinarily expected about this time of year even in Los Angeles has so far failed to materialize. The construction record for the month of June in the city's history was last month broken with a half million in building valuation to spare, and July is steadily forging ahead of the corresponding period of other years. In the great rocord-breaking totals of the fiscal year closed on June 30, the early warm weather months played an important part, and the present summer may be said to be more than holding its own with other and ordinarily busier seasons of the year.

The building report for the fiscal year, closed a little over a week ago, has been the sensation of construction circles the country over, following as it does the astounding calendar year figures for the year 1910, which placed Los Angeles ahead of all other cities of less than a million population in the United States. All of the building papers of the country are making features of the Los Angeles figures. The officials of the city building department state, however, that they believe the fiscal year just begun will eclipse even the one just closed, which boasted 10,960 permits for buildings to cost a total of $21,499,424.

One kind of building activity, that represented in the construction of apartment houses, has taken on such enormous proportions that the chief inspector of buildings, J. J. Backus, in his annual report to the City Council has recommended that he department be allowed to employ a special man who will devote his tntire time to inspection of that class of buildings exclusively. The great activity of the department almost makes imperative also the employment of two or three other additional inspectors and clerks.

SOME RECENT PROJECTS.

Among the building projects which are contributing to the swelling of the permit totals may be mentioned the following:

The contract has been let for the erection of a three-story brick apartment building at No. 1420 South Flower street, J. H. Roberts being the owner. The plans for the structure, which is to cost about $30,000, were drawn by R. M. Taylor and F. R. Greenleaf.

A three-story and basement frame apartment house will be erected by Mrs. A. T. Larquier on Olive street near Temple, the contract for the construction work having been let last week. The structure will contain eighteen apartments. Plans were drawn by Frank L. Stiff.

Plans have been completed by H. M. Patterson for a three-story and basement brick rooming house which is to be erected on Maple avenue between Fifth and Sixth streets by W. D. Whelan. The building will contain sixty guest rooms, six baths and a lobby. It will be 60x70 feet in size.

A four-story and basement brick apartment house is to be erected by J. F. Hall at No. 323 North Broadway. The building will occupy a ground area of 55x100 feet, and will be faced with red pressed brick. It will contain forty apartments of two and three rooms each, with private baths and wall beds.

PLAN BIG BLOCK.

Sketches are being prepared by Edelman & Barnett for a reinforced concrete office building of at least seven stories in height, which is to be erected on the northwest corner of Fourth and Hill streets, directly across Fourth street from the Wright & Callender building, for E. D. Chapman and George N. Black, who have a fifty-year lease on the site. No definite plans as to the architectural type of the block have as yet been arrived at. Under the terms of the lease now binding the property, the structure to be erected must be at least seven stories in height.

Plans for the proposed two-story addition to the eight-story Y.M.C.A. building on South Hope street are now being completed by Arthur B. Benton, architect of the present structure. The C. B. Weaver Company has the general contract for the construction work.

The second story of a two-story brick building adjoining the Angelus Hotel on Spring street is to be remodeled for the use of the hotel management, which has just closed a lease on the space. About ten large rooms, each with a bath, will be added to the Angelus facilities in this manner. R. B. Young & Son are preparing plans for the changes.

A permit was taken out during the past week for the construction of the five-story and basement reinforced concrete mercantile building which is to be erected by Haas, Baruch & Co., from plans prepared by Morgan, Walls & Morgan. The building will be 100x223 feet in size, and one of the largest and most modern of its type in the city. Its cost will be about $150,000.

Plans are being prepared for a $25,000 brick factory building to be erected by the Western Malt and Distilling Company on the river front. The company will manufacture yeast and vinegar.

The contract has been let for the erection of a two-story brick building on South Hope street adjoining the Y.M.C.A. building. The structure will house the Y.M.C.A. automobile school. J. G. Warren is the owner.

FARMERS' COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF SAYS FARMS FASHIONABLE.

"Back-to-the Land" Idea Is Sweeping the Country, Declares Head of National Grange—About Four Thousand in Cash Needed As a Starter Says Monopoly in Land Impossible.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Whenever anyone in this latitude mentions hay, or wool, or wheat, or even the most humble item of country produce, in a contemptuous or hostile tone of voice, Nahum Josiah Bachelder, once Governor of New Hampshire, and for twenty-four years secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, hurries to the railway station in Concord and buys a through ticket for Washington.

If agriculture has a human bulwork, then N. J. Bachelder is the man. If agriculture has a detractor, then N. J. Bachelder figures him up and knocks him down. The old Nahum was a brief prophet, but he breathed fire and slaughter. "Thou hast multiplied thy merchants above the stars of heaven," he roareed at the commercialized and indifferent Nineveh. To that the new Nahum, shifting his geography from Asia to America and leaping the centuries, would add: "And thy manufacturers."

"The laws of this country," he said to me, "were written and enacted to build up the factory rather than the farm. Our literature, including the text-books in our district and village schools, glorifies the city and its occupations, and by silence depreciates our fields of cotton, wheat, and corn, wherein our wealth begins."

While Gov. Bachelder can prophesy as vigorously and dreadfully as anybody else, and though he thus ornaments his discourse now and then, fighting—and the watching that is necessary thereto—engages most of his time and all of his thought. Just now he is in Washington, and from his headquarters at the best hotel is battling against reciprocity with Canada. "It will dry up our farms," he predicts, between his private conferences with Representatives and Senators, in the knowledge, no doubt, that some discount will be subtracted from the sensational pro gnostication.

LEAD ARMY OF A MILLION.

Tactically, Gov. Bachelder occupies an advantageous position. President of the National Grange, he commands an army of 1,000,000 farmers. He has counted them and swears by his rolls. "We are particularly strong," he told me, "throughout New England and in New York, where we have 100,000 members, and in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas."

"What is the National Grange?" I asked.

"It is an organization of agriculturists with three main objects, namely, social, educational and legislative. In 1867, the then Commissioner of Agriculture sent experts over the country to ascertain the conditions of farming and how they might be improved. On their return to Washington, the experts formed the National Grange, or, as it is officially called, the Patrons of Husbandry.

"So the English language became enriched by a new, popular, and expressive word. The phrase 'granger railroad,' meaning those which traverse the rich farming regions of the Northwest, crept into the idioms of the speculators of Wall street. I like to be described as a granger. Most of my brethren, however, prefer to be known as patrons. Our local organizations meet once in two weeks. The families and the young people are thus thrown together. While the men discuss their business, the women visit with one another and the boys and girls dance or enjoy other forms of social entertainment. Some granges have libraries. Many of them arrange for lectures. In the meantime the eye of every organization is on State and Federal legislation. We help the bills that are favorable to our interests and oppose those that are hurtful. Manufacturers' associations and labor unions are everywhere engaged in similar efforts."

"Is the grange doing anything to introduce co-operative methods of buying and selling among the farmers?"

"Joint action was discused and tried in the early days of the organization, but it did not work out satisfactorily. The Farmers' Union, now powerful in the South, is co-operative in the matter of selling cotton, and has, I think, had a good effect on prices. The management of stores and machinery warehouses requires special training and commercial ability. Farmers engaged in planting and harvesting have all they can do at home."

A TRUST IN LAND IS IMPOSSIBLE.

"Is there any danger of a J. P. Morgan or a J. D. Rockefeller getting a monopoly of the fertile lands of the country?"

"None whatever. A farm is unlike a factory, railroad, or bank—it is largely a personal undertaking. The history and the quality of each field must be known. Necessarily, it requires the individual attention of the owner. Great wheat and live stock farms in the West are operated by superintendents, it is true, but such methods are not practical east of the Mississippi River. The monopolization of land would require such a stupendous amount of money and be so hazardous and unwieldly as to flabbergast a whole regiment of Morgans, Rockefellers, and Carnegies. Furthermore, it would finally break them up"

"Is good land selling for more than it is worth in the Middle West?"

"Once we have free trade with Canada in agricultural products," Gov. Bachelder replied, "land will come down with a rush in all parts of the United States except New England, where it is so low that no further decline seems possible. Americans, when the tariff barrier has been

EAGLE ROCK TRANSFERS.

Business and Apartment Building Changes Hands at Good Figure. Residence Property Sales Reported.

The Edwards & Wildey Company reports sales in Eagle Rock property as follows: For John T. Bailey, to Alexander Keating, southwest corner Townsend avenue and Colorado street, 72x130 feet, improved with two-story pressed brick business block, $20,000. This property is the best business building in Eagle Rock and consists of four store rooms and six apartments.

In Eagle Dale Acres, to Ada F. Dampf, one-half acre on Rock Glen avenue, $1050; Helen M. Mead, one acre on Rock Glen avenue, $1550; Elliott S. Smith, 100x400 feet on Rock Glen avenue, $1650.

In Eagle Dale tract, for R. H. Brown to California Bungalow Company, 100x183 feet, $1200. The purchaser will improve with a five-room bungalow.

In Eagle Rock Central Tract, W. P. Erbes to M. O. Strong, 50x140 feet on Rowland avenue, near Las Flores, $650; Charles G. Stewart, lot near the above, $675; John C. Barkhurst, lot in Eagle Rock Central Tract, 94x116 feet, $1100.

In Windermere Heights Tract, Mrs. M. L. Schneider to George S. Dore, 50x140 feet on Windermere avenue, near Colorado boulevard, $675.

In Glenwood Park, A. C. Milne, 50x120 feet on Palm avenue, $350; Prof. Chester B. Scoville, lot at Palm and Adams avenue, $550.

In Satsuma Park, Walter Burch, 110x175 feet, covered with fruit trees, $1750.

In Ellenwood Heights Tract, to Grace M. Field, 60x201 feet on Upper Ellenwood drive, $1050.

In Occidental Heights Tract, Walter L. Koethen, 100x150 feet on Grand View avenue, near Las Flores, $1100; Helen E. Stedman, southeast corner Grand View and Las Flores, 50x150 feet, $800; Ella P. True, northeast corner Grand View and Las Flores, 50x150 feet, $800; Pearl W. Powers, 50x150 feet, southwest corner Grand View and Las Flores, $800.

STORE BRINGS HIGH RENTAL.

William C. Keim, leasing manager for the Wright & Callender Company, reports that Saturday, July 1, a lease was signed between John T. Harris and Nate Meyer and B. Meyer, for the store-room at No. 621 South Broadway. The lease runs for a period of three years, and it is understood that the rental to be paid amounts to a high figure. The Meyer Bros. are engaged in the jewelry business and will open their new store on August 1.

The property at No. 752 South Hill street was leased for the Wilcox Estate to the Los Angeles Tribune, for a short period, pending a deal that is in progress for the construction of a building for that paper.

The store-room in the building at the southeast corner of Second and Hill streets has been leased for J. J. Davis and R. C. Gillis to Samuel Lewis for a period of two years. The business to be conducted by Mr. Lewis is that of tailoring, cleaning and repairing.

SOUTHWEST BUILDING.

In the Vermont avenue square and Vermont Square tracts of the Southwest Land Company, two business blocks and eleven bungalows have been started during the past week. The builders and location follow: H. I. Hillman, one-story brick store building, three storerooms, northwest corner Forty-ninth and Vernon; Industrial Building Company, two-story store building, containing two stores with apartments above, northeast corner Forty-eighth and Normandie; Enterprise Investment Company, two bungalows, Vernon, between Raymond and Budlong; Consolidated Los Angeles Builders, Normandie, between Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh; O. A. Palmer, Forty-seventh, between Harvard and Denker; Joseph Schmidt, Fiftieth, between Denker and Halldale; Bernice Smith, Forty-eighth, between Harvard and Denker; M. W. Lorbeer, Forty-eighth, between Denker and Halldale; A. H. Gould, Vernon, between Western and Harvard; Howard Laudermilk, Forty-fifth, between Normandie and Western; C. N. Banks, Forty-sixth, between Harvard and Denker; Gottlieb Dombrowski, Forty-eighth, between Harvard and Denker.

Fabling & Hannigan, selling agents for Ramona Acres, with the Janss Investment Company, report a total of nearly $10,000 sales in that tract. The purchasers were D. E. Mulvin, $1600; Mrs. M. S. Bauhman, $1650; Edward Douhost, $1150; John H. Biller, $600; C. C. Chow, $1265; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Speake, $1650; Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson, $1600; John Off, $1250, and L. E. Young, $1320.

MADE TELEPHONING POSSIBLE.

could be used for telephonic purposes without interfering with the separate use of the other two circuits. For illustration; suppose that there are two telephone lines, each consisting of a pair of wires making a metallic circuit between New York and Chicago. One of these lines goes by way of Albany and Buffalo, the other by Pittsburgh. They are distinct and separate lines. Now suppose that at New York the line going by way of Albany and Buffalo is connected by means of a wire with the line going by way of Pittsburgh, and that a similar connection by means of a wire is made between the two lines in Chicago. It might be that a very short piece of wire at either place would make the connection, but the fact stands that this simple connection of the two separate lines gives for practical purposes a third line, which can be used for telephoning without interfering with the separate use of either of the two original lines. In other words, by means of four wires, three separate conversations instead of only two, can be carried on simultaneously.

This is the "phantom circuit," and the electric current of the "phantom circuit" really passes over all four wires, splitting and traveling four both wires of one of the original lines in one direction and over both wires of the other line in the return direction, and this without interfering with the other electric currents on those lines.

But the most astonishing thing about this "phantom circuit" is that it is better for practical purposes than the ordinary metallic circuit. This is because the current on the "phantom circuit" has more metal to carry it, that is, two wires instead of one in each direction. It is axiomatic that the more metal a telephonic current has at its disposal the stronger the current. Therefore, the "phantom circuit" vastly increases the range of the telephone. It is possible to loop together more than two metallic circuits, in fact, to make a sort of chain of such circuits, so as to make a gigantic "phantom circuit" and it is by this means that the longest reaches of the telephone are obtained.

WOODCREST SALES.

Emil Firth reports the following sales at Woodcrest:

Andrew Karr, Lincoln street, and Normandie avenue, $1000; Blanche Williams, opposite above, $1000; Frank G. Parkan, Lincoln, Vermont, $1000; Mrs. Mary T. Bates, lot, Budlong, $875; Charles Hordstrom, lot on Garfield, $800; Clara Delsarte Wall, lot, $700; William B. Keeler, lot on Lincoln, $700.

Turning the juicy output of the trees into the dried apricot of commerce—Industry for everybody in Southern California.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SANTA ANA, July 7.—After the last red firecracker was popped and the last Fourth of July dance was danced, hundreds of men, women, girls and boys turned to the apricot camps for three or four weeks' work turning the juicy fruit of the trees into the dried apricot of commerce. Many of the camps opened on July 5, and all of them will be in full swing the first of the week.

Orange county apricot growers are going to waste no apricots this year, for prices are away up. They are already close to 50 per cent. better than last year, and with the crop in this county unusually good this is the year that Orange county's apricot growers are going to score big.

Taking the State as a whole the crop is short. Some of the farm papers estimated last year's output as 15,000 tons for the State. Dried fruit association men report that the tonnage was 12,000. Last year Orange county put out 900 tons.

This year's State crop will be between 6000 and 7000 tons, and though that figure shows a great falling off for the State, this county is going to produce from 1000 to 1200 tons, as against 900 for last year.

Last year's crop of dried apricots brought about 10 cents per pound, about $180,000 for this county. Already 14 and 15 cents is being offered for this year's fruit, and at that figure Orange county ought to get close to $300,000 this year.

Tustin and Orange apricot men report that their trees are heavily laden and that the fruit is of good size. El Toro has one of the biggest crops in its history, some of the trees requiring five to eight props to keep the limbs from breaking. This record for El Toro is the more remarkable when it is considered that the apricots are grown there without irrigation.

To the school children the apricot cutting means almost as much as it does to the grower. A large share of the children of the fruit growing sections have engaged places to work. As a rule the boys are employed in picking the fruit from the ground, and the girls and women are employed cutting the fruit and spreading it upon trays.

The small boy will make from $12 to $15 during the season, while the older boys will make $30 to $40. The average woman or girl will make from $1 to $1.50 a day cutting the fruit. To the swift goes greater reward. The usual system among the camps is to pay for cutting by the 100 pounds. Most of the camps this year will pay 25 cents per 100.

Whole families are preparing to leave home and camp near some fruit-drying section. While father helps shake the trees or works in the yard shifting trays or moving fruit, mother cuts fruit at the shelter or beneath other shade where the camp is located. Johnnie is picking up 'cots at 5 cents per box of sixty pounds, and if Mary is not big enough to be cutting fruit she will be spreading the halved fruit, from which the pit has been removed, on the tray.

When the tray is covered, it and others are placed on a truck upon a home-made railway and are taken into the sulphur house. The sulphuring process gives the fruit a clear color. The trays are then spread in the sun, and the heat of the sun by evaporation gets in its work. Three days of good sun accomplish evaporation.

The cutting of apricots is a favorite job with the Mexicans.

The apricot pits, which used to be considered valueless, are now worth $30 a ton. The pits are dried and then taken by the buyer through a machine which separates the kernel from the shell. The shell is sacked and sold for fuel, while the kernel is shipped to Germany, where it is used in making Prussic acid.

Last year a large proportion of the apricot growers of this county formed the Orange County Dried Fruit Association. Last year the association devoted itself to setting and maintaining prices, and by holding together the association growers got nearly a cent better prices than did other growers. This year the association is stronger and has widened its field of usefulness. It has purchased sulphur in big lots, and distributed it to growers at less than they could have gotten it otherwise. It is equipping a packing-house with the necessary machinery, and will be in a position to prepare the fruit for shipment. In time the association doubtless will undertake the marketing of its product.

MILLION DOLLAR EXPOSITION FOR SAN DIEGO IS AIM OF DIRECTORS.

[illegible] DIEGO, July 8.—A ten million-dollar exposition is the aim of the directors of the Panama-California Exposition Company. At a [illegible] between members of the [illegible] Committee and the Buildings [illegible] Grounds Committee, Acting Director-General Joseph W. Sefton [illegible]

[illegible] now as though we are going to have at least a ten-million-dollar exposition in San Diego, and there is no telling what else it will reach [illegible] the enterprise is completed." [illegible] the new members of the Park [illegible] working harmoniously [illegible] the exposition directors there is [illegible] any hindrance to rapid development along building lines. Af-[illegible] of the park are practically in the [illegible] of Chairman Julius Wangenheim, at the head of the Buildings [illegible] Grounds Committee of the exposition [illegible] George W. Marston. For [illegible] these men have stood for civic [illegible]. Both have the same [illegible] working together they assure the exposition directors that the [illegible] will be judiciously spent.

[illegible] are informed by Director-General Sefton that [illegible] are planning for a much [illegible] exposition than was contemplated [illegible] months ago. He stated it [illegible] to adopt a plan that will be [illegible] enough to take care of the [illegible] of the exposition plans of the [illegible]

[illegible] for the ground-breaking ceremonies are being rushed to [illegible]. Hundreds of men are [illegible] in building arches and in [illegible] decorations, preparing floats [illegible] those who are to participate as characters in the historical [illegible] tableaux of the pageant.

[illegible] to harmoniously decorate [illegible] and buildings of the city [illegible] the exposition ground-breaking [illegible], July 19 to 22, provides [illegible] a system that stands out unique [illegible] different from any seen at celebrations [illegible].

[illegible] design includes rows of palm [illegible] along the curbs with large ex-[illegible] and Cabrillo medallions attached to the trees, flags and streamers of the celebration Spanish colors, [illegible] yellow, hung from the street [illegible] and utilizing the guy wires [illegible] trolley lines and the inter-[illegible] of the flags and banners [illegible] American colors in bunting [illegible].

[illegible] Executive Committee has received [illegible] for the Mission pageant, the mask ball and the various [illegible] to the value of $20,000. [illegible] were forwarded from Philadelphia.

[illegible] Celebration Committee this [illegible] adopted a programme for the [illegible] of festival and frolic. The [illegible] will be opened on the morning of [illegible], July 19, with Pontifical [illegible] by Bishop T. J. Conaty and [illegible] following before an altar to be erected on the exposition grounds.

At noon of the same day exposition officials will hold a reception at the U. S. Grant Hotel. This event will be for Gov. Johnson and other notables who are expected to be the city's guests. A military and naval parade will take place at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. This procession will form near the waterfront and march to the grounds. While the guests and citizens are assembling, there will be band concerts.

Promptly at 3 o'clock the opening ode will be rendered by the San Diego Harmony Club. At its conclusion, the assemblage will be called to order by President U. S. Grant, Jr., of the exposition company. He will introduce Director-General D. C. Collier, if he is here. If not, acting Director Joseph W. Sefton will be present. He will deliver the address of welcome in behalf of the exposition. He will be followed by Mayor J. E. Wadham and by Gov. Johnson. Addresses will then be made by Hon. John Barrett, representing the Pan-American Republics, and by C. C. Moore, president of the Panama-Pacific Exposition of San Francisco, and by Governors and representatives of the Governors of Southwestern States. Short addresses will be made by presidents of the chambers of commerce of the Southern California cities. A representative of President Taft will speak in behalf of the national government. President Taft will touch a key in the summer capital which will cause to be unfurled an American flag, the President's flag, and the flags of the South American republics. The concluding part of this ceremony will be the breaking of ground by President Grant and Gov. Johnson.

In the evening of the first day a water carnival and exhibition of fireworks on the bay will be given. The carnival is to open with the approach of Cabrillo and his caravel, a replica of the boat in which the living Cabrillo first landed in San Diego Bay. From Point Loma the vessel will be escorted by Indians in canoes. A landing will be made at the foot of D street. A land reception to Cabrillo will follow.

In the afternoon of the opening day a programme of sports will begin with sailing races for the Sir Thomas Lipton cup. Thursday, July 20, at 10 o'clock in the morning, the floral pageant will be held. During this event Queen Ramona will be received into the city and will be formally crowned as queen of the carnival. In the afternoon of this day there will be more aquatic sports, consisting of sailing races, swimming races, rowing races and the second event of the Lipton cup race for yachts.

Friday, July 21, at 10 o'clock, the industrial pageant will take place. This parade will contain more than eighty floats. There will be more than 5000 participants from the various civic and labor organizations. In the afternoon there will be sailing races off Coronado for the Los Angeles Times cup, an aviation meet and automobile races. At night an invitation mask ball will be held at the U. S. Grant Hotel.

The mission parade is destined to be the greatest spectacle of the celebration. Twenty-one floats, representing all of the California missions, will be shown. This parade will start at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, July 22. In the afternoon there will be sporting events and the first yacht race for the Panama-California solid gold trophy.

At 6 o'clock in the evening the grand carnival is to begin and will last until midnight. At 9 o'clock Queen Ramona and her court will preside at a mask ball to be held in the open air.

The People.

REAL OWNERSHIP OF THE "TRUSTS."

STOCKS ARE HELD BY THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE.

Savings Banks and Insurance Companies Own Vast Lines in the Great Industrial Concerns and Millions of People Are Interested in Their Prosperity.

[New York Commercial:] Some of the facts brought out in the testimony of Edward F. Atkins of the American Sugar Refining Company given recently before the Special House Committee now investigating the affairs of that concern were unknown to the general public up to that time and came as a good deal of a surprise in the business world. It was stated, for instance, that there are between 19,000 and 20,000 shareholders in the country, more than 50 per cent. of the number being women. So whoever aims a blow unwarrantedly at the "sugar trust" is attacking ten or eleven thousand women and their interests—women scattered all over the country, who have furnished the company with a large portion of the capital on which it conducts its business.

The incident has moved Leslie's to present some figures showing the wide distribution of the stocks of some of the other great business concerns. There are, it appears 120,000 stockholders in the United States Steel Corporation; there are 65,000 shareholders represented by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, 50,000 by the American Telegraph and Telephone Company, 7500 by the Standard Oil, 30,000 by the New York Central, an equal number by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, and the other great corporate activities, railway and industrial, in like proportion. Thus about 321,000 persons hold stock in these seven companies named. And in all the big and prosperous corporations the number of shareholders is steadily increasing. Anybody, says Leslie's, who thinks that a "trust" is a good thing may go into the market and buy as many shares in it as he has the money to pay for—and it adds by way of comment:

Since the panic in the closing months of 1907 the number of individual owners of shares in the leading railways and industrial corporations has grown from 50 to 60 per cent. And the tendency is still upward. It is safe to say that at least 2,000,000 persons are comprised among the owners of shares in the various corporations of the country, or one out of every twenty of the adult men and women of the land. The savings banks of New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire and Connecticut, the States in which savings banks are most numerous and most carefully conducted, own more than $1,000,000,000 of stocks of railway and industrial corporations. Life, fire and guarantee companies, in which the people are interested, own vast sums in shares of the great activities. In this way the number of people who are owners of stocks in the big corporations is largely increased. Close to $2,000,000,000 of the securities of the corporations are held by the insurance companies and the savings banks. Here also the investment is growing, and the interest is shared by a steadily-increasing number of persons.

It is scarcely necessary to say that these prudent investors, representing millions of persons in moderate circumstances, are not pleased by the indiscriminate attacks by Legislatures, Congress and the Executive branch of the national government on the railroads and industrial corporations.

It is a popular notion fostered industriously by all the "trust busters," "uplifters" and demagogues that the great corporations are owned by small coteries of vastly wealthy men who employ them as instruments of oppression of weaker competitors and against the public interest generally. There have been instances of this, of course, and it is a fact that in not a few cases the control of the stocks of the big corporations is in the hands of comparatively small groups of men, but the notion that only the rich and the powerful own these concerns and that they are, in general, "oppressors" is a highly exaggerated one—exaggerated to the point of the ridiculous. If a dozen of the larger corporations most commonly under indiscriminate attack by press, pulpit, platform and corner groceries were today to be ordered by the courts to go out of business or conduct that business by archaic and long-discredited methods, millions of holders of life-insurance policies and more millions of savings-bank depositors would have their investments imperilled. You cannot inflict injury on a "trust" without injuring hundreds of comparatively poor people—and, strange to say, the public is just finding it out.

While the numerous Congressional investigations now in progress are largely uncalled for, expensive alike to the government and to the corporations concerned and designed chiefly for the creation of 1912 campaign capital, they may do some good in enlightening the masses to the real ownership and conduct of the trusts and in sounding a warning to Legislatures and Congress and public prosecutors against ill conducted, unwarranted and unfair assaults on great popular interests.

HOUSE SALES LEAD.

SCORES OF HOMES UNDER WAY.

SAN DIEGO, July 7.—Summer visitors as well as those who come in winter, are so well pleased with San Diego's equitable climate that many soon arrange to remain and build homes. Just now real estate dealers are entertaining this class of home seekers in large numbers. Sales of residence sites lead all others.

Five houses ranging in cost from $1800 to $3000, have been completed in a tract east of the city park opened to the market since January. Three others are under construction. E. J. Chapin, agent for the North Pacific Steamship Company, has bought 50x125 fet on Forty-second street, Teralta Heights, for $375. Amos Hyder has bought 50x100 feet on Thirty-first street between Beech and Cedar, South Park, for $750. George Wood has purchased 50x172 feet on Twenty-ninth street between Palm and Redwood for $950, and will build a $2500 house. George C. Hall has bought of G. C. Arnold & Son 100x150 feet at the northeast corner of Thirtieth and Beech streets for $3900, and will build a fine home.

J. A. Rogers of El Paso, Tex., while here summering with his family, decided to remain permanently. He bought of Wells & Lane 100x140 feet and a modern eight-room house at No. 1325 Grand avenue, paying $3500.

J. C. Rice reports the sale of 100x100 feet at the northwest corner of Ninth and Beech streets, to Martin Wolf for $15,000. Wolf, who is a retired mining man, will build a modern apartment house. He came here from New York two years ago, and built a fine home on Hillcrest drive.

J. C. Rice has sold for Helen J. Tilden 50x100 feet on the east side of Sixth street between I and J, for $12,000. The purchaser is Edward Masden, who recently arrived from the East. The property is located in the wholesale district.

D. A. Phelps has bought of W. H. Shattuck two lots and a four-room cottage on N street between Thirtieth and Thirty-first for $2000.

R. F. Paine is building at Point Loma a residence of the Spanish type to cost $15,000. The site is a five-acre tract sloping from the highest point of the promontory toward the bay.

The Pacific Building Company is erecting for Philip Baker at Coronado a five-room bungalow to cost $3500.

NEW FARE LIMIT.

Age of Children to be Ignored and Their Height Considered in Matter of Fares.

[New York Sun:] "Curious," said on old railroad conductor, "how parents' memories lapse sometimes about the age of their children.

"You'd think that that was something that no parent would ever forget; but often, when they were traveling and they came to some plac where it was half fare for children o say 12 and under, often I've know parents to forget two or three yea of a child's age and think and sa that a child of 14 or 15 was still onl 12; actually forget entirely two o three years of the age of one of thei own children. Singular about that.

"But up at Bronx Park, in runnin the electric launches that ply fro the boathouse there on the Bron River, they have a fare system tha avoids all such mistakes and do away with any necessity of remembering on the part of parents whateve On these boats the fare for adults an children over four feet in height 10 cents; for children under four fe in height 5 cents.

"There's a system that seems to b simplicity itself, don't you think? Yo never have to ask how old a child i you go by the child's height, regardless of age, and I don't know but wha the system might be applied to advantage on railroads. You could ju have a four-foot mark on the jam of the door through which the passengers passed, and just back th child up against that mark; it woul take far less time than the talk no necessary in arguing about the child' age."

BANK GUARANTY LAW OKLAHOMA OPPOSES

Has Caused Heavy Assessment on Banks.

Shaky Institutions Bolstered Up by It.

Banker Never Knows His Liability.

George E. Parkhill, until recently president of the Bank of Chattanooga, at Chattanooga, Okla., who has come to Portland to live, after selling his bank, tells the Portland Oregonian that the State guaranty law of Oklahoma, which insures the depositor from loss in case of bank failure, is a huge machine, which lends itself to be used for graft, increases the rate of interest in the farming communities to from 24 to 30 per cent. per annum; is driving all of the State banks to nationalize, or fail, and has a depressing influence generally on banking business in that State.

However, Mr. Parkhill is in favor of the principle of a guaranty law, but not as it is administered in Oklahoma. He favors a law which would work similarly to fire insurance. When a person deposits his money, and desires to be insured against loss, he would make this known to the cashier, who would deduct a small fraction under 1 per cent., which would go into a fund to administer the law regulating guaranty funds. The bankers, he thinks, should raise this fund, but the depositor should pay for the insurance against loss, the same as he pays for fire, life, or any other kind of insurance.

In speaking of the Oklahoma State guaranty law, Mr. Parkhill said:

LEVY IS MADE.

"The guaranty fund is kept up by a levy on the average daily deposits in the State banks of the State of Oklahoma. The law first contemplated a fund made by levying 5 per cent., and the first levy would be one-fifth of 1 per cent. until the full amount of 5 per cent. had been raised.

"As the average daily balance is $50,000,000, this 5 per cent. levy would create a fund of $2,500,000, to be used as a guaranty that in case any bank failed, the depositors would be paid at once. There is also a provision allowing a special levy, not to exceed 2 per cent. in one year, to be levied on account of banks failing.

"A short time after the law went into effect, a special levy of three-fourths of 1 per cent. was made on account of the failure of the Columbia Bank and Trust Company, of Oklahoma City, which failed owing $3,-50,000. Other levies were made later as needed. The law went into effect in 1908, and since that time more than 4 per cent. has been levied on the average daily deposits.

"The last levy of 1 per cent. was made January 1, 1911, and it was called for to take the guaranty fund account from the 'red' side of the ledger, the fund having been exhausted, and the money borrowed to keep it going. The State's credit is not behind the fund and the State's credit is not in any way affected by the fund.

EXAMPLE IS CITED.

"As an instance, I will show how this works. A bank had a capital stock of $10,000, and in two years, under the new law, that bank paid to the guaranty fund $2200. This is at the rate of 11 per cent. a year, on the capital stock, and would have made two fine dividends, but the guaranty fund took it away.

"As the levy is made on the daily deposits, the officers and directors do all in their power to keep the average as low as possible. Instead of attempting to increase business, they are forced to decrease it. The officers of this bank, of which I speak, were in a position to take much money to their bank, and deposit it there, to help in moving the cotton and other crops, but as the tax against it would be too great, it was left at home, and the farmers suffered.

"On April 1, 1911, there were 137 State banks waiting on the list to become National banks, which are exempt from the State guaranty law. The stronger banks get from under the levy, while the weaker ones are forced to stand it, or go out of business. The very banks that the law should help, are injured and weakened by it.

"The cause for the depletion of this last fund, was the organization of a new department of the State government to administer the law and handle the fund.

"Before the law went into effect, the State Bank Examiner's department consisted of a bank examiner, one field assistant and two officer helpers.

TWO SALARIES ALLOWED.

"The new department provided for a State Banking Board of five men, of which the Lieutenant-Governor was chairman, and he drew salary for his office as Lieutenant-Governor and chairman of the State Banking Board at the same time. He was sued, but won out in the highest courts.

"In addition to this board, the State Examiner has to assist him twelve men, none of whom get less than $2000 a year. Besides these there are many clerks, stenographers, and others, and the money to pay them all comes from the State guaranty fund which was raised to pay depositors in case a bank failed.

"The new law, passed by the last legislature, cut down the number on the board to three members, two of whom are appointed by the Governor. In addition to the members of the department I have named, they have special men on the payroll to take charge of failing banks, or banks in poor condition, and one man who looks after nothing except to get evidence to prosecute the bankers who fail.

"Should a member of the board examine a bank and find that it looked rather shaky, or the legal reserve had fallen below the required amount, he would report to the State Bank Examiner, who would at once send down a special man to assume charge. It would be given out that Mr. So-and-So had bought into the bank and had been elected cashier. The Bank Examiner has the power and does make a deposit from the State guaranty fund to the shaky bank, which brings it up to the legal reserve, and business goes along all right.

BUYER IS SECURED.

"The State Bank Examiner then gets busy and finds a buyer. The man buys the bank and has thirty days in which to throw off on to the State any paper he does not want, the State paying him good money from the State guaranty fund for it. The special prosecutor takes this paper and makes an attempt to collect it. If he does, all right, if he does not, it is just the same. With the poor paper taken out of the bank, it prospers, and another friend of the system has been made wealthy at the expense of the State guaranty fund.

"As the State Bank Examiner can oust any officer elected by the directors, his power is supreme.

"On April 1, 1911, three banks in the State had deposits similar to the one mentioned above and two of these were in Oklahoma City, two had deposits for $25,000 and one deposits for $60,000.

"More money has been expended for administrative purposes than for any other. The fund has lost heavily by guaranteeing paper in weakened banks.

"When the three new commissioners went into office the first of the present year they saw the condition of the guaranty fund and at once made a levy of 1 per cent. to wipe out what the fund owed in borrowed money.

NO REPORT EVER GIVEN.

"The law does not require a report to be made concerning the guaranty fund aand when the new commissioners got into office and found out in what poor condition it was in, they did not want to make any report. So it happens that the people of the State have never had an official report on this fund since it was founded.

"The commissioners in charge of the fund can deposit it in any bank they choose. The principle of guaranteeing the depositor is all right, I think, but certainly not the way it is carried out in Oklahoma.

"I believe that a depositor should pay a small amount of his deposits for insurance against loss. Say deduct one-tenth of 1 per cent. when he deposits his money in the bank, if he says he wants insurance. Let those who do not desire to be insured not pay the small premium. I think in some such way a scheme could be worked out successfully.

"Under present conditions, a bank with a capital stock of $10,000 could accept deposits up to $250,000. The State can, and has, levied 2 per cent. a year on the $250,000, which would make $5000 that this bank would have to pay into the guaranty fund. This is half of its capital stock. This forces the bank to make 50 per cent. on its capital stock before it can make any profit for itself, or its owners.

"A banker never knows what his liability is under this law. He may go to bed at night, owing no one, and wake up in the morning to find that a levy of several thousand dollars has been made against his bank and he will be forced to pay or go to the penitentiary.

"The first two comissioners, under the guaranty law, in klahoma, went into a large bank with about $3,000,-000 deposits and three days before the last levy of 1 per cent. was made, which would have cost their bank $25,000, they merged this State bank with a small National bank, having deposits less than a quarter of a million dollars. They must have learned from inside information that the levy was to be called for. Other banks whose officers were on the inside did likewise. This simply shows that the fathers of the law, when working for themselves, go out from under the very law they assisted in putting on the statute books."

Black Walnuts for Northwest.

Eight thousand five hundred pounds of Arkansas black walnuts and 8124 pounds of red oak acorns have been shipped by the Federal government from Harrisburg, Ark., to District Forester Chapman of Portland to be distributed through the burnt districts of the Pacific Northwest.

The black walnuts of Arkansas are among the most valued trees of that region and furnish lumber of the highest value in the market. Their introduction into the forests of the Pacific northwest will be of great value to the generations to come if they succeed. While it is regarded as an experiment the district forester believes that they will succeed, and that in twenty-five years the walnut will be regarded as one of the important products of Oregon's lumber mills and furniture factories. Oregon will receive a good share of the seed, and the distribution will take place within the next few months. The seeds will be sent to the forest rangers, who will take charge of planting them in the burned-over areas.—[Portland Oregonian.

REMEDY FOR ANTHRAX.

Disease is Caused by a Germ For Which Serum Has Been Discovered.

[Washington Star:] Immunity from anthrax, a most destructive cattle diseasehas been achieved by the Department of Agriculture, a bulletin on the subject having just been issued by the bureau of animal industry. It is the work of Charles F. Dawson of that bureau.

Anthrax is one of the oldest diseases known, being mentioned by Moses in Exodus. It is fatal in sheep and cattle and there are two forms in man, who is sometimes infected, that are absolutely fatal. History records some severe outbreaks among human beings. There was one outbreak, near Naples in 1617, when 60,000 people died, and there was an outbreak in Santo Domingo in 1770, when there were 15,000 victims.

The disease is caused by a germ, and all modern States that take the least sanitary precautions guard the possibility of infection severely, and insist on the cremation of all animals, that have died from the disease, even sterilizing the ground where the bodies have lain.

There was a system of vaccination developed by Pasteur in 1892 that gives animals immunity from the disease, but it takes about a month for the immunity to become established. During the interval if there is an outbreak among stock there is time for on animal to take the disease and die.

The system developed by the Department of Agriculture consists in injecting a serum from a previously immunized sheep. This confers immediate immunity, so that an animal can stand a dose of 50,000 times the amount of virulent anthrax bacilli that would kill an ordinary animal. The immediate immunity lasts long enough to allow the animal to be effectively protected by the usual Pasteur vaccination.

HERMOSA BEACH
answers ALL Question

What Sort of Town is
HERMOSA BEACH?

HERMOSA BEACH is a town of over 500 substantially built dwellings erected along pretty lines of architecture and all occupied by the well-to-do and those of medium, moderate means. A very large proportion of these houses are occupied by the owners and their families.

What Sort of People Live
at HERMOSA BEACH?

HERMOSA BEACH is not one of those beach resorts at which there is something going on every minute. The Ocean Strand, for example, is controlled by the town of HERMOSA BEACH for park purposes only, this to the width of from 60 to 100 feet, so permanently avoiding the danger of having the ocean front turned into a noisy "Midway." There is surf-bathing and boating. There are good stores and all other improvements and facilities that go to make HERMOSA BEACH an ideal place for either summer or all-the-year-round living for families. Naturally such a town attracts people who enjoy such surroundings.

How are Prices
at HERMOSA BEACH?

Lots on sale at HERMOSA BEACH are on sale by the owners. There is, therefore, no extravagant selling expense; hence no necessity for inflated prices. Excellent lots are being offered and sold at $500 and up. A recent investigation by non-interested expert realty men results in the report that similar lots between Venice and Ocean Park are now being held at from $400 to $500 per front foot. The fact is that but very little beach property, within a reasonable distance of Los Angeles, is on sale at the present day. The few desirable lots being offered in any of the older beach towns are quoted at prices that are practically prohibitive to the man who is investing with an eye to future advances in values.

Burbank and Baker, being owners of this property, are prepared to make liberal term arrangements with any interested investigator, but this is not to be understood as an argument intended to induce the man who cannot well afford to speculate in Real Estate without being sure that he can carry the obligation without hazard or inconvenience.

What Improvements have been m
at HERMOSA BEACH?

HERMOSA BEACH has more miles of macadamized and more miles of asphalted streets than any town of same size in population in the entire United States. HERMOSA BEACH has had a septic sewer system in ing successful operation for seven years, which, during this time, has carried off all deleterious matter without allowing any of it to flow into the ocean. HERMOSA BEACH, on account of the sewer system ferred to offers you surf bathing as clean as the bath own tub at home. Bathing here is perfectly safe from dangers of undertow, as the Strand slants so gradually at low tide you can walk out 500 feet. HERMOSA BEACH has just decided to put a concrete promenade along the ocean front in a quality that will not be found surpassed anywhere Pacific Coast.

What are the Health Conditions
at HERMOSA BEACH?

Aside from the perfect sewer system, the clean, ercise-inviting surf bathing and dust-free, improved mentioned above, HERMOSA BEACH has drinking supplied by artesian wells which chemical proven to be the purest in the State of California. From the line of the Pacific Electric R. R. back HERMOSA BEACH rises gradually 75 ft. in 2 blocks, thus forming tinued terrace, insuring to each successive house and full supply of fresh ocean breeze.

thrown down, will flock across the border for the cheap lands, and low taxes of the newer country. The East, brought into competition with the West, agriculturally, was drained of its young men and women. Land prices tumbled in New England, New York, and Pennsylvania. The shifting of our national wealth from this side to the other side of the Alleghany Mountains was one of the most suggestive and interesting facts of our history.

It was at 3:45 p.m. that the first

"The East, still great in crop possibilities, had to turn to invention and manufactures. Still, the newly-created values were not transferred beyond our boundaries. The value of much American property was diminished; but the value of other American property was increased. Wheat, oats and barley lands, now salable at $100 an acre, cannot compete with Canadian lands worth $10 an acre or less. Consequently, as I see the matter, we shall witness the second great American migration, but this time the emigrant wagon will cross the frontier and the Middle West will lose its young men and women to a foreign nation."

LAND IS A GOOD INVESTMENT.

"Is land as good an investment as are bonds and shares?"

"Yes, in many places, if rightly chosen. The man who puts his money into land as an investment, however, should be competent to farm the land himself or to have it farmed under his own direction. A bond of a standard railroad, well bought, requires no personal attention. Stocks, of course, depend on the profits of a business. Perhaps, one may know how the business in conducted, but that is doubtful. When one invests $1000 or $100,000 in the shares of a great railway, he loses all control of his money. Such dividends as are declared must be accepted. If questions were to be asked by the shareholder, the directors would laugh in his face or joke among themselves about his impertinence.

"Now, with land it is different. A farmer out of debt is master of his property. If he wants to sow wheat, he sows it. There is more bother with land, it is true, than with paper securities, but there is more pleasure and also more independence and individuality. One can go to his land and walk around from sunrise till sunset. When a share owner, on the other hand, steps upon a railroad track he sees a warning against trespassers. The section foreman would take a shovel and chase him off the right of way were he vain or stupid enough to say that he held stock in the company. Therefore, I prefer land, even if crops are likely to fail occasionally."

"Is tenant farming one of the economic evils of this generation?"

"There are few renters in the East, but a good many in the West, where aged pioneers lease their lands and move into villages. They are old people, their children have gone or married into other occupations, and they want to spend the evening of their lives in the leisure they have earned by painful self-denial and heroic industry. Theoretical gentlemen, writing pieces on political economy, complain of the practice. It is true that tenants are more careless of land than are owners. That is natural, unless the tenant is given a liberal share of the profits of the business. Every man, no matter where he lives, is looking out for his own interests.

SHOULD KEEP THEIR FARMS.

"It is said by modern thinkers, who do all their work at library tables, that a farmer, retiring from business, should sell his land to some young and busy worker. But let me remind you that the man who spends his life in sowing and reaping knows little else. He feels safe with land. Its value and its returns are the things with which he is familiar. To require him to dispose of his farm and to invest his money in bonds, stocks or mortgages would be to invite beggary into the closing days of himself and of his wife, who has worked as hard as he has. Were he to put his little capital into business, he would soon be a bankrupt. The human elements should be considered when doctors, professors and other amateurs condemn the tenant system."

"What do you think of the 'back to the country' movement?"

"That it is necessary, patriotic and sensible. It is especially noticeable in New England. We treat the prodigals with great kindness and respect in New Hampshire. One of them, Robert P. Bass, is now Governor of the State. But country life has its requirements. One must love the out of doors, the growing crops and the poultry, sheep and other animals. The man or woman who loathes the city would not be happy or successful in Boston, Chicago or New York. To those who want freedom, who have an affinity with the soil, and who are industrious, I say, 'Come.' Still, I would not counsel a clerk or a bookkeeper to take up farming, unless he had sufficient capital on which to live until he learned the business. That there must be an exodus back to the country is obvious. The consumers are eating ahead of the producers. We have the land, but are lacking in the workers. Neglecting the country, we have devoted our genius, muscular strength and money to the development of our towns and cities. Hereafter, we must equalize our growth or go hungry.

"But I see another side of the rural movement and the one to me that is the most promising—it is actually becoming fashionable. The poor are said to imitate the middle class and the middle class are said to imitate the rich. Start something at the top and the ferment of desire begins at the bottom. Going further, the rich, it is often remarked, like to ape the manners and customs of Europe. Millionaires abroad have rural estate. There is not only distinction but comfort and satisfaction in such property, and profit besides, especially in Great Britain. Cows and dogs and horses and sheep have begun to interest the American urban mind and imagination. Poor country boys and girls having become rich man and women, long for early scenes and unartificial associations. So fashion and natural inclination are pulling toward the country to the advantage of villagers and agricuturists.

"I know a man who spent $4000 for a farm and laid out $100,000 for improvements. In a single little New Hampshire community ten captains of trade have expended $1,000,000 for residences. All the people have felt the impluse of that new money—farmers, lawyers, mechanics, and preachers. Once that quiet region was asleep; now it is awake and optimistic in is activity. Some fashions are inane or harmful. The fashion of living a part of the year in the country, however, is not alone excellent in itself, but it is of great value economically. The manufacturer wants his fields to produce at full capacity. He takes pride in scientific agricultural methods. Consequently his example has it influence on the natives.

"And the country is hospitable toward money and intelligence. Robert Perkins Bass, whom I have mentioned, was born in Chicago, moved to New Hampshire, turned forester and farmer, and we elected him Governor. Winston Churchill, an emigrant from St. Louis, setttled among us to write books and study agriculture, and we sent him to the Legislature. Back to the farm, therefore, has political possibilities for men who sincerely desire to serve their States or the nation.

M'VEAGH AND OTHER FARMERS.

"I wish there were a rural directory of the whole country showing the Statesmen, manufacturers, lawyers, financiers, writers, artists, college presidents, and physicians, who have bought land and are now husbandmen personally or by proxy. Such men as Grover Cleveland, John Hay, Mark Twain, Ethan Allen Hitchcock, Augustus Saint-Gaudens, the sculptor; Edward Everett Hale, Count von Sternberg, the German Ambassador; William James, the philosopher, and Edmund C. Steadman, the poet and banker, were New Hampshire farmers.

"The Secretary of the Treasury, Franklin MacVeagh, has lived for twelve years among our mountains. John C. Spooner has several hundred acres of land, some of which he is cultivating just as he practices law, which mean most successfully. The new Secretary of War, Mr. Stimson, has a farm on Long Island and sells hay. Mr. Knox, Secretary of State, has a fine place in Pennsylvania and sells milk to his neighbors. The grangers, applying the name loosely, now include among their number hundreds of the most conspicuous men in the country. J. Pierpont Morgan, I believe, specializes with dogs, as does Samuel Untermeyer, the famous corporation lawyer. Four hundred farms were purchased last year in the little State of New Hampshire by outside buyers, mostly by men who live and work in cities. Strangers coming among us spend $2,000,000 a year for mansions, cottages, bungalows and farm buildings. 'Summer folks,' as we call the army of vacationists, spend $15,000,000 annually at our hotels, boarding-houses, and farms. So our sterile mountains, with the climate incident thereto, compensate us for losses in other directions."

"How much captital should a city man have who has determined to make agriculture his business?"

"If a farmer moved to town and tried to run a store without money or experience he would be a bankrupt in six months. A butcher must know how to cut up pigs, sheep, and steers; a merchant must understand the mechanics of buying and selling. A city-bred man cannot move onto a farm and immediately make both ends meet. He must have money, apart from what he invests in land, tools, and live stock. Moreover, he must like to plow and reap, to milk cows and feed poultry. Thus outfitted in taste and with $4000 in cash he can learn farming in two or three years.

SHOULD STAY IN TOWN.

"Working in the fields, however, will always be hard, hot work. Corn will not grow unless it is planted and cultivated. I never heard of a crop of wheat or timtothy that cut itself Potatoes must be dug. But in such toil there is pleasure if one likes life out-of-doors. It is hard work to do anything right. I prefer the sun to a burning gas jet at a desk. Some men do not."

"What causes have made meat, eggs, butter, and other kinds of food dear?"

"Underproduction is one cause. A multiplicity of profits is another. Many factors stand between the producer and the eater and the profits of each are larger than they used to be. A grocer with $5000 invested in his business often lives in a large house and maintains either a horse and buggy or an automobile. A farmer with $5000 in land, machinery, and live stock cannot indulge himself in any extravagances—he counts his pennies as he goes along and a vacation is not among his luxuries. City life is getting faster and faster in the matter of money. Many families live beyond their means on credit. Cash buyers and prompt payers make up the losses of the merchants in the small per cent. that is added to prices by the retailers in their efforts to recoup themselves for their experiences with the deadbeats among their customers. Extravagance operating indirectly is a tax, therefore, on prudence and economy. The saving man doesn't realize it, but he is helping to pay the bills of his improvident neighbor."

"What will the country do for beef when all the pasture lands have been put to the plow?"

"Oh, we shall have intensive farming, and instead of one man owning 10,000 steers, 5000 men will own two steers apiece. Places that are now waste will be turned into grazing land. Swamps will be drained, fields of brush and rough ground will be cleared and used. We shall meet the case with ingenuity and confidence when the critical time comes."

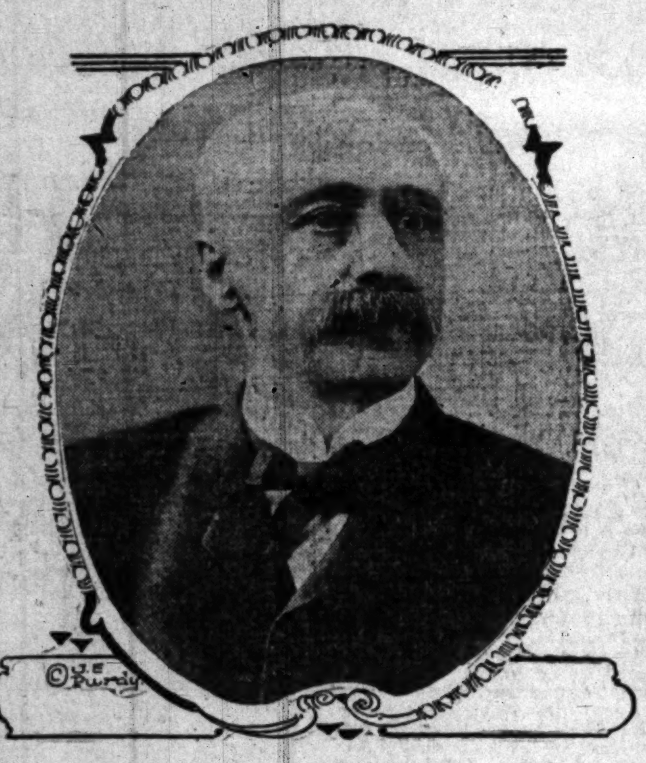
"Large numbers of persons are planting apple orchards in different parts of the country. What are their chances for success?"

"Good. The chances are sound and promising, but they will be neglected or misused. There will never be an oversupply of apples because only a fraction of the trees planted will ever amount to anything. Ten years is a long time to wait for a crop. Many orchardists will grow weary of looking forward, and their trees will receive less and less attention as the seasons go round. A fruit tree can't be put into the ground and brought to bearing without intelligent and incessant toil. Thus while a hundred trees may be planted only an average of ten, perhaps, taking the country as a whole, will flourish and ultimately produce a profitable crop.

"But I have in mind something more hopeful than apples," Gov. Bachelder went on to say. "There is a splendid return from white pine if one is willing to sow in his youth and wait for a harvest until middle life. My father had 100 acres of pasture back in the mountains on which he kept some sheep. He once offered me the land for a horse. I declined the offer. When he died the land came into my possession. In the meantime, it had come up in white pine.

"One day an agent for the match trust stopped at my office. He asked my price for the pine, now grown to be trees up to a foot in diameter. Yankee fashion, I said: 'I haven't seen the land for fifteen years. What will you give?' He offered me $2500. I shook my head at a venture and he added $500 to his figure. Then I went to look the pine over, taking an expert along to figure it into lumber. In the end I received a check on the spot for $6000. Such land can be bought for $2 an acre. If it is planted or if it comes up in white pine it will be worth, I dare say, $75 or $100 an acre twenty-five years from now.

"I have 500 acres more coming along. My 16-year-old son will cut the crop after I am gone. If he keeps it he will have a fortune unless a fore fire burns it down. Gov. Bass is gro ing pine, spruce, and hemlock. As is only 38 years old he will probab live to turn his trees into ready mon and obtain a tremendous profit."



Gov. Nahum J. Bachelder.

[Washington Post:] "If G Manuel Gonzales had lived he wou have been a potential factor the Mexican revolution," observ Jose Morales, an explorer of Paso, Tex., at the Raleigh. "No m ter which side he might have tak his influence would have been felt, he was a man of wonderful resou and force. The chances are he wo have been with the revolutionists, his wings had been clipped by D and he had been sent abroad, as D sent Reyes. But Gonzales was a gr soldier, though a martinet. In his e ploy as a servant was an Americ negro, of huge proportions, and excellent attendant. Gonzales li him. One day the colored man, w had saved considerable money, w to the general and told him that was going back to his own count Gonzales demurred, but the negro sisted.

"'I want you to stay with me,' clared Gonzales. If you do I sh make you a colonel in the army.' T prospect of becoming a colonel earning a gorgeous uniform was alluring for the colored man to res and he consented to stay. So G zales had a commission made out, presented it to the American.

IN THE EARTH.

Rare Minerals, Metallurgy and Chemistry.

Not Lithograph Stone.

PHOENIX (Ariz.) June 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Under separate cover I send you a sample of stone handed me by a resident of Mesa who has been told that it may be lithograph stone.

To me it appears to be "Tufa," but I am not a geologist and I agreed to ascertain from some one who has knowledge on these lines.

It comes from the vicinity of Mesa, the sample can be identified from bearing my name written thereon in ink. Thanking you in advance.

Very truly, "J."
Secretary.

ANSWER: You have well named the sample, it can be furthermore referred to as impure silica-impurities on the order of caliche, a sort of natural lime cement with miscroscopical pyrite (iron disulphide) and iron oxides present.

Tracyte.

DAGGETT, June 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Some say that the sample in this box is pumice-stone, others call it float-stone. It comes from near Cedar City, Utah.

Please name the rock, and tell me what the small crystals in the rock are. Obliging, F. S.

ANSWER: The rock is trachyte. The crystals are microscopical topas.

Scheelite.

CIMARRON (N. M.) June 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am mailing you under separate cover a sample of ore which I believe is either scheelite or baryte.

It is in place in a narrow vein between a lead of coal and limestone and about six miles from Cimarron.

Will you please state in "In the Earth," what the sample really is and if scheelite give its approximate percentage in tungstic acid.

I will thank you also if you will give, in your column, the proper definition of the term "unit," as used and applied by ore-buyers.

Yours very truly,
D. R. F.

ANSWER: The sample is scheelite, with impurities of iron oxides, copper and lead. (Copper and lead low percentages.)

The sample was carefully tested, and carries, approximately, 20 per cent. tungstic acid of commerce. The impurities named are deleterious substances when intermixed with scheelite.

Our good friend Dr. Frank L. Hess of the United States Geological Survey gives the following definition of the term unit. "A unit is one per cent. of a ton in tungsten trioxide (WO-3). An ore carrying 60 per cent. tungsten trioxide would be an ore carrying units, or say, 1000 pounds of ore carrying 60 per cent. tungsten trioxide would be equivalent to one ton containing 30 per cent. tungsten trioxide and if the price was $9 per unit, it would be worth thirty times $9 or $270."

Tungsten ores are now in a rather uncertain market; if one could at this time, realize one-half of $9 per unit, it would be a fair price.

Of course, scheelite, averaging 20 per cent. tungstic acid of commerce (tungsten trioxide) or 400 pounds tungsten trioxide per ton scheelite (which equals 20 units tungsten trioxide per ton scheelite), when free from impurities such as copper, iron, lead, etc., would bring a much better price per unit than scheelite represented by your sample.

Iron and Copper.

ANAHEIM, June 18.—[To Editor The Times:] In today's paper I see enclosed (my letter) published as per slip on my two minerals, Nos. 1 and 2. But there is no answer to same.

Have you the answer and forgot publishing the same? Thanking you, I am, Most Respectfully, SUBSCRIBER.

ANSWER: The blame is not yours and we thank you for your inquiry. The chilly facts are: Your letter was published on one page and the answer under heading, "Continued from Eighth Page," and below subheading, "Carbonates and Oxides." We quote answer given you: 'Small sample is a variety of pitchy-iron ore with traces of vanadic acid. The large specimen is altered (friable) tourmaline with yellow-mica present. Sulphides of iron and of copper sparingly present."

Trace of Dead.

LOS ANGELES, June 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] This rock is from Madera county, California. Will you please tell me if the rock is of commercial value and oblige a daily subscriber of The Times. A. J. B.

ANSWER: The sample is a doubtful ore of but little commercial value unless assays show precious metals present. In the mass we find the ore oxidized with trace of lead.

Zinc Values Dow.

VICKSBURG (Ariz.) June 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Would you analyze these rocks for zinc? They come from near here and we have been told they carry zinc.

Yours, etc.,
F. B. H.

ANSWER: Glad to hear from you. No. 1 is granite rock with iron oxides and traces of zinc, lead and antimony. No. 2 is iron peroxide (hematite,) siliceous, with trace of zinc. No. 3 is trachytic rock, feldspathic, withal. No. 4 is siderite (iron carbonate lime present) with trace of zinc.

Quartz and Talc.

LOS ANGELES, June 12.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Sample in separate envelopes from near Santa Barbara, Cal. Please classify them in "In the Earth." Yours truly,
A. A. F.

ANSWER: In one envelope we find impure mineral between talc and fuller's earth; a sort of gritty soapstone, of doubtful commercial value. The second envelope contains sandstone (quartzite) with feldspathic matter in the mass.

Quartz.

LOS ANGELES, June 13.—[To the Editor of The Times:] This bit of quartz is from the hills near Placerville. Is there any gold in it? Would it be worth while to prospect where it came from? Please answer in the "In the Earth" department, and oblige.

MRS. C. W. B.

ANSWER: Some little gold is in the sample, and we are always glad to hear from the ladies. God bless them.

The specimen carries oxidized iron from a "pockety" lead; how big or how little we do not know.

It would be well to prospect the lead; it is somewhat on the order of when we are in a promiscous crowd and a solitary individual is informing us how very good he is—be careful to your pocketbook.

Zinc, Dead, Copper.

AVALON (Cal.) June 12.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Would you please let me know through your "In the Earth column what these three samples I am sending you amount to? Do any of the samples carry anything of value?

Respectfully yours, J. E. A.

ANSWER: Correspondents will please inform us in their letters where (approximate locality) samples come from. It helps us.

Sample No. 1 carries zinc (black jack,) lead (galenite,) antimony (stibnite,) copper carbonate and cerussite (lead carbonate.) No. 2, galenite, cerussite, zinc and iron oxides. No. 3 cerussite, galenite and iron oxides. All found by qualitative analysis.

We cannot express an opinion on the territory where samples were taken.

Magnetic Iron Ore.

JUNCTION (Ariz) June 13. —[To the Editor of The Times:] May I ask you and will you tell me if this sample is wolframite?

Taken from a lead seven miles southwest from Junction.

Thanking you in advance.

Yours truly, A. J. A.

ANSWER: The magnetite sample was tested for tungstic acid. None present.

Tin and Platinum Absent.

ENSENADA (L. C.) June 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I find in your valuable paper under the head of "In The Earth," some answers to queries about minerals, and hoping to find help through your paper, I remit to you three small packages, wrapped up in yellow cardboard, containing some samples, two of which contain rock minerals that look like lead, tin or platinum.

The sample No. 3 is of a crystal kind, which has six sides.

Would you kindly tell me what they are and their values?

Respectfully yours,
"ENSENA DE METALS."

ANSWER: Glad to hear from you, and we hope to be of service to you in classifying your "rock-minerals." The quoted words, in this answer, liberally translated, stand for good, old common sense.

No. 1 is a variety of tetrahedrite (fahlerz) carrying sulphides of lead, antimony and zinc. No. 2 is chiefly micaceous iron-ore. No. 3 is probably citrine (false topaz). Will be glad to get a crystallized sample of No. 3.

Marekenite.

FLINT (Idaho) June 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am sending you a sample of some kind of gem that looks like the setting in my ring. Is it cat's eye?

It was mailed to me by my husband from a claim near Talmon and he requested me to send it to your "In the Earth" for classifying. I hope you will name it.

Yours respectfully, MRS. J. T.

ANSWER: Glad to hear from you. The sample is not cat's eye and it is not a gem.

Marekenite is a beautiful mottled-brown variety of obsidian (volcanic glass.) The sample you submit is much handsomer than the varieties observed by the writer, from Mexico or Drewsy, Or. Many articles of jewelry, such as hat pin heads, settings for watch fobs, charms, etc., can be obtained from material represented by the sample, but, naturally, a little of it goes a great way, as it were, and the market price for marekenite flucuates very much indeed.

BARNWELL (Cal.) June 18.—[To The Editor of The Times:] I am enclosing you per today's mail four samples of rock from this locality and would be very grateful if you will let me know in your "In the Earth" column, the composition thereof, and if they are of any commercial value.

Very respectfully, yours, T. P. O. C.

ANSWER: Samples are rather small for a satisfactory series of tests, but, nevertheless, their commercial value is very doubtful.

No. 1 is a granitic rock, with lime carbonate, trace of lead, and iron oxides present. No. 2, is an impure albite (soda feldspar,) with urica pyrite and arsenopyrite present in microscopical forms. No. 3, is a granitic lime-bearing rock (with gypsum) carrying copper carbonates, and trace of vanadic acid. No. 8 is a triple silicate of lime, soda and magnesia.

Pegmatite and Baryte.

BEAUMONT (Cal.) June 18.—[To The Editor of The Times:] Five of us—all young students—have recently returned from a trip on which we searched for minerals within a radius of four miles of Belmont.

Of the minerals collected are two of which we have doubts and cannot name them.

Will you please state in "In the Earth" what samples Nos. 1 and 2 are, in mineralogy?

Yours very truly,
"QUIZ."

ANSWER: With much pleasure we reply to your courteous letter.

No. 1 sample is a fine variety of pegmatite (graphic granite.) No. 2 is impure baryte (impurities iron oxides,) with low per cent. Stronita present, and notwithstanding the impurities referred to No. 2 is baryte, mineralogically.

Correspondents Please Note.

We are in receipt of a letter fully setting forth the method of searching for water and metalliferous substances by means of a peach twig. Space will not permit a further reference.

A correspondent, from somewhere, sent us a small gold nugget, with no letter or notification of any kind. If the nugget is intended as a present we thank you—if not, describe it, and it will be returned to the owner.

Two small tobacco sacks (one containing opal) is in the lot with no letter of advice.

Another missing link, as it were, is a sample of quartz carrying hair-like threads of rutile. Whose is it?

Two gypsum samples (one crystallized,) now appear with "No. 23, skidoo" on container; this information is, somewhat, indefinite.

To carry on this department, properly, correspondents will please exercise care in submitting samples, and please write carefully written letters.

This notice is given solely because, at times (rarely) letters go astray, or get mixed up, but nearly always "Uncle Sam's" mail is absolutely reliable.

UNDERGROND TELEPHONE.

Line Nearly Completed Between Washington, New York and Boston.

[Manufacturers' Record:] An underground telephone line between Washington and New York will be ready for use probably in the early fall, and the national capital can never again be cut off from wire communication with the rest of the country, as it was at the time of President Taft's inauguration. The last section of the underground conduit, namely the 100-mile stretch between Wilmington and Washington, is practically completed. The American new cable from Philadelphia to Washington, which will connect with the Telephone and Telegraph Company will this summer draw in and splice a existing underground cable between Philadelphia and New York. A similar underground line is partly constructed between New York and Boston, and when both lines are completed it will be possible to talk the whole distance between Washington and Boston underground.

From an engineering standpoint, the new cable, which will connect Philadelphia, Wilmington, Baltimore and Washington, is radically different from any heretofore installed.

From the outside it looks like any ordinary 2½-inch cable. But the wires are larger than those now in use, and are so arranged that from each two pairs of the large gauge wires it will be possible to obtain simultaneously three complete telephone and eight complete telegraph circuits. In addition there are contained within the sheath a number of pairs of smaller gauge wires for use between intermediate cities along the route. These pairs of smaller gauge wire may also be used for telegraph purposes. All told, 148 wires arranged in 74 pairs and capable of giving 99 telephone and 296 telegraph communications simultaneously are contained within the 2 9-16-inch lead pipe which forms the protective coating of the cable.

There will be about 1500 reels of this cable and a total weight of nearly 3000 tons, and its shipment will require the use of about 120 freight cars. The cables will come in pieces averaging 500 feet in length, and when drawn into the underground duct will have to be spliced 1500 times, so that more than 250,000 wire joints must be made.

The wires in the cable must be insulated by about 140 tons of paper ribbon, equaling more than 24,000 miles in length

At intervals along the loading coils will be proximately 10,000 of soils in nearly 400 be used. These their quota of gate about 200 tons coils are connected cable by a stub for these stub cables than 170 miles in length coils for this section miles of iron wire for ered with approximately insulating material and 7000 miles of insulated ductor wire.

LABOR UNION DEFINITIONS.

[Editorial.]

WHEN a manufacturer of saws and chisels and hammers raises the prices of these tools, that is Predatory Greed exploiting the common people. When the men that work in his shop threaten, through their walking delegate, to dynamite his establishment unless he increases their wages, reduces their hours of labor and discharges all non-union men, that is honest labor demanding its God-given and inalienable rights.

When an association of manufacturers and merchants contribute $10,000 to employ detectives to assist the officers of the law to detect and arrest union labor criminals who have dynamited buildings and murdered non-union workmen, that is an insolent and unwarranted attempt of remorseless, conscienceless, capitalistic tyrants to send to the gallows or the penitentiary those brave patriotic heroes who enlisted in the war of labor against capital, and righteously endeavored to cripple and destroy their enemy.

Labor arose in its might and contributed $10,000 to a defense fund of which $500 went to the murderer who placed the dynamite, $5000 to the labor leaders who advised and directed them how and where to place it, $3000 to the lawyers who defended the heroes, and $1500 to the fakers who testified that it was not dynamite but hydrocarbon gas that blew up the building, and that the non-union men who seemed to have been burned alive, really died of apoplexy, and sought cremation to save their families the cost of coffins. Whereupon the organs of assassination claimed that this $10,000 contribution, which union laborers deducted from the cost of the dresses of their wives and the shoes of their children, was a noble and generous donation to enable oppressed labor to baffle the villainous schemes of wicked millionaires.

When a journalist advocated industrial freedom and demanded the enforcement of law he was abusing the power of a free press.

When a soldier-statesman threw his sword into the mud of anarchy and his statesmanship into a cesspool of black anarchism, and crawled at the feet of Gompers, that was high browed and warranted defense of the sacred rights of the sons of toil and trouble.

When the bull of union labor leaves the scant burr grass and occasional bunch of grass which grows on the side of the highway, and jumps the fence into the alfalfa field where the ox of corporate graft is feeding, and gores the ox, corporate greed has no business to complain. It had no right to own an alfalfa field, anyhow.

When the ox of union labor jumps over the fence into the alfalfa field where the bull of predatory greed is feeding, and attacks the bull and gets gored for his pains, then union labor should be paid for its ox, because it was the business of Predatory Greed to cut off the horns of its bull, and hobble his forefeet, and wire his tail to his right hind leg, and then the ox of union labor could not have been gored.

What is sauce for the goose is not sauce for the gander.

REPORTS ON WAGES AND CONDITIONS.

Timely Bulletins from All Parts of the World.

It looks as if there may be a strike of the carpenters in Buffalo, N. Y., which will bring building in that progressive city to a standstill.

The first thing next day after they suggested arbitration and selected an arbitrator the hodcarriers in Schenectady, N. Y., went on strike and the strike is still on. When workers foolishly act that way, they defeat their own purpose. Some violence has already occurred.

Buenos Aires, Argentina, had 298 strikes in 1910, as against 148 in 1909, and 118 in 1908. The workers affected numbered 18,806. The loss of wages was large.

Because they cannot get a nine-hour day with ten hours pay, the 300 union machinists of three typewriting machine factories in Syracuse, N. Y., went on strike, June 27. The three factories employ thousands of men, all of whom have to suffer as the works cannot run without machinists. That is always the way in strikes—far more suffer than the actual strikers.

Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada, had a funny "strike" on coronation day. The Regina Trades and Labor Council officially refused to allow its adherents to parade for King George—rank disloyalty and utterly unworthy of union labor.

Owing to the machinists' strike the stockholders of the E. W. Bliss Company of Brooklyn, N. Y., have missed their July quarterly dividend; another case of the innocent suffering.

STRIKES IN AUSTRIA.

The latest bi-monthly bulletin of the United States Bureau of Labor says that the strikes in Austria in 1908 were 721, affecting 135,871 workers, in 1702 establishments. The actual strikers numbered 78,562, who lost 1,011,036 days' wages, amounting to $625,849. These are the official figures of the Austrian Bureau of Labor Statistics in its fifteenth annual report on strikes and lockouts.

The industries and workers chiefly affected were:

Industry—	Strikes.	Workers.
Mining and metallurgical	51	51,364
Building trades	145	20,744
Textiles	50	12,907
Quarrying	95	10,318
Metal working	58	9,494
Machinery	87	8,503
Transportation	77	5,888

In the fifteen years, 1894-1908, inclusive, Austria had 6649 strikes, with 1,081,376 strikers, to say nothing of the hundreds of thousands of non-strikers thrown out of work by reason of the strikers. Almost 15,000,000 days' wages were lost by the strikers alone.

Note some of these losses by years:

Year.	Day's wages lost.
1899	1,029,337
1900	3,482,963
1905	1,151,310
1906	2,191,818
1907	2,087,523
1908	1,011,036

STRIKES IN FRANCE.

The same bulletin tells us that the strikes in France in 1908 were:

Number of strikes	1,073
Establishments	4,641
Strikers	99,042
Other workers thrown out	9,136
Average day's wages lost per striker	15
Strikes which failed (52.56 per cent.)	564
Strikes which won (17.24 per cent.)	185
Strikes which partly won (30.20 per cent.)	324
Building trades strikes	429
Textiles trades strikes	129
Transportation strikes	84
Machinery strikes	65
Day's work lost by strikes in 15 years	42,000,000
In the worst year, 1906	9,438,594
In 1907	3,562,220
In 1908	1,720,749

WAGES IN ARGENTINA.

Trades.	Per day.
Carpenters, painters and masons	$1.75 to $2.65
Boilermakers and wagon makers	1.75 to 2.65
Coopers and saddlers	1.75 to 2.65
Blacksmiths and tinsmiths	1.55 to 2.40
Marble workers and upholsterers	1.55 to 2.40
Bakers and printers	1.30 to 2.30
Electricians and tailors	2.20 to 3.10

Food prices are as high as in the United States, consequently the workers there do not live nearly as well as American workers. Second quality bread has advanced 70 per cent. in ten years.

COST OF LIVING IN BRITAIN.

According to several of the leading papers of Great Britain, the cost of living in luxuries and necessities, food, clothing, and transport, "has increased enormously in price during the past nine years." At the present time the increase over 1902 is in many instances more than 25 per cent., and the average increase in twenty-two leading commodities (as worked out by the Economist) is 23 per cent. Since the coronation of King Edward VII the price of foodstuffs has gone up a fraction over two shillings (48.6 cents) on the pound sterling ($4.866).

FEMALE LABOR IN GERMANY.

Female labor is already an important factor in Germany's national economy, and without it many important branches of industry would not be able to pay their way. A glimpse into the statistics of trades shows what an important place has been taken by this class of workers. According to the German trade census of 1907, out of a population of 61,720,529 there were 26,827,362 working in the principal trades, and of these 8,243,498 were women, but 1,051,723 female servants living with their masters are not included in the total.

These figures do not include the 3,000,000 women who are working, literally as "beasts of burden" in fields and farms of Germany, as shown previously by quotations from consular reports.

PARIS SEAMSTRESSES' WAGES.

The Paris correspondent of the Dry Goods Economist says:

The midinettes, or seamstresses, of Paris earn from 2.50 to 5 francs (50 cents to $1) a day, and the latter amount only when extra work is given after hours. From this small sum these girls, most of whom are from 14 to 20 years of age, must find lodging and food, clothe themselves and pay car fare from long distances, as they can afford to live only in the outlying quarters of Paris, where rents are cheap.

The Paris seamstress is called midinette because she is seen on the streets at midi, or midday, where she strolls along, smiling, chatting, often singing, as she munches her noonday meal, which has cost but a few cents and which usually consists of fried potatoes or a piece of sausage. She works long hours under conditions which with few exceptions are deplorable; some of the big establishments, however, have already done much to better conditions. A considerable part of the work given out in the big shops is by the piece.

The mannequins, or girls upon whom the dresses are shown to customers, earn from 80 to 125 francs ($15 to $24) a month. These girls must be young, with pretty faces, good figures, and a stylish carriage, and they must be sweet-tempered and always smiling.

The men tailors engaged in this industry earn only pittances and work under the same depressing conditions as the midinettes.

TEXTILE WAGES COMPARED.

Here is a comparison of the wages paid in the textile trades of England as compared with the United States:

	England. Per week.	United States. Per week.
Boss spinner	$12.00	$18.00
Sorter	7.30	12.50
Weaver	4.00	9.00
Mule spinner	7.80	9.50
Washers or dyers	5.00	7.00
Fullers and pressers	6.00	7.00
Carders	3.90	6.00
Gill boxer	3.00	6.00
Comb minders	3.00	6.00
Ring spinner	3.00	6.00

DRAWING UNION COLOR LINE.

Unionites Resent Employent of Colored Help in Place of Women in Restaurants.

[San Francisco News Letter:]

This time the unions are drawing the color line in San Diego, and a strong effort is being made to prevent labor men and women from patronizing any restaurant employing colored help to the southern city. Many of the restaurants discharged their women waiters when the eight hour law went into effect, and in consequence, hired efficient colored help. This is hesented by the union leaders, and an attempt is being made to coerce all to boycott the restaurants and the negroes.

This is nothing new in the unions and the "man and brother" idea doesn't exist in San Francisco any more than it does in Los Angeles. The average unionite is just as intolerant as can be toward any negro, no matter what his capacity and his decency. He is pointed out always as being entirely unfit for association by the union leaders for McCarthy and his lambs. Indeed, the mouthpiece of the organs in a State-wide publicity, through plate matter, has essayed to make capital against the San Francisco employer by stating that thousands of negroes would be imported to be worked on the exposition buildings. The labor leaders were working on the well-known antipathy to the colored citizen they had, to their shame, be it said, themselves engendered. However, the colored people are not fooled, and many a plunker will register the negro mechanic's dislike for the Tveitmoe-McCarthy social and industrial ostracism.

Of course, the whole story of negro importation is a lie.—San Francisco importation is a lie.

Taught a Lesson.

RETRENCHMENT IS ALWAYS UNJUST.

POSITION TAKEN BY UNIONITES WHEN MEN ARE LAID OFF.

Railroad Company Which Reduced Help Fills the Places of Strikers Who Left Their Work at Demand of Union Which Gave a Chance for a Big Play.

Retrenchment, that bitter pill which the rank and file in the industries are sometimes forced to swallow, is one of the industrial hazards which managements cannot always foresee nor successfully evade, writes A. G. Williams in "The Mediator." Times of greater or less depression in the business world are invariably accompanied by retrenchment; and working forces are cut down, expenses lopped off here and there, and extreme caution in every department characterizes the conduct of the managing heads of an organization.

No organization likes to retrench. The blow which labor dreads so much does not fall upon labor alone. It falls upon the industry as a whole. Progress is checked, earnings are jeopardized, and the quiver of uncertainty and apprehension runs through every part of the corporate creature affected.

It follows that when retrenchment is begun, certain numbers of workmen must be furloughed temporarily. It follows, also, that in scanning the ranks for men to "lay off," those who are least competent, least proficient in their tasks, and consequently least indispensable to the organization, are first of all picked by the managers for furlough. That this should be done, that men willing and eager to work should be even temporarily denied the privilege to work, is a pity. And yet it is the inevitable law of nature—and the laws of nature know no pity.

When an organization resorts to a necessary retrenchment policy, labor leaders invariably raise the cry that the policy is unjust. They employ the circumstance to incense the malcontents in labor's ranks to wrath. They refuse to see and understand the need of retrenchment. They close their eyes to the facts, and open their brains to hysteria and anger.

The months of February, March and April witnessed certain retrenchment measures in the ranks of employees in a certain big industrial organiation of this country. A little army of workmen was laid off. The union leaders quickly saw an opportunity to make a big play, and a strike was called. The demand was made that all men who had been furloughed since February 1, be at once returned to work. The company refused to meet the demand, and the walk-out followed.

It is interesting to note that of 40,000 mechanics employed by this company, only 2500 members are claimed by the union. Of these, the total number of men who were laid off by the railroad involved, plus those who walked out, was a comparatively small number. Of the men laid off, it is logical to presume, all who were efficient workmen would gradually have been recalled to work as the need for retrenchment diminished. Instead of waiting, however, the strike order was issued. The blow fell with equal force upon those who quit their jobs and on those who had been furloughed. For there will never be a place in the company's ranks for any of these men again. On May 23, these men were definitely notified by the road that they were out of the service, and were paid back the money they had paid into the voluntary relief department for the month of May.

The places of the approximately 4600 boilermakers, machinists, car workers, inspectors, air-brake repairers, laborers and so forth, who had gone on strike, were quickly filled with new recruits. These have been given steady employment, after having been carefully picked from among the hordes of applicants. These are men who are in no sense strike-breakers in the former definition of the word. They are men with references, clean records, and number practically no "boomers" or "floaters."

The malcontents, who refused to accept the economic demands of the time for retrenchment, demonstrated by their conduct that they were the kind of men who are not needed in the employ of this company. By their own conduct they made industrial outcasts of themselves, forfeiting consideration at the hands of hosts of other progressive, square-dealing employing corporations.

The prompt and fearless action of this company, in short, has furnished an object lesson to labor leaders, which ought to sink home with strong significance into the minds of these men. The rank and file upon which the punishment falls with such great force, are more to be pitied than censured. They deserve pity because they were too blind to see the unreasonableness of their leaders' commands. They deserve censure because they obeyed these commands without studying the underlying facts before they acted.

"Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute," precisely expresses the sentiments of the corporation heads who met the strike with the determined action we have beheld in this case.

GOMPERS MAY BE JAILED.

Ordered to Show Cause on July 17 Why He Should Not Be Imprisoned for Contempt.

Although the Supreme Court of the United States set aside on a technicality the jail sentences of Gompers, Morrison and Mitchell, the organized-labor leaders convicted of contempt by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, the Federal law is still pursuing them, and they must again stand trial on the original charges. The committee of three lawyers appointed by Justice Wright of the District Court to investigate the matter has just reported to him that the labor leaders were guilty of contempt "and had subjected themselves to due punishment therefor" in disobeying an injunction which "restrained and enjoined them from conspiring or combining in any manner to restrain, obstruct or destroy the business of the Bucks' Stove and Range Company or to prevent it from carrying on its business without interference from them or any of them in any manner." The committee might well have stopped right there and have let the law take its course with the defendants, but it somehow felt moved to suggest that if Gompers and his two understudies would apologize to the court for their contempt of its orders, this apology would be taken into consideration in the proceedings against them that were to follow. But Justice Wright completely ignored this suggestion when he ordered the three men to show cause on or before July 17 why they should not be jailed for contempt. So if they were to submit apologies now, it would make no difference— the case against them would proceed solely on its merits. It is difficult to see how they can escape prison. To show any leniency to them under the circumstances would be to encourage the vicious policies for which these men stand—they not only defy the law, but sneer at the government and at the courts whenever a legal point in their favor is scored, no matter how trifling. A few weeks "behind the bars" would bring themselves and all their kind to their senses.—[New York Commercial.

Threatened.

DESPOTIC RULE OF LABOR LEADERS.

JOIN A UNION OR TOWN WILL BE PROSCRIBED.

Significant Statement of an Organizer in St. Louis Sent Out to Compel All Telephone Linemen and Workers to Join the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

The following statement, says S. T. Holland in The Mediator, throws a singular and a significant light upon the methods that are being employed in this country today by certain union labor organizers:

"Understand me, this movement is general, and those of you who fail to take advantage of this opportunity to join this union now will be required to pay an initiation fee of $15 each when the charter is filed. And if the project falls through here in St. Louis because we don't secure sufficient following, St. Louis will be declared a scab town, and you will be listed, and none of you will be accepted in any other local in the United States at any price, and we will see that you do not get a job at telephone work in any city where we are organized. We have $35,000 to spend in organizing Missouri and Kansas."

These are the utterances of a twentieth century labor leader—A. D. Ferguson, one of the organizers, working under the banner and auspices of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Mr. Ferguson has been sent out by this organization to force all telephone linemen and workers to join the union or take the consequences. He is bright and energetic, an active hustler, a ready orator, an effective man in debate, a prosperous looking representative of his organization.

Mr. Ferguson's St. Louis statement as quoted above, is without question the strongest indictment against the organizations of labor which he represents. The only difference between Ferguson and many another organizer is the fact that Ferguson comes out openly with the lash, while others, for the most part, work subtly and insidiously, but always toward the same end, always with the spirit of a tyrant concealing itself beneath a flow of suave and tricky words.

Back of the interesting St. Louis ultimatum, lie facts that, if taken into consideration, will shed a light upon the whole fabric of the American Federation of Labor which reveals a corruption and a weakness that cannot fail to astonish those who have not made a study of the temper and character of this great labor organization—an organization which purports to stand for that which is best for the working man, and ultimately for the whole people.

Several years ago the officers of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers were repudiated for alleged dishonesty and graft. On the request of the rank and file, the funds of the electrical workers were tied up in the courts of the land. The matter of the jurisdiction as to the disposition of these moneys is still pending.

The arbitration board, appointed by two consecutive conventions of the American Federation of Labor, have been unable to sustain the officers of the federation. The arbitration meeting, as a matter of fact, broke up in a row.

The president of the American Federation of Labor, of whom the president of the electrical workers is a personal friend, has arbitrarily used the power of his office to set aside a persistent ruling against the indicted officials, notwithstanding the fact that 75 per cent. of the rank and file of the membership of this organization are refusing to pay dues to that faction. Being good union men, these men believe in the principles of good unionism, and have elected a set of officers of their own. This action the president of the American Federation of Labor is trying to overcome, by threatening to withdraw the moral support of every body affiliated with the federation, and to relegate them into the class of scabs.

To the conduct of such men as Mr. Ferguson may be traced directly the decline of the American Federation of Labor. No organization of labor can survive as long as such tactics are persisted in. Nor will it do for the labor bodies merely to repudiate by word of mouth such conduct as Ferguson's. They must eliminate the Ferguson spirit.

No thinking man can uphold the Ferguson spirit. Even the tacit acquiescence of labor officials to such tactics places the stamp of approval upon them, encourages other organizers to do likewise, and undermines the very foundations of fairness and progressiveness upon which labor organizations must stand if they would survive.

The decline of the American Federation of Labor is due directly to such tactics as those which Mr. Ferguson of the electrical workers is pursuing. The story of its decline is plainly revealed in a study of the numbers of its adherents, the total of which is gradually diminishing. In 1902 the federation reached its highest point, numerically, with upwards of 1,800,000 members. Today the American Federation of Labor has but 1,215,000 members. In nine years time, a period which is notable for great industrial progress all along the line, the federation has suffered a sheer loss of half a million members.

The question which arises in connection with the Ferguson matter is this: Is the Ferguson spirit, in working out his propaganda of an organization built upon the idea of brotherly love, really any different from the attitude and tactics of the president of the American Federation of Labor himself?

There is an old saying which is suggested in the events cited in the beginning of this article: "Those whom the gods wish to destroy they first make mad." For, it can readily be perceived that no tactics such as these labor organizations are so ruthlessly pursuing can result in anything but ultimate destruction of the union which will countenance them.

A Good Adaptable Nigger.

"I have fallen heir to an ancient colored messenger, who has a remarkable military record," said Representative Francis of the Fourth Ohio District. "Just as soon as I was assigned to my new office he came in and introduced himself, and to solidify himself further in my regard informed me that he came from 'old Democratic stock.'

"'Ah has a fine record in duh Confederate Army,' he said, 'cause Ah went to wah wif mah young mastah an' fit all thu it wif him.'

"'But,' I argued, 'if you have such a fine Confederate record, how on earth did you manage to get a job under the Republicans here in the House office building?'

"'Oh, you see, boss, Ah has a Union Army record, too.'

"'A Union Army record,' I echoed. 'How did you get that?'

"'Well, hits lak disaway, cap'n. Long toward de en' of de wah Ah goes ovah to the Yanks.'

"Then you are a turncoat," he said.

"'No sah. Ah ain't dat,' he replied. 'Ah was ketched and twant no way t' git back to de Confederates. Doan you see, boss, dey ain't no way yous kin look at me but what Ah'm a good no'thuner, a good su'thern niggah.'"—[Indianapolis News.

THE CORONATION STONE.

Some Doubt Thrown Upon Its Being the One on Which Jacob Dreamed of the Ladders.

[St. Louis Republic:] One by one, the most cherished historic illusions are being destroyed. People in Great Britain, and also in this country, have always been taught to believe that the so-called "Stone of Destiny," seated on which all the Kings of England have been crowned in Westminster Abbey since the reign of Edward I was the original stone on which Jacob slept when he dreamt of the celestial ladder.

It has been impressed upon us that it was brought from the Holy Land to Spain, and from Spain to Ireland, where it was used in connection with the coronation of the Irish Kings on the Hill of Tara, from there to Dunnstaffnage Castle, in Scotland, which now belnogs to the Duke of Argyll, and from thence to the Abbey of Scone, where for 300 years all the Kings of Scotland were crowned on it until 1296, when Edward I of England carried it off to London

He encased it in an oaken chair or throne six feet seven inches high, two feet deep and with a seat two feet four inches wide. The stone itself, which is fastened under the seat with two iron chains, is twenty-six inches long by sixteen inches broad and ten and one-half inches deep. The top is flat.

Now, on the eve of the coronation of King George, more than six centuries later, Prof. Sir William Mitchell Ramsay, one of the most eminent scientists of Scotland, and whose fame as an archaeologicist extends over the New World, as well as the Old, appears upon the scene, and having brought all his knowledge to bear upon the subject, stoutly declares that the Stone of Destiny was never brought from the Holy Land, since there is no stone of that particular kind at Bethel, where Jacob dreamt his dream, and is said to have used the stone for a pillow

But he points out that the stone is identical with that dull reddish, or rather purplish, sandstone which was extensively used in the construction of Dunnstaffnage Castle, and that its bears the same marks of the chisel as the stones that still figure among the ruins of the castle. In fact, he insists, and furnishes convincing proofs, that the Biblical and the Irish legends in connection with the Stone of Destiny are mere myths, and that its origin does not go back any further than the times when the Scottish Kings were crowned at Dunnstaffnage Castle, before the scene of the coronation was moved to the Abbey of Scone.

ALL EYES ARE ON AGENCY MEETING.

Not Believed Many Companies Will Withdraw.

Agency Directors to Take Up Storage Plans.

Not Much New Development Work Under Way.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

BAKERSFIELD, July 7.—With the near approach of the meeting of the directors of the Independent Oil Producers' Agency—set for July 12—interests in oil circles generally centers in the two questions which will come up for discussion and action at that time, the plans for the proposed storage company, and the release of such members of the Agency as may choose to withdraw from the organization.

According to the terms of the letter sent out by President St. Clair about ten days ago, members who desire to withdraw must have their applications on file with the secretary of the Agency not later that July 10, which is Monday night. So far as can be learned to date few, if any, of the Agency members have signified their desire to withdraw, and it is generally believed that there will be few applications for release on file when the meeting of the directors is called to order next Wednesday.

Elements in the situation are these: Little genuine fault is found with the Agency management. Everyone seems to concede that this management has always been honest in its effort to promote the interest of the producers without discrimination or partiality, and it is seldom that criticism of the judgment of the Agency officers is indulged in. The difficulties of the oil men have been so clearly traceable to simple over-production that there has been no reason to look for a different cause.

The Agency member who is hard up for cash or dissatisfied from any other reason at once is confronted with the question of what he would do with his oil were he to withdraw from the organization. The question is put up to him more strongly by the form of the application which President St. Clair sent to him to sign. This application expressly states that when once signed by the proper officials of the company it is to be binding on the company for a period of sixty days. It is not binding on the Agency, however, until it has been voted upon by the Agency directors.

Any Agency member sending in one of these applications for release may be voted out of the Agency at the directors' meeting, or he may be voted in, just as the directors choose. Not knowing for certain whether or not he will be released if he requests it, he is in no position to make a contract for the sale of his oil elsewhere. It is reported that some of the producers have asked whether or not they would be able to sell their oil to the Standard in the event they are released from the Agency, but the Standard has declined to make any promises.

Also, the application is an agreement to the effect that in the event any company withdraws, any oil it may have in storage with the Agency may be returned to it at any designated point in the field of its origin—and the owner of the oil will pay the cost of re-delivery and any accrued charges. Companies that have no storage on their leases are obliged to consider where they would dispose of their daily production, and also where they will store their surplus before they sign one of the applications for release.

Consideration of these practical questions seems likely to prevent any of the small companies from rushing in to withdraw. If urgent need of money makes them dissatisfied in the Agency, the same condition will make it hard for them to get out. Unless they are able to make a tentative contract with some big concern to take care of their production and surplus in case they are released, they take the chance of having to dig up an additional sum to provide storage for their returned oil, and also to carry themselves during the uncertain period in which they are seeking a new outlet for their product.

If only a few of the big companies ask for release it is possible that the directors of the Agency may refuse to grant their request. Most of these big companies that came into the Agency at comparatively recent dates, did so under terms of greater or less special advantage. In several instances it was agreed that certain amounts of oil should be handled for them at prices that have proven to be in excess of the market value. Some of these special contracts are now expiring, and other Agency members are not likely to let the companies who hold them go until they have eaten some of the skimmed milk as well as the cream.

The other matter to come before the directors' meeting next Wednesday is the storage company plan. This matter has been under the general consideration of the executive committee ever since the last directors' meeting three months ago, and it is stated that the plan is now so far advanced that it may be submitted to the individual companies for approval. No formal action on the storage company plan will be taken by the Agency directors, for the reason that the storage company will be a wholly separate organization, just as the Producers' Transportation Company is. It will depend for its organization, however, on the approval of the Agency members, for it is stated that the storage company is not likely to be formed unless a large majority of the Agency companies agree to take stock in the proposed concern in return for their surplus oil.

The plan first outlined for the storage company included the purchase of the Union Oil Company's present storage, and the issuance of bonds to cover this cost and to build additional concrete reservoirs. It was proposed to issue stock in the storage company for the oil now held by the Agency in storage, placing the value of the oil at twenty-five cents. At the last meeting of the executive committee in San Francisco some changes in the storage company plans were made, but whether they went to these features or not is not given out. One statement is that a considerable change in the plans was made, but a member of the committee states that the alterations were rather of detail than of essential features.

Stockholders of the Test and Thirty-Four Hill Oil companies operating east of Old Sunset are looking forward with daily expectation of important developments on their properties. The Thirty-Four Hill is down about 2450 feet in a thick stratum of chalklike shell. This formation has been drilled into about 100 feet, and the end of it is expected very soon. Oil men say that oil should be found beneath this stratum if it is found at all. The Thirty-Four Hill has passed through several strata of oil sand, but none of them have been sufficiently prolific to pay for development.

The Test well is in the same formation as the Thirty-Four Hill at a depth of something over 1600 feet. The Test has gone into the shell about thirty feet, and cherishes the same hope of a good oil sand beneath that inspires the owners of the Thirty-Four Hill.

The Visalia Midway Oil Company has suspended development temporarily, and is doing little at present except to market the production of its three very good wells. A little later on drilling will be resumed. It is planned to put down three more wells before the company begins paying regular dividends. A dividend or two may be declared before the end of the present year, but these will be merely on the side.

The Visalia Midway owns its land, is out of debt and has a good income from the sale of its oil. It could begin paying good dividends now, but the policy of the directors is to accumulate a fund for the further contemplated development.

TERMINUS AT VENTURA.

GUARANTY PIPE LINE.

T. O. Turner, superintendent of the pipe line department of the Guaranty Oil Company, accompanied by Parsons and Barton, Bakersfield surveyors, are now in the field making the final survey for the pipe line from Maricopa to Ventura. It was first intended to carry the pipe line to the coast at Santa Barbara, but the first survey showed the line to Ventura to be more feasible.

It is announced that the pipe has been ordered, and that work will progress as fast as possible. The various producing oil properties of the Guaranty are giving good accounts of themselves under the field management of G. H. Burdick, and the production is constantly being increased. At the annual meeting a couple of weeks ago the present officers, headed by President and General Manager R. L. Cox, were given a vote of confidence by the stockholders, and were re-elected for the ensuing year.

WAS ON THE GROUND.

NEW WELLS BROUGHT IN.

E. G. Ekstrom, president of the Midway Northern and Maricopa Northern oil companies, has been in the field during the bringing in of the well on each property. He returned to the city yesterday and in an interview was very enthusiastic regarding the future of the companies.

When the Midway Northern well turned loose at the rate of 20,000 barrels of oil per day, the preventer attached to the casing brought it under control within fifteen minutes. The six-inch casing is now being put down to the bottom of the oil sand, and commercial production will begin tomorrow or next day. The well is very much larger than No. 1, which is keeping up its steady flow. The output of both wells is contracted to the Standard Oil Company.

The adjoining well of the Maricopa Northern is in process of finishing, the crew now putting the four and one-half inch casing with Texas strainer to the bottom of the oil sand. This is a deep well, 2870 feet, and has very heavy gas pressure and very rich oil sand. The gravity of the oil from both the new wells is better than 23 deg. Both companies are to go rapidly ahead with development work. Two more wells are to be started at once on the Midway Northern, and two on the Maricopa Northern, all to be drilled with rotary rigs.

Mrs. Pauline Agassiz Shaw of Brookline, Mass., has given the Music School Settlement of Boston real estate valued at $30,000. Mrs. Shaw wishes the property to be devoted to the culture and happiness of the north end children, and suggests a roof garden where open air concerts for the neighborhood may be given.

McKittrick.

MOVING NORTHWARD FROM OLD FIELD.

Development Has Expanded McKittrick District.

Good Wells Brought in by New Companies.

Activity Is Also General in the Old Field.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

M'KITTRICK (Cal.) July 7.—Men and material are steadily going forward to the North McKittrick front, where, for a distance of from ten to fifteen miles from town, extensive preparations are being made for the development of what, in the opinion of men of long experience, promises to become a very valuable oil district.

The advent of the Belridge Oil Company into this territory was followed not long afterward by the Oakland-McKittrick and the Mahaska oil companies, so that within a period of only a few weeks the North McKittrick field has come into prominence. The organization of two new corporations—the Speedwell and the King George—during the past week, for the purpose of drilling wells not far from the leases of the three concerns mentioned, adds greatly to the general interest in the properties that are to be fully tested. All of these companies are composed principally of well-known oil men, and they regard the outlook as most favorable.

The Belridge Oil Company already has erected five rigs and brought in three wells, on section 34, 28-21, reported to be prospective good producers. Four more derricks are to be added in a short time, and it is understood that others are to go up early in the fall season. While but little definite information has been given out by any one connected with the company, it is known that the results so far attained have been so satisfactory it is the intention to expend much money in the extension of operations. The oil from wells drilled showed a gravity of 26.4.

The Speedwell Oil Company, capitalized at $500,000, with Harry Black as president; John Lang, vice-president, and P. L. Harley, secretary and treasurer, has inaugurated work on its lease in section 8, 29-22. The directors of the Speedwell, in addition to the officers named, are Joseph Ervie, A. H. Butler, Jr., Mark Lang and R. H. Bare. Mr. Black is the superintendent of the Fairfield Oil Company, Mr. Lang fills a similar position with the Hillcrest Oil Company, Mr. Harley is a capitalist, who resides in Redlands, Mr. Ervine and Mr. Bare are prominently connected with the Trumbadour Oil Company, Mr. Butler is one of McKittrick's most active young business men, and Mark Lang is a well-known business man of Moron.

The property of the King George Oil Company lies ten miles from McKittrick, and not far from that of the Belridge Oil Company, and three miles north of the Speedwell lease, being on section 30, 28-22. E. L. Brown, one of the best-known business men of McKittrick is the president; W. O. Maxwell, vice-president, and F. J. Burns, secretary and treasurer. Messrs. Maxwell and Burns have long been identified in a prominent way with the oil industry, and have had much practical experience. The company expects to put a large force to work at once.

The Oakland-McKittrick Oil Company, on section 25, North McKittrick front, is down 500 feet with its first well. This company is now also operating the lease in the McKittrick field, which was formerly held by the United Oil Company.

The Mahaska Oil Company is pushing the work on its lease in section 36, in the North McKittrick front. The first well of this company has just been cemented and the water shut off.

The Caneros Oil Company, also on the North McKittrick front, will soon spud in its first well.

O. C. Heck, who has a rig on section 6, on the North McKittrick front, has spudded in and is making good progress.

The Associated Oil Company is drilling two wells on Section 34. The company has on its Pioneer Midway property eight wells, seven of which are producing. On section 32 it is drilling two wells.

OLD M'KITTRICK FIELD.

In the McKittrick field proper much activity prevails at present, although two of the fifteen companies operating in it are temporarily idle. These two—the Fairfield and the Olig Crude—are, however, expected to resume pumping in a short while. The thirteen corporations running on full time are the Associated, State, Trading and Oil, Jewett, Reward, San Francisco and McKittrick, East Puente, Kern River, Jackson, the "C-J" or, Berry and Kellar, the Providence, McKittrick and I. X. L. This district is unique in one particular—it has never developed a "gusher" since the first discovery was made within its boundaries. Yet it has contributed very materially to the upbuilding of the oil industry in this State, being through all these years a consistent producer. The oil is of good quality, and new and good wells are brought in from time to time. While the immediate territory has been and is now being well worked, there is much yet undeveloped that will undoubtedly receive attention in days not far distant. The district wherein operations are now carried on extends from a point near the southwest limits of McKittrick for a distance of more than ten miles. There are several hundred rigs scattered along the foothills, and the width of the belt exceeds five miles. The average production within this area is over 400,000 barrels per month, but this figure was somewhat smaller in May, on account of the closing down of two or three concerns for a comparatively brief period, by reason of lack of transportation facilities. The output reached 475,000 barrels in March last, and it is possible that this amount will again be reached, if not largely exceeded before long, several excellent wells having been put on the beam and air compressors added during the past few months.

The Associated Oil Company, the largest in the district, has, within a year, erected four new stations, in three of which air compressors are used. Other improvements include an electric light plant by which all the buildings are illuminated, several new houses for employees, a number of good wells and increased storage facilities. The company has eight stations, and many additional improvements are contemplated by the progressive management.

The Kern Trading and Oil Company, which recently has brought in some fine wells, is putting up several new rigs and otherwise adding materially to the value and importance of its leases. The company is now drilling water wells in the north end of the field, and intends to lay pipe to the Midway district and supply water for leases there. A new station has been built within the year, and equipped with an air compressor, and gas engines have been installed at several derricks. The properties of the Kern Trading and Oil Company are among the best in the district, and the production runs into large figures.

The San Francisco and McKittrick Oil Company has just completed a new reservoir with a capacity of 90,000 barrels, and this, together with a new 55,000-barrel steel tank with the old reservoir holding 15,000 barrels, affords storage for 160,000 barrels. The number of wells operated is sixteen, four having been drilled within the last twelve months, and all of them are good ones. This is regarded as one of the best leases in this section.

With twelve wells and two stations, the Jewett Oil Company has always made a good record for production. Considerable work in the way of improvements has characterized the operation of the lease within the last year, and it is said the company will likely still further increase the yield of its lease in the near future.

There are several quite productive wells on the property of the Kern River Oil Company. The station has had some improvements added of late, and the lease is in good condition.

Among the principal concerns in the district is the Reward Oil Company. It has done much development work since the first of the year, and has just finished and will soon begin operating an electric plant for the separation of water from oil sand. This is an innovation in this district, and oil men generally are considerably interested in it.

Quite recently the Berry and Kellar Oil Company, which owns what is popularly known as the "C-J" lease, has largely increased its storage, two more reservoirs, one of 10,000 and the other of 14,000 barrels capacity, having been completed. One of the largest stations in the district is on the company's property, and each of the sixteen wells is giving very satisfactory results.

The East Puente Oil Company has eleven good wells, and facilities for storing 20,000 barrels.

A new well, whose production is 150 barrels per day, just brought in, and another being drilled, is the latest development work on the State Consolidated Oil Company's lease. The company has nine wells, and it is stated that several more rigs are to be put up within the next few months. The production of the wells is uniformly good.

The Providence, Jackson Olig Crude, Fairfield, McKittrick and I. X. L. Companies each has a small number of wells. The I. X. L. of Midway some weeks ago took over the United Oil Company's lease.

The activity occasioned by the operations of the companies in the Elk Hills fields, together with the demand created by the the North McKittrick tory, has called lately ployment of a large whose services were various capacities. In this fact, there is not man in McKittrick or there is no immediate additional help, except isolated cases, working now full. One day probably seventy-five gaged here and at labor in the Elk Hills ers were sent to Judging from the oil districts in this nish work for a very of men during the winter. The increase not be made until the passed.

CHAMPION GROUP IS IN NEW HANDS.

North Star Mines Company to Push Development.

One of the Famous Properties of California.

Mammoth Is Attempting to Eliminate Smoke.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

NEVADA CITY (Cal.) July 7.—[illegible] North Star Mines Company has [illegible] to exercise its option on the [illegible] mines, and the great properties are now being worked by the [illegible] although final papers [illegible] be signed before about July [illegible] This gives the North Star people the full six months during which [illegible] bond and option prevailed. The [illegible] the most important in the history of the Nevada City district, as it [illegible] that one of the most successful mining companies in California [illegible] future direct the destiny of [illegible] celebrated group of mines comprising the Champion estate. Under the terms of the deal the Champion company will be permitted to treat the ore broken previous to July [illegible] and the mill is running steadily to [illegible] of this quartz.

The Champion group comprises the [illegible], Providence, Home, Merrifield, Nevada City, Spanish, Ural, Mer[illegible], New Year, Mary [illegible] and a number of other [illegible]. Many of these properties [illegible] worked almost continuously [illegible] the discovery of ore in the [illegible] and conservative estimates [illegible] the total production of the [illegible] group at $15,000,000, to [illegible]. Developments consist of [illegible], of which the deepest is [illegible] feet on the incline, and [illegible] lateral workings.

The two principal ore bodies are the Ural and Merrifield veins, occurring in granodiorite, or in the contact of the slate and granodiorite. The Ural vein ranges from a [illegible] to ten feet wide, with values running $10 to $20 per ton. This [illegible] throws out parallel stringers in [illegible]. The Merrifield ledge runs [illegible] twenty feet wide, with values [illegible] upward. Both the Ural and [illegible] veins have been extensively [illegible] and have been heavy producers of gold.

[illegible] the number of years that [illegible] have been in operation, [illegible] area of virgin territory [illegible] to be opened. The rich Nevada City [illegible] has never been opened [illegible] and under the new [illegible] is expected to prove one of the big producers of the group. [illegible] another property that [illegible] comparatively little attention [illegible] the shallow upper [illegible]. The North Star Company [illegible] the sinking of a new central shaft which will facilitate the rapid [illegible] ore from all portions of the property. The Champion mill [illegible] 120 stamps. The Champion [illegible] greatly handicapped by litigation during the past twenty years, [illegible] lack of finances has also retarded developments. All of these obstacles are now eliminated. The North Star is one of the wealthiest mining concerns in the West, being [illegible] largely of New York and [illegible] capitalists.

The North Star Mines Company has [illegible] its second quarterly dividend [illegible], amounting to $75,000, at the [illegible] of thirty cents per share. Manager [illegible] Foote reports the property [illegible] condition, and the outlook [illegible] many years of profitable production [illegible] exceedingly bright. The company is pushing work at the Cincinnati [illegible] group, with ore indications [illegible].

[illegible] Buys Auto Truck.

The Arctic Mining Company of Los [illegible] has purchased a $6000 auto truck for the Arctic mine, in the [illegible] district, about thirty miles from this city. The truck has a capacity of five tons and will be used in transporting the machinery to the camp for the new mill, and in hauling supplies for the company. The machine was purchased in Los Angeles by General Manager J. P. [illegible] and marks the first introduction of the auto into the district for [illegible] purposes.

The Arctic Company is rapidly completing the new road, while grading on the mill site is going ahead. At the Arctic and Golden Rule mines developments are progressing steadily under the superintendency of Martin [illegible]. The Angelenos are going [illegible] the work of opening the enormous deposits of quartz in a businesslike way, and expect to be in a position to commence production before the end of the year.

The Arctic orebodies are of immense [illegible], and carry free milling [illegible]. Average values are said to be [illegible] per ton, and the mining and milling costs are expected to be kept down to approximately $1.50 to $2 per ton, thus leaving the company an excellent profit on every ton treated. [illegible] the extent of the deposits [illegible] is in question—the work already accomplished insures a long life for the group.

Activities at Neocene.

The Neocene Mining Company is arranging to construct a new cement [illegible] at its great hydraulic properties [illegible] Plumas county. The old [illegible] dam is also being [illegible] to insure the impounding of [illegible] portion of the debris. It is [illegible] that another giant will be [illegible] in commission, as the company [illegible] with excellent success since [illegible] commenced.

[illegible] winter proved a particularly productive season, new banks of [illegible] proving highly productive. The company controls an immense acreage, the holdings extending through and [illegible] the town of Scales. The company is preparing to work these claims [illegible] the strenuous objections of [illegible]. The Neocene Mining Company is composed of Los Angeles [illegible].

New Dredges in Action.

[illegible] Consolidated last week [illegible] Feather River No. 3 dredge, [illegible] gold boat ever placed in [illegible] the Oroville district. [illegible] has a capacity of approximately [illegible] cubic yards of material per month, and is equipped with fifteen cubic feet buckets. Except that its digging capacity is not quite as deep as the Natoma dredges, designed for the Folsom district, Feather River No. 3 is of the same type as the other fifteen-cubic-foot boats of the Natomas fleet. Natomas No. 9 dredge will go into commission at Folsom within a few weeks. This is of the same type as Feather River No. 3. The Yuba Consolidated Goldfields Company is arranging for the early installation of its thirteenth dredge in the Yuba River field. This is a fifteen cubic feet boat of the same general design as the mammoth Natomas boats. The new dry-land dredge, recently completed by Los Angeles people for operations in the Oroville district, will soon commence work on a rich deposit. If the new dredge proves as successful as expected it will mean a new era in California dredging districts.

Work at Santa Ysabel.

The Los Angeles company holding a bond on the Santa Ysabel group, Tuolumne district, is understood to be completing arrangements for comprehensive developments. A strong body of excellent grade ore was opened several months ago, and the Angelenos plan to intersect the vein at depth by extending a crosscut. The property is equipped with a mill.

Mammoth Copper Baghouse.

The Mammoth Copper Company at Kennett, is completing improvements at its baghouse which are expected to totally eliminate all question of smoke control. The new arrangement means the forcing of the fumes through 2500 feet of cooling pipes, instead of 1500 feet as prevails at present. From the pipes the cooled smoke passes into the bags, where the objectionable particles of the smoke are collected. This arrangement will permit three furnaces to be operated during the heat of summer, and may pave the way for the blowing in of the fourth unit. The closing of the Balaklala plant at Coram leaves the Mammoth the only active smelter in Shasta county. Three plants, the Balaklala, Bully Hill and Mountain Copper, are idle because of the smoke question, and there appears little likelihood of either company resuming smelting under present conditions. As a result the three smelting towns of Keswick, Delamar and Coram, are practically deserted.

MANHATTAN IS FORGING AHEAD.

WONDERFULLY RICH STRIKES ARE BEING MADE.

Owners of One Lease on the Big Four Property Taking Out Five Thousand Dollars Worth of Ore a Day—Milling Facilities Are Not Yet Adequate.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

MANHATTAN (Nev.) July 7.—The past thirty days' developments in the Pine Tree Camp have shown what the mines of Manhattan will do with a little further development. The War Eagle Miss is busy day and night treating the ores from the Big Four, Union No. 9, Union No. 4, White Caps and many other properties, the only difficulty being that if they had three times the capacity they would still be unable to treat all the ore seeking treatment.

The big sensation of the district continues to be the Poak, Steen, Sicala lease on Big Four ground. By the middle of June this lease was producing at the rate of $2000 per day and ten days later this production had increased to $5000 per day with the ore bodies above and below the 300-foot level getting larger and better with every foot of progress made in the shaft and drifts. Everything points to a million dollar production for this lease within a year. The new plant is now in operation and is sufficient to take them to 1000 feet depth and should their present ore bodies and values remain to that depth the Big Four will be one of the biggest mines in Nevada. That this will be the outcome is pretty generally believed, for in sinking from the fifty to the 300-foot level the present leasers have had constantly increasing values and constantly enlarging ore bodies.

Over on the East Side the sensational developments continue. Scarcely a week has passed during the last two months without some sensational find of high grade being made beyond the summit. Beginning with the high grade shoots opened on St. Paul and Otero by Omer Maris and the East Side Mining and Leasing Company, and followed by the still more remarkable find on Mineral Hill by the same people, from which they took over $1000 in a half day almost at the grass roots and from which they are still taking ore of high value, and the latest discovery on St. Paul ground by sub-leasers of the East Side Mining and Leasing Company, there has never, in the history of the camp, been such a succession of wonderful showings made by any company.

The East Side Mining and Leasing Company, backed by Southern California capital, has undertaken an extensive scheme of development and they have taken long term leases on two large blocks of ground on St. Paul estate, one full claim on Otero estate and one block on Mineral Hill estate, with options from the Maris-Jayne Company and associates covering control of the St. Paul company. Three shafts are being sunk on different portions of this ground and the first tunnel has been begun to cut one of the series of veins in 100 feet of crosscutting when the vein will be prospected by drifting. It is the opinion of mining men of this camp and of other Southern Nevada camps that this group of properties will develop into one of the big things not only of this district but of Nevada.

Altogether Manhattan, after all of its hard knocks during the past six years, is coming to the front with a production of over $150,000 per month, which could readily be increased to a quarter of a million with adequate milling facilities, with a score of properties now in ore still to be heard from.

Was Polite About It.

A little colored girl, deeply insulted by her playmate, who had pushed her "off'n de stoop," took her case before the justice of the peace. He inquired into the circumstances and said, turning to the injured one:

"What's dat you' say, sah?"

"I say that you may ask the defendant a question.

"Wh-what'll Ah ask her, sah?"

"Any question you like."

The child studied the floor a moment. Then, with the politest of smiles, she inquired, "Sally, am you' mamma well?"—[Everybody's Magazine.

SMELTER REPAIRS COST ROUND SUM.

Calumet and Arizona Making Big Improvement.

Mill of the Tigre Company Is in Operation.

Echo of Greene-Cananea Affairs Is Heard.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) July 7.—Plans for improvement of the smelting facilities of the Calumet and Arizona Company, around its works west of Douglas are said to call for the expenditure of about $1,250,000. Though the present equipment will be utilized to as large an extent as possible, it is appreciated that much of the material should be thrown out in the interest of economy of operation. Included within the plans are two sixty-foot blast furnaces, the largest in the Southwest, probably flanked by several of the efficient furnaces now in use, and with added reverberatories and roasters, similar to those lately installed at the neighboring Copper Queen Works.

For the past week the new twenty-stamp mill of the Tigre Company, sixty-five miles south of Douglas, in Northern Sonora, has been in operation, with power furnished electrically from the Copper Queen Power Works at Douglas, where two 750-kilowatt generators have been installed and whence a modern copper-wire transmission system has been extended southward. Only one generator is needed for the work, the other being held in reserve. Current is transmitted at 44,000 volts. Great economy and facility of operation are expected to result from the change. Fuel for the steam plant of the old mill was wood, packed in by burros from the hills near-by and the supply was both expensive and generally unsatisfactory. Installation of the new electrical system has been in the hands of Sanderson & Porter of San Francisco, locally represented by Harry Hartwell, from whom the plant has just been accepted by the Tigre Company. The Tigre is recognized as one of the greatest gold mines of the Southwest and its production henceforth will be doubled. It is mainly owned in Kansas City.

An echo from the old management came out at a late meeting in New York of stockholders of the Greene-Cananea Copper Company, whereat President W. D. Thornton stated, "notes of W. C. Greene amounting to $2,318,008, which have been included heretofore in the statement of current liabilities and assets, have been transferred from current assets to deferred assets. This has been done on account of the uncertainty of their collection, as it is designed to eliminate from the statement all items in accounts receivable that are of a doubtful nature."

During the past year the property produced from its own ores, 36,921,300 pounds of refined copper, sold at an average price of very nearly 13 cents a pound. Each ton of copper bullion had added value of an average of $28.14 in gold and silver. During the year on new equipment, mainly within the reduction plant, was spent the sum of $684,097, which sum, in pursuance to the general policy of the company, was charged off to depreciation. This left a net profit for the corporation of $459,202. Mining costs increased a bit over those of the previous statement, due to new work undertaken and to an increase in the percentage of smelting ore mined, as compared with the concentrating ore of lower grade. The average mining cost was $2.75 per ton.

Work is to be resumed on the well-known Catalina mine of the Calumet and Sonora Company, about one mile north of Cananea.

R. K. Clancy has been awarded a judgment of $18,500 by arbitration in his suit for the value of alienated stock against the Santa Rosalia Mining Company of Sonora. The Mexican laws recognize the binding effect of such a decision and the authorities at Cananea have notified the company to that effect.

Spencer Bishop, for years chief mechanical engineer at the Cananea works, has left for Fundicion, Peru, where he will have charge of the installation of a great smelting plant there being erected on the Cerro del Pasco property.

Searchlight.

NEVADA CAMP IS STILL ON MAP.

FITZPATRICK ZINC PROPERTY CHANGES HANDS.

New Gasoline Engine Installed by the New York-Searchlight Mines Company—Angelenos Make Trip in Auto Across Desert Looking for Prospects.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SEARCHLIGHT (Nev.) July 7.—On Wednesday in Searchlight was closed the deal pending on the Fitzpatrick zinc property, located at Clark Mountain, San Bernardino county, some forty miles west of this town. The owners, T. J. Fitzpatrick and R. H. Montgomery, have given an option on the property to Frank E. Sharps and W. N. Cuddeback. The amount named is $30,000, of which $2500 was paid down in cash, the balance to be paid in four semi-annual payments of $6875 each.

Work was begun on the property last fall, and since that time a seventy-five-foot shaft has been sunk and much surface prospecting done. The cropping is very pronounced, standing out of the ground very prominently. Values were found at the grass roots. In fact, at the very beginning of operations, three cars of ore were shipped to the smelters in Oklahoma and Kansas, returns from which averaged 12½ per cent. copper, 44 per cent. zinc and 10 ounces in silver. Recent assays made in Los Angeles showed values of from 21.6 per cent. to 44.9 per cent. zinc, $2.70 to $4 silver and one sample showed $4.14 in gold.

The new owners are to immediately start developments on a large scale. The property is located some fourteen miles from the Santa Fe Railroad, but it is thought that a branch line of this road will shortly be built within four miles of the property. The original owners have made many shipments to the Oklahoma and Kansas smelters. In fact, all their work has been in ore, the mine producing from the first.

A party of autoists, consisting of M. D. Painter of Los Angeles, formerly proprietor of the Painter Hotel at Pasadena; J. C. Hames and his son, J. B. Hames, also of Los Angeles, arrived in Searchlight early this week. Mr. Hames, Sr., is an assayer and a mining man of wide experience. The party made the trip all the way from Los Angeles in a Packard car and arrived here as fresh as though they had been "joy riding" over boulevards. They reported good roads most of the way, experiencing one bad stretch near Bagdad, in the heart of the desert.

The object of their trip is to make a thorough examination of the mining resources of this section. According to their own statement, they are only "prospecting," but their mode of travel is not the kind in general use by prospectors of the ordinary class. Autos suggest capital, and, in view of the fact that there seems to be a general awakening on the part of moneyed men in regard to this part of the mining field, it seems that they are coming out to have a look, with but one result, and that is that investments will be made and developments are bound to follow.

Immediately upon their arrival, Messrs. Hames and Painter went over to Old Crescent, where Painter has claims adjoining the Smithson property. Also they went to examine other property in the same neighborhood. Upon returning here, they went on down to the Chiquita, some twenty miles to the south. From there they went on to Needles and thence will go into Arizona on a general tour of inspection.

At the Searchlight M. & M. fine progress is being made in the new east drift on the fifth level. The drift is now in a distance of some one hundred feet and all in ore. There is, at present, eight feet of ore in the face of the drift, with values all through it. The ore shoot has been traced into connection with the body on the upper levels. It is proposed to soon start sinking in the main shaft and to get at the ore at greater depth, with the assurance that it will be found there as good, if not better, than any heretofore encountered. A clean-up was made at the mill the fore part of the week, but it is not yet known what the exact saving is, although the indications are that the ore milled will average a good $10.

PIONEER SMELTER.
TWIN BUTTES SECTION.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) July 7.—It is probable that the smelter of the Pioneer Smelting Company will be located in the Twin Buttes section, twenty miles south of Tucson, where surveying for a site has been started and where a test well is being sunk on a hillside near the Santa Cruz bottom. If an ample water supply is secured, it is probable the question of location will be settled forthwith. The site is near the Twin Buttes, Plumed Knight and Gould mines, from which the greater part of the ore supply is expected to be derived.

M. W. Essholm of Los Angeles is reported to have taken a bond upon the Hansen placer ground at Quijotoa, contingent upon personal approval on a visit which he will make the district very soon. Little has been done in the district lately, largely owing to the summer discomfort and to the lack of water. The Quinner washing machine has been tested on the conglomerate gravel of the locality and is declared to be just the process needed for successful extraction of the gold there found in such abundance.

The Wheeler & Motter Mercantile Company of Tucson has attached property of the Imperial Copper Company at Silver Bell to secure an unpaid merchandise account of $2915.

Attachment has been made of the Newbury mining property near Florence upon a bill for supplies due Charles Goldman of Phoenix. At the sale the property was bid in by Goldman for $702, the amount of his claim.

The smelters of Southern Arizona are to figure in moving pictures in the future, a Los Angeles concern having sent an operator out to pick up operating scenes around southwestern reduction works.

SOAP AND WATER NEEDED.

Sensationalism in the Papers and in Daily Life Result of a Depraved Public Appetite.

[E. W. Howe's Monthly for May:] in this country, violent and untruthful abuse has become so popular that many people will read nothing else; if there are no untruthful slanders in the papers certain people say there is nothing in the papers. As a plain citizen of the country, I have been led to believe that Mayor Gaynor of New York is an excellent man, and an unusually capable official. Yet a city magistrate of New York is quoted by the New York papers as saying that "police officers feel that they, and not the criminals, are the hunted;" that "when a police officer must submit to a beating at the hands of a criminal, it is idle to hope that he will attempt to do police duty." This slander of the Mayor, of course, attracted wide attention; it was so strong as to be "readable." But that it is infamous for Mayor Gaynor to be compelled to submit to such unjust abuse, no honest, fair man will deny. The libel laws are ineffective. Mayor Gaynor was once shot by a man half-crazed by imaginary wrongs invented by sensational newspapers. President McKinley was assassinated by a muckraker in private life, and at least two of the nation's most prominent men declared that the cruel murder was due to the journalism against which I protest. The same sort of sensationalism exists in almost every town in the country. The big stick is not being used to pound actual rascals; on the contrary, the movement discourages progress, fairness and decent living; the loafer and disturber is getting more credit than he deserves, and the worthy citizen less. I'm glad I'm out of it. The best dramatic writer is the most abusive; the most powerful political orator is the most abusive; the most powerful newspaper is the newspaper that "keeps something going on," and invents its facts. The people are responsible for this disgraceful state of affairs. Old-fashioned mothers, when their little boys used swear words, washed the mouth of the little boys with soap and water. The minds, and hearts, and consciences of seven-tenths of the people should be washed with soap and water. The man who will unjustly abuse his neighbor will unjustly abuse his Mayor, or Governor, or President.

A MULE'S TESTIMONY.

Told the Judge His Back Was Sore and the Animal's Owner Was Fined Fifty Dollars.

The originator of a widely-known probation system, Judge William J. Pollard, of a St. Louis Police Court, had a unique way of dealing out justice to minor offenders, says the Boston Herald. A driver had been brought before Judge Pollard, charged with cruelty to animals. He had been driving a galled mule, but he had an expert witness in a veterinarian who testified that the sore on the mule's back did not pain the animal in the least.

The judge listened attentively to the long technical opinion, and then demanded to know the mule's whereabouts. He was informed that it was harnessed to a wagon which stood on the street in front of the Courthouse. The judge then ordered that court be adjourned for five minutes.

He took his cane and proceeded to the street, went up to the mule, and with the end of his cane gently touched the sore spot on the animal's back. The mule promptly tried to kick the dashboard off the wagon. Once again the judge touched the sore spot with his cane and the mule responded as before.

Judge Pollard returned to the bench. The prisoner was called before him.

"With all due respect to the expert testimony you have introduced in your behalf to show that the mule's back does not pain him, I will fine you $50," announced the judge. "I asked the mule if the sore hurt him and he said it did."

JULY SETS PACE IN CONSTRUCTION.

Crown City Building Figures Record Breakers.

Hotel Maryland to Erect Two Handsome Bungalows.

The Methodist Congregation Plans Enlargement.

PASADENA, July 8.—If the pace which has been set for building this month is maintained, July, 1911, will be a record-breaker in Pasadena. Although the month is still young, improvements represented on permits which have been secured from the city have reached the $38,000 mark.

The greater number of these permits have been issued for the erection of one, one and one-half and two-story bungalows.

Two handsome bungalows have been planned by the Pasadena Hotel Company, owners of the Hotel Maryland. They are to cost $10,000, and will be attractive additions to the handsome Maryland property.

The attendance at the Lincoln-avenue Methodist Episcopal Church has become so great that several days ago the board of trustees decided to enlarge the Sunday-school rooms. An addition will be built on a lot adjoining, which already is the property of the church. While an estimated cost of the improvement has not been made public as yet, it is to be no small piece of work. It is probable also that the main auditorium of the church will be enlarged.

E. W. Salesbury last week purchased a half interest in the Modern Pharmacy at No. 44 East Colorado street, owned by M. P. Green. The firm will now be known as Green & Salesbury. This is the pioneer drug store of the city.

BUILDING PERMITS.

Of the building permits issued last week, those calling for improvements of $1000 or over follow:

William Wilson, 852 Atchison street, one-story, five-room bungalow, $1800.

F. B. Anderae, 343 Ohio, four-room, one-story, frame bungalow, $1250.

F. O. Andreae, 991 South Euclid avenue, four-room, one-story, frame bungalow, $1250.

Porter Lathrop, 111 Esther street, four-room, one-story frame cottage, $1500.

C. P. Allen, 473 Herkimer street, five-room, one and one-half story frame bungalow, $1500.

Mrs. Mary E. Williams, 111 Hudson street, seven-room, two-story frame house, $4000.

Mrs. Mary W. Folerton, 965 Oakland avenue, nine-room, two-story frame residence, $5200.

E. F. DeBeixedon, 1006 to 1030 South Broadway, one and one-half story frame and corrugated iron building, $5000.

Thomas Bradley, 465 South Grand avenue, two-story, thirteen-room artificial stone residence and garage, $12,000.

Howard Dewn, who has recently made his home at No. 650 St. John avenue, has purchased a beautiful country estate of Mrs. C. M. Tulloch of San Rafael Heights, known as "Hill Farm." The deal was made late last week through the William R. Staats Company. The consideration was not announced, but it is understood that it is in excess of $30,000.

The property has a frontage of over 100 feet on San Rafael road by a depth of 417 feet and is improved with a fine mansion, garage, stable, fountain and servants' quarters and is considered to be one of the handsomest homes in this exclusive residence district. It commands a magnificent view of the Arroyo and of the mountains and is noted for its rare collection of ornamental shrubbery.

GREAT BOOM IN BUILDING.

Pomona Rapidly Taking on Aspect of City—New Hotel to Be of Most Metropolitan Type.

POMONA, July 8. — Work was commenced this week on the converting of the building owned by Postmaster Walter M. Avis on South Garey avenue into a theater. The structure, which has been leased for a term of years, will be enlarged and finely finished. Mr. Avis is now giving his attention to the commercial hotel project for his lot at the corner of Third street and Garey avenue, he and four local men having had plans drawn for a five-story fireproof hotel to be built of concrete.

The office and dining-room of the building will be on the ground floor on the Third-street side, where will be the main entrance. Two large rooms suitable for banking or mercantile business will front Garey avenue. The second, third and fourth floors are given over to rooms, single, en-suite and with baths, all having outside exposure on the street or an airy inner court. The fifth floor is conveniently arranged in five apartments, which the owners of the building are planning to occupy with their families. Above the apartments will be a roof garden.

The structure will contain seventy-five rooms and will be modern in every respect.

The Consolidated Water Company will soon erect a building for its business on the sixty-five-foot lot on South Garey avenue, between Third and Fourth streets, recently purchased from Stone Bros. Plans for the new four-story office building to be erected by the Pomona Investment Company at the corner of Third and Thomas streets indicate the most modern office structure ever built here.

The main entrance is on Thomas street and an elevator is provided. It is planned to install in the basement a heating plant from which may also be heated the American National Bank at Second and Thomas streets, and the proposed new building to be erected by the members of the syndicate of local bankers and business men who recently purchased the present location of Pilgrim Congregational Church at Third and Thomas streets for $25,000.

Work is progressing well upon the new two-story cream brick building of the Capitol Grocery Company at Second and Gordon streets, and on the cement building of the Pomona Grocery Company at First and Gordon streets. Building in all lines is active here, the permits issued for the past six months totaling nearly $370,000.

BUILDING IS BRISK.

RANCH TO BE SUBDIVIDED.

GLENDALE, July 8.—Building in this city continues brisk. During the past week the following building has been reported: E. V. Phillips of Los Angeles, sixroom dwelling at No. 225 Orange street, sixroom bungalow at No. 135 Jackson street for H. W. Perkins; the California Bungalow Company, five-room house at East Glendale; Garfield Jones, $500 California bungalow at Second and Cedar streets; C. D. Hilliard, five-room cottage at No. 135 Belmont street; A. S. Dodge, fine residence on Verdugo road, near Fourth street.

The following real estate sales were reported this week by Tupper & Pierce: In the Peidmonte Park tract on First street, F. S. Evans, one lot, $1350; W. Burns, one lot, $1100; Addie R. Knight, one lot, $1350; Mr. Davis, First street, one lot, $1400. Handsome modern homes will be erected on three of these lots within four months.

This company has also sold the Verdugo ranch property consisting of 197 acres on Verdugo road to the Glendale-Verdugo Land Company for $13,000. An eight-acre piece of ground adjoining the Fourth-street grammar school has been purchased by the Tupper & Pierce Company and will be subdivided at once.

Through this company has also been sold the property of Mrs. Anna E. Mulloy on Kenwood street near First street, to M. E. Plasterer of Eagle Rock, who will at once erect a home.

SUMMER MARKET LIVELY.

ACTIVE BUYING AND SELLING.

REDLANDS, July 8.—Buying and selling and building in and about Redlands continues quite lively notwithstanding that this is usually expected to be a quiet season in the inland town. The building permits issued for the month of June total $26,805.

For the week ending today several substantial permits were taken, one by J. J. Suess providing for a $2000 addition and alteration to his home on West Palm avenue; another for a $2000 addition to the residence of T. J. Hammett on East Olive avenue, and a third for the erection of a $7000 residence for Julia B. Green on Walnut avenue. G. Huizing took out a permit for a $9000 residence. Prof. A. H. Collins will erect a residence to cost $3500. The Catholic school-house will be altered and enlarged during the summer, a $2000 permit having been secured for that.

Sidney H. Burchell of Worcester, Mass., formerly of London, has purchased from Arthur Newton his ten-acre grove on West Fern avenue. It is set to full bearing Valencias and is considered one of the finest orange properties in this section. The purchase price was $16,000. The grove includes a number of fine building sites and on one of these Mr. Burchell will erect a fine residence.

W. C. Williams has sold his home at No. 511 Cajon street to O. E. Gaertner and A. S. Parr, who give in exchange a ten-acre grove on East Lugonia avenue. The house, which is large and finely located, is figured in at $8500, while the ranch is valued at $15,000. The grove is located east of Church street and is planted to full bearing oranges. Ten shares of water go with the grove.

Dr. G. W. Croweff of Riverside has sold a 120-acre apple ranch in the Oak Glen district above Redlands to Rev. Dr. S. L. Beiler of Boston, whose wife has a winter home in Redlands. In exchange Dr. and Mrs. Beiler give the Whittier packing-house located at Bryn Mawr and used for some time by Mrs. Beiler in packing and shipping her oranges. The deal involved $28,000.

B. G. Holmes, the proprietor of the Mission garage, has sold an orange grove in San Timeteo Canyon to Nelson Brothers for $13,500. The grove is set to full bearing late Valencias, and with it goes sufficient water rights.

TO FOLLOW SPANISH LINES.

Monrovia Grammar School Will Be One of Finest of its Type in Southland—Bids Asked for.

MONROVIA, July 8.—Bids covering the construction of the handsome new grammar school planned by Allison & Allison of Los Angeles for this city will close next Thursday. It is estimated that the structure will cost about $35,000. It will stand in the piece of property bounded by Wild Rose, Jasmine and Heliotrope streets.

The building will be 150x70 feet in size and two stories in height. It will be of brick construction, the walls being plastered. The roof will be tile. In type the architecture will be Spanish.

The structure will contain eight classrooms, manual training and domestic science departments, teachers' and principal's rooms, restrooms and a large assembly room seating 500 pupils. It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy by the opening of the coming school term.

REPORT VALLEY SALES.

Patton & Longley report the following sales in their Lankershim tract: C. L. Schneider, two and one-half acres, $812; R. C. Beard, two and one-half acres, $812; K. A. SIGNS BIG CONTRACTS.

The Southwest Land Company, owner of New Vermont square, has signed twelve contracts and executed bonds aggregating $80,000 for eleven and a half miles of five-foot cement walks and eleven and a half miles of cement curbs to be constructed in its new property. The work of construction will begin as soon as the city engineers complete the preliminary work. The company has also taken steps for the installation of a complete sewer system in the same tract.

RANCHES ARE EXCHANGED.

The Albert H. Beach Company, through D. P. Beougher and Sterling W. Banks, exchanged the past week a forty-acre ranch situated near Yuma, Ariz., owned by John M. Speese, for an eighty-acre improved ranch in Sutter county, near the city of Sacramento. The value of the former was stated to be $5000, and of the latter $6500. The same company has exchanged a lot in Santa Monica, valued at $2000 and owned by William Taylor, for a bungalow on San Pedro street, valued at $2500 and owned by Henry C. Thompson.

VERMONT AVENUE WAY.

Sales in New Vermont Square by Tracy E. Shoults & Company follow: Lot 46x125 feet on Forty-first street, between Western avenue and St. Andrews place, to A. B. Fargo, $1125; lot 46x125 feet on Forty-first drive, between Western avenue and St. Andrews place, to A. B. How To Be Sure O
The Right Investmen

Heart-To-Heart Talk No. 1

When you contemplate making an investment whether large or small, do you stop to consider it from all possible angles? Most people do not. If Stock is your object of investment, do you realize that a company with upward of 1,000,000 shares sold at a low price must make ten times as much profit in a year as a Company with 100,000 shares sold on the same basis? Ten Thousand Dollars profit made by each Company in the same length of time will mean ten times greater dividends to Holders in the smaller Company than in the larger.

Some of the less conservative Companies boast of stock sold amounting to from 250,000 to 900,000 shares at very low rates. This looks good on paper, but is not good for Dividends, i.e., a tremendous business and corresponding profits must be made to even guarantee ordinary Dividends.

The Home Seeker's Building Corporation has sold and is selling stock, but not in wholesale quantities. The object of our sales is to provide additional capital to develop the property now in our possession. This property is constantly improving in value, and is already worth double what the Company paid for it.

It also too frequently happens that a Company will issue large quantities of stock for promotion purposes. This drains resources and profits of the Company without adding a cent to its productiveness or working capital. Furthermore, large quantities of stock may be purchased by Directors at low rates and on easy installments to the further detriment of the small holders.

Home Seeker's Building Corporation has issued no promotion stock. Neither is a share held by any Director or Officer on the installment plan. All stock by them has been paid for in full at rent rates.

Again, the Officers are business with years of experience in handling poration affairs, and are backing terprise, not only with honest effort with Thousands of Dollars of their money. With such men at its head investment will not fail.

By Grey Oliver.

Oakland, 4; Los Angeles, 3.

Dillon took a chance with young Leverenz against such an old-time heaver as Pernoll yesterday, and at that he might have got by it but for what Moore unfortunately did in a critical part of the ninth inning. Pfyl hit a hard liner at Moore that touched the ground just at his feet and he allowed it to get away from him. This "allowance" permitted two runs to score, and one of these was what proved to be the winning run. It turned the tide in favor of the Oaks, and this tide was so strong that the Angels could not fly against it.

Pernoll pitched the better game as far as swats were concerned, for he allowed but six hits. Three of these, however, came in the seventh inning, and, coupled with a base on balls and a double steal, gave the Angels their three runs. Before and after that they were helpless.

It was one of the most exciting games of the series, for after Oakland had a 1-to-0 lead in the sixth inning, the Angels came back strong with three runs, and then lost this lead and the game when the visitors landed on Leverenz in the ninth.

The fans never saw better ball than during the first six innings. After the first inning, in which each team got a hit, there were no more swats until the sixth, and in that frame the Oaks grabbed their first run. Pernoll led off with a hit to center, advanced on Maggert's sacrifice, and then after Wares had fouled out, scored when Cutshaw drove a single to left. Abbott for the Angels got a single in the sixth, but did not reach second.

ANGELS GET BUSY.

Daley led off in the seventh with a hard triple over first base and easily scored when Moore doubled to left. The fans howled their heads off over this and the noise so rattled Pernoll that he passed Delmas and he and Moore worked a double steal. Metzger, batting for Akin was out at first on an infield grounder and Smith's out at first scored Moore. This put Delmas on third and he scored on Abbott's bouncing infield single. Leverenz ended the inning by forcing Abbott at second.

Here was a 3 to 1 score in favor of the locals and just when the fans had struggled through the eighth inning without a score on either side and concluded they had an easy money victory, the thing flew the coop in the ninth.

Zacher started this with a swipe to left but was forced at second by Hoffman. Tiedemann hit a corking single to left center and Wolverton rapped one to right, scoring Hoffman. This fusillade was enough for Dillon and he threw Leverenz out of the game and substituted Delhi, with one out, one run in and two men on bases. The fans cheered profusely when Delhi fanned Mitze and then Wolverton sent in Pfyl to bat for Pernoll. Pfyl swiped the ball hard at Moore and he allowed it to get away from him, both Tiedemann and Wolverton's runner scoring on this. Pfyl stole second, got to third when Delmas kicked Maggert's grounder and wound up the inning by being caught off third.

The score:

UNIQUE ELECTRIC TOUR TO THE SEA.

Thirty Columbus-electric cars will be started at 9 o'clock this morning on the first electric tour ever held in the west. Volney S. Beardsley will lead the procession of battery-equipped cars on the longest run ever undertaken by an electric outing party.

There will be women drivers in almost every coupe which starts. The batteries were recharged last night and the machines, most of them 1911 models of the Columbus-electric, will be sent away on the novel tour with every possibility of making good.

The route to Long Beach will be over the new boulevard to Compton and on to the sea, a distance of twenty-four miles. The cars should make the run in three hours and perhaps in less time. The time of the start will be announced with the finish time also and the electrics' running time will be a feature of the tour.

This morning the machines will be started from the garage of the California Automobile Company at Tenth and Main streets. The run is unique and is unlike anything ever attempted. The entire distance is fifty miles for the round trip.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

In the fifth Delmas hit a grounder to Cutshaw, who juggled it twice and then threw Del out at first.

Moore made a pretty pick-up of Hoffman's grounder to second in the ninth and forced Zacher.

Akin quit in the seventh inning on account of a bruised hand and Metzger took his place at third.

Both captains switched their line-ups in the ninth in the effort to get the victory and Wolverton had the luck in getting his in right.

Gregory was all to the fancy in the ninth when he took Pernoll's place and fanned Abbott with two men on and two out.

It looked like a 1 to 0 score against the Angels until they opened up on Pernoll in the seventh.

Dillon's high left handed catch of Delmas's throw to first in the first was the fielding feature.

Wares played real ball and besides a double and a single fielded in fine style.

WILDING RETAINS HIS TENNIS TITLE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WIMBLEDON (England) July 8.—Anthony F. Wilding, the New Zealander, rewon his title from his opponent in the challenge round of the men's singles in the English tennis championship today. H. R. Barrett, the English player, retired at the end of the fourth set when the players had two sets each.

Wilding won the first set 6-4, Barrett the second 6-4 and the third 6-2, and Wilding the fourth, 6-2.

ANOTHER RICH PRIZE FOR PHOENIX RACE AND SANCTION OF A. A. A.

ANOTHER rich prize of $1000 has been added to the big purse for the Los Angeles-Phoenix automobile road race, provided the first racing cars are sent through Riverside. Though it would be necessary to unravel yards of red tape before the course was changed to the inland instead of the coast, it is probable the cars will be sent through the orange groves.

George Purdy Bullard left for San Diego yesterday to confer with the automobile men of the southern city regarding plans for the big race. He will return after a rest and then will begin to sign up entries for the contest. He has the assurance of ten and perhaps fifteen cars to start with. The entries will not close until October 15. This will mean the largest entry list ever for the race through Mexico. The official sanction of the Automobile Association of America has been received by Bullard and is on file.

The course chosen by the E.M.F. through Mexico is to be the official course. The sanction number is 362. The piston displacement for some of the track events is 301 cubic inches and under. This changes the division in the heavy and the light class. Bullard says the entries will total a score and he is satisfied that the race will be the greatest ever. He also has the sanction for the track events.

Following is the telegram received by Bullard from S. M. Butler, chairman of the Contest Board of the A.A.A.:

Your telegram received; please pardon delay. Official sanction grants three hundred and sixty-two assigned Maricopa Auto Club, Los Angeles-Phoenix road race, November 4. Sanction three hundred sixty-three, covering track races Phoenix, November 9. Suggest following changes, road race entry blank ninth line, second page, first three cars instead of four as started; also track events two and three make piston displacement under three hundred and one and over. Writing you at Phoenix. Delay due to half-holiday Saturday and numerous events and holiday on Fourth.

SUMMER OPENING OF VIRGINIA COUNTRY CLUB HAPPY OCCASION.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

THE opening of the season at the Virginia Country Club yesterday afternoon was made a great social occasion, nearly all of the distinguished and interesting visitors now staying at Long Beach, attending.

A long, steady line of automobiles began arriving at the clubhouse soon after 3 o'clock, and the Reception Committee was kept busy seeing that none of the guests were neglected.

A musical programme had been arranged as the chief attraction, Moore's orchestra of Long Beach attending. One of the most interesting items on the programme was a trio in which Mrs. Joatham Bixby, Jr., ('cello) Miss Kinghorne (violin) and Prof. Hallett (piano) took part. The ladies are well-known society women and members of the club, and their musical ability is quite exceptional. They were encored again and again. Young Mrs. Bixby, who has recently returned from a wonderful tour through continental Europe, Russia, and across the trans-Siberian railroad to Northern China, thence by way of Manchuria and Japan, home, received something of an ovation, and she was easily the most lionized guest present. Next in interest and charm came Mrs. Carl Stanley, the young and beautiful bride whom Carl Stanley recently brought to Long Beach. Mrs. Howard Huntington was also present.

Other entertainment was afforded by the musical baritone voice of Dr. C. H. Mitchell, and the tenor of Dr. Rogers. Mrs. W. B. Wiseman sang "Whisper and I Shall Hear," with a violin obligato by Miss Kinghorne, and received very enthusiastic applause. Mr. Chivers sang "My Old Dutch" with any amount of pathos, and Mrs. W. B. Julian gave a humorous reading that caused a good laugh.

Father Riordan, whose Shakespearean readings are so well known, was also present and assisted in the entertainment of the guests.

The whole of the musical programme had been arranged by Hazlewood Smith, one of the most popular members of the club, who was seeing that everyone enjoyed themselves in splendid style.

The clubhouse had been delightfully decorated with great bowls of Shasta daisies, boughs of hydrangea and immense brass bowls and Indian baskets filled with giant thistles. These latter lent the uncommon and artistic note that attracted the admiration of all the guests and Mrs. Goodhue, who was responsible for the idea, was justly pleased with herself.

Mrs. Goodhue, the three Mrs. Bixby, Mrs. Drake and Mrs. George Flint, constituted the reception committee, the men being taken care of by Mr. Drake, Mr. Hazlewood Smith and Mr. A. N. Goodhue.

A number of charming gowns were worn, notably by Mrs. Bixby Jr., in a wonderfully embroidered pink silk, Miss Kinghore in pale pink panne velvet. Mrs. J. G. Drake in dainty lingerie and pink sash, Mrs. Green in Mohler's Error Lets in the Big Run in Tenth.

Sutor Goes Nine Frames and Then Quits.

Hitt Works Well Throughout the Struggle.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—An error by Mohler, allowing Patterson to score, gave Vernon the deciding run in the last session of a ten-inning game with San Francisco here today. The count was 5 to 4.

Patterson, to whom Meikle had issued a pass, stole second. Berry got the ball away in good time, but Mohler muffed it, and Patterson was safe. A snappy single to right field by Brashear brought the runner home.

Sutor allowed four runs and ten hits in nine innings. Meikle was substituted in the tenth. Kane and Hosp were charged with errors on the Vernon side. Score:

LITTLE THINGS THAT COUNT.

Suggestions Which Sound Good to Many Motorists Who Are Using Tires.

The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company have issued a little booklet entitled "Little Things that Count," which contains many suggestions as to how to get the most service out of a tire. The careful man might get many more miles of use out of a tire by the use of several little devices where the inexperienced man would throw away a tube or casing as soon as it shows signs of weakness.

Many helpful things may be learned from this booklet in the way of repairs. A quick repair gum should be used as a preventive of casing troubles. A small cut picks up grit and gravel which, with the turning of the wheel, soon results in a blow-out. A little of this gum, after being kneaded with the fingers, may be used to fill the cut and prevent its being enlarged.

Another device is the new Goodyear inside tire protector, to fit in between the tube and the casing. Much service may be had from an old casing by inserting one of these protectors. TThe lining prevents the broken fabric from pinching the inner tube, and small blowouts need not make it worthless when such a device can be used.

To Get Together.

WELSH TO ARRIVE HERE TODAY TO TALK BUSINESS WITH AD.

FREDDIE WELSH, ex-lightweight champion of England, who says he is anxious for a fight with Ad Wolgast, is due to arrive here on the boat this morning from San Francisco, accompanied by his real or supposed manager, Baron Long.

With Wolgast here at his summer home at Venice the only object that Welsh can have in coming here at this time is to make a match with Wolgast for an August or September date. If they have a conference on this subject it must be today for Wolgast and his wife are scheduled to start tomorrow for the Wolgast home at Cadillac, Mich.

The chances are that he will remain in the East several weeks after reaching there and consequently it would be impossible for him to fight Welsh or anyone else in August. Ad has been a very busy boy this year and believing that he is entitled to a rest he may decide to take it before he consents to tie up with Welsh. Ad will not make an August date with anyone for San Francisco.

The boys or their representatives will surely meet today to talk business and it may be possible that Manager McCarey can offer them such inducements that they will sign for a battle in the near future. This talk of Wolgast demanding a $10,000 side bet with Welsh is largely bunk. Aside from being against the laws of the State, it would be a silly business proposition and a demand that no champion or any kind of a pug has a right to make or that could be enforced.

MOTOR CAR TOUR INTO BAY CITY.

W. E. Bush Shows His Value on Run to Bakersfield.

May Manage Run Up Valley and Down the Coast.

Pierce-Arrow Leader Used to Making Perfect Scores.

W. E. Bush, the Pierce-Arrow agent, who has made such a showing this year, has starred as the leader of a successful tour over one of the hardest courses chosen as yet. With his Pierce-Arrow pacemaker Bush was in the van of the procession of motor cars up the valley route to Bakersfield and won a host of friends by handling the run carefully and with marked executive ability as manager.

As technical representative of the Automobile Association of America Bush attended the road race. He headed the tour which left Los Angeles Monday morning. He appointed the officials and rendered his decisions without fear or favor. He awarded the prizes and the result shows what he did for the automobile industry.

As a result of the run up the valley to Bakersfield Bush has planned to pull off a tour which will be held under the auspices of the Automobile Dealers' Association and which should be a hummer. He will be satisfied with nothing less than a tour to San Francisco and return.

So many perfect scores have been made by the Pierce-Arrow that Bush is ready to pull off another run that will give him a chance to show the quality of his car. In The Times tour to Lakeside the Pierce-Arrow was the pacemaker and traveled on schedule and while Bush was not a contestant his score showed that he might have won had he not been an official.

Again in the Los Angeles-Bakersfield tour the Pierce-Arrow went through with a perfect score but was withdrawn from the active list because Bush was the manager of the run. This shows the sportsmanship of the Pierce-Arrow agent who has not sold sixty-two cars without learning the kinks and curves of the motor industry.

BUSH FEARLESS.

Knotty questions arose. Problems had to be solved. Bush was ready every second and his decisions were forceful and to the point. He could not be bluffed and he was not afraid to make enemies if it was necessary in settling disputes. As a result there are no kicks coming that amount to anything and the prizes will be awarded to four cars, the Buick, which was driven by Frank Howard; the New Parry, driven by L. M. Dull; the Ford, which E. Roger Stearns drove into a perfect score, and the Pierce-Arrow, driven by C. Connelly.

Now the tour meant a great deal to the motor industry. Bush was willing to work without anything in view. His territory does not include Bakersfield, but Bush went through and was there every minute of the run over the rough roads, and at the finish cut his decisions cleanly, and hewed straight to the line.

The National touring car, which Robert Stanton drove, lost its perfect score by a small margin, but Bush had no favors, to offer. Bush also showed his clear-headedness, when he refused to allow any [illegible] compete in the run. Benton lost his perfect score, by sending the Matheson along as pilot car.

Starting ahead of the tourers Renton mapped out the course carefully with his Matheson "Six," finished with a perfect score at the noon control and reached Bakersfield in time to check in with honrs, but he was the official pilot car, and did not contest for any of the prizes.

Now Bush is the logical man to handle a tour for the dealers. He has shown what a valuable man he is on such a run and when the tour to San Francisco is held in October Bush, it is safe to say, will be asked to manage the run, and if he does the tour will be conducted in such a way that it will mean a boost to the motor industry, which could not come in any other manner.

Charles Covell in the Premier "Pathfinder" lost his perfect score by failing to check in at the finish. The gallant old car made a great run and was in great shape at the finish.

Coming Our Way.

GARFORD TOUR ACROSS CONTINENT

FLEET OF MOTORS TO LEAVE NEW YORK IN OCTOBER.

Plans Ripe for Westergaards' Journey from Atlantic to Pacific in High-Powered Machines Which Are to Make Long Trip Over Rough Roads to Los Angeles.

With Los Angeles as their destination, the Raymond-Whitcomb Corporation will start a fleet of Garford touring cars from New York, on October 2. This will be the first transcontinental trip of its kind ever attempted in this country. The plans as outlined recently and made known when the contract for the seven-passenger Garford cars was made with the factory at Elyria, O., contemplate one of the most novel of tours.

Only four persons, besides the driver will be allowed to ride in each big car, this provides an abundance of room, besides insuring the comforts of private touring. About sixty days will be used in making the tour, which will follow closely the course routed by A. L. Westergaard, of the Touring Club of America, in the interests of automobile owners. Much of the official route recommended by the motorists associations covers miles and miles of country that is not known to railroad passenger. The scenery is that of localities that will never be invaded by railroad builders and is of the most interesting in the United States.

The total mileage will be approximately 4200 miles, with a schedule calling for about eighty miles a day, there will be about five hours of actual riding with every Sunday, a day of complete rest, both for the tourers and the cars. This will be a most enjoyable trip for those who elect to abandon the railroad train and the schedule planned is thought to eliminate the element of fatigue, and assure satisfaction for the passengers on this unusual cross-country journey.

LOZIER ESTABLISHES BRANCH.

First Move Big Concern Has Made on Coast and Important Results Follow.

The Lozier Motor Company of Detroit, Mich., have lately established a branch in San Francisco. In addition to handling the retail business in that section it will have charge of the wholesale distribution of the Lozier on the Coast. F. C. Chandler, sales manager of the New York City branch, is now in the west arranging the details of the new branch.

The growing importance of the Lozier on the Coast made the factory feel that an exclusive representation of the car is required. The Pioneer AAutomobile Company, who have up to the present time handled the Lozier interests in San Francisco, are also large distributors of Chalmers cars and agree with the factory that the great demand for Lozier cars demanded an exclusive agency. F. B. Kiep, formerly assistant sales manager of the New York branch, has charge of the San Francisco branch, and the new establishment which opened about July 1 is already doing a good business.

CARTER FACTORY ENLARGED.

Friction-Driven Motor Car Needs More Space in the Building and Business Is Booming.

The Cartercar Company at Pontiac, Mich., are at work on a new structure as a large addition to the present plant. Contractors are on the ground and work is being rapidly rushed. The Cartercar Company have had a great business year and have continually looked for a decrease in the number of sales but by present indications the present season's business will greatly exceed that of any previous year. Under these conditions it has been necessary to build an addition to the plant.

The building is of brick and steel construction with the latest modern saw tooth type of roof. It will give approximately 10,000 more feet of floor space and will be occupied by the machine department. Careful attention in the Cartercar factory has always been given to the accuracy of the work of all machine and ground parts. To enable the workmen to do the finest of mechanical work the new building will be built with arrangements to afford the most perfect lighting arrangements.

BUICK RED BIRD REACHES CAMP.

FIRST CAR TO CROSS SIERRAS ON REMARKABLE JOURNEY.

Fast Run Up Mountain Side Takes Twenty-Horse-Power Car to Its Goal on the Summit of the Cliffs. Two Punctures on Entire Journey Total of Tire Trouble.

The first automobile to reach the government camp, near Rhododendron, for the season of 1911 was the Buick "Red Bird." This twenty horse power runabout made a new oad record between Portland, Or., and Rhododendron recently when making this trip. The journey was undertaken by Roy S. Wilson, of the Howard Automobile Company and Lawrence Therkelsen, one of Portland's best-known enthusiasts as driver.

The forty-seven and two-tenths miles from the telegraph office, where the start was made, to Rhododendron, was made in two hours and fourteen minutes. Leaving Rhododendron they encountered snow ten feet deep in the roads and when night came they had covered more than half of the ten-mile journey from Rhododendron to the government camp abandoning their car in a snow drift, they walked the remainder of the journey to camp and remained over night.

Arising early next morning Manager Coleman of the Mountain View-house, leading a gang of five snow shovelers assisted the two boys and the little car reached camp after three and a half hours of hard labor. At times the "Red Bird," in bucking the snow, would find itself either entirely covered with snow or suspended on the pan and rear construction with all four wheels in motion. The high center would then have to be dug out to enable the car to rest on its wheels.

Little trouble was experienced with the car having had only two punctures for the entire journey. The showing of the car is little more than remarkable, considering the size of the car and the limited horse power. The first horse-drawn vehicle, a two-horse, dead-ax wagon, reached camp only the day previous after two and a half days' hard work on the part of the five snow shovelers and with the team exhausted.

Sound Sense.

NATIONAL AGENT TALKS LIKE SAGE.

THINKS YEARLY MODEL IDEA IS ONE GRAND MISTAKE.

Now That Automobile Has Become Standarized Earle Boothe Think It Is Time to Stop Turning Out Different Machines Each Year and He Is Glad He Has Standard Make.

"American motor-car manufacturers will do well to follow the popular trend of public opinion in discontinuing the yearly-model idea," said Earle Y. Boothe of the National Motor Car Company. "The automobile has ceased to be a luxury. It has become a stable commodity, with just as much demand as bread, clothing, pianos or sewing machines. This market is no longer dependent upon the whims of purchasers. In the early days the yearly-model idea was very useful, as it showed at once the state of the industry. Epoch-making and buyer that there should be some change in design took place each year. Then it was only fair to the maker system that would indicate these changes. Now, however, there is a very different condition. Wheel base, horse power, body lines, and all the other basic ideas that go to make up the modern automobile have been decided upon by the exhaustive test of daily use and requirements.

"The further improvement of the gasoline-propelled vehicle will be more in the nature of refinements than in any very radical change in construction.

"The progressive maker does not wait for a year to elapse before incorporating those improvements that come to his notice. Refinements are added to each lot of cars, as they are made.

"It is unfair to the buyer of a car in April to have his car relegated to the 'has-beens' by the appearance of another car in May of the same make, but later date of manufacture, that does not differ from his purchase any more, if as much, as does his own car from those sold in March.

"Even if this buyer has not moved his car from the garage floor it has lost quite a percentage of its investment value.

"There is just as much reason for labeling pianos by yearly models as there is to continuing the present system of automobiles.

"The present arrangement is beneath the dignity of the industry, especially those makers who have the real interest of its purchasers at heart. The substitution of serial numbers would be just as effective a safeguard to purchasers and would not serve to decrease the face value of cars already in owners' hands.

"Yearly models should be discontinued, at least by those selling service and satisfaction. There is nothing to lose and certainly a great deal for the owners to gain."

OLLIER BREAKS NEVADA RECORD.

Joseph Ollier smashed a record between Sparks and Reno, Nev., Wednesday. He left the train at Reno to look at the bright lights and without warning the cars pulled away from the station, leaving the genial autoist alone and in a bad fix, as he was due to reach the East in fast time.

As Ollier saw the train leave Reno he at once jumped to the conclusion that a record must be broken. The train was to make a stop at Sparks, three miles away. Mrs. Ollier was on the train. The Los Angeles man raced away to the E.M.F. garage in Reno, secured an E. M.F. "Thirty" and started for Sparks. He reached there in time to board the train and continue his trip to the Studebaker factory.

RACES WILL BE HELD AT CHICAGO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 8.—A race meeting of two weeks, beginning July 15, will be held in Chicago, according to an announcement made last night by owners of the Hawthorne track. The announcement says:

For fifteen days, commencing on July 15, we will have a daily card of six races, the feature event of which will be a handicap at one mile and one sixteenth, and for which a purse of $500 will be hung up. The other five events will carry purses of $250 and will be so arranged as to give all classes of horses a chance to earn feed money. Racing at this track as previously indicated will continue for two succeeding weeks."

It is said also that if the meeting proves a profitable one, a like number of days will be given in the fall.

A one-ton truck has been purchased for the use of the State Arsenal at Harrisburg, Pa. The truck takes the place of the wagons pulled by horses in the past.

NEW AUTO WRINKLE.

Attachment Which Works Well Is Turned Out and is Now Ready for Autoists.

The "Speedo" is a new little automobile attachment which is being pushed by Chanslor and Lyon. It is small but it does deliver the goods, and during the past week has been placed on many machines. The result is an instant increase in the speed of the car and a saving in gasoline. It can be attached in five minutes and in guaranteed to increase the power of the engine fully 20 per cent. A further claim for the little attachment is that it will make five gallons of gasoline do the work of six and will make an engine run cooler and absolutely remedy carbonization. It is attached to the intake manifold and breaks up under spray each particle of gas leaving the carbureter. This makes more air necessary and "Speedo" injects this additional air.

MACK LETS PITCHERS USE OWN JUDGMENT.

Connie Mack's pitchers run the game.

" 'Take the pitcher's judgment,' was an early season order from Manager Mack, and he never changed it," said Paddy Livingston, Athletic catcher. "Chief Bender and Eddie Plank used their own judgment the season before last and did so well the rule was made general. 'Everybody must use his head,' is one of Connie's rules.

"One advantage of the pitcher's judgment counting is in the help he gets from the infielders. Our infielders were the pitcher's advisers.

"Connie doesn't count a stolen base on the catcher. It is even between the pitcher and catcher. 'No catcher can get a base runner who is allowed too much of a lead,' is the way Connie puts it.

"There was never a call down for the pitcher or catcher where Connie believed a fast ball should have been used instead of a curve, or vice versa. We were expected to know what to do. Advice came before or after the game, and then it was up to both pitcher and catcher.

"Mack does a lot of things different from other managers I have played for. Every man on the team has his ear when a suggestion is offered. We were all called upon to dig up something at daily meetings."

We Win.

OUR MOTOR CARS WIN OVER WATER.

THIRTY-HORSE-POWER MOTORS SHOW MUCH CLASS.

Garford ,the Touring Car Makes Great Hit in Europe While Crossing the Continent Where Many Fine Motor Cars Are Now in the Making.

Although American automobiles are becoming quite popular in France the French engineers and manufacturers, who admittedly lead in the regular production of first grade cars, are not slow to state that the regular stock cars built in the United States have too much power. They maintain that putting racing power in a family touring car is ridiculous, wasteful and inconvenient, and in consequence, is not good engineering. They predict that in future years the average touring car seen on American roads will seldom have more than thirty horsepower and in the seven-passenger class never over forty.

O. C. Wells of Chicago, formerly a partner of John W. Gates, who is touring Europe in a Garford "forty" says that it seemed to be the unanimous opinion of the French engineer who had recently visited America that one of the most sane and serviceable high-grade designs in the United States was that of the Garford and that the owners would be likely to receive continued satisfaction from it.

"It would certainly be a poor recommendation for a corkscrew to say that it could be used as an ax," said Wells, "and yet it is merely an exaggeration of the man who demands the sacrifice of the best touring qualities which he wants to use in order to obtain racing qualities which he does not want to use.

"Frenchmen claim, and not without reason, that the money which the American manufacturer puts into the touring car for excess power, and for which the customer pays can be much better spent by both of them in increasing the comfort, convenience and luxury of the latter and improving the durability of the mechanism. They point out that with the superior character of American change gears there is even less excuse for extra power in a touring car in America than coupled with the French practice.

"At the same time they are apt to criticise as unscientific the extra pains which Americans give to make their indirect gears as nearly noiseless as possible, and they do so on the ground of their comparatively infrequent use, and the consequent disparity between the added expense and the value of results. But they are logical in pointing out that nevertheless this extraordinary pains in the production of noiseless indirect gears still further heightens the folly of providing for extra power which never need be, and seldom can be, advantageously employed."

Accompanied by his friend, George Ade, the Indiana humorist and playwright, Wells made a trip around the world two years ago and is still using the same Garford car in which he toured on that occasion.

INTO HIGH HILLS OF IDYLLWILD.

Week-End Tour in Pine-Clad Hills of Southland.

Just the Jaunt for Over Sunday in Your Motor Car.

Auto Club Signs to Be Placed Among the Mountains.

The Automobile Club of Southern California, in recognition of the demand for signs along the route to Idyllwild, in the San Jacinto Mountains, sent its road-marking crew over the mountain grade from Banning to Idyllwild and from Idyllwild to the town of San Jacinto, and signs are now being placed at every curve and cross-road along the route. The following description and map of this popular week-end trip has been prepared for The Times by O. K. Parker, the representative of the touring bureau department of the automobile club. Parker's description will prove of interest to everyone looking for a delightful over-Sunday trip during the summer season.

That Idyllwild is the Mecca to which motorists turn their longing gaze is not to be wondered at. A half-day's run and you are up in the big-timber country where the fragrance of the pine and the ozone of clear mountain air is fairly intoxicating.

Imagine, if you can, a fine, wide mountain road, easy of grade and of solid foundation, following the contour of the mountainside in sweeping curves, now deep in some canyon dell and again far out on a point of vantage where the eye covers a range of hundreds of square miles of hills and valleys; locate this road at a mile in elevation, line the mountainside with great pine timber towering 200 feet or more in the air, cause every mountain rift to give forth freely its waters, tumbling and churning downward, in sparkling ecstasy from pool to pool of crystal clearness, ice cold from melting snows and delicious to the taste: then make this road some twenty and odd miles in length, with a rangy, comfortable mountain chalet at the evening end of the trip, where rest, comfort and delicious viands satisfy every bodily need, and you get a glimpse of the delights of the week-end trip to Idyllwild.

REAL CAMP.

It would be difficult to obtain a better situation for a mountain camp than that enjoyed at Idyllwild, for the hotel, cottages and tents nestle cosily under spreading pine and cedar trees, and the surrounding valley has sufficient open space to permit of fine golf and tennis grounds. An ample stable of safe sure-footed saddle horses is maintained near by and to those who love a mountain trail the trip to San Jacinto peak, Lily Rock and Mount Tahquitz will prove of utmost interest.

Idyllwild, too, is so different from the usual mountain resort, in that every modern convenience is at hand. The camp has a complete modern laundry, electric light plant, ice making plant, cold storage house, general merchandise store, postoffice, and meat market, and the campers or patrons of the camp can get their meals at the hotel, or occupy a tent or cottage and keep house if they prefer. For parties motoring up for over Sunday there is an excellent garage with full equipment of supplies, gasoline, oil, etc.

HOW TO GO.

To reach Idyllwild from Los Angeles take Fourth street easterly across Los Angeles River and continue on Fourth street to Lorena street, there turn south to Stephenson avenue and then east to Whittier boulevard, follow the lower route to Pomona via Whittier boulevard to Pico road and the latter to the macadam boulevard through Bassett and Puente and on to Pomona. From Pomona go to Ontario and through Upland, Cucamonga and Rialto to San Bernardino. From San Bernardino follow the road to Redlands, then through the orange groves and then follow the regular traveled main road up San Timoteo Canyon to Beaumont and Banning, the latter place just ninety-five miles from Los Angeles. Immediately south of Banning the up-grade commences, leading into the foothills toward Idyllwild. This foothill grade merges into the mountain climb a dozen miles or so out of Banning, but nowhere on the road is there what might be called a steep grade.

Any ordinary machine will negotiate comfortably the road all the way to Idyllwild via Banning. The return trip can be made by way of San Jacinto if one wishes a change of route but it is advised that the trip to Idyllwild from Los Angeles be made through Banning, as being much the better road both as to grade and scenery.

On the return trip drive through Riverside and pause long enough to enjoy an hour's rest at the Glenwood Inn. Frank Miller, the manager, is a motor enthusiast and he will give you a royal welcome.

CHOOSES AUGUST DATE.

Pacific Highway Association Arranges Tour for Coming Month's Club Run.

The Pacific Highway Association has chosen August 4 and 5 as the dates for the annual convention to be held in Portland this year under the auspices of the Portland Automobile Club, of which W. J. Clements is president. A representation from every city on the Coast is expected at this meeting. Vancouver, Victoria and many of the Puget Sound cities have agreed to send delegations to Portland to help make the good roads convention of the Pacific Coast Association a success.

The convention which will extend over two days will be held in the Portland Commercial Club Hall. The time will be about equally divided between business sessions and meetings where speeches will prevail. Some of the most prominent good roads workers on the Pacific Coast will be secured for speakers and a complete programme will be worked up within the next few weeks.

President Clemens and the officials of the Pacific Highway Association will prevail upon the Automobile Club of Seattle to make this one of their club runs. This will mean that at least fifty cars can be expected from Seattle alone. California is expected to send a good delegation from those towns included in the Pacific Highway plans.

Those wishing to drive from the North or South to Portland for this gatering will have no difficulty as the roads were never in better condition.

Rogers in Training.

REDONDO BEACH, July 8.—Al Rogers, who hopes to meet the winner of the Dalton-Kohler fight which will come off July 15, is getting into condition in his training camp here for the fracas.

A six-mile run and a dip in the surf is the daily programme of Rogers. In the afternoon he does bag punching and medicine ball work, after which he lines up for twelve or fifteen rounds of fast work with Minor and Torbett, his sparring partners.

Soon after the fight, which will probably be held late this month, Rogers will go to San Francisco. The last week before his mitt-crossing with the winner of the Dalton-Kohler fight Rogers will spend at Doyle's, putting on the finishing touches.

REO TOURERS PRICE SLASHED.

SHETTLER MAKES IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

Thirty-Horse-Power Car Down to Bedrock and Will Be Better Than Ever and Local Dealer Places a Large Order for Coming Season. Some of the Kinks.

Leon T. Shettler made the important announcement last week that the 1912 Reo Thirty would be sold for $1150 in Los Angeles. This is a big reduction and will cause a sensation in motor circles throughout the West.

The new price will make the Reo one of the good values and immediately upon receiving word that conditions are such that the price could be lowered although the car will be bettered, Shettler ordered 500 cars for this territory.

The new Reo will come in three models, the five-passenger foredoor touring car of the latest type, the four-passenger roadster and the torpedo roadster. All models are popular and have their following.

The Reo has always been one of the leaders in this territory and Shettler is planning a great campaign with the new cars at their surprisingly low price.

Many agency contracts have been closed during the past two weeks and the territory not already taken up will be contracted for within the next few weeks.

In the motor the cylinders and pistons are of the closest possible grain cast iron, that means strength, hardness and smoothness. The cylinder and the pistons and rings are subjected to such tests as are not required in many of the most costly cars, chemical tests, tests for hardness, for accuracy to a fraction of a thousandth of an inch.

The cylinders are cast in pairs, combining lightness with ample space for adjustable bearings. Four-inch bore and four and one-half-inch stroke, with a long connecting rod, which reduces side thrust of piston on cylinder, thereby avoiding loss of power, wear on pistons and improving lubrication. This is found in only the best cars and has always been a Reo feature.

The inlet valve is at top of cylinder. The exhaust valve is on the side of the cylinder, of which the valve seat is actually a part, so that it can be thoroughly water-jacketed. The cooling water goes direct from the radiator, while the water is at its coolest, to the exhaust valves, which is the hottest part of the cylinder.

The connecting-rods are easily adjusted through hand holes in the side of the crank case, and the main-bearing adjustments are made on the outside without opening or dismantling the motor. This last and most important adjustment can be made by an inexperienced person in fifteen minutes; in all other cars it must be done by an expert taking a couple of days.

The cam-shaft is of large diameter, running in three bronze bearings, and is easily taken out without removing the cams. The cam-gears are spiral; they roll into each other like screws and are noiseless. The cam-shaft is offset, allowing quick opening of valves and avoiding the side thrust and wear upon the valve lifters.

ONE NEW PLAY IN BALL IN LATE YEARS.

Mars Cassidy, John J. McGraw and Arlie Latham had a three-cornered argument recently at Cincinnati. Latham began it by saying that the ball players of the present day were not in it with the ball players of a decade back. He was backed up by McGraw, but Cassidy wouldn't stand for it. "That's a joke," said Cassidy. "Why, the fellows nowadays have all of your experience to go on and then have gone some more."

McGraw admitted that the ball player has gone up a bit as far as intelligence was concerned, but he stuck with Arlie, saying that there was just one new play that had not been tried when he was in the ranks, and that was the delayed steal. "There are six different ways for that play that I use," said he, "and that's about all."

Then the tide turned and the running horse came into the argument and Cassidy would not O. K. the statement that horses were better in the days gone by.

"They must be better," said he, "for the breeding is more on scientific lines. They never had any horses the equal of Colin and Sysonby. If they had one a year it would have been considered a good deal. Nowadays you see a lot of good ones. Colin was the greatest horse I ever saw. I think he could have beaten Sysonby from a quarter of a mile up."

SPEEDY COLE PLANT ENLARGED.

SAN DIEGO RECORD HOLDER TO HAVE SPACIOUS HOME.

Thirty-Horse-power Speedster Will Be Turned Out in Numbers This Coming Season and Plans Are Made for Banner Year in Car's History.

Finding the present manufacturing facilities too small for its selling capacity the Cole Motor Car Company of Indianapolis, Ind., have plans under way for the construction of one of the largest up-to-date automobile manufacturing plants in the United States. The announcement was made by J. J. Cole at the first annual banquet to Cole "30" owners held the day before the International Sweepstakes race. He stated that the business had outgrown the present capacity of the Cole plant, which includes four separate buildings.

J. J. Cole and C. P. Henderson of the Henderson Motor Sales Company, who are national distributors for Cole cars, have been sought by a number of commercial organizers in an effort to have the Cole factory located in another city. But it is definitely decided that the factory will remain in Indianapolis. The company is one of the automobile concerns that have come rapidly to the front with a product that has been eagerly sought by the automobile buying public. Cole and Henderson were formerly buggy manufacturers. With the motor vehicle line their reputation in that business has increased.

The Cole Company is represented throughout the country by agents. The policy of the company demands that the various representatives give to Cole owners the best of treatment. This, it is claimed, is responsible for the solid foundation on which the firm now stands.

In speaking of the plans for the new factory which the architects are now working on Cole says:

"We have out-grown our present quarter but we will soon have a new home. This move has been contemplated by us for some time. We knew when we declared our dividend last year that such a move would have to take place. At a meeting of the stockholders at that time it was decided that the dividend be not divided but put on interest for this scheme. We will be able to build our plant without touching our working capital.

"I want a factory where all employees will be comfortable and have plenty of room to allow them to work with ease. I am a great believer in such treatment."

moth-proof wrappers for the season.

The San Gabriel has given up the ghost; quit; sold off all its trout and gone out of the business—that is, so far as the lower stream from the mountains down is concerned; and this indeed is about as much of it as interests the one day angler.

One by one the veterans have tried their one last shy at the San Gabriel—Hope dies hard in the fisherman's breast as all know—and one by one they have sneaked in the back door without any fanfare of trumpets or sporting blare of drums.

Charlie Van Horn was the last one, and Sunday gave him his fill. This skilled flycaster, spoon and rod maker plied his favorite vocation with his best hand-made goods Sunday from the first pool above the gap down to the Puente Largo, and got seven seven-inch trout, raising all told about twice as many, and seeing not to exceed twenty in all the trip. No one else would have been apt to get more. What fish took hold did it as if they really did not mean business, and had just acquired the bad habit of eating.

It is time the San Gabriel was given a rest; it has done very well this year. The fish have run up and some sport should be reported from the up-stream camps now. The flytime is here, and the sportiest sport of all opens.

Dr. Rudolf Wernigk is one who has designs upon the upper San Gabriel having planned a trip for next week.

Good Work.

REGAL MOTORS RIGOROUS TEST.

CARS PUT THROUGH SEVERE DRILL BEFORE SELLING.

Fall and Winter, Spring and Summer Mechanicians Pound Cars Over the Roads in Effort to Find Weak Spots Which Are Hard to Locate Even With Such Usage.

George D. Wilcox, the assistant general manager of the Regal Motor Car Company of Detroit, believes that there are splendid opportunities for the young mechanics who hire out as testers to the automobile factories. Hundreds of applications are received by the superintendents of different factories and those receiving employment are doing good work and receiving good salaries.

The last work in the manufacture of an automobile is that of the tester. This must not be the weakest, if the car is to gain a reputation for road-going qualities of endurance. The designer and the assembler has problems to study, but that of the tester is no less interesting and when he has marked his approval on the car, it is ready for the road, or any work on the road that the owner will ask.

The Regal factory does little, if any, street testing. Not long ago complaints were thick throughout the cities because of the reckless speeding of the testers. Evidently, those testers were those who were not making good, for the valuable ones are the men who know how to handle their cars on the city streets.

"Work as a tester in an automobile factory," says Wilcox, "offers splendid opportunities to the young mechanic. It is healthful and fascinating work. It is a quick builder of reputations. Most of the famous racing drivers you hear so much about got their training as testers and some of them now are manufacturers, as in the case of Lancia, foreign daredevil. He is now a manufacturer.

"Formerly, the tester's work started in the fall and continued through the winter and spring, when driving is at its worst. Now the tester is putting the car through the paces all the year 'round. Unlike the auto owner, his work takes him out in all kinds of weather. The owner can wait for the sunshine.

"The tester takes the car from the assembly department, after its working parts have been packed with grease and shot full of oil, for its first run. The road work it is put through is severe. The tester must make a report on the speed-going and hill-climbing abilities of the machine. He has to make all adjustments in every part of his car and is required to make a detailed report of what his eye and ear have told him about the car. If changes are required to make a good car the tester tells the superintendent.

"After the first paces have been gone through, the auto passes on to the head tester and then it has its body fitted on and is sent to the paint shop. That's where the tester's work is all-important. The car must work harmoniously, without any pounding or clanking and the tester has to watch closely to determine the running qualities and the regularity of the engine. The car is then put back into the factory, and the final adjustments of brakes and timing gears are made, the brass is polished up and the car is tagged for shipment."

The regal factory is one of the few who own their own testing tracks. Surounding its engine and chassis testing building is a great automobile racing track. On this track which is five laps to the mile, is where Regal automobile testers do their driving and it is very interesting to stop in passing the factory on Piquette and watch the contests of the testers on their skeleton cars driving over this track.

MITCHELL FIRE TRUCH POPULAR.

MOTOR MAKES GOOD AT BLAZES AND RUNS AT TOP SPEED.

That All Fire Department Vehicles Will Soon Be Motor-Drawn Is the Opinion of Mitchell Factory Man and Also of P. H. Greer, the Local Agent.

The Mitchell-Lewis Motor Company is putting out a car that is getting to be a popular fire wagon. Several have been sold for this purpose on the Coast, the Long Beach fire department having recently purchased a Mitchell "Six" to be used in their service. The example of the western fire commissioners in the adoption of the Mitchell is being closely followed by the eastern chiefs.

According to J. W. Bates, general superintendent of the Mitchell-Lewis Motor Company, Fire Chief Fred Brodbeck of Salinas, Kan., is thoroughly converted to the use of the automobile for fire departments. After severe tests the chief chose the Mitchell and later had to answer an inquiry from Chief Brady of the Brockville (Ont.) fire department. In doing this he gave an interesting account of the selection of the car by the purchasing committee of Salinas.

That all fire department vehicles, police ambulances and other outfits of his description will be eventually motor drawn is the opinion of Bates. The cost saving of time and the cost of operation will make it impossible to use anything else. Chief Brodbeck named the Mitchell because of its strong construction, "the bulldog of fire cars."

"The Mitchell car was donated by the wholesale interests of the city," said Chief Brodbeck, and was selected by the committee, after a test in which I picked the way. This route was when the roads were heavy, and I did not favor the car in any way, taking routes through alleys, railroad yards, and even across plowed fields. These tests were worse than we will ever find going to a fire. The car is a thirty-five horse power Mitchell roadster, and has plenty of speed and power, even with the apparatus it carries. It carries two men, 500 feet of two-and-one-half-inch hose, six salvage two nozzles, and two three-gallon extinguishers."

P. H. Greer, the local Mitchell agent, is certain that all fire apparatus will soon be motor equipped.

Completing a tour of nearly a thousand miles by the speedometer, H. C. Troudy and party have returned to their home in Alhambra with their Mitchell thirty. The round trip to Modesto was made with a number of side jaunts. There were four passengers in the trip up to Modesto and seven on the return trip from Bakersfield down.

They left Alhambra May 17 and drove through Lancaster and Bakersfield through Mint Canyon. After leaving Bakersfield they drove through Tulare, Fresno, Madera and Merced to Modesto. The roads were found to be in very good condition, except one or two small stretches. These failed to bother them.

The route coming back was varied. After leaving Bakersfield they took the road through the Soledad Canyon, but these were found rough for motor car travel. Those who care about their cars, according to Troudy, should avoid the Soledad as the foliage overlaps the road and scratches the machine. Not an adjustment was made on the entire trip and the Mitchell averaged a fraction under fifteen miles to the gallon of gasoline.

Public Confidence and the

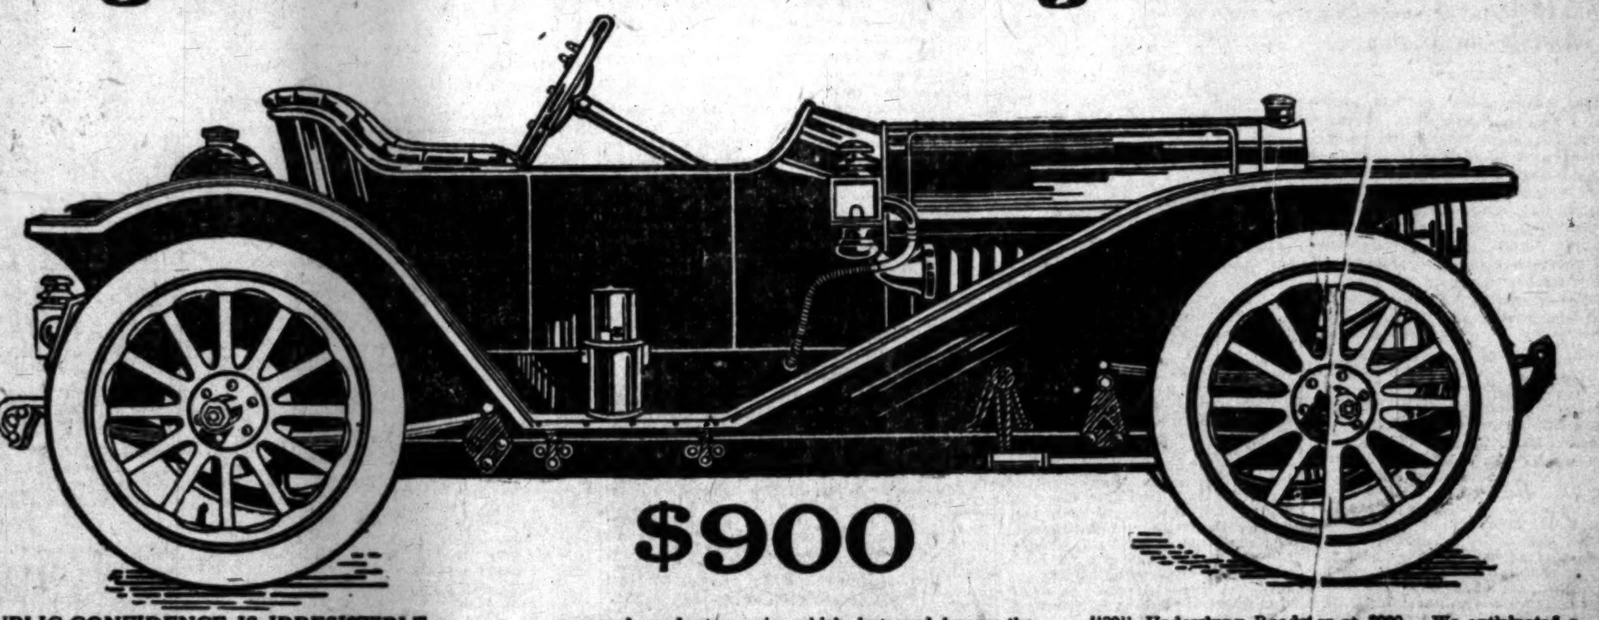
Regal "20" Underslung Roadster



$900

PUBLIC CONFIDENCE IS IRRESISTIBLE

No figure of speech can describe it. When the Public places its mighty "say-so" upon man, event or thing, then, the whole country becomes a unit of expression that defies argument. What the people have proved they sternly believe in, they enthusiastically support, they loyally buy. Their confidence has been exchanged for confidence and when the "deal" is that between buyer and seller—the pledge of mutual faith exchanged in the open market-place—a friendship has been established upon which the world's greatest enterprises have been built.

THE TREMENDOUS SELLING POWER

behind the Regal "20" Underslung Roadster is Public Confidence, another name for popularity that in volume of orders and enthusiastic ownership is unparalleled in the history of the Automobile Industry. So great is the demand for this car, so urgent the insistence that these individual requests be immediately filled that we have had to treble the output facilities of our factories at Detroit to give Regal agents and dealers sales prestige with their thousands of customers.

EVERY EFFECT HAS A CAUSE

This is an age of reason. Men do not now take evidence on hearsay—they must see, they must know, they must have convincing proof—the absolute "reason why". So the natural procedure is to investigate the cause behind the phenomenal sales of the Regal "20" Underslung Roadster, to discover why this car is positively outselling all others; why discriminating men in every State of the Union prefer it, why they "boost" it; also what these thousands of owners have done to create a "Public Confidence" which compels an ever growing army of prospective purchasers to decide that the Roadster they want and what's more they must have is the Regal Underslung "20." This is the evidence that you naturally desire—evidence that will definitely, convincingly reveal to you the cause which placed the Regal "20" upon the pinnacle of public favor and gave this car a national fame. Let us see:

SOME FEW YEARS AGO A NEW FORCE

sprang into existence, destined to revolutionize older methods of manufacture; to place the making and selling of automobiles upon a new plane, giving the expectant public a car which at that time was a miracle of quality and setting a standard of value that up to this moment has never been surpassed.

TO EVERY PERSON

connected with the Automobile Industry the name of the Regal Motor Car Company is synonymous with an achievement, whether acknowledged openly or not, that towered above all competition, all imitation; for the Regal Motor Car Company did first the "one thing" thought impossible, that was even ridiculed as an idle dream—it built and gave the world a standard "30" horse power Touring Car which in chassis essentials has never been surpassed, and at a price which destroyed forever the fetish that the automobile belonged exclusively to the so-called man of means. This was the first appeal to Public Confidence.

THEN CAME A CAR

that, figuratively speaking, turned the automobile world upside down. So revolutionary and startling in design and price that it seemed as if the impossible had happened. The Public had been led to believe that the limit had been reached in motor car design—of all types the conventional Roadster type seemed the most permanent, but once more the Regal Motor Car Company was to further emphasize the fact, that engineering design could be vastly improved and so was given to the world the Regal "20" Underslung Roadster, a car that literally leaped into public favor and so many were its advantages over rival cars that it immediately eliminated competition—All over the country it was enthusiastically received. It was eagerly bought—It fulfilled more promises than were made for it. When men tried to make comparisons with it they discovered no comparisons could possibly be made. It was at least a year in advance of all others. It is still ahead. Everywhere it compels attention. It is the one car that creates in people's minds the need of a car. It has made an overwhelming appeal to Public Confidence

WHAT DOES "UNDERSLUNG" MEAN?

First of all it means safety. It is an insurance against "turning turtle" the cause of 75% of all automobile accidents. This type of construction also practically eliminates skidding. You can drive it as fast as you like and it will stick to the road. The low center of gravity, the weight of motor, body and passengers being carried well within the wheels, gives this car an ease of suspension that is almost perfect. "Underslung" also means economy. Side-lash so wearing on tires and springs is reduced to a minimum. Then, again, it makes possible a straight line drive from motor to rear wheels, conserving power which in dollars and cents saves gasoline. "Underslung" means comfort. It's a new experience to travel in a Regal "20"—The roughest road is smoothed. There is none of the side-sway so noticeable in the old type of suspension—You can turn corners at speed with bewildering ease—Every line of this car exploits comfort. "Underslung" also means beauty. It's the car that impresses you. It's conspicuous in its appeal to good taste. The body being hung below the axles gives the car a distinct trim, that rakish, straight-away look you cannot find in any other automobile upon the market, and under that low, powerful body are 10 inches of clearance, as much as any other style of suspension.

AT $900 IT IS A SENSATIONAL CAR.

By all comparisons of value it is $1000 below any of its so-called competitors. Everywhere, wonder is expressed how we make such an advanced, beautiful car for such a price. But the same economies of manufacture and development of resources that produced the "Regal 30" Touring car for $1000 have been emphasized in the Regal "20" Underslung Roadster at $900. We anticipated a huge demand. We knew we possessed the Public's Confidence, but our greatest anticipations have been o'ershadowed in the tremendous sales of this car. Our huge plants are being tested to the uttermost to meet orders. Our reputation is built into every inch of every Regal "20," and the public has found it out. It's the biggest seller in the country, and that has a great deal to do with the price—$900.

SO PUBLIC CONFIDENCE HAS GROWN

All over this broad land owners are talking about their Regal "20" Underslung. When we say a national interest has been awakened we are truthfully declaring the actual fact. Every car sold has added its quota of enthusiasm to Public Opinion. Every man who owns one passes the "good thing" along to friend, neighbor and acquaintance. The price is compelling, but the performance of this car in actual service, its speed, power and endurance, its wearing and wonderful riding qualities, its beauty and mechanical distinction—these are some of the factors of its record-breaking success.

THE SEAL OF PUBLIC CONFIDENCE rests upon every Regal car that leaves our shipping platforms at Detroit. When you buy a Regal "20" Underslung Roadster you get with it the strongest guarantee ever placed upon an automobile, for Public Confidence has said and is saying that this car is not only a "good" car, but it is a car that has built into it more enthusiasm, more satisfaction than any other automobile ever offered for sale. The unanimous approval and recommendation of many thousand owners is no little argument. To please and enthuse a great army of individuals such as this, each with personal likes and dislikes is in itself a tremendous tribute to the workmanship and mechanical efficiency of the Regal "20" Underslung Roadster. But to say that any one of these owners (which you can pick at random anywhere in the country) will tell you that his Regal "20" Underslung has given him the highest service at the minimum cost of upkeep—this is a declaration of vital interest to every man who is trying to decide the pressing question—what car shall I buy?

HUNTERS SORE; DEER LAW BAD.

Southern Sportsmen Think They Are Unfairly Used.

Plenty of Doves on Hand if They Could be Shot.

Bucks Within Easy Range of Town on Malibu.

Among sportsmen of the sixth fish and game district generally, there is great dissatisfaction being expressed at the needlessly stringent dove and deer law which has been inflicted upon Southern California, which seems to have been slated by the late unlamented Legislature as grief-taker and giver-up extraordinary in the matter of sporting self-denial.

One other district in the State, the fourth, comprising the central San Joaquin Valley counties, has to stand the same dove season, opening September 1, but in many parts of this country, particularly the hilly sections, there will be considerable dove shooting in September, while in Southern California the flights are broken up by the middle of August, never affording more than about four weeks' shooting.

This breaking up of the flights follows the termination of the breeding time, the doves then tending to form flocks and return to the heights. They are a mountain bird as are all the Columbidae; come into the lower country only to rear their young, and that important work done, hie themselves hence again, and are to be seen in the upper country at intervals all winter, gathered into good-sized flocks and feeding on the hills.

What makes the situation particularly galling to Los Angeles and Southern California summer shooters, generally, is the knowledge that doves have been breeding freely this year, and appear to be in first-rate supply, there being rather more birds in evidence along many of the flights of last year than there were at a corresponding time before the opening of shooting on July 15, last.

All the advance indications would have promised excellent sport, and easy limits. The low bag-limits that have been in force the last few years have had enough deterrent effect upon the great majority of the sportsmen to constitute a very material factor in the preservation of the dove supply.

The opinion expressed by sportsmen who have the game interests at heart is that if the doves needed protection, the entire State should join in conceding a virtual closed season to them. Very few will go out in the legal time in Southern California, but a number have been heard to express other intentions, which is indefensible; for, however bad the law, it is the game law nevertheless; and if the sportsmen do not uphold it, who, then, will?

The proper thing is to grin and bear it, and lay wires to form a strong southern sportsmen's association, so as not to be caught napping and be slipped such a package as was handed Southern California in the game laws last winter—just because the southern legislators were not sportsmen themselves, and went to sleep at the switch.

Had Walter Leeds, Senator McCartney and some of the other stalwarts been on the job, things would have gone through differently, for these men realize that their territory is in the exporting, and not the importing branch of the lemon industry, although it was made to officiate as receiver-general for the choicest assortment of sporting season citrus fruit that ever dropped off the legislative tree.

As regards the deer, the Sixth District is alone in its grief, having one month open season from August 15 to September 15, while districts one and three have two and one-half months each, and two, four and five, two months each.

DEER HOLDING THEIR OWN.

The deer are holding their own very well in Southern California since the limit was reduced to two bucks, notwithstanding the extraordinary demand made upon them by the large number of those who hunt. The belief is growing current that the whole system of deer protection by legislation is of exaggerated importance in any event, inasmuch as the mountain lions respect neither season nor limit, and are unquestionably the worst menace that confronts the deer.

Inyo county is included in the Sixth District, although the conditions there are no different than in the Fourth District west of the range, or in Mono county north, which enjoy the longer season.

The consensus of opinion is that as many deer will be killed in Southern California under the existing arrangement, and probably more hunters hurt than usual, as the riflemen will be concentrated by the shortness of the season and the element of danger largely increased. If all the men visit the Malibu during the month that have averred intention of so doing, it will look like militia maneuvers at Pescadero, and sound like a sham battle from daylight to dark, with probably fatalities out of joint with either. When the number of 30-30's, "32" specials, .351 autoloaders, and even high-velocity military models like the Mausers, Springfield, Sauer and other bolt type guns which are so rapidly becoming popular, is considered, the danger possibilities loom up large. Indeed it will be a brave man—or a darned fool—who faces them for nothing more nearly worth while than a sack of jerked meat that is inferior to a nice fat veal prepared the same way. Gnash your teeth, ye ossified venison gnawers; the truth hurts, but it shames the devil!

From everywhere that deer have been plentiful enough to hunt in the last decade come very much the same reports—plenty of them in sight; the usual evidence of mountain lion and other verminous depredations, and an occasional expression that the hunters do more damage by staying home and leaving the lions alone than they would do to the buck crop by hiking the hills to the legal limit of deer killing.

The Malibu is full of deer this year; one Santa Monica sportsman claims to have seen forty in one week; possibly the same deer several times, but good evidence of game plenty nevertheless. As usual, does seem well represented on the Malibu.

In the northern part of the county, about Frazier Mountain, many hunt every year; so many in fact, that the Sire of Storms hardly lives up to his sporting reputation; but this season most of these will go across the Kern county line for their sport—or, more likely, take it where they used to do, knowing full well that there is precious little danger of being apprehended so close to the line unless they try to bring the meat into Los Angeles in the closed season.

Deer hunters are advised to swallow the pill, however bitter they think it, and make the best of a bad bargain; for no good will follow a wholesale flouting of the law. It is not long until August 15, and as the average hunter only makes one trip a year, he can arrange to take it then. The venison will be drier and more apt to be tough, and some will be shut out of their hunts, but not a large percentage. It will be interesting to compare the killing with that of last season. One does not always foresee just how a game law will work out, but it is hard to figure much good for the present deer law.

GOOD SPORT.

Sportsmen have begun to return from the trips taken into the Fourth District, and San Luis Obispo county, which is in the Fifth, and very few reported any scarcity of deer, although as usual, not all who hunted got their buck. Very good sport is reported east of Fresno and, in fact, all along the mountainous fringe which borders the San Joaquin Valley tier of counties on the Sierra Nevada side.

Deputy Fish Commissioner Andy Ferguson, in charge of the Fourth District, reports that although considerable depredations were discovered by his deputies during the winter, the work of wolves and lions, there is good sport to be had, although he thinks the law in the Fourth District a very bad one, particularly the dog clause, which virtually removes the restrictions from hounding deer, as it is next to impossible to get legal evidence that a man has been using a hound to track an unhurt buck. Although the deputy might be morally certain of it, convincing a country judge is often another matter.

Hounding never has been practiced in the South to the extent hunters have deemed dogs necessary in routing out and tracking deer in the heavier brush of the mountainous northern counties, where the ranges often are so steep that nothing short of four feet can negotiate them with any comfort. A properly broken deerhound works somewhat as a beagle does in following a rabbit, and brings the game back to the shooter.

Whether this is due to any other effort on the dog's part than merely following the animal and keeping it moving, aiding the natural instinct of the game to return in a wide circle to the place from which it started, or is really a manifestation of intelligence on the dog's part is a question much argued by hunters, although most veteran trackers incline to the former theory. It is known that rabbits when flushed, are very apt to be found near the same spots a few hours later, whether dogged or not, and while one never is sure it is the same rabbit, this seems probable from the proximity to the place of former flush.

Likewise, old deer hunters know a buck usually has some particular place where he "lies out," and is apt to be found there day after day until finally he has so tremendous a fright that he leaves that part of the country.

NEWSIES ENJOY SPIN TO BEACH.

HALLADAY MAN PROVIDES A NOVEL OUTING FOR LADS.

Rolling Coasters, Bump the Bumps, Chutes and Slides Are Busy Today as Vance's Guests Flirt With the Pleasures Along the Beach on the Venice Ocean Front.

Warren Vance has made good today as an entertainer for the newsboys. The Halladay man is enjoying an outing at the beach with two dozen youngsters and he has sent the Halladay cars on the run with the lads in order to show them a good time and give them a drive they will enjoy.

All the rolling coaster games, the merry-go-rounds, the bump-the-bumps and other amusements will be patronized today by the Halladay man who expects the lads to enjoy themselves to the limit: There is nothing Vance enjoys so much as a rousing good time with the boys who are selling The Times on the streets.

The Halladay "Thirty" is being shipped to the Coast in numbers. Vance's shipments are coming in carload lots. He has just received word that thirty of the machines have been sold in a batch to a firm in the East. He has wired for more cars and the machines are on the way.

The Halladay factory man is also on his way here. He should arrive this week. He will look over the local situation carefully and will then make his report. Vance wants more cars. He expects to make arrangements whereby he can get them twice as fast as they are coming now.

The plans for the coming season are not completed. Vance expects to push the Halladay "Thirty" but the forty and fifty horsepower cars are also hummers and have made good every minute. Vance will drive the fifty horsepower tourer on the long tour he proposes to take across country.

When he leaves for the East it is more than likely that the factory man will accompany him. The run will occupy several weeks and when he returns Vance will come back with a bunch of cars ready for a rousing campaign in the 1912 season.

Signs Are Posted and Turnpikes Are Ready for Westerners Who Visit the Maine Country Where Snows Are Piled High in Winter but Where Game Abounds.

From New York City to Waterbury leading through the Naugatuck Valley is one of the most popular tours for New York motorists this year. One of the official cars of the Touring Club of America recently made an extensive run our this route and also traversed many other routes leading out of Waterbury to New England touring centers. The touring club representative says the roads are the best ever, as a result of early improvements which have been made throughout this section.

Macadam roads are found for the first seven miles out of Waterbury. The next twelve miles along the most beautiful part of the Naugatuck River are in splendid condition. Going west to Danbury and New York from Waterbury, about twelve miles of State gravel road is in good condition. This road leads through Watertown and Southbury.

Going east from Waterbury, the first few miles are being repaired and the construction of a State road connecting with the Hartford, Springfield and Boston trunk line is in progress. About five miles of this road remains to be made to connect Waterbury with the system at Southington, part of which will be a macadam road down Southington Mountain.

Extensive road improvements are nearing completion on leaving Waterbury for the Berkshires.

The Aftermath.

NATIONAL VICTORY IN MOTOR DUEL SHOWS CLASS OF MEN AT RACE COURSE.

Boothe and Ruess Fight Fierce Road Battle With the National and Pope-Hartford—Both Drink from Same Loving Cup at Finish When the Smoke of the Battle Blows Away.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

WILD BILL RUESS has proved he is a real sport. He has been weighed in the balance and there is nothing wanted for him to tip the beam to a level with any other motor dealer now in the industry.

Many lessons were learned at Bakersfield. The crucial test of a motorist comes when he is forced to lose a big race he has counted on winning. Bill Ruess lost, but he won thousands of admirers who watched the race when the Pope-Hartford was in the lead of the big road race. Ruess went into the thick of the motor battle and fought a good fight. When the National raced away from the fast Pope-Hartford Bill was the first to congratulate Earle Y. Boothe.

Among those who pressed forward when the blue streak crossed the tape was Wild Bill and he grasped the hand of the National man so firmly that there was no doubt of his meaning. Ruess showed his class and showed it at the right time.

When the handsome Tevis trophy, the $1000 silver cup, was "lifted" from its place in the Hotel Southern lobby, Ruess was the first to start a rigid search for the prize. He was so aggressive that the cup was soon discovered and when a bond was necessary, Bill signed his name and Boothe has the cup.

HOW ABOUT THIS.

"Next time we race, let's have our camps together," was the proposition Ruess made to Boothe after the race was over.

"Bill Ruess helped me to manage my racing campaign," said Boothe after the battle was over. "I don't know what I would have done without the advice he gave me."

This is a new departure in the racing game. Two men, with the two fastest cars on the course hob nobbing together and fighting the battle to a finish and then both drinking from the same loving cup.

All this happened in Bakersfield. Ruess helped Boothe to manage his race. Boothe gave a banquet after the fierce motor duel was over, Ruess was the first to drink a toast to the National from the Tevis cup filled to the brim with champagne Boothe had bought.

When the dust of the duel had blown away, and the National had won that dangerous race, Boothe and Ruess rode back to town together and the aftermath came when Ruess secured the cup for his rival.

How about Harvey Herrick? Well a new racing driver has been discovered. When Herrick started in the big car race, he was a problem. Bert Dingley, on the Pope, was the favorite. Such a favorate that practically every bet made was the field against the Pope.

TABLES TURNED.

Let Herrick race with Dingley again and the tables will be turned. Instead of Dingley being the favorite Herrick will be a two to one favorite over the Pope driver.

How did Herrick win?

I'll tell you.

Dingley was outdriven by the National pilot.

How do I know?

Well, you who saw the race will remember that first turn, who went into it the fastest? I'll answer. It was Harvey Herrick on the National.

Never were two cars more evenly matched than the Pope-Hartford and the National. It was a fight to a finish and Dingley lost.

Dingley has risen rapidly and his best winnings have been made on the Pope-Hartford. He is still a top-notcher, but Harvey Herrick has won a decision over him, that has proved that the little National man has the Pope-Hartford man's exact number.

Herrick's work on the dangerous China grade won him merited honors. Here again he trimmed Dingley, and took a risk the Pope driver dared rick is just a little more reckless. not take. Dingley is nervy, but Herrick is just a little more reckless. That's why he won.

Louis Nickrent is another driver who made good, and who is a comer. His work at Bakersfield with the Buick ranks him with the best thirty-horse-power car drivers in the game. Whenever Nickrent starts he will finish in the money, if his car is not wrecked. One of the features of the race was the plucky little wife of the Buick man, who cheered her husband on to a victory, which was worth $500 and a trophy.

BUICK THERE.

Frank Howard showed he has the right spirit by working in the Buick pit with sleeves rolled up and with beads of perspiration pouring off his face. He helped the Buick to win and won many friends for his car as the speedy car tore off mile after mile at a fast clip.

Frank Siefert came back right. He finished in the money and his Mercer showed what it will do in a big race. There was one exciting moment, when Siefert looked like a second money man, but it was only a flash in the pan. Frank went out to win third place, and made good.

Over in the Mercer pit O. W. Force handled his race right. He handed out the oil, was ready with tires, and gave good advice. Force has learned the ropes and was a consistent winner at Bakersfield.

National Here Again.

HERRICK HOME WITH BLUE RACER AFTER NERVY FIGHT WITH SPEFDY CAR.

HARVEY HERRICK and the National, with which he won the Bakersfield road race, have returned and the sturdy car will be on exhibition all this week at the National Motor Car Company. The Tevis Cup, which the National won, is also being shown.

Herrick will rest up this week after his strenuous time in Bakersfield, and will be on hand to tell about his fast race over the severest course motor cars have ever been asked to compete on the Coast.

The National is none the worse for its hard journey and many enthusiasts in Bakersfield were given a ride in the wonderful racing machine.

Earle Y. Boothe and Robert Stanton are naturally elated over the success of the car and consider it one of the greatest victories ever scored in the West. It was also a popular win in Bakersfield, as Herrick had won the admiration of the people by his modesty both before and after the race. He went there quietly with his blue car, stabled it in an obscure garage, and made no preliminary noise. Every morning at 4 o'clock he was on the course trying out. Harvey did not leave the hotel like other contestants. he was there and ready to start when the time arrived.

Little was known about the time Herrick was making in the trials. He was foxy, and try as they did, his competitors did not know what he could do. His system was to time himself between certain points for about half the course and then loaf the remainder. On the next round he would catch his time between the points where he loafed before. He had his race mapped out to a nicety. When it became apparent that he would win without an effort he was slowed down and took the last four laps at an easy pace. Being twenty minutes ahead of the second car gave him worlds of time and he took advantage of this advantage.

This win at Bakersfield is certain to make Herrick and the National favorites in the Phoenix race. Herrick has been over the course, and while he knows the road he will probably make one trial trip with the National, to see how the car acts in the deep sand. The National has unlimited speed and will be a contender for the intercity prizes. The run to San Diego should be a hair-raiser.

Manager Boothe of the National agency also announced last week that they would not rest on their laurels, but would start the National in every race of any importance held on the Coast this season.

After Cole Record.

ADAIR ON THE MEND AFTER HIS STRENUOUS RUN IN CADILLAC RACER.

GEORGE ADAIR, who was injured when the Cadillac record breaker leaped over a thirty-foot embankment last Sunday, was moved to Los Angeles Saturday and is doing nicely. The three ribs which were broken close to the spine have been set and the breaks are healing as well as could be expected.

Rudolph Jankowsky, the mechanic who was riding with Adair, is back on the job again. He was badly bruised but no bones were broken. His escape was miraculous.

The car turned over four times and rolled down a thirty-foot embankment, but despite this experience it was repaired by two salesmen who went down from Los Angeles and that same afternoon was driven back to Los Angeles on its own power and was on the streets Monday morning.

The accident occurred on the turn about a mile outside of Oceanside. Adair was ahead of his own record and tried to take the turn too fast. W. M. Bramlett, who was with Adair when he established the record to San Diego, was anxious to take the car and go after the round-trip record the next day but it was decided to await Don Lee's return.

Adair was trying to smash the round-trip record of the Cole "Thirty" when the Cadillac turned turtle. The Cole made the run to San Diego and back in 8h., 36m., the fastest time ever made, and Adair was flying along at terrific speed in his effort to cut down the Cole's time.

HANDBALL ARTISTS TO HOLD TOURNEY.

The Los Angeles Athletic Club is preparing to run off the biggest handball tournament it has ever held this month. The players have been divided into four classes—championship, A, B and C—so that the less proficient men will not be required to meet the fast boys. In each division a championship cup will be offered.

The tourney is to open July 20 and the entry list is to close Saturday. It is expected that under the new arrangement many members who know a little about the game but have been reluctant to mix with the topnotchers will put on their togs and get busy. Almost any able-bodied man is good enough for Class C.

No Rim Cutting

The No-Rim-Cut Tire

The cuts show at a glance why Goodyear No-Rim-Cut Tires get rid of Rim Cutting. Rim-cutting ruins more automobile tires than any other one cause.

Instead of the flanges being slipped on the rim with the hook turned in and against the side of the tire, the flange is reversed—the Hook turns out. So in case of puncture or under-inflation the tire, instead of being gouged by this hook, presses against a smooth curved surface and will run for miles without a suggestion of rim-cutting.

In No-Rim-Cut Tires the use of flat tapes of 126 braided piano wires do away with hooks. These 126 braided wires are imbedded in the tire base. When the tire is inflated it contracts on the rim with a pressure of 134 pounds to the square inch.

No tire bolts are needed on No-Rim-Cut Tires. These braided piano wires take their place, hold the tire on so it can neither slip, creep nor give in the slightest. We positively guarantee it.

In an effort to secure a non-stretchable base, some tire makers have used a single wire, others a hard rubber base. But the flat braided wire method has proved the only successful method. It is patented by us.

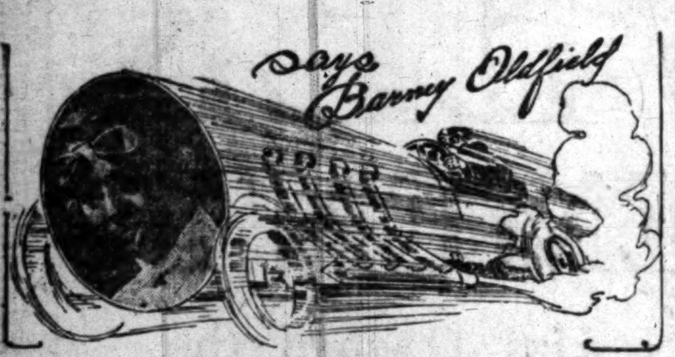
RACING GAME IS BEING REVIVED AND PUBLIC TAKES KEEN INTEREST.



[Copyright, 1911, by Barney Oldfield.]

BY FAR the most remarkable achievement ever recorded in the history of automobile racing was the performance, a few days ago, of an Italian driver named Bordino, who drove a European car 116 miles in one hour, over an English beach.

Bordino's fae never reached this country before his great drive, and I have yet to meet any of the well-posted men of the racing game who know anything of his gasoline pedigree. But we are certain to hear of him soon and often, for the record is one that is remarkable in all respect. The one and two-mile dashes of our highly anointed and often crowned "speed kings" at a speed of 140 miles an hour, pales when compared to the sustained speed of the Italian.

Bordino drove over a ten-mile course, which necessitated eleven or twelve turns around a flag, and in consequence he must have been averaging 130 miles an hour at all times when he was at speed.

A car capable of such a continuous gait surely can be expected to show a single mile or kilometer, on our own Daytona, Florida beach, in twenty-four seconds, a speed of 150 miles an hour. I hear that Bordino and the car, which is of 300 horse power, will soon come to this country to demonstrate his prowess.

By way of illustration, the greatest number of miles previously made in an hour, was the record of S. F. Edge, when, in 1907, he covered ninety miles an hour on the Brooklands, Eng., speedway, during his twenty-four-hour record drive. To my way of thinking, this makes the triumph of the motor car over other methods of locomotion, absolutely complete.

At times the fastest performance of the automobile was eclipsed by steam and electrically propelled trains, but Bordino's sustained speed for one hour makes the other performances look cheap.

Among well-posted automobilists there is no question as to the authenticity of the record. In Europe, and especially in England, they have a way of keeping down publicity stunts, which would never make a hit in America.

Speed fans are eagerly awaiting the arrival of the Italian and his great car.

Two drivers and one mechanic killed within three days on the Brighton Beach "Motordrome," incidental to the professionally promoted Fourth of July "speed carnival" should prove the last barrier to the refusal of the association in control of the "sport" to prohibit automobile racing on circular horse tracks.

Fred Robinson, and E. H. Frey were the two unfortunate drivers, and Theo Taylor, the ill-fated mechanic. All were killed in separate accidents. The name "Motordrome" as applied to the Brighton Beach track is a misnomer, for aside from removing the inside fence and spreading a thin layer of concrete for a few hundred feet on a portion of the turns, the track is nothing better than what it was for years, a dangerously shaped horse track.

Only two circular track meets have been run without fatalities, or broken bones, since the season opened, and it is hardly possible that the Manufacturers' Contest Committee will hesitate further to order a halt.

One leading manufacturer is out with a statement that his concern will not participate in another circular track meet. This maker has been the main support of most of the twenty-four-hour races run at Brighton Beach for the past three years and knows the sport from every angle. It is also announced that the circular track sanction matter will be the chief topic of discussion when the Manufacturers' Contest Committee meets in August.

But the curse of the sport is the small clique of professional officials and promoters who always manage to get a hearing "by invitation" to these meetings and put up a strong fight against the enactment of measures calculated to spoil their "graft."

The manufacturers have been led to think and some of them really believe that the life of the sport governing body is dependent upon the fees received for sanctioning track racing and the profits of a big tour each year. Nothing is further from the truth. The fact is that the racing end of the association eats up a huge slice of the money received as dues from motorists all over the countrry. Racing as it is licensed and conducted is the appendix of the sport and should be amputated at once.

With the Grand Prize, Vanderbilt Cup, Fairmont Park (Philadelphia,) Elgin National (Chicago,) Santa Monica (Los Angeles,) Panama-Pacific, formerly the "Portola," (San Francisco,) one or two meets each year on the four speedways situated in widely separated sections of the country, there are certainly more than enough events to keep the manufacturers and drivers busy, and victories sufficient to give the publicity managers all sorts of opportunities for boosting their cars.

Why then, should a few professional promoters be allowed to schedule semi-weekly "meets" in which their own stable of cars compete against a few locally owned cars in the different cities visited? I know three or four promoters who figure on drawing their crowds almost entirely through making advertising capital out of the chances of accident and smash-ups. This may sound grewsome, but it is the truth.

I know that they are elated to see the ambulance get a call to attend a driver who has smashed through the fence. A fatal accident the first day of a meet will draw thousands of dollars in the gate the second day. At these "meets" a "world's record" is always announced. It may be for the fastest mile ever driven on a cloudy Thursday, or "the record" for a mile track by a driver with two fingers in a bandage. But they always break "records."

The manufacturer who spends good money to win races that are real races shoudl wake up and realize that these barnstorming brigades can do nothing but reflect discredit on the sport.

There is but one criticism on the plans of the Savannah Automobile Club to conduct the grand prize and Vanderbilt Cup races over their famous course in November. From the manufacturer's and driver's view-points the events come too close together for either to obtain the best results and reap the fruits of so rich a victory as should reward the winner of either race. The Vanderbilt is to be run three days before the grand prize, which is scheduled for Thanksgiving Day.

For those who are entered in both events, whether with the same cars or not, there is not sufficient time to prepare for the grand prize after the Vanderbilt. No driver or factory mechanics can ever do two things well at one time. Concentration and intensity of purpose are great factors in winning an automobile race.

Herr Robert Frey,

German aviator who was seriously injured in the Paris to Rome-Turin race.

The drivers and their helpers must either be thinking of one race or the other, for they will have an entirely different set of cars and drivers to figure against. With work, hope and enthusiasm divided between two events, proper preparation for one or both will be lacking. The publicity and advertising which means so much to the maker of the winning Vanderbilt Cup car will be almost entirely overshadowed by the advertising and publicity of the grand prize winner.

The public will know of the Vanderbilt winner but two or three short days, and then it will all be the grand prize hero. If the Vanderbilt winner does receive any glory after the finish of the more important event, it will be done at the expense of the grand prize car. What is the need of a Vanderbilt race anyhow? It has degenerated from a famous free-for-all event with prestige galore to the winner, to a stripped chassis event. Many claim it is being perpetuated simply to cater to the donor of the trophy, who has been most helpful and friendly in years gone by to the crowd now in control of racing.

But this has nothing to do with the Savannah Club. Down in that old town is to be found the best bunch of sports in the world. Good luck to them.

Ever since the dawn of the automobile era when the single-cylinder car owner honked his horn to warn the driver of horse-drawn vehicles to pull over near the ditch and let him have two-thirds of the road, an unfriendly feeling for the automobilist has rankled in the breast of the horse owner. This is one reason why so many measures favorable to motorists fail to pass City Councils, County Commissioners and Legislatures, and why some laws curbing the absolute rights of automobilists are passed.

Last week the horsemen scored a victory, probably the first real fight they have won in a long time, but the rout of the gasoline fellows was complete. The Illinois State Fair board, which controls the biggest fair in the whole country, voted against permitting an automobile race day at the fair this season.

The objections of the horsemen to the use of the track by the racing cars was the reason assigned. Last year the largest crowds attracted to the Minnesota, New York, Texas and Illinois State fairs were drawn on automobile days. Ten thousand dollars was appropriated for prizes at the Illinois fair last season and the motorists began to talk of the relegation of the trotting horse.

Now the gasoline speeders have been told that if they want to race they must have a special track built for them. The killing of a prominent Illinois citizen in a racing car last year probably had a lot to do with the decision of the officials.

The Chicago motoring organization which is pulling off the Elgin national road race during the latter part of August is up in arms on account of an announcement of the promoters of the Indianapolis Speedway to the effect that a big race with $8700 in prizes and a percentage of the gate receipts will be held in the Hoosier capital on Labor Day.

The Chicagoans have spent much money to provide a fine course for the Elgin event, and are loth to have another city cut in on their plans. Such a race as is proposed for Indianapolis would undoubtedly kill the entry list of the Elgin affair. But I believe I will lay my loose change on the chance of Indianapolis being granted a sanction for their meet, even over the strenuous protest of Chicago.

It is true that sportsmanship should always rank above commercialism in the "dope" book. But the fellow who has a million dollars tied up in a speedway and made a profit of $100,000 out of a single meet in the spring is most likely to win out in any battle against the Michigan bank roll of "true sportsmanship."

The failure of the Glidden Tour to fill this year and its consequent "indefinite" postponement should not cause motoring organizations to believe that tours have ceased to attract the manufacturer or owner. Politics and selfish motives killed the Glidden. But the smaller tours have filled this season better than ever.

Promoters of these tours should avoid the adoption of rules that contain a lot of heavy technicalities and instead of allowing some technical fanatic to draw up a set of conditions that impose many inconveniences and hardships on the entrants, things should be made as pleasant as possible for the members of the touring party.

A radical departure from the high-fee sanctioned tour, is the Indiana Four States tour, which starts from Indianapolis July 12 and continues for several days. Notwthstanding the threat of suspension for the entrants, the manufacturers and dealers organizing the tour declared they would not pay the excessive sanction fee, and it will be conducted under a special set of rules.

The promoters of tours not run for profit should get a few pointers from the Indianapolis men, who, I am sure will be glad to help any club with their advice and experience. In arranging tours the most important matter is the selection of good roads all the way. Never lure a contented motorist away from home on a trip over "rarebit fiend" roads.

Never laugh at the discomfiture of the fellow driving a horse and rig along the road who nearly is upset when the animal becomes frightened at your car. Give even the "road hog" a little more than his share of the road when you pass him.

Some day the rural citizen will come to believe that the automobilist is probably a pretty decent sort of a fellow. Then the motorist will get more "rights" than he will ever get until he gains the friendship of the rural voter who sometimes has something to say about making laws.

Don't be afraid to let the sun strike your head when you are driving. While it might not prove pleasant to sit still in the sun, yet if spinning along at a good gait the breeze will counteract any uncomfortable effect of the heat.

But the hair will derive great benefit from the sun-bath. Just toss your cap in the seat and let your head breathe. It is far better than the crude oil shampoo the barbers are boosting so industriously these days.

When you get a bill from your garage man or owner of the agency from which you bought your car, and find everything from a new mainspring to a velvet finish charged for at regular union rates, don't hope to get satisfaction by writing the manufacturer who built your car.

I had great faith in the service claims of one concern, famed for the care its agents are supposed to be forced to take of their customers. But this was dissipated not long ago when I advised a friend in San Francisco to send to the factory the itemized bill he thought was exorbitant.

The factory not only had a complete alibi for each of the excessive charges but found that their agent had charged only $2.40 a gallon for some of their own special oil which listed for $2.60.

The oil was probably 85 cents at a place where they did not handle the "square guy" car. Pay any bill the garage man hands you and be thankful to escape with your life.

P. H. Greer is back from the factory. He is sure the 1912 Mitchell is the greatest car on earth. It sounds good to hear him talk.

[illegible] has become of the welter[illegible] division? Why is it [illegible] promoters of the country [illegible] with favor on the 142-[illegible] division, despite the fact that [illegible] as many boys around this [illegible] of putting up high-class [illegible] as in any other [illegible] the lightweight?

[illegible] years ago, such men as Joe [illegible] Jimmy Gardner, Harry [illegible] Honey Melody and Mysterious [illegible] were attracting as much [illegible] as the 133-pounders and [illegible]. Today the welter[illegible] question is seldom broached [illegible] of staging a champion[illegible] battle is almost be[illegible].

[illegible] Clabby gained some recogni[illegible] the welterweight division, but [illegible] the Middle West. In New [illegible] and on the Coast [illegible] is paid to this division [illegible] And why shouldn't 142 [illegible] be just as popular as 133 [illegible] There are just as many [illegible] more men capable [illegible] around this mark than at [illegible] But the promoter [illegible] of considering the [illegible] if he can get lightweights, [illegible] a legitimate welterweight [illegible] who could enter the ring at [illegible] pounds, is forced to [illegible] pounds to get anything [illegible].

[illegible] is a good, tough boy with [illegible] of a fighter but the [illegible] is fast and capable of go[illegible] distance without tiring, [illegible] via a knockout, [illegible] the wallop. He [illegible] often enough, [illegible].

[illegible] some promoter [illegible] Clabby and [illegible], who only recently [illegible] prominence in the Mid[illegible]. Gibbons is another fighter [illegible] but a wallop. He [illegible] game and scientific and [illegible] a long ways. I [illegible] fight between these [illegible] would make one of the [illegible] ever staged.

[illegible] none too anxious to meet [illegible] and when matters became [illegible] that it looked as though [illegible] have to consent to a bat[illegible] announced that he would [illegible] for Paris, where he had been [illegible] a fight with Moreau for the [illegible] championship.

[illegible] has been added to the [illegible] closed cities in the fighting [illegible] because a greedy promoter [illegible] a big bout and then, after [illegible] all the fans he could [illegible] he announced that one [illegible] could not take part, [illegible] a capable substitute had [illegible]. No money was re[illegible], of course, a roar went [illegible] could be heard all over the [illegible] especially where the au[illegible] were wont to congregate. [illegible] was clapped on and now [illegible] are bemoaning the fate of the game and roasting the officials who clamped the cover down. And who was to blame?

It doesn't matter how good a substitute is, he can rarely fill the shoes of the man advertised. The public go to see one thing and if a change is made in the programme then there is bound to be dissatisfaction.

The Los Angeles fight fans do not appreciate the way the game is run under the supervision of Uncle Tom McCarey. Unfortunate things have happened but no one can lay anything to the door of McCarey; he always looks at a situation from the spectator's standpoint. I have talked to him many a time and I have always found him determined to sacrifice his own personal aims and his pocketbook to give what he says he will or to make good with the people who support him.

In other parts of the country the fight promoters are as a rule not to be compared with any of the men at the head of clubs on the Pacific Coast.

If I were asked to place all the men now in the business of staging fights in this country I should certainly put Jimmy Coffroth and Uncle Tom McCarey at the head of the list.

George Memsic will have trouble making any kind of a match in the Middle West and East. The promoters have determined to make an example of him and in three cases where he had been announced as one of the principals in a fight show the deals fell through because he pulled off the hold-up stunt in Los Angeles.

While there is no understanding yet between the clubs of the country sooner or later there is bound to be a central controlling body in which all the promoters will entrust their interests. It may take some time to develop such a system but it is coming and then a fighter who fails to make good his end of a contract will be ostracised.

Funny Ireland cannot produce a fighter capable of winning recognition. More "blossoms" have come out of the Emerald Isle than any other country and still the Irish bear a reputation second to none for impromptu mixing.

Some time ago the papers on the other side of the pond announced that Jim Maher had whipped everything in Ireland and was coming to America to clean up the crop of middleweights. He looked as good as any fighter that ever dropped in on us and he was given a chance at once. Sailor Burke had made a pretty good trial horse for others and of course he was picked out as the stumbling block for the newly arrived phenomenon.

Like Peter Maher of old, once contender for the heavyweight honors of the world, Jim Maher had a weak chin and the first time he was hit on the point of it he dropped and took the ten count.

Can it be possible that the jaw of a native born Irishman is more sensitive than that of an Italian or an Englishman? Certainly, would seem so from what has happened to the representatives of the Emerald Isle.

SOUTHERN YACHTING NOTES.

[illegible] HYNES, who recently [illegible] the fast sloop, Mischief [illegible] Walter Folsom, is greatly [illegible] the craft and her speed. [illegible] of the oldest and best-[illegible] members of the South Coast [illegible] and has been away from [illegible] for some time. It was not [illegible], and he and Mrs. [illegible] accompanied by Harry Cham[illegible] the boat across the chan[illegible] the week and will re[illegible] pretty often.

[illegible] comfortable yawl, [illegible] shows surprising speed at [illegible] while crossing the channel [illegible] on Tuesday, it took the [illegible] a long time to show the [illegible] a clean pair of heels. It [illegible] weather, a fine wester[illegible] the spray over her bow oc[illegible]. The Minerva has a rec[illegible] making more trips to Avalon [illegible] the past year and a half than [illegible] in the fleet.

[illegible] from San Diego are to the [illegible] quite a fleet will leave that [illegible] morning to come up for the [illegible] at Long Beach. The [illegible] and Avalon, sailed by John [illegible] and Frank Wyatt, respectively, [illegible] on the job. Commodore [illegible] of the San Diego Club will [illegible] in his power boat. Dr. [illegible] with the Trilby, of the Junior Club, is also expected to sail [illegible] his long boat.

[illegible] Folsom stated several days [illegible] he would build a forty-five [illegible] before the end of the year [illegible] will be the last thing in [illegible]. Charlie said he was out of [illegible] after he sold the Siwash to [illegible] Wright, but he just simply [illegible] on shore when the rest of [illegible] takes to the water.

[illegible] Aloha, owned by Mrs. [illegible] and kept opposite her cot[illegible] Wilmington, was out for a [illegible] the first of the week with a large party aboard. This boat, which has figured so extensively in the troubles of Frank Bell, the former owner, looked shipshape and handsome. She has been thoroughly scrapped and overhauled and is quite different from the craft which came back from Mexico all weather-stained and dirty.

The Banning yacht Campangro, is being used this season more than she has ever been used before. Every day the handsome steamer runs either to the Isthmus or across the channel, carrying some of the company officials and their friends. The big boat, like the huge schooner Skidbladnir, is a member of the South Coast Yacht Club, which is estimated to harbor the largest fleet of yachts on the Pacific Coast.

One of the chief troubles the yachtsman finds in running over to Avalon for a cruise is the difficulty of finding a suitable landing for his small boat. The public wharf, twelve feet out of the water, or the wharf of the oil company are the only two places it is possible to land. It is a wonder some move is not made toward putting up a wharf for the convenience of yachting parties, as the latter are always a welcome adjunct to the social life of the place.

Morgan Adams had his big sloop Mah-pe on the ways at Wilmington during the week, giving the boat and her rigging a thorough overhauling. She is now in fine trim for racing and is expected to keep up her winning streak. She has won every event in which she has entered this year. Morgan has selected a uniform sweater and cap for his Corinthians and they initiated them at Avalon during the Fourth. They are composed of a red sweater, red cap and white knob on top. Across the chest in white letters six inches high is the name of the boat. All the ladies at Avalon went into raptures over the handsome appearance of the bunch. Arden Day and Tim Horan were simply killing, whatever that means. There is no use talking, the "Mop" bunch comprises the Corinthians who enjoy living.

During the next two weeks there will be numerous parties of South Coast yachtsmen making trips to different parts of Catalina. Quite a number have picked out Johnson's Landing and Dimmick's for their holidays, away from civilization, where they can fish and fool around like real people. With tents on shore and the boat safely moored, plenty of grub and a few boon companions, the days pass rapidly and the nights sound melancholy to the sound of the mandolin and the guitar.

There should be a sign placed on the end of the San Pedro breakwater, explaining that the end is not the end. Whoever built the thing extended it some distance out under water and the lighthouse was placed back about one hundred yards. Quite a number of boats, not seeing why the light should not be on the extreme end of the rocks, have come within an ace of being smashed up. Several sailboats carry scars, showing a close acquaintance with the reef.

Walter Horn, who has sailed the Diana for a couple of seasons, has returned from Seattle, having been an inmate of the University of Washington. He declares that the yachting game is going ahead up in Puget Sound like wildfire and that there are at least half a dozen boats which will be entered in the next Honolulu race. He says the Gwendolyn may not make the trip, but that there are several new yawls and schooners anxious to try conclusions with the yachts of Southern California.

GOSSIP OF GASOLINE ROW.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

Waller Chanslor is the real baseball fan. He attends every game, but has quit betting on the Angels.

Did you attend the Bakersfield road race? Well, if you didn't, you missed a jolly good time and several banquets.

George Purdy Bullard has slipped one over again. The father of the Phoenix road race has the habit of winning straight heats.

H. O. Harrison was with us last week. This is to be the Peerless year and the line is a hummer. Harry always makes good at the right time.

Let's bury the hatchet. No use fighting. Let's be good fellows and play the game right. Wild Bill Ruess has taught me a lesson. Hope I will remember it a long time.

Which course will be followed on the run to Phoenix. Why, that is easy. The route mapped out by G. Pathfinder Bullard is the course the racers will take.

President H. H. West of the Western Rubber & Supply Company spent the Fourth at Catalina, where he hooked a number of husky, young yellowtail. West is some fisherman, he says so himself.

P. J. Walker, A.A.A. representative from San Francisco, is a prince. We all like him and he proved his worth at Bakersfield. He was up on the bit every second and was ready to boost all the time.

This is to be the greatest year in the history of the automobile industry. Of course it will be great for small cars, but watch the high-priced machines. Look at those advance orders. Great? Well, I should say yes.

Nat Gibson, superintendent of the Coleman & Bentel plant, was painfully injured in the eyes last week by an exploding pipe. At first it was thought that he would lose sight of both eyes, but the doctors now expect to save them.

The State of New York recently made a purchase of a model M, fore-door Pullman touring car to be used by the State Engineering Department. The purchase of this car follows closely upon that by Chief Cole of the United States Reclamation Service, for use in the work of that department in opening up the Truckee-Carson project in Nevada. Both cars are now in active service.

The Western Rubber & Supply Company are now Southern California distributors for the famous Sharp spark plug. A large shipment was received last week, and supplies are being sent out to many subagencies. The Sharp is a well-known plug and has numerous features which recommend it. It has a chamber in which gas is forced, and when the explosion takes place the fire is shot into the cylinder. It gives more power than the ordinary plug and will not soot or miss fire.

Where is H. O. Vogel and where is the Chanslor & Lyon cup emblematic of the San Diego round-trip record? The Cadillac established a new record for the run, but Don Lee never so much as had the pleasure of seeing the cup. A week later the Cole turned the trick, but the Grundy-Young company is still waiting. Chanslor & Lyon recognized the claims of both cars and were willing to present the cup, but neither Vogel nor the cup could be located. Tis said Vogel secured the cup when the Great Western got the record, but, as it has been twice beaten, it is up to him to kick in with said trophy before a few search warrants are secured.

Commenting upon the wealth and fertility of Arizona (after it has been irrigated,) Dr. Charles G. Percival, who is with the Abbott-Detroit "Bulldog" on its 100,000-mile tour, tells the following story which he claims is absolutely true. Says Dr. Percival: "Arizona is rich, but soon will be more wealthy, as it is only a question of time when the leading phonograph companies will be using the needles of the thorny cactus as phonograph needles. These cactus needles are better than ones made of metal, as they give a softer and more pleasing sound, and will last much longer. According to Dr. Percival, this proves that every sort of growth, vegetables or animal there is, has been capitalized up to date, except the hookworm, and that this cannot be done until the State Legislature of Texas passes an act authorizing the same.

BOWLING

With matches on the Venice and Majestic alleys, the Southern California League came to an end Friday evening. The Venice team took three by default from the Ship Cafes, while the College Inns dropped one to the Woodill-Hulse, the latter team showing up with but three men. Meyers, Roop and Ohlsen of the Woodill-Hulse team deserve a world of credit for the game fight they put up against the College Inns who had their full team of five men.

By losing this game the Inns slipped back to a tie with the Brenwoods of Pasadena for third place. This tie will be rolled off one day this week, and as there is a lot of friendly rivalry between the two teams, this match should be an intensely interesting one. The other teams in the league finished in the order shown below:

Team—	Played.	Won.	Lost.	P.c.
Venice	78	54	24	.692
New Bachelors	78	52	26	.666
College Inns	78	51	27	.654
Brentwoods	78	51	27	.654
Orpheums	78	50	28	.641
Grands	78	48	30	.616
L. A. Limited	78	48	30	.616
Cedar Brooks	78	46	32	.589
Woodill-Hulse	78	37	41	.474
Old Quakers	78	28	50	.359
Eagles	78	24	54	.308
Ship Cafes	78	19	59	.243
Harding Colts	78	13	65	.166
Bimini Baths	78	2	76	.025

This week's play in the Interurban League finds the Scott Bros. and Benge Bros. still fighting it out for first place. Since the very opening of the tournament these two teams have played a see-saw race for the leadership. The Scotts are in front by the small margin of one game. For a time the Venice Cubs were serious contenders, but a slump has now put them temporarily out of the running. However, these boys again have their eyes on the head pin and with a little bowling luck should soon be on even terms with the leaders. Team standings up to and including Thursday night follow:

Team—	Played.	Won.	Lost.	P.c.
Scott Bros.	54	44	10	.815
Benge Bros.	54	43	11	.796
Venice Cubs	48	35	13	.729
Fanjoys	51	31	20	.608
Wells-Fargo	51	30	21	.588
Pacific Sash and Door Co.	51	28	23	.549
Rovers	54	26	28	.481
Beavers	44	20	24	.455
Tampa Jacks	48	18	30	.375
Jones Candy Kids	51	19	32	.372
Excelsior Autocycles	48	15	33	.313
Nuvida	48	11	37	.229
L. A. Motor Club	45	6	39	.133

The Scott Bros. team is entitled to just a little more credit for the position they have in the Interurban League from the fact that to date they have had no forfeited game given them by other teams, but have bowled every scheduled game. These boys are a loyal bunch, too, as in every match the team has been represented by a full quota of five men. They have never shot an "allowance" man. Their position at the head of the Interurban League demonstrates fully how they have bowled and "pulled" together.

Capt. Bunn, of the Los Angeles Limited team, left Saturday morning for the Yosemite Valley, where he will spend a month's vacation among the big trees. His team tied the Grands for sixth place in the Southern California League, and if the two teams roll off the tie the Limiteds will have to get along without Bunn's services.

Some large "doings" are scheduled for Platt's Pasadena alleys Monday afternoon at 3:30 when the "Old Vets" of Pasadena and the "Half Century" Stars of Los Angeles take the drives to settle the much-discussed question of supremacy in the ten-pin game of these two teams. Dole, Giddings and Kleinbeck will defend Pasadena honors, while Geo. Smith, Bowron and Dr. Hockett will represent Los Angeles. The striking feature of this match is the fact all of the men have passed their fiftieth birthdays. "Dad" Dole leads the bunch in point of years, being 68 his last birthday. Geo. Smith is the "kid" of the bunch, having passed 51 summers.

Tuesday night the Pasadena alleys will claim the attention of the small ball bowling bugs, as an all-star jimjohn match has been scheduled for that date between teams representing th Crown and Angel cities. Some of the best small ball artists in this neck of the woods will participate in this event, and there is much rivalry between the teams. Many Los Angeles bugs will accompany their favorites to the Crown City, and Wednesday morning a few pocketbooks may present a sad appearance.

The go-as-you-please jimjohn tournament which closed at the Grand alleys last week, was won by Taylor and Williams, who knocked down 774 of the diminutive maples. Dr. Holladay and Blattner carted away second money, with a total of 742, while Taylor and McNally took third money with 727. Taylor also won high single prize by rolling 144, and tied Blattner for high three game total with 388, and just to make the victory complete, Cy took away the $5 for the bowler who participated in the most games during the tournament. The tournament was a pronounced success in every particular, and the small bowlers are waiting for Manager Reed to start another.

Capt. Ballinger of the Scott Bros. team in the Interurban League has been slightly under the weather during the past week, but was able to be on hand and keep score Thursday night at the Grand alleys, and incidentally see his team mates wallop the Los Angeles Motorcycles three straight games. It was a "wallop" all right, as the "Highlanders" beat the "chug wagon" stars just 203 pins in the second game.

Whoever reported the Ship Cafes were foundered on the rocks at Venice was evidently misinformed, as the seagoing lads showed up Thursday night at the Grand alleys with the avowed intention of taking a few games from the New Bachelors. The latter team, however, thoroughly demonstrated to the sailors that the best of intentions ofttimes go astray; or, in other words, the Bachelors succeeded in completely scuttling the old hulk and it will probably remain at the bottom for all time.

GOTHAM STIRRED UP OVER WOLGAST FIGHT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 6.—Local boxing fans are still discussing the Moran-Wolgast fight of Tuesday. A majority had believed that Moran, with his superior skill, could stand off the champion for the twenty rounds of the contest and the Briton's overwhelming and comparatively speedy defeat was somewhat of a surprise.

Danny Morgan, the manager of "Knockout" Brown, was not at all daunted by the outcome. He still believes his charge can whip Wolgast, and is ready to have him try it. He says:

"I am right after Wolgast and although we cannot arrange a bout now, we shall certainly get him in the fall or next winter. Any time will do me. Brown can lick him now, but a little more experience will do him no harm."

"BILLY" SUNDAY SAVING MANY SOULS.

Old "Billy" Sunday, the famous right fielder of Anson's Chicago White Stockings away back in the '80s, is still hard at work saving souls, as witness a dispatch from Erie, Pa., wherein it tells us that as a result of evangelistic meetings by the Rev. "Billy" Sunday, a former baseball player, over one thousand persons have been converted.

Two hundred of these conversions were made at a service which started Saturday night and ended at 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

For three hours more than three hundred men who attended the meeting remained in the church praying.

Surely the one-time fleet-footed ball player is making out just as good in his evangelistic work as he did when a star ball player.

CRICKET MATCH AT SANTA MONICA.

Champions Will Have Weak Team in Field.

University of Pennsylvania Beats Hamilton.

All-Bermuda Will Play Crack Eastern Aggregations.

BY MARSHALL D. TAYLOR.

Santa Monica and Los Angeles cricket teams will play the second of a series of five friendly games at the old polo grounds at Santa Monica this afternoon. Wickets will be pitched at 1 o'clock, stumps being withdrawn at 6 p.m.

The champions will not be at full strength, as Wilkes, Elliot, Jamieson, Cotton and Mitchell have stood down, as they are scheduled to play against San Diego on July 16. Los Angeles has a very strong eleven and should give a good account of themselves.

Following is the line-up of the two teams: Santa Monica—P. J. Higgins, captain; A. R. Yorston, F. C. Stocker, W. Hunt, G. H. Griffith, J. M. Fletcher, W. G. Cochrane, P. J. Tomkins, Capt. Leslie Peacocke, H. Lewis, J. F. W. Allan. Los Angeles—W. Meggett, captain; A. E. Barwell, W. Morris, N. Tempest, T. D. Bamford, F. Bamford, S. Hutcheon, F. Williamson, J. H. Rowland, C. W. Packman, A. N. Other.

CRICKET NOTES.

The University of Pennsylvania concluded their Canadian tour by beating Hamilton. The visitors piled up the fine total of 245 runs to 183 by the Canucks. Haines for the U. of P. made 51.

Thirteen cricketers, representing All-Bermuda, are scheduled to play a series of international matches with the following clubs: Germantown, Philadelphia, Pilgrims, All-Philadelphia, and Merion. The members of the Bermuda team are: J. R. Conyers, captain; G. C. Conyers, C. Conyers, Capt. H. S. Poyntz, Lieut. Gage, A. W. West, T. St. G. Gilbert, W. B. T. Johnson, C. G. Gilbert, H. J. Tucker, D. Martin, Sergt. Fisher, Pt. Harrower.

Staten Island, after declaring its innings closed with 148 for 7 wickets, beat the Crescent Athletic Club by 41 runs. Keenan for the islanders made 53 not out. Hawkins's 73 for the losers was the only double figure. Clarke of Staten Island performed the "hat trick."

Philadelphia gave Frankford a severe trouncing, scoring 215 for 4 wickets to 132. Valentine 78, Mason 60 not out and Muir 35 not out, were the top scores for the Quakers.

Germantown beat Moorestown by 74 runs. The scores were 174 to 100.

Belmont and Merion played a drawn match, after some tall scoring on both sides. Merion piled up 328, of which Vatterlein 60, Sharpless 50, Gordon 76 and Lee 40, were the chief hitters. Belmont replied with 72 for one wicket. King not out 31 and Graham not out 29.

Philadelphia easily defeated Germantown by 162 runs. The scores were 153 and 138 for 2 wickets to 80 and 49. For the Quakers Mitchell not out 46, Dixon, Jr., not out 64 and Hawley 72 were the sloggers. Pacey took 11 wickets for 39 runs in the two innings for Philadelphia.

Boston just managed to beat Needham by 4 runs. The scores were 78 to 74. It was a bowler's wicket. Warren took 6 wickets for 31 runs and Gorse 4 for 35 for Needham; Mitchell 5 for 20 and Bottomley 5 for 20 for the pork and beaners.

Brooklyn beat Bensonhurst by 56 runs. The scores were 128 to 72. Corbin for Brooklyn made top score with 34 and captured 6 wickets for 28 runs.

The U.S.M.A.A. easily beat the West India Wanderers by 7 wickets and 55 runs at Boston yesterday. The scores were 136 for 3 wickets to 81. Page not out 51 and Alcock 69 were the heavy scorers.

A fine programme has been arranged by the South Coast Yacht Club to take place at Station A, Balboa, on July 15 and 16. On their arrival the yachtsmen will go ashore and enjoy a dinner and dance at the famous resort and on the Sunday following motor boat and sailing races will be held. It is a long time since any of the sailing craft have visited this point and a good many of the boats will go. Thirty-six new members of the club were taken in from Balboa a few weeks ago and over a dozen more applications have been presented.

Nebraska Hikers.

They are walking from Tia Juana to British Columbia for a summer outing. Reading from left to right they are George Dutton, Clark Johnson, Charles Cook and G. F. Parker.

Lots of Fun.

TIA JUANA TO BRITISH COLUMBIA Y.M.C.A. BOYS HIKING UP THE COAST.

Hiking for health from Mexico to British Columbia are four Nebraska boys who passed through Los Angeles recently on their way north. The four young men forming the party are George Dutton, Clark Johnson and G. F. Parker of Hastings, and Charles Cook of Wall Lake, Ia.

All of them are athletes of some prominence in their communities and the idea of a long hike for a summer vacation came to them last winter.

They decided to see the Pacific Coast as only hikers can see it and so left Nebraska about four weeks ago. They walked from Los Angeles to Tia Juana, where they visited in the revolutionists' camp and coming back to the United States they spent several days in watching the American soldiers at their maneuvers.

Then they started on their long walk north. They carry a change of underwear, a blanket and a few toilet requisites on their journey and ship their clothes from one large city to the next to await their coming.

Dutton was a football hero on the Hastings High School team. Clark Johnson was prominent in track athletics and was one of the best sprinters in the district. Charles Cook, third member of the party played football with the Wall Lake High School and then with the Athletic Association of that place, later going to Hastings and entering into various amateur sports. G. F. Parker, guide and experienced hiker of the party was for several years physical instructor of the Hastings Y.M.C.A. and holds a number of walking trophies. He has walked through Yellowstone, across Iowa, Nebraska and several other Middle Western States and is setting pace on the present jaunt.

Returning here, Dutton will this fall enter U.S.C. and Cook may do the same, although he is figuring also on entering the Nebraska State University.

Over the Range.

MOUNTAIN TRAILS FAST BECOMING HIGHWAYS FOR PIONEER RESIDENTS.

Everybody about the place was cross and out of sorts, even to the dog. The wanderlust for the mountains being pretty strong, we packed our knapsacks with a few days' rations and not forgetting our fishing line and hooks we took the electric line for Altadena.

Leaving the car line at Scripps we took the road from there going west and after about one mile and a half the road drops down into the Arroyo Seco, where we hit the trail (1.)

Here the swifts darting across the road to safety, the smell of the sage and the water running over the rocks soon drove all care behind and gave us that feeling that can only be had when in the canyons with the great masses of rugged peaks around as watchmen.

Here for miles up the Arroyo, people have taken advantage of the government leasing land in the forest reserve for residence purposes and have built themselves cabins, cottages and even pretentious bungalows. Here within a few hours from the electric cars they are back in one of the prettiest canyons of the range.

Crossing and recrossing the stream, passing cabins and camps and always getting a glad "hello" and passing the good word along, we got to the place where the trail leaves the water and starts up the zig-zag. Here we are our lunch and after filling our canteen we started up the trail. Winding back and forth and up on the ridge we saw below us the water and "Switzer's." Dropping down into the camp we were tempted to stay there among the pines, but pushing on a little ways along the water passed pools and through groves of pines we came to an old cabin, called Waterman's. Here we found a camping place for the night.

After getting our evening dishes washed and our camp fire started we were joined by a party that had been over in the Tujunga Canyon and had come up through Wickiup Canyon and across the trail (9) through Barley Flats. They told of having seen a deer and any number of tracks. While we were discussing the condition of the trails and sights that we had seen, a party rode up on horseback. They had ridden from Pasadena and were going out over the trail (10) to Colby's and then into the Tujunga.

Starting bright and early next morning we were soon climbing out of the canyon, and on reaching the summit we came to a Red Tool Box (8) where several trails come together. The one from Wickiup Canyon (9) coming in there, and the one starting out ahead of us (11) down into the West Fork. While we were resting there and noticing that we were on the divide between the San Gabriel and the Arroyo Seco, we saw some parties coming down the trial towards us from the south. It turned out to be a party going fishing that was bound in the same direction that we were. They had come up on the electric car (2) to Alpine Tavern and had taken the back trial (3) around Mt. Lowe and down onto the divide.

From the Red Box we soon got down into the canyon at the head waters of the West Fork. Crossing back and forth and picking out the trail among the rocks we get to a fairly good trail made by the fishermen and burros going up and down the river. Here and there we struck small streams coming out from little canyons, on either side. Finding a very tempting spot for our noon rest and some of the party anxious to fish, we made camp.

WILSON TRAIL.

Taking it easy from there we soon came to a trail (4) that zig-zags down the ridge from Mt. Wilson, called the Rattlesnake trail. One may take the old trail (5) to Mt. Wilson from Sierra Madre and come over that way to the river. After going a short way from here we met some people that were going out, and one of our party having only a short time to stay, decided to go out along, so they took the trail leading off to the right or south (6) and known as the Sturtevant Trail, leading to the car line by way of Santa Anita Canyon, and Little Santa Anita into Sierra Madre.

An old cabin used by the rangers when they are working back in the West Fork is there. Just below is Short Cut Canyon, or Trail Fork, coming in from the left or north. A short cut trail to Tujunga Creek and across Barley Flats starts up this canyon. Crossing and recrossing the stream a good many times and passing some deep pools and small falls we came to a place on a curve in the river where a few of the old monarchs of the forest are still standing, having escaped the ravages of the fires. Here we camped for the night, two days out by easy traveling from Los Angeles or Pasadena. This camp has carried the name of Lone Pine Camp.

BALLARD'S RECORD IN WOOD-CHOPPING.

Grover ("Cream") Ballard, who will represent the Grand Bowling Alleys in the 1912 tournament of the Western Bowling Congress, is a ten-pin artist who understands the game from A to Z. This will not be Ballard's first appearance in an affair of this kind, as he has participated in the annual tournaments of this organization for the last three years and each year has covered himself with glory, and incidentally pocketed a large slice of the prize money.

Probably his most noteworthy performance was in the San Francisco tournament of 1910, when with Cy Taylor as a partner, he won the doubles championship of the West. In this contest Ballard contributed 660 pins, an average of 220, as his share of the wood for the three games. He also carried away third prize for individual high average for all events, finishing but a few pins behind the winner, and with the excellent average of 198.

In March of this year Ballard was a member of the Los Angeles team which won the Western Bowling Congress championship at the Spokane tournament, and his masterly wood-chopping was instrumental in annexing the $1500 prize brought home by the boys.

Grover Ballard,

one of the best bowlers in Southern California.

Ballard has made wonderful strides in bowling, as his first game was rolled less than six years ago. He has kept steadily at it and today hardly has a peer on the Coast. The Southern California League, which ended last Friday, is the first tournament in which he ever bowled that he was not

HUNTING LICENSES AT GUN DEALERS THIS YEAR

Sportsmen will be able to obtain hunting licenses at the sporting goods stores, again as they did last year. The Fish Commission's chief deputy, John P. Babcock, thought it would be unwise to allow the stores to issue these again, but has seen the matter differently. The dealers handle the licenses for nothing, while the county clerks exact a commission, and the greater convenience of the sporting goods store method enables the sportsman to save much time and the annoyance of making perhaps a special trip to the Courthouse after his legal authorization to shoot game in the State. A considerable saving is made to the game preservation fund by having this county clerk commission lopped off, and sportsmen are united for the present arrangement.

"BRONCHO" SPEAR; WHENCE THE NAME?

Everybody who fishes knows "Broncho" Spear by sight, although few know his first name is Joe, or that he runs a big department store on North Spring street, part of the time, when he is not fishing, and puts in the balance sleeping or building a big new house out on the southwestern plateau.

But whence the name "Broncho?" Surely it would be hard to find a calmer, more sedate disciple of Old Izaak, than Joe Spear. Thereby hangs a tale.

The history of this cognomen goes back into the ancient, benighted dark ages of local piscatorialdom. The veteran Robert Campbell, whose angling memory is as long as a fish line is believed to have started it upon Joe, and in this wise.

One Sunday Bones Bill Weber, Campbell, Spear, Bill Stearns, and a number of other dyed-in-the-wools were on the job working at their chosen trade on old Terminal Island wharf. Joe Spear appeared with two rods and four hand lines.

The "nippers" were there with bells on, and the way clam bait slid over the side beggared description. Knives were worn out butchering the bivalves into small enough pieces to make them last out the day, and the picture Spear presented as he bobbed from one of his outfits to the other—literally vibrated—could not have been described as other than one of animation.

"That fellow Spear is jumping about like a bucking broncho with those half a dozen outfits," quoth Campbell in sarcastic comment, and the name still sticks.

Later on a neighboring angler hung a colossal corbina on his light lay-out and nothing offered but to strand the fish.

"Hold your horses there; I'll clear away them obstructions to surf navigation," yelled Bones Bill Weber as he dived into hip pocket for his snickasnee, and started ahead to cut the lines adrift. "Everybody who comes onto this wharf has to fish like a gentleman, or we'll throw him overboard."

Broncho, who is a right good fellow at heart and as good a sportsman as any of them, saw the point. "I tell you fellows, I have to fish for a large family," he said. "One rod will not keep my wife and babies in surf fish, and besides I like 'em myself."

Spear fishes like a white man now, and has been getting down to light tackle and a higher standard of sportsmanship of late.

Frank Garbutt, who sailed away for Santa Barbara in his big schooner Skidbladnir on Thursday, expects to remain among the Channel Islands for about six weeks. Two weeks of this time will be devoted to moving picture people, who will have a camp on shore. The picture company will return in Garbutt's launch, Imp, after their stay. There is no place on the whole coast with so many caves and bays. It is ideal on Santa Cruz to carry out plots of treasure-hunting and what-not with which to interest the public in the picture business.

Billy Creclat, the fish and clam dealer: I'll tell you what ails 'em; you Rod and Reel fellows made us take all the nets away and the surf fish got lonesome for them, and beat it for some other place.

Not Dead Here!

LOS ANGELES IS LIVELIEST CITY.

SPORTING GOODS SALESMAN DRAWS HIS CONCLUSIONS.

Finds It Is Worth While to Pass Half His Time in Southern Metropolis, and Calls It Worth All the Rest of the Coast—Sells More Guns Here Than Other Towns.

Dealers in sporting goods and other parties at interest in the hunting and fishing game may derive some little comfort from the statement of a traveling sporting goods salesman, whose territory comprises the entire coast west of the Rocky Mountains. He carries a large and popular line and visits every town worth while, but puts in about half his entire time in this city, because he has found it to pay him better. He says:

"Los Angeles is the only town on the whole Pacific Coast that is buying any sporting goods to amount to anything. This year I cut down my time in all the rest, and in some of the northwestern cities which talk so much about their lively business, I simply walked in on my trade, and passed the usual courtesies, seeing them well supplied with goods, and not having the heart to try to load them up with any more stock.

"I tell you, the more you see of other places, the more you like this town—certainly so far as my business is concerned. Los Angeles is on the sporting goods map; why this town sold more high-grade double-barreled shotguns last year than all the rest of the territory combined. The rest of the cities do a big repeater and automat cibusiness, but for the de luxe goods, Los Angeles cops the candy. In fine fishing tackle, this town buys a class of goods that no other city in my territory even looks at, saying they are altogether too expensive for the demand. You can sell $25 rods, $50 reels, in fact, nothing is too good for the wealthy and critical sportsmen who come to Los Angeles for the winters, and I tell you a lot of them are coming here for the summers, too; more, I think, every year. Especially such years as this one.

"I expect to do a business of $150,000 this year, and confidently believe half of it will be in Los Angeles. My local orders show a third increase over the corresponding time last year, although the seasons are later this year; and notwithstanding the unfavorable game laws, the only effect noted in the gun trade is that orders are being marked for later shipment than usual. The ammunition business is affected, I think; but fishing tackle never was better either in quantity or in class of goods—quality.

"It has worked out that I pass more and more time in Los Angeles each year and less elsewhere. The only explanation of this is business. I go to a place planning to stay there two or three days, and size up the situation first day; if there is nothing doing, why I put in that time elsewhere, and if I have any saved up at the end, it seems to cash in better here in Los Angeles than anywhere else. It seldom pays to retrace territory."

The gentleman represents one of the largest eastern sporting goods manufacturing houses in the country, and is widely known. His line is a splendid seller, and represents about the limit of quality, in its highest grades, but comprises all kinds, so gives a fair line upon the trade conditions.

MONTH TROUT TRIP BY AUTO IN NORTH.

Atty. Edwin A. Meserve, Edward Strasburg, Jud Saeger and their families left Santa Rosa Tuesday in two machines for a month's vacation trip, during which they will go up and down the Eel River Valley, one of the most beautiful in California, and that means the world, returning through Trinity and Siskiyou counties and thence back to the point of starting.

The machines were shipped by steamer, Mr. Meserve following by the Owl at the last minute so as to lose as little time from business as possible. A complete trouting outfit and all the necessary deer hunting paraphernalia was stocked in Los Angeles, the machines being multum in a parvo to the uttermost degree of modern sporting refinement, having everything necessary, and a whole lot that is not.

Atty. Meserve expressed the hope that he would at least not suffer the inconvenience of having his machine looted and outfit stolen at the outset of his journey, as was his fate last year, casting a shadow over the entire trip, as things were lost that could not be replaced in the limited time.

The party will be gone one month. The trout fishing is nowhere better than along their chosen route of action, and some of the best deer country in California is to be traversed.

MANY BIRDS THROWN AT GRAND AMERICAN

The Grand American handicap of the Interstate Association, which was held at Columbus, O., this year, proved as expected the blue-ribbon event of the trap-shooting world, as well as a record-breaker in the matters of attendance and number of targets trapped.

The winner was Harvey Dixon of Oronago, Mo., a retired farmer, who found mineral on his land, and let somebody else pay him a fortune for ploughing it up, devoting the rest of his life to his favorite diversion, the shotgun.

June 19, 26,850 targets; June 20, 26,780; June 21, 33,340; June 22, 38,460; June 24, handicap day, 28,500; totalled in all, 152,950 birds, representing, at 3 cents each, $4588.20 worth of targets and approximately the same value of ammunition, or over $9000 expended by the trapshooters in the one week's shooting, not counting incidental expenses. Verily, it is quite a game. Over four hundred entries were received, comprising the cream of the scatter-gun shots of this country, men being present from every quarter from Seattle to St. Augustine.

Everybody's Game.

TENNIS AMONG BEST GAMES FOR EXERCISE AND EXPENSE IS SLIGHT.

Good Points of Sport Explained—Courts in the Playgrounds Have Proved Popular—The Opportunity for Healthful Fun Greater in Shorter Space of Time Than in Any Other Convenient Way.

THE game of lawn tennis has come within recent years to be one of the most popular and widely enjoyed pastimes in this country. While it may originally have been limited to people of means, it has of late been put practically within the reach of all by the establishment of tennis courts in public parks and playgrounds. In this Los Angeles is not alone, for there are now public courts in many cities throughout the country, and the number is increasing from year to year. Each particular sport or pastime has its special advantages. But among those which belong to lawn tennis are its comparative inexpensiveness, the fact that, unlike baseball or other more highly organized games, it only needs two persons, and that the degree of intensity with which it is played can practically be varied according to the wishes of the player, so that, if desired, it is possible to get a larger amount of healthful exercise in a shorter space of time than in almost any other convenient way.

ORIGIN OF THE GAME.

The game of lawn tennis originated in England about 1875, so that it is comparatively modern in its present form. It is, however, an outdoor adaptation of the ancient game of tennis, or court tennis, as it is generally called to distinguish it. This was the game to which reference is made in histories, and which differs materially in the fact that it is played with a different and heavier ball, which is driven against the side walls of the inclosing structure. Charles II, the merry English monarch, was an enthusiastic player of court tennis and used to have a scales at his court, so that he might weigh himself before and after playing. It is chronicled that he once lost 4½ pounds in a match, a loss which has often been equaled and not infrequently exceeded in these days by players who have gone through grueling contests at lawn tennis, so that it may be seen that the sport is by no means an effeminate one.

As was at first and is still almost universally the practice in England, lawn tennis courts are laid out upon closely cropped and rolled lawns, from which the game takes its distinguishing name. In this country, however, owing to the difficulty of raising such turf as it to be found in England, the dirt or so-called clay court is prevalent. A grass court is much more expensive to maintain in first-class shape, and cannot be played on constantly, as a dirt court may be, without becoming worn and uneven. But a good dirt court is superior to anything but the best of grass courts. In this country the tournament for the national championship is played upon the grass courts at the Newport Casino each summer, in August, and a number of other important tournaments are also played upon grass. But throughout the country dirt courts greatly predominate. This fact has had its effect upon the American style of play as compared with the English, since, owing to the quicker bound of the ball on the hard dirt surface, the game naturally becomes faster and speedier. In various other ways the American game, as it has gradually been developed, exhibits interesting contrast to the game played by our English cousins, who as a general proposition have proved themselves more steady but less brilliant.

LEARNING THE GAME.

There is one thing in regard to lawn tennis, as compared particularly with golf, which is to be considered unfortunate. This is that so few tennis players take the time or thought to carefully study out the theory of the game or, so to speak, the physical mechanics according to which it may be played most successfully. As time goes on, this condition will doubtless change, and there will be more who, not content merely with playing the game, are anxious to play it well. Golf has its professional teachers, but professional lawn tennis players are almost unknown, and the sport is unique in that the supremacy of the best amateurs has hardly been questioned. This is probably due in the main to the fact that there has never been any great incentive to the professional player. But in the absence of professional teachers those who strive to play the game well are forced to turn to better amateur players or to the comparatively few books on the game, for the literature of lawn tennis is by no means equal to that of golf.

The first and most essential thing, and one which is generally overlooked, in learning to play tennis, is that success depends, as in any other sport, whether it be boxing, fencing, or baseball, on the proper poise of the body. Every boy who has boxed knows that he cannot strike an effective blow with his weight on the wrong foot, and every boy who has played baseball knows how important is the balance of the body in throwing—or rather, by a sort of second instinct common to young America, he balances himself correctly and shifts his weight properly from one foot to the other. The requirement is just the same for tennis. The right-handed player, hitting a low forehand ball should swing forward with his feet well apart (on a line practically at right angles to the net,) shifting his weight as he makes the stroke from his right to his left foot, and vice versa, that is, from his left to right foot, when he is making a backhand stroke.

The second point of prime importance is that the ball should be hit with an easy sweep of the racket, swinging through a wide arc before the ball is met, instead of with a short, quick jab. What is known as the follow-through is almost as essential in tennis as in golf. In baseball, also, one never sees a long hit deep into the outfield without a swing and follow-through on the part of the batter. However, the short or "choked" swing, which many an effective batter uses for the particular purpose of trying to place a short hit, has its counterpart in the short, so-called chopped stroke at tennis, to be used in choking off a ball when volleying at the net, or under other special circumstances. But for ordinary purposes the free swing underhand is the stroke for consistent use, and, speaking generally, no player who has not developed such a smooth, easy swing as the mainstay of his game, to which other strokes may be added, has ever achieved high rank. It is often difficult for the player who has acquired a cramped and contracted style to learn to swing freely, but the simplest means is to go off occasionally by one's self and practice hitting the ball against a wall.

MOST COMMON FAULT.

But probably the most common fault of all players, even including many who have become more or less expert, is the tendency to hit the ball, whether on the bound or on the volley, when it is too near the body. The result is that they get "tangled up," particularly when a bad bounce or a slight misjudgment of the ball makes necessary a slight change in the stroke at the last instant. The ball should be hit as far away from the body as is possible without losing perfect command of the racket. This rule is one of the greatest aids to accuracy. Instead of playing the ball close in to the knees, the underhand strokes should be made from a slightly crouching position—like a boxer coming forward—swinging the racket as far forward as possible to meet the ball, or, if the stroke be made from the side, then also with the full reach of the arm.

The greatest players that the game has ever known were undoubtedly the famous Doherty brothers of England. This point of reaching well away from the body is especially emphasized in their book on lawn tennis, published by the Baker & Taylor Company and probably the best book on the game. But the two Englishmen in their play emphasized the point even more than they did in their writing. If there was one stroke at which these Englishmen were generally admitted to be markedly superior even to the very best of our AAmerican players, it was the low volley. The reason was very apparent to any careful student of the game who witnessed the stirring international matches in which the Doherty brothers wrested the Davis cup from Larned and the Wrenns half a dozen years ago. On every shot the English players reached well out from the body, and to this their astonishing accuracy was due. AAlthough neither of them was of powerful physique, they had studied the science of the game so as to perform each play with the minimum of physical effort and the greatest amount of accuracy.

"KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE BALL."

The fourth of what may be called the four cardinal points of the game is the same as the great commandment of golf, "Keep your eye on the ball." Far too many players attempt to watch both the ball and their opponent, or at the moment of hitting the ball, to look at the place in the opponent's court where they wish to put the ball. This is all wrong. At the moment at which the stroke is made, the eye should be on the ball and nothing else. Practically speaking, one's attention should be changed from one's opponent to the ball the moment the ball leaves his racket. Up to that instant, and from the moment that the ball has left one's own racket attention should be concentrated upon him in the effort to divine from his actions where he is going to play his shot, and to take in advance the most advantageous position on the court. One reason why the player who rushes to the net is apt to win many points is that his opponent is liable to watch him too much and the ball too little. It is possible to tell at the instant one's opponent hits the ball whether or not he is coming to the net, and, with an imaginary map of the court in one's mind, the effort from that instant should be to keep one's eye glued to the ball and to play it to some chosen spot, without however, giving an indication of what that spot is. The height of the net and the dimensions of the court should soon become matters of instinct, a process which conscious effort will hasten, and as a matter of fact, the surest way in which to reveal where one intends to put the ball is to look at that spot in the opponent's court. If the stroke is not a complete fizzle, which is most likely the opponent is apt to have had warning in advance.

The most famous tennis player in America today is the national champion, W. A. Larned, who has been playing in national and international tournaments for practically twenty years, who has held the national title six times, and who is believed by some followers of the game to be the greatest player in the world. He first came into prominence in the early '90s, and for nearly a decade occupied the position of "uncrowned king" of American tennis. At his best there was no one who could hold him in this country at least, but he was as erratic as he was brilliant, and in those years was never quite able to secure the championship title. But as he has grown older he has grown steadier, although the players who were once his great rivals, and who alone could furnish the most definite test of his game, are no longer in active competition. But the fact that according to the general consensus of opinion, Larned has grown to be a better player as he has approached the 40-year mark, may well be an encouragement to all those who plod at the patient effort to improve their game from year to year.

The present doubles champions of the United States are H. H. Hackett and F. B. Alexander, who have proved unbeatable for the last three or four years. They make a remarkable combination through the astonishing steadiness of Hackett and the great brilliancy of Alexander. As a doubles player Larned has never been very successful, as his style of play, with its swift low drives, seems especially adapted to singles, although he is also a powerful net player, one of the first requirements for doubles. But while Larned and Hackett and Alexander have held their titles for a number of years, younger players are rising to challenge them, and the time must come, sooner or later when the story of the championship match at Newport can be told in the familiar words, "Youth will be served." Last year McLoughlin and Bundy were the sensation of the national tournament, although they did not succeed in gaining the honors which have been held in the past by "Dick" Sears, "Ollie" Campbell, "Bob" Wrenn "Mac" Whitman, and other players famous before Larned finally came into his own and Hackett and Alexander succeeded Ward and Wright.

Julian in blue linen, Mrs. W. W. Wiseman in pale pink linen, Mrs. Charles Peck in a chic black tailored gown, Mrs. W. T. Stevens, Mrs. W. G. Coombs, Mrs. Tom Storvel, Mrs. Donavon and Mrs. J. [illegible] Benny all in the lacy lingerie costume.

It was difficult to discover all the pretty, well-dressed women, as the porches had been called into requisition as well as all the interior of the clubhouse and guests were distributed on all sides. But among other notable guests were Mrs. C. J. Curtis, Mrs. S. Denholme and Mrs. W. T. Stephens, and the interesting men included the bridegroom, Mr. Carl Stanley, bearing up bravely, Messrs. Llewellyn Bixby, Jothain Bixby, Jr., Fred Bixby, Dr. Mitchell, Prof. Hallet, recently from England, Jean Drake, A. N. Goodhue, L. Desmond and Francis Weaver, an amusing Irishman who is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Drake, and in a fair way to being lionized from all accounts.

The golf links at the club were rather deserted today, with so many other attractions being offered, but they are in good condition and on July 4 Mr. Edward Tufts, Mr. Earl V. Cowan, Mr. George Cochrane and Mr. G. W. Davis played over them. Mr. Tufts had been taken to Long Beach by Mrs. Tufts, to wean him from golf for just one day. Alas, for human weakness.

The club boasts a very charming lake at the foot of the hill, which provided a most alluring view from the porch, everybody wanting to sit on that side.

Refreshments were served from 5 to 6 p.m., which was greatly appreciated by the hungry revellers—there is an appetizing nip in the air out there that has to be catered for.

It costs from $4 to $10 a mile per year to drag a road, depending upon the particular road, the soil and rainfall, and the amount of traffic.

THANKSGIVING DATE LOOKS GOOD TO BAKERSFIELD.

Semi-Annual Event Planned At Banquet Given in Honor of National Victory—Jastro to Head New Organization and Other Leading Men to Have Active Part.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BAKERSFIELD, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At a banquet given tonight by F. W. Tegeler of the Southern Hotel in honor of the National Automobile people, who won the heavy-car race on July Fourth, steps were taken toward the organization of a permanent automobile association, the purpose of which will be to build the fastest five-mile track in the West, and hold auto races at least twice a year. It is expected that the first race will be held on Thanksgiving Day.

At the suggestion of J. M. Dunn, one of the owners of the Lakeview Oil Company, Supervisor H. A. Jastro was elected to head the organization, and Angus Crites, one of the energetic oil men who built the course for the recent road race, was chosen first assistant. A committee consisting of Crites, Dunn, W. E. Drury, N. R. Solomon, A. W. Mason and W. W. Stevenson and F. W. Tegeler, was appointed to attend to the preliminary organization and to solicit members.

PREMIER MOTORS COMING.

Autoists Coming This Way on Long Jaunt Reach Chicago and Start for Los Angeles.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The ten Premier cars that are crossing the continent left here this morning for Gasport. The motorists had a very enjoyable time here and all the cars are running perfectly.

The tire equipment is giving great satisfaction, this feature being one of the talks of the trip. A close tab on tire trouble is being kept and much comment is heard on the wonderful improvement of the modern tire. The United States Tire Company has a man accompanying the tourists who is watching the results.

The tire equipment was selected in a unique manner. The Premier owners in Philadelphia have a club of their own and this trip grew out of talk about the club. Preparations were made and when it came to equiping the cars throughout with new tires, the suggestion was made that a vote be taken on the proposition and all cars carry the same equipment. This was done, and the nobby treads were practically a unanimous choice for the rear. The United States smooth treads were put on the front.

On entering Chicago, the visitors were met ten miles out by the Mayor and his cabinet. A delegation from the Chicago Motor Club also went out to greet the long-distance tourers.

There are sixty people in the party and each night the motorists enjoy high carnival. A fair schedule is being maintained and not one car has been delayed by even so little as tire trouble. The absence of tire trouble has brought smiles to the faces of the crews, as the weather has been somewhat heated through this section.

All are looking forward to their arrival on the Pacific Coast.

MAGDALEN CREW WINS CHALLENGE TROPHY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HENLEY-ON-THE-THAMES, July 8.—The Magdalen College crew, which yesterday defeated the Ottawa Rowing Club's eight, today won the grand challenge cup, beating Jesus College, Cambridge, in the final by two and a quarter lengths. The time was seven minutes and thirty seconds.

Eton College won the ladies' plate, defeating the first crew of Trinity College, Cambridge, by two lengths in the record time of six minutes and fifty-six seconds, five seconds better than the record established by Eton in 1897.

What 12,000 Doctors Say Must Be True

Record sales last year at old price Last year was our greatest in sales to physicians. We sold 5,500 Doctors' Runabouts before July 1st. Our reputation gained during the two previous years was largely responsible. Our good work began when Mr. J. D. Maxwell designed the "Doctor Maxwell" Model in 1908. Its popularity was instantaneous. It was a foolproof car, simple, clean and easy to care for—just the car for the busy practitioner. To-day 12,000 physicians in the United States use Maxwells, one doctor in every ten in the United States. Ask any one of them about it.

Doctors demand constant service If one attribute, more than another, is responsible for our tremendous sale of cars to physicians, it is the ability of the Maxwell to run day after day, month after month, with unfailing reliability and efficiency. Service is the physician's watchword. His car must go when he wants it—must not need constant tinkering. This is insured in the Maxwell by simple construction and first-class materials. 12,000 physicians, all sticklers for service, prove it. Our confidence in the Maxwell is so great that we are willing to allow our case to rest with any owner.

ENLARGING SAN GABRIEL LINKS.

Eighteen-hole Course to Be Constructed.

Addition of Nine Holes Will Make Fine Course.

Expert Rigby Has Shown no Mercy to Players.

On the sixty-eight acres recently acquired by the San Gabriel Valley Country Club, and which will give the club a splendid eighteen-hole course, work has been begun and will be prosecuted vigorously. The course was mapped out by the Club Committee and its golf expert, A. S. Rigby.

The new acreage is bounded on the north by Longden avenue, and in-ludes 2640 feet on that thorough-are. The eastern boundary is the an Gabriel boulevard, with a front-ge of 1100 feet. The new clubhouse will face on the boulevard, which is ne of the "good roads" and which will be widened to 100 feet and ex-ended straight through the hills to he beach.

The "sporty" qualities of the golf ourse will be enhanced by the wash," which winds its way in a omewhat serpentine fashion from the orthern to the southern end of the 20 acres that the San Gabriel Club ow owns. This "wash" will be so rranged that water, in the rainy sea-on, can pass through it freely, but he unlucky golfer whose ball lands n it will not have so easy a passage.

In laying out the new nine holes he tees and greens will be put in rst. Then the stretches between the oles will be thoroughly harrowed. ext will come the scraping and evelling of the land, and the rolling. he bunkers will not be put in until fter the rainy season begins, prob-bly, as the task will be much easier f accomplishment after the earth as been soaked.

There are a number of eucalyptus rees in the "wash," but these will e removed, as the course will be uite difficult enough without them. he ground, from the first hole to he last, is to be covered with lippia, s this requires very little water and ill remain green in summer, as ell as in winter. It would be too xpensive, and well nigh impossible, o keep 120 acres of grass or clover n good condition during the warm eason.

Said Rigby, the San Gabriel Club's xport, with his fascinating Scotch ccent: "The new holes will be the ixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth, leventh, twelfth, thirteenth and four-eenth. The sixth, which will be 400 ards long, will be a straight-away tretch on the level. The seventh will e 180 yards, will cross the wash and ill be very sporty. It will be very isastrous for a player to fail to get ver the wash on his iron stroke.

PLENTY OF OAKS.

"For the eighth hole, you will have long drive to cross the wash and the est of the distance you'll be very busy odging oak trees. This hole will be 25 yards. The ninth will be one of he prettiest holes in the lot. It will e only 175 yards and you'll use an ron, but the course lies between an venue of oak trees and you'll have a ad time if you don't shoot straight.

"The tenth hole, 320 yards, will be ight along the San Gabriel boulevard and passing autoists will have a chance to watch the play. The eleventh hole, 550 yards, we call the 'boomerang.' There are so many oak trees that your ball is likely to come back to you. It offers a fine opportunity for good judgment and accuracy. The twelfth hole will be an iron shot over the wash—185 yards—and a slice will be disastrous. The thirteenth, 320 yards, will include a punch-bowl and will be very difficult. On the fourteenth you'll have a 200-yard drive to the edge of the wash and then a 200-yard drive over the wash. The whole distance is 575 yards and if you escape the perils of the wash, there'll be trees waiting on every hand to overthrow your score. The total length of the eighteen-hole course will be considerably over 6000 yards."

It might almost be said that Rigby was born with a golf club in his hand. He came into the world in Scotland, in an atmosphere of golf. Before he was 12 years old, he was gaining experience as a caddy at Carnoustie, from whence came most of the men who have been champions in the United States. Later he served an apprenticeship of four years with the famous clubmaker, Robert Simpson, and then he was a journeyman for one year.

Rigby came to American with Willie Smith in 1899. He has since been connected with golf clubs in Chicago, Racine, Wis.; Hot Springs, Ark., and New York. For seven years he was with the Los Angeles Country Club, but for the last three years, has been practicing his art at the San Gabriel Country Club.

Another Conclave.

TO COMPETE FOR SOUTHERN TITLES.

Tennis Players to Meet at Long Beach.

Championship Events in All Classes Scheduled.

New Talent to Get Chance in Week's Session.

The crack tennis players of the Coast, and also many lesser lights, are to get into action again at Long Beach the latter part of this month, when the annual tournament of the Southern California Tennis Association, for the southern championships, is to be held.

Play is to begin July 31 and conclude Saturday, August 5. The matches will be run off on the courts of Hotel Virginia. Nat Browne is to bear the brunt of the work in managing the tourney. Entries are to be received by Browne, A. V. Duncan and A. C. Way.

The tourney will include men's singles and doubles, mixed doubles, ladies' singles and doubles, junior singles and also ladies' special singles for players who have never won in open tournaments.

May Sutton is to play in the singles, doubles and mixed doubles. In fact, all the well-known players of the South, except Bundy, who is to go East with McLoughlin, are to compete. Browne says that an effort also is to be made to have many northern players come South for the week.

Hardy and Foley of San Francisco, who formed the doubles team that met Bundy and McLoughlin in the finals of the doubles tourney at Long Beach, July 4, are expected again to come South. With Hendrick and Braly, Young and Mace and Browne and Duncan again in the field, the struggle in the doubles division should be almost as interesting as in the July 4 tourney.

Winnie Mace, who has won the singles championship for the last two years, will be on hand to defend his title. If Foley comes South he will be among those most likely to take Winnie's measure.

Miss Cullen and Eugene Warren young tennis players who are improving their game in Southern California tournaments.

DON LEE BACK AGAIN.

Cadillac Man Inspects Nineteen-Eleven Cars and Returns with Good Report.

Don Lee is back again. During the last two weeks he has been to the Cadillac factory at Detroit inspecting the new models which were being shown for the first time. Lee is full of etnthusiasm, but as the new cars will not be out for some time he is not ready to make any announcements.

According to Lee the popular fashion next season will be for one color finish. The popular colors are dark blue and there will be very few gray or yellow trimmed wheels on the market in the high-grade stuff. Nickel trimmings is also growing in popularity and there is much competition among the big manufacturers as to who can put the best self-starter on their cars.

Lee came back by way of San Francisco and says his business there is in a very flourishing condition. The San Francisco branch is entirely sold out and many advance orders have been received. Business is good throughout the East, according to the Cadillac agent, and 1912 promises to be one of the biggest years in the industry.

NOTES OF THE AMATEURS.

U.S.C. made about the most important move that has ever been chalked up to the credit of the athletic departments of any of the southern institutions, when it arranged a 'varsity football game with Stanford and a freshman contest with the University of California.

Stanford is always a good drawing card here and the Rugby game between the Cardinals and Puritans in this city next November undoubtedly will create more interest than any other game of the season. It is probable that U.S.C. will not be able to make much of a showing against the northerners for two or three years at least, as Stanford has been playing the game several years, while the Puritans will be just breaking into the game next fall. However, with a strong spirit of co-operation among the various departments of U.S.C. there is no reason why a strong team should not be put into the field, as the Puritan coach will have almost as many men to draw from as Coach Presley at Stanford will have. However, at Stanford there is a spirit that is not surpassed at any university in the country, and this is largely accountable for the showing that Stanford has made in athletics. At California are twice as many men as there are at Stanford, yet the athletic records of the last twenty years show that the Cardinals have more than broken even with their rivals.

The freshman game between U.S.C. and California was a happy thought. Blue-and-gold students were wondering what they would do in the way of intercollegiate contests for the had prohibited the Cardinal freshmen from playing in freshmen games. Not only will the U.S.C. "babes" receive a cordial welcome in the North, but they should prove a good drawing card, and the game should serve to establish much closer athletic relations between the students of the northern and southern institutions.

Occidental College expects to have a good year in athletics next year. The Tigers have been off color for a couple of years, but they think the worm is about to roll over. President Baer evidently has landed a live coach in Pipal, who is coming West with a good reputation. He will have full charge of athletics at Occidental, and while the Tigers make no attempt to emphasize intercollegiate sports at the expense of scholarship, next year there are going to be some victories or something is going to "bust." President Baer does not believe in permitting anybody connected with the college to "scout" for athletes. Perhaps the absence of the "go-out-and-get-'em" policy accounts in part for the slump the Tigers have taken in late years.

It's all right to talk about getting "new blood" in the southern group of top-notch players, but nobody wants to see the "new blood" on top unless it really deserves to occupy that position. As long as the older players are able t hand out trouncings to their younger opponents, the so-called veterans are entitled to remain at the top with all honors that are coming to them. Some of the alleged veterans are children in arms, compared with Larned, the national champion, who has passed the forty-year mark, and probably will be able to "skin" the rising generation for many years to come.

It was a shame what the Olympic Club athletes didn't do in the A.A.U. championships at Pittsburgh. Ralph Rose, who was "doped" to clean up first in the weight events, did not show at all in the results. Horine, the Stanford high jumper, who was picked, even by easterners, to win his event, also failed to place Three men were tied for first at 6 feet 3 inches, which probably accounts for the Cardinal's failing to show. He has done 6 feet 4 inches, but that was on the native heath, and the hot weather in the East probably took some of the "pep" out of him. The Olympics only grabbed eleven points.

The Japanese baseball invasion by teams of the University of Waseda and University of Keio was a false alarm. The Japs not only were walloped by about all the American college teams that they met, but also were handed jolts by obscure teams with which they arranged games in order to gather in a little pin money.

Les Henery expects to stir up something in the water polo line before the end of this month. A four-cornered league, including teams representing Venice, Ocean Park, Bimini and Redondo, has been formed, and contests are to begin within the next ten days. The league will be an amateur organization and most of the players are young at the game.

Secretary Himrod of the Southern Pacific Athletic Association is still waiting to hear from the athletic management of the Astoria centennial exposition as to whether it intends to allow any expense money to athletes from Southern California who compete in the track and field meet that is to be pulled off at Astoria, August 26. Southern athletes were invited to compete. Himrod inquired by letter regarding the matter of traveling expenses. In reply, the exposition management inquired as to how many men the south expected to send. Himrod answered that ten or twelve would be sent if their expenses would be paid. Out of the North has come no further word. If a satisfactory arrangement is made the S.P. A.A. will conduct a try-out meet early in August for the purpose of choosing a Southern California team.

In a long article the London Times pays the highest tribute to the American polo team in the international play. It frankly admits the Americans to be the stronger side, and that no extraneous advantage can be held responsible for the superb performance of Milburn, "whose play suggested something as near to genius as the game has ever produced." The faultless combination of the brothers Waterbury, the forwards, and the skill and power of organization of the captain, H. P. Whitney, all come in for the highest praise. "The best side won the rubber," says the Times, "and it is one of the finest polo teams ever seen in any country."

The congress of the International Football Federation was held in Dresden this year, and representatives from Germany, Denmark, Hungary, France, England, Austria, Switzerland, Holland, Belgium, Sweden and Norway were present. With regard to the Olympic games to be held at Stockholm in 1912, the International Committee sitting at Budapest has approved of the following regulation: "Each national football association belonging to a nation recognized as such by the International Olympic Committee and affiliated to the International Football Federation, is entitled to send four teams of eleven."

This rule was made to allow of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales each sending a team, since the United Kingdom is ordinarily regarded as one country. Other nations are only recommended to send one eleven, but they can show off with more if they want to.

Matt Wells, English Champion, who defeated Freddie Welsh and is after Ad Wolgast for the title.

Kline-Kilbane fight, it is generally understood that such a match will follow as a natural result of the coming battle. It is probable that Rivers would not consent to meet the winner before the early part of September, as his three weeks' vacation would take him over to the first week in August.

The contest next Saturday will introduce another new scrapper to the local bugs in Paul Kohler, a protege of Jimmy Dunn. Kohler is said to be a live wire, and he has an idea he will give Kid Dalton an awful shock when they come together. Kohler has considerable of a rep. but Dalton has eaten many of that kind alive, and as these boys are to make the easy weight of 135 pounds at noon on Saturday, the bugs should see some lively slugging, for Dalton does not back up.

TALES OF THE FIGHTERS.

BY DE WITT VAN COURT.

NOW that Ad Wolgast is the champion of the world, he is more in the limelight than ever. While I never liked Wolgast's style as a fighter, personally he is a fine little fellow, and one of the most modest fighters I have ever met. He is a miniature Jeffries physically, and in many other ways has the same personality as Jeff. He cares absolutely nothing for the notoriety and excitement that goes with a championship.

Ad is also one of the few fighters that appreciates the services of a good manager. A year ago today Tom Jones did not have a dollar and by his hard rustling and good match making has succeeded in making matches that has netted $80,000 for Wolgast and over $20,000 for himself in the past year alone. The money has all been safely invested in good real estate.

Wolgast pulled off one of the coolest things I have ever seen in the recent contest with Moran. The most critical time in a contest with a fighter is just before the bell rings for the fight to start, and if he is nervous at all he will show it plainer then than any other time. While he was waiting in his corner for the fight to start he turned and hap-pened to see me sitting near his corner and cooly informed me that there was a telegram in the office for me and asked me if I had received it. Instantly I had replied to him the bell rang and he walked to the center of the ring to meet Moran.

It will be hard to beat a man with nerves like that. During the twelfth round Tom Jones told Wolgast to go in and finish Owen, he was overheard by one of the sporting writers who came around to our side of the ring and instructed his photograpner to get ready for the knockout, the knockout happened in the next round just as Jones said it would.

I had the pleasure of meeting Jimmie Britt at the ringside as neat and natty as ever, and just over from London. Jimmie says they can sentence him to London for ever if tney will allow him to come back to old Frisco once and awhile. He also says the Londoners are all right and never met a better class of sports. While they are strong for their own people they will give all a square deal if they are treated fairly themselves. Jimmie did not care so much for Paris.

While watching the crowd gather at the Wolgast-Moran fight I discovered Al Neil sitting quietly with two friends. Al was, about nine years ago, the most popular middleweight that San Francisco ever had, and one of the cleverest boxers in the country. I found that Al was back at his old business of sign painting. He has proved to be one of the few fighters that can go back to hard work. I remarked that he should do well, as he had many friends in San Francisco. He replied: "Yes, while in the fighting game, but I had to go back to sign painting to find out just who my true friends were." Al deserves better luck, as when he was a fighter he raised six little orphan sisters.

Frankie Neil, the little bantam, was also there, but is out of the fight game for good on account of his eyes. He has to wear glasses now.

Tom McCarey came very near going without Eddie Smith for referee on the Fourth, but Tom, with his usual good luck, came out all right. Eddie Hanlon, who is a great friend of Eddie Smith, induced Smith to wait over a day on his trip south for the Rivers-Coster fight. Hanlon was slated to referee a fight at Bakersfield, so he and Smith went down on the same train.

Smith intended to stop long enough to see the fight and catch the midnight train for Los Angeles, which would bring him here on the morning of the Fourth in plenty of time. When they arrived at the arena, in Bakersfield, they discovered that there was to be no fight, as the men would not fight for the money in sight. Hanlon immediately went to the promoter and demanded his money before he would consent to referee. After a warm argument he succeeded in getting $30 for his expenses. The crowd by this time, which consisted principally of drunken Mexicans and toughs from around the town, became ugly and demanded their money back or give them a fight. This was too much for Smith, so he quietly told Hanlon that it was time to go, but Hanlon could not see how he was to get out without trouble, as they were partially blaming him, too. Hanlon told Smith to sneak out quietly and get a machine as soon as he could and have it cranked up ready for a quick exit from the place. In the meantime Hanlon was making excuses and telling them to wait awhile longer, and he might fix things up all right. By this time Smith had returned with the machine waiting as Hanlon had ordered. Just as Smith had given Hanlon the signal, a big burly said to Hanlon: "If anybody knows anything about his thing you do, and we want you to do something pretty quick." So Hanlon in his usual smiling way replied: "Just wait a minute and I will make these guys fight." Hanlon walked quickly toward the box office, but did not stop, he kept right on through the entrance to the waiting machine with Smith in it, pretty well scared.

The car was off in an instant for the depot, where they arrived half an hour ahead of train time. Smith would have none of Bakersfield, so ordered the driver on to the next town, about six miles further away. Hanlon says the road was blistered all the way from the speed they were traveling. They arrived in time for Smith to catch the south-bound train, and Hanlon had to wait another half hour for the north-bound train.

Hanlon said he was luckier than Duck Sullivan. Duck was about Hanlon's size and one of the biggest little fight fans I ever saw. Sullivan was quite prominent during the early days of Al Neil, and had quite a reputation as a trainer and second. Joe Walcott, after he got on the down grade, was matched at Colma with the Dixie Kid and Duck was chosen to referee, I never could find out why. Alex. Greggains was handling Walcott and at the end of the fight, Duck gave the decision to the Dixie Kid and jumped out of the ring as quickly as he could.

In the excitement he forgot his coat and hat, so turned and ran back to get them, as he reached up on the platform of the ring, Greggains kicked him in the face. Duck got up and never stopped for his hat or anything else but beat it for the door and on the way got a few more punches. He kept right on out and back to San Francisco, nine miles away, as hard as he could run. He was met about 3 o'clock the next morning on Market street all in. Duck, to this day, will explain to any one who will listen why he gave the decision to the Dixie Kid. Hanlon says he surely has it on Duck as there was no automobiles in those days.

Joe Rivers proved conclusively on the Fourth that he has a better chance for the championship than any other featherweight in the country. I saw Joe in his first fight, when he did not look to weigh over 100 pounds. He showed all the traits of a great boxer then. He did things then, natural for him, that many men are never able to learn. One of which was his feinting and judge of time. He would feint to make the other fellow lead, and when he saw the blow coming, would pull his head away and make the blow fall short. This is one of the most difficult things to do successfully. These things may be cultivated to a large extent, but never as well as when they come naturally. Any man who is gifted in this way is bound to improve very fast. About the only doubt there seems to be now, is about his gameness. The principal reason for that is the fact that he comes from Mexican stock.

Any one questioning his gameness for that reason is not giving him a fair chance. Gameness is born in a man regardless of his nationality. The Jews for years had the reputation of being quitters, and the Irish the reputation for being the gamest. We know better than that, some of the gamest men that ever fought were Jews and some of the rankest quitters we ever had were Irish. If any one thinks that Jews are quitters, let them take a trip to London in the White chapel district. The majority are Jews and you can get a fight any minute in the day, and, they will stay with you as long as you care to. How about such men as Joe Chonisky, Abe and Monte Attell, Joe Bernstein and dozens of others that have shown their gameness on many occasions.

What about Jim Flynn, Tony Caponi, Hugo Kelly, and many other boxers of the Italian stock; Solly Smith of Mexican stock; Jack Root and Jimmie Memsic, Bohemians? Irish, Scotch, English, Dutch, Germans and Americans have game men. I don't think it is fair to Joe Rivers, to say he is a quitter until we see him quit cold, and especially so when he is one of our home talent. Joe Rivers is just the kind of men we need in the fighting game to bring it back where it used to be. He is a scientific boxer and fighter combined, and fights along the lines of the rules as they were intended. No one wants these scientific tappers; so when we seek a clever boxer backed up with a good, clean, solid punch, we surely have the goods in Joe.

Gave the Wind Credit.

The actor's sense of humor is always uppermost. He will jest about his hard work, his ill luck or almost anything that offers an opportunity for a joke, but, in spite of this, he is a far more serious person than the general public believes him to be. Generally, too, he has courage—the courage to smile when his heart is heavy.

An instance of this kind of courage is shown in the following story: A comedian, who was known to be in desperate straits, was invited to a social gathering one evening. When the poor actor arrived he was seen to be thinly clad, although the weather was bitter cold. He looked, also, as if he had not had any too much nourishment for some time. The hostess greeted him cordially.

"I am so glad to see you," she said. "How well you are looking."

"Yes," replied the comedian, "the wind has been very nutritious of late."—[Saturday Evening Post.

Too Much Water for Him.

Tom Wallace of Louisville, Ky., took a trip with his friend, Louis Brownlow, from San Francisco to Japan. A few nights after sailing from Frisco, Brownlow found Wallace hugging the rail on deck, while the waves, lashed by a high wind, rolled about the ship like young mountains. Wallace was ill at ease and very lugubrious.

"Well, Tom," said Brownlow cheerfully, "what do you think of the Pacific Ocean?"

"It is," said Wallace gloomily, "the damndest, wettest country I ever was in."—[Popular Magazine.

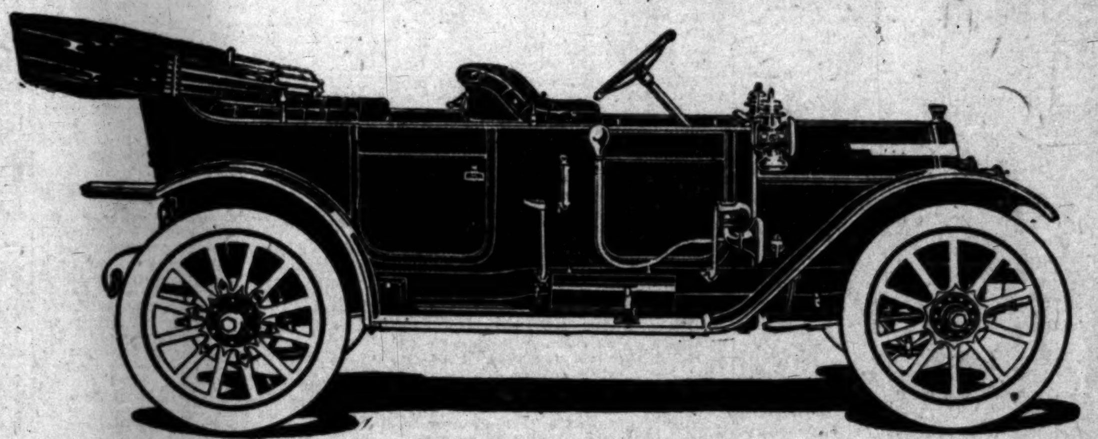
Here Are Two Astounding Values for Next Yea

The Self-Starting Chalmers "Thirty-Six"



A New Exquisitely Finished, Luxuriously Equipped, Up-to-the-Minute Car
Long Stroke Motor—Four Speeds and Reverse—Compressed Air Starter
Thirty-Six by Four Wheels—Bosch Dual Ignition—Continental
Demountable Rims—Lamps, Prestolite and Tire Irons
Sells in Los Angeles for $1950

IN 1909 CHALMERS STARTLED THE WORLD by announcing the first real four-cylinder automobile for $1500. Other makes followed the lead and rushed to the front with all kinds of motor cars at prices around $1500.

DURING 1910 AND 1911 you have seen nearly every kind of a motor car offered at prices from $1000 to $1500—all due to the extraordinary success of the Chalmers car of 1909.

FOR TWO YEARS THE CHALMERS ENGINEERS have been working to better the Chalmers car—details of construction, materials, little improvements here and there—all to give the user the BEST motor car in the world at the price.

THIS YEAR THEY GIVE YOU LUXURY—This year they have turned their attention to giving you the luxury. The exclusive features—the conveniences heretofore only offered on the Five Thousand Dollar car—are now all possessed by the Chalmers "Thirty-six." Compare these features with the high-priced cars, and then think if there is any OTHER car that gives you such value for $1950.

IT'S A SELF-STARTING CAR—It starts every time, just by pressing a button. It's the Chalmers Patented Compressed Air System. No monkeying with delicate electrical motors or other junky devices.

IT HAS POWER—It has the power you need for our hilly country. The motor, 4¼x5¼, is a long-stroke type; ball-bearing crank shaft, of course—so you get all the power that it generates.

FOUR FORWARD SPEEDS—No high-powered car is RIGHT without four forward speeds, but who before ever offered it on anything but the HIGH-PRICED cars? Four speeds in the mountains send you flying up the grade, where the other fellow can't make it on the high gear and his second speed is too slow. Unless you have actually driven a four-speed car, you cannot realize what this means.

VENTILATED FORE DOORS AND INSIDE CONTROL. Fore doors have proved themselves a luxury—but in this climate, in summer, are too hot unless thoroughly ventilated. You can regulate this air on this new car.

DASH ADJUSTMENT FOR CARBURETOR. No more raising the hood—mixture is now regulated by a needle valve on the dash. You don't have to stop your car to change the mixture.

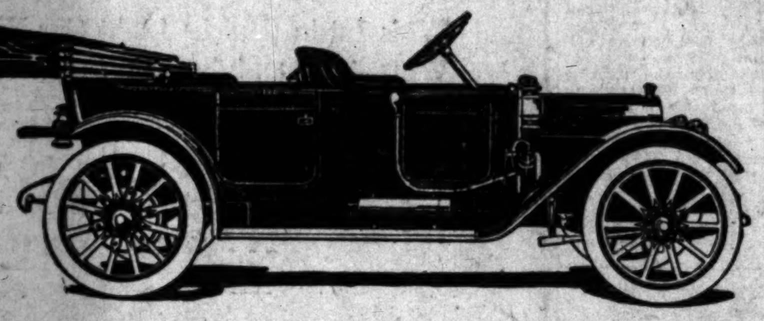
DEMOUNTABLE RIMS, OF COURSE—Another luxury from the HIGH-PRICED CARS. We furnish Continental standard) Demountable Rims.

THE CHASSIS is the same general type as used for the past years. Motor en bloc—ball bearings throughout—multiple clutch—enclosed fly wheel—unit power plant—two crank shaft—all brakes on rear wheels.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING SYSTEMS. Two systems of lighting are offered at a slight additional cost. Electric tail lamps and 100-hour storage battery for $25—or, for Hundred Dollars, you get the Vesta system of electric lights, side and tail lamps. A dynamo on the engine charges the battery which supplies this equipment. No No trouble. Press a button and you always have a light.

LUXURY OF FINISH. This year all cars will be more finished. But the Chalmers, again, sets, the pace. For beauty finish, soft, springy upholstering, fineness of detail, artistic sign and exquisite beauty of appointments—no other compare. No picture shows the workmanship—the minute details. You must personally examine this car be a revelation to you.

And Here Is the Fully Equipped Chalmers "Thirty" at $1650



This New 1912 Car Equipped With Magneto, Mohair Top, Glass Front, Prestolite and Lamps, Ventilated Fore-doors, Inside Control Which Heretofore Sold for $2000 Equipped As Above; By a Tremendous Increase in Manufacturing Facilities
Is Now $1650 Here

THIS IS THE STANDARD "THIRTY"—The car by which all other cars are judged. So great has been the success of this car, so satisfactory has been its relation of power to size, that a new 1912 car embodying the general standard features of the "Thirty" has been designed, and by a tremendous increase of factory facilities can now be marketed at a price which puts a Chalmers within reach of everyone.

YOU CAN NOW BUY A CHALMERS FOR $1650 in Los Angeles; equipped with magneto, Prestolite lamps, best mohair top, glass front, fore door ventilated body—ready to run.

THE FORE-DOOR TORPEDO IS THE SAME PRICE. We now furnish the Fore-Door Torpedo, the Fore-Door Roadster, or the Fore-door Standard Touring Car at the same price—$1650—fully equipped.

And the 1912 Cars Are Now On Our Salesroom Floor!

5.—One day while strolling through the park together side by side,
They reached a little shady spot close by the driveway's side,
And there, upon his bended knee, beneath the boughs above,
The Herr Lieutenant started in to tell his tale of love.

6.—But just as he began his speech an officer went by.
The Herr Lieutenant spied him with a shifting, frightened eye,
And, leaping to his feet, he stood saluting him with awe.
"Oxcoose me, dear," he said, "that was the Colonel von Coldslaw!"

7.—Again he fell upon his knee and spoke a word or two.
More soldiers passed, and each from him a salutation drew.
Once more he tried, and nearly popped, but stopped it as before,
As down the drive, in regal state, there came the Emperor!

8.—Until the Emperor had passed, the Widow was forgot.
And when to her he turned again he met a temper hot.
"My duty to my Emperor——!" she stopped him with her eyes.
"LOVE WAS YOUR EMPEROR JUST THEN!" exclaimed the Widow Wise.

terials, little improvements here and there—all to give the user the BEST motor car in the world at the price.

THIS YEAR THEY GIVE YOU LUXURY—This year they have turned their attention to giving you the luxury. The exclusive features—the conveniences heretofore only offered on the Five Thousand Dollar car—are now all possessed by the Chalmers "Thirty-six." Compare these features with the high-priced cars, and then think if there is any OTHER car that gives you such value for $1950.

can't make it on the high gear and his second speed is too slow. Unless you have actually driven a four-speed car, you cannot realize what this means.

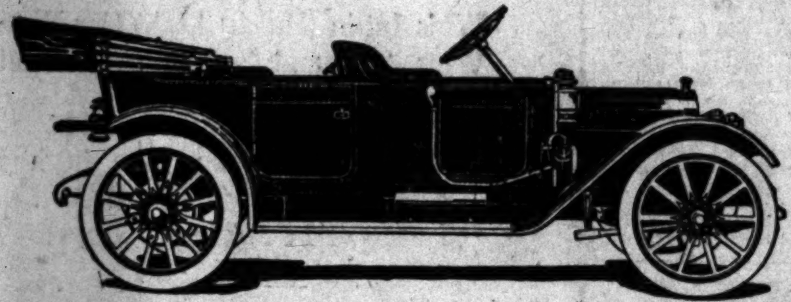
VENTILATED FORE DOORS AND INSIDE CONTROL. Fore doors have proved themselves a luxury—but in this climate, in summer, are too hot unless thoroughly ventilated. You can regulate this air on this new car.

DASH ADJUSTMENT FOR CARBURETOR. No more raising the hood—mixture is now regulated by a needle valve on the dash. You don't have to stop your car to change the mixture.

lights, side and tail lamps. A dynamo on the engine charges the battery which supplies this equipment. No trouble. Press a button and you always have a light.

LUXURY OF FINISH. This year all cars will be more finished. But the Chalmers, again, sets, the pace. finish, soft, springy upholstering, fineness of detail, sign and exquisite beauty of appointments—no compare. No picture shows the workmanship— minute details. You must personally examine this be a revelation to you.

And Here Is the Fully Equipped Chalmers "Thirty" at $1650



This New 1912 Car Equipped With Magneto, Mohair Top, Glass Front, Prestolite and Lamps, Ventilated Fore-doors, Inside Control Which Heretofore Sold for $2000 Equipped As Above; By a Tremendous Increase in Manufacturing Facilities Is Now $1650 Here

THIS IS THE STANDARD "THIRTY"—The car by which all other cars are judged. So great has been the success of this car, so satisfactory has been its relation of power to size, that a new 1912 car embodying the general standard features of the "Thirty" has been designed, and by a tremendous increase of factory facilities can now be marketed at a price which puts a Chalmers within reach of everyone.

YOU CAN NOW BUY A CHALMERS FOR $1650 in Los Angeles; equipped with magneto, Prestolite lamps, best mohair top, glass front, fore door ventilated body—ready to run.

THE FORE-DOOR TORPEDO IS THE SAME PRICE. We now furnish the Fore-Door Torpedo, the Fore-Door Roadster, or the Fore-door Standard Touring Car at the same price—$1650—fully equipped.

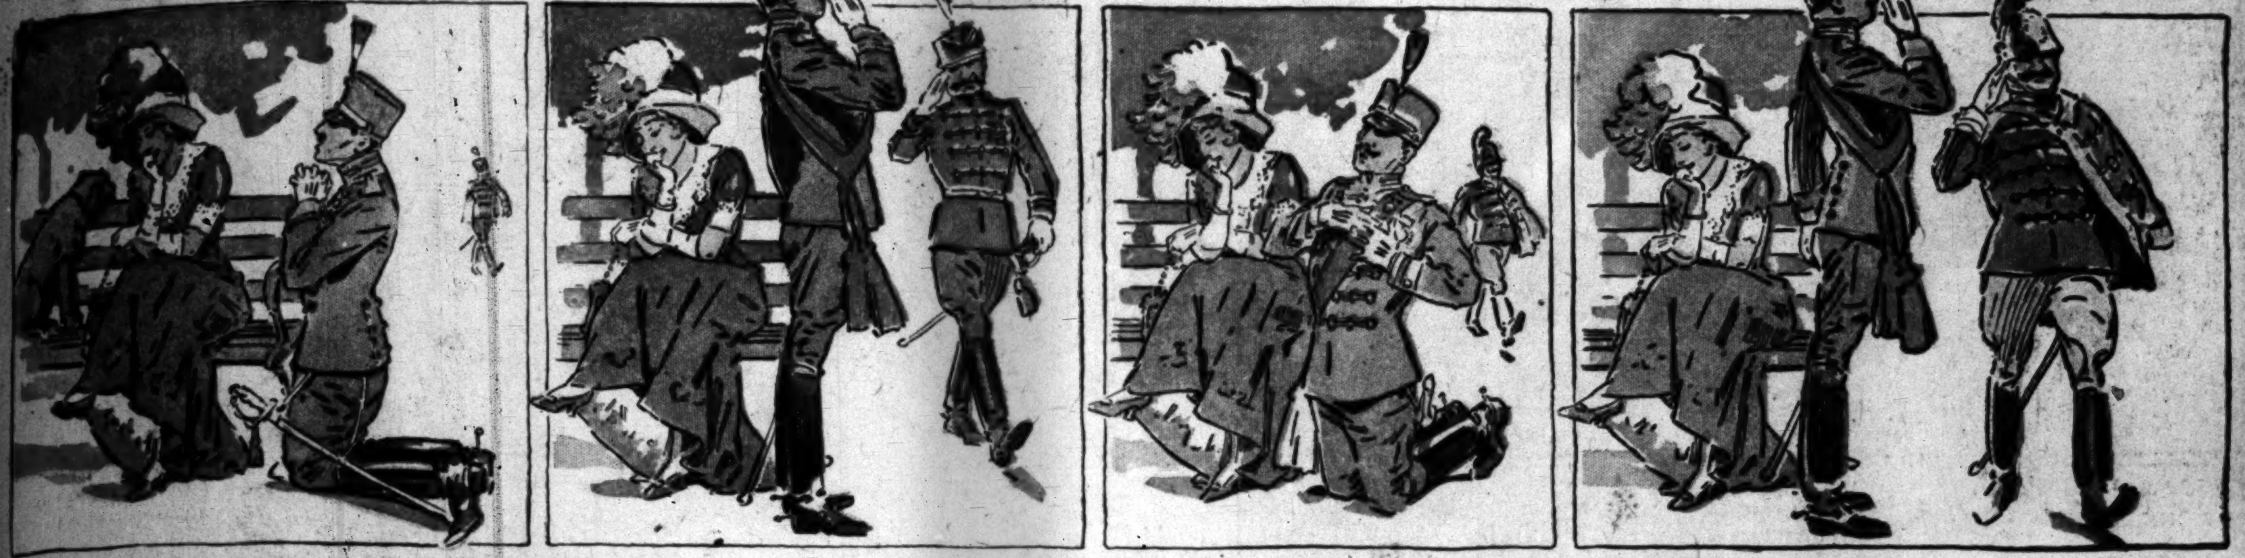
THE WIDOW WISE

Verses by Paul West — Drawings by W. H. Loomis

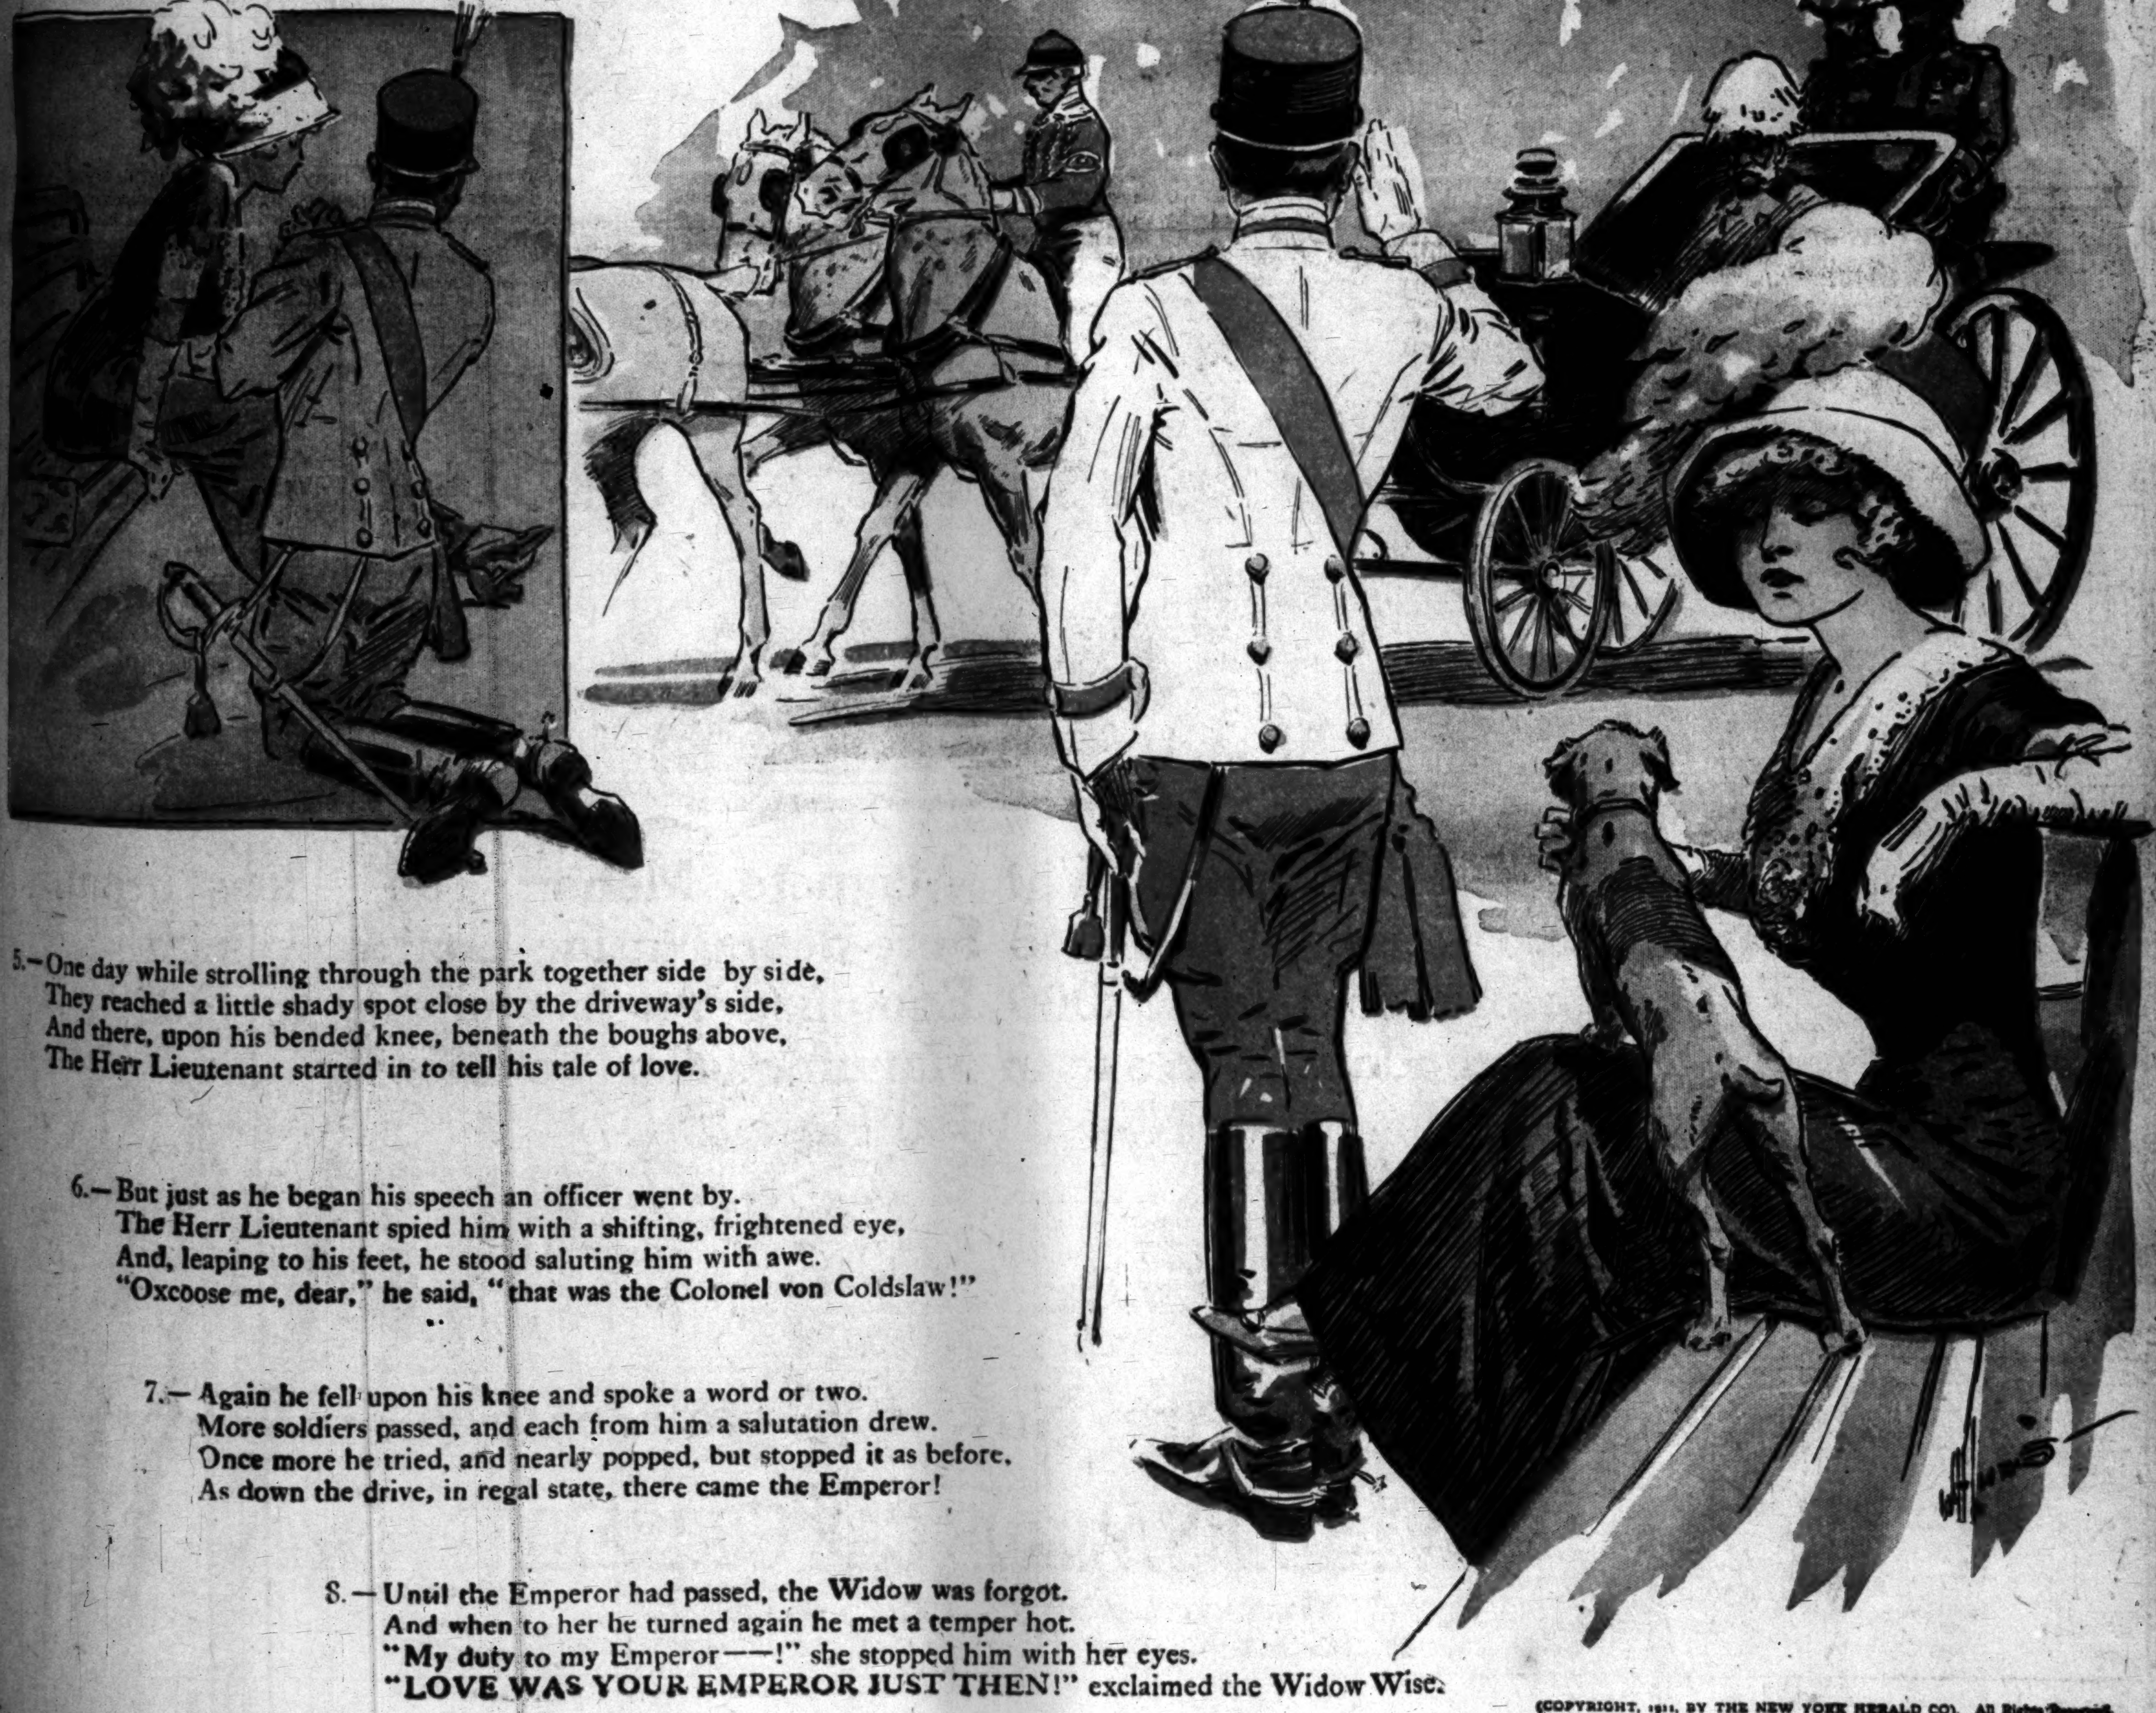


1.—Perhaps in Europe you have met a lot of finer men
Than Austria's handsome soldiers, but I don't know where or when.
They're first of all Vienna's sights to open tourists' eyes,
And they made a deep impression on the lovelorn Widow Wise.

2.—She saw them in the theatres, in the streets, at her hotel;
Tall, stalwart in their spotless garb, the swellest of the swell!
And one, particularly, Herr Lieutenant Franz von Gall,
Appeared to her enraptured sight the finest one of all.

3.—Across his manly bosom stretched a line of medals bright.
They said that he had captured them in many a gory fight.
"Ah, me!" exclaimed the Widow, "now no further need I roam;
There is the sort of husband I would like to carry home!"

4.—They met through certain mutual friends and in the Prader walked.
Of many things, but mostly of his valor great they talked.
"For you, Fraulein," he said to her, "still braver deeds I'd do.
Yah, I'd defy the whole big world to prove my love for you!"



5.—One day while strolling through the park together side by side,
They reached a little shady spot close by the driveway's side,
And there, upon his bended knee, beneath the boughs above,
The Herr Lieutenant started in to tell his tale of love.

6.—But just as he began his speech an officer went by.
The Herr Lieutenant spied him with a shifting, frightened eye,
And, leaping to his feet, he stood saluting him with awe.

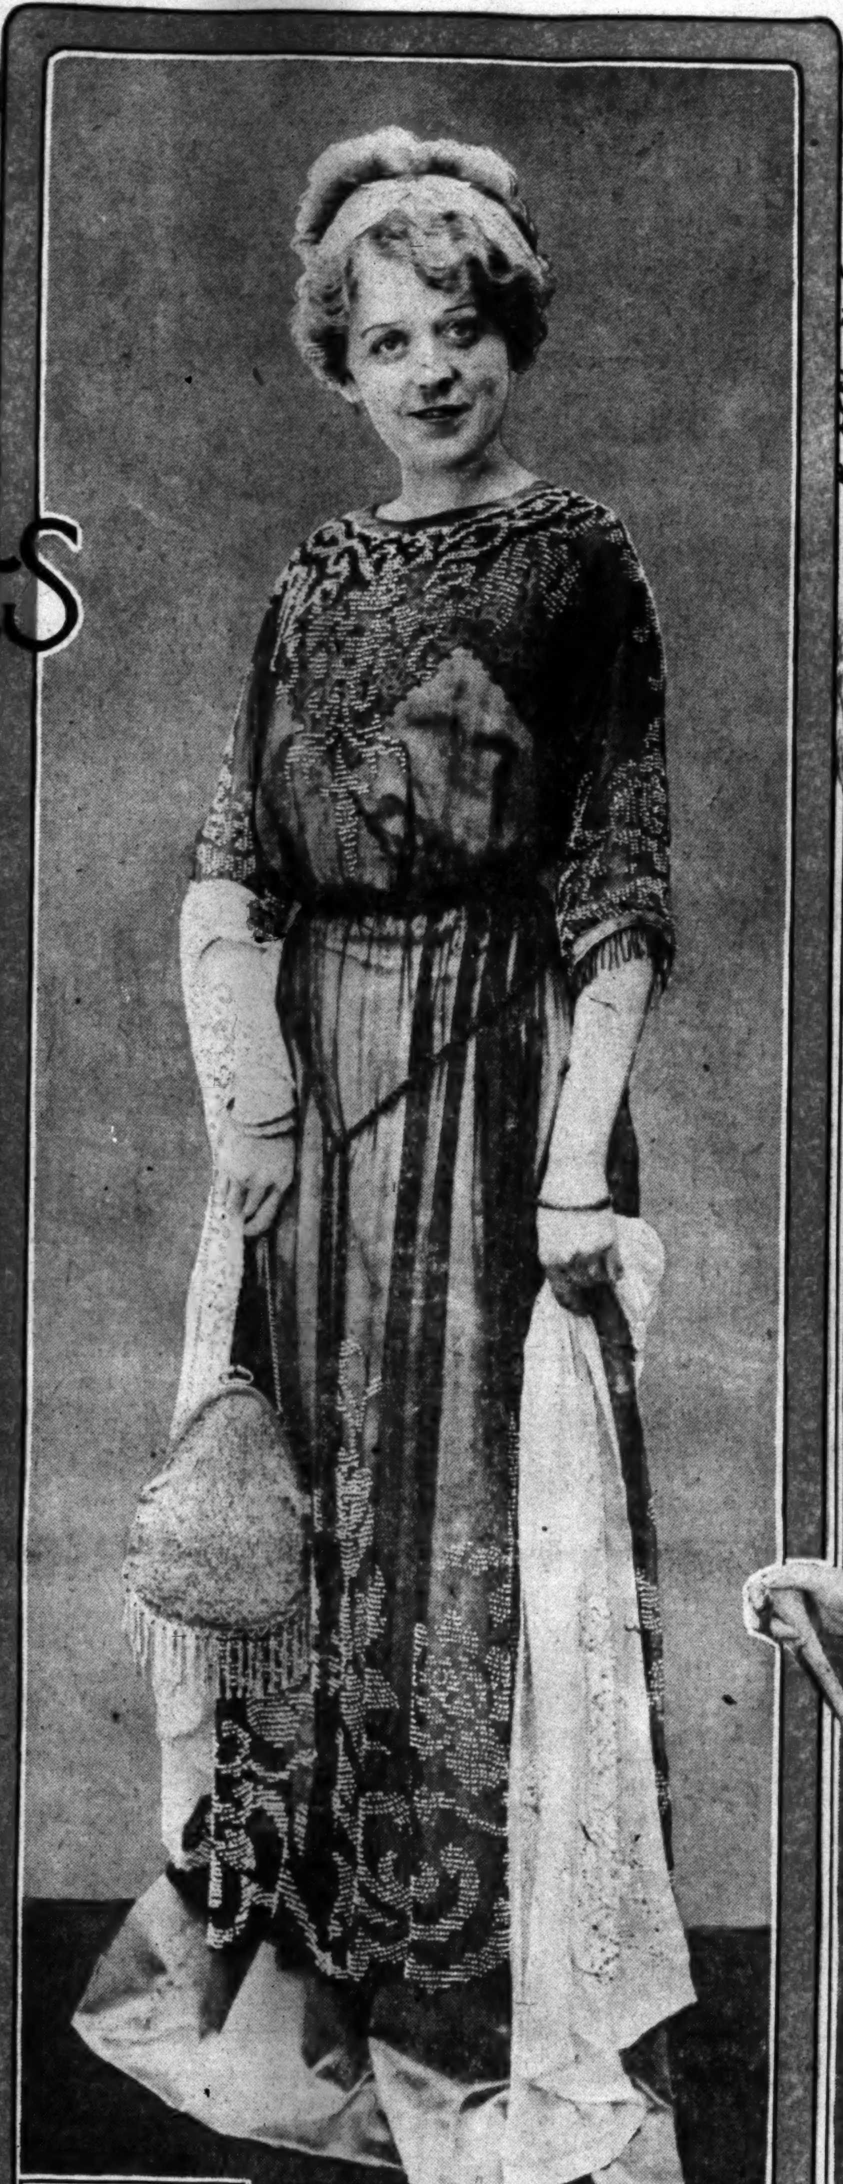
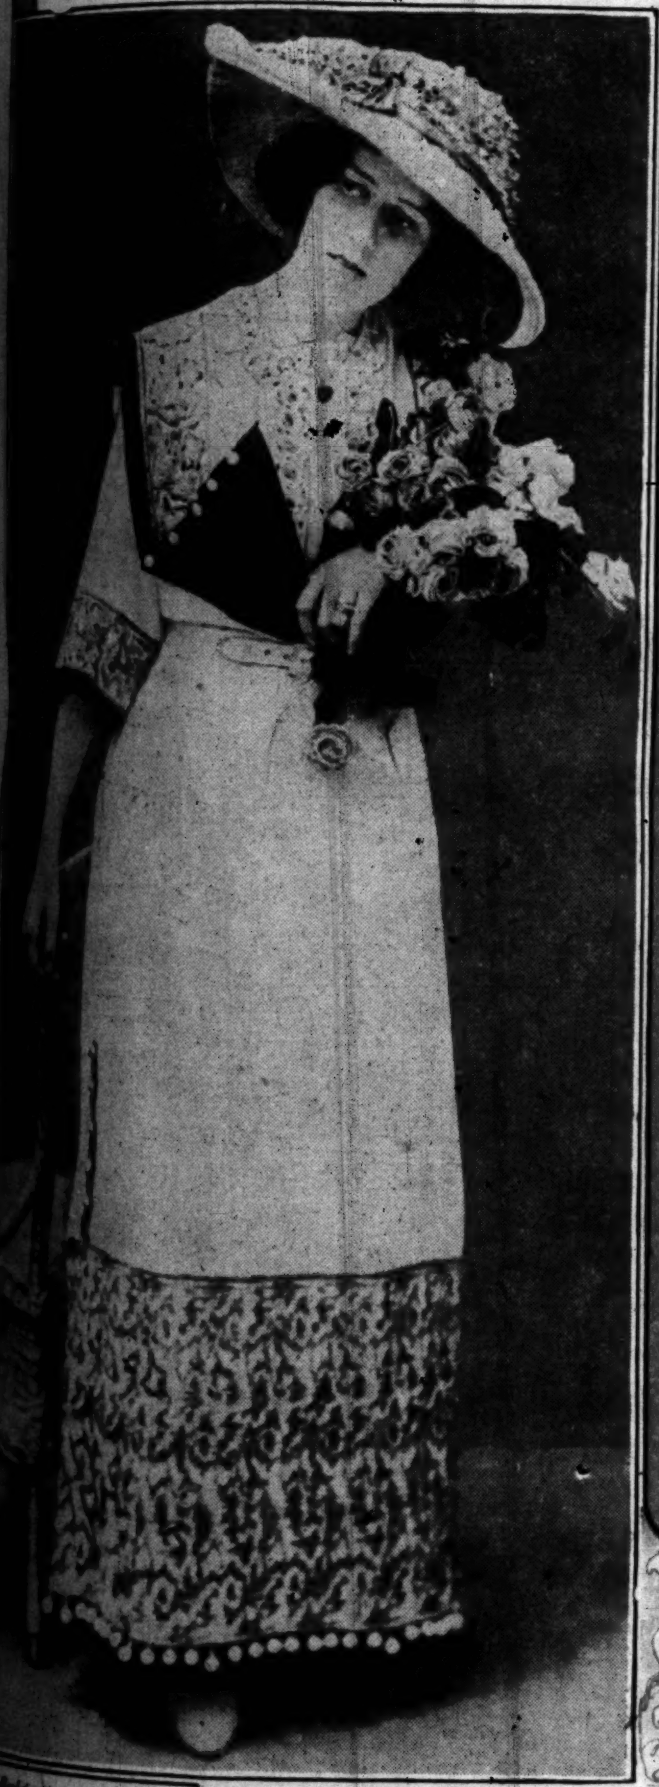
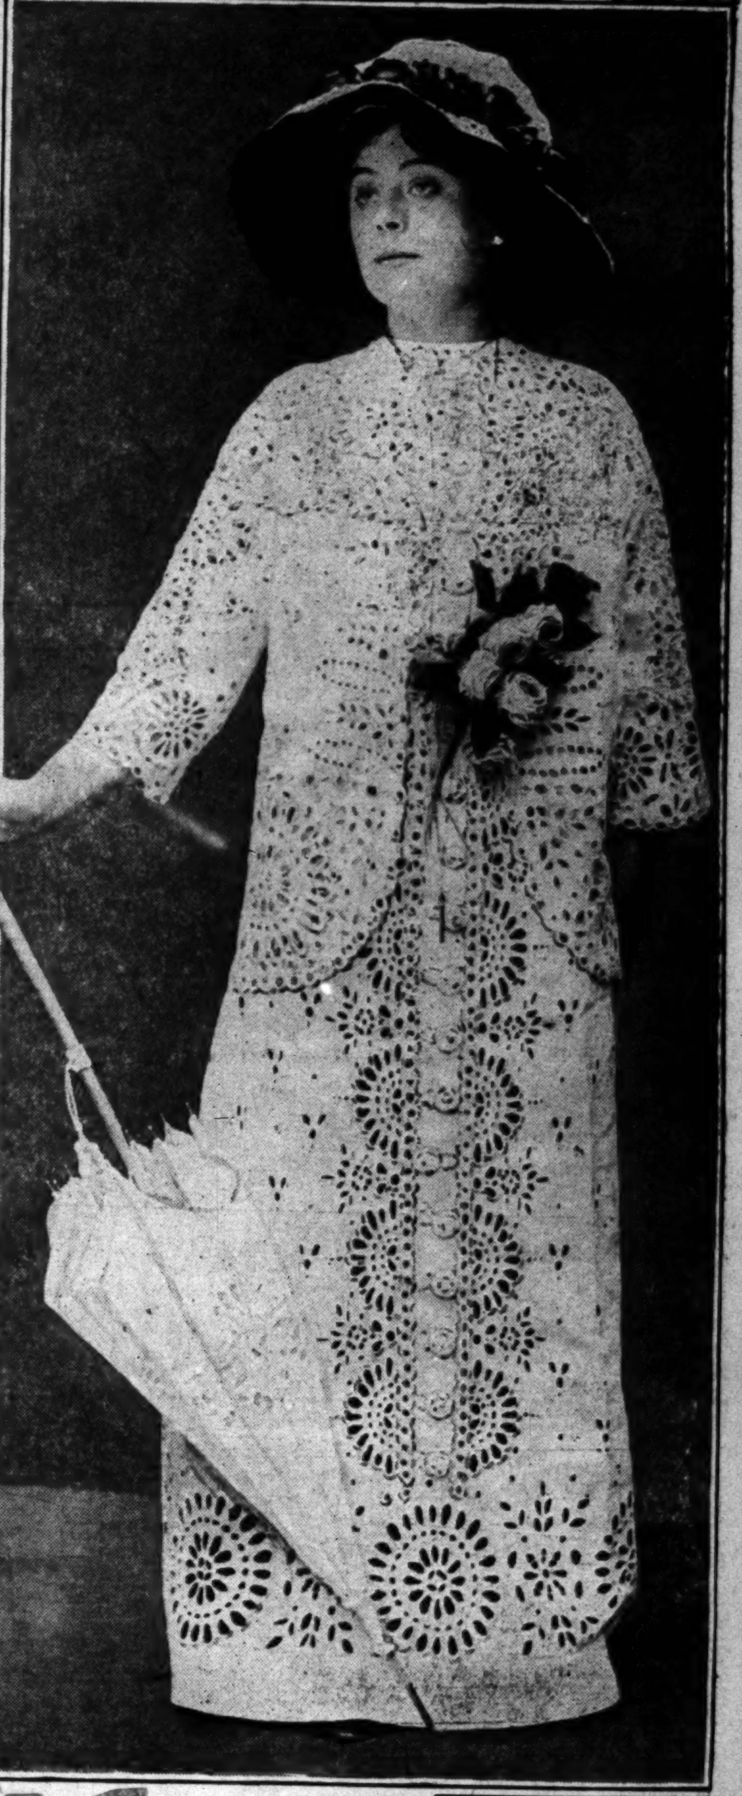
THREE SUMMER EMBROIDERIES



Beads on Bandeau, Tunic, Scarf and Bag.



Bulgarian—in Colored Wool



The English Eyelet Work.

THE dominant note in the decoration of the summer dress is embroidery! Embroidery in all forms, ranging from the exquisite handwork of the French nuns to the coarse, effective work in wool of the peasants of southeastern Europe, is the contributing agent in the world of woman's beautiful dress. The means to the delightful embroidery end is varied. The touch can be given by colored thread, by black-and-white treatments, by coarse and fine silks and by transparent or opaque beads. The hopeful message of this song is in the fact that these summer embroideries can be yours without buying and for the cost of a few hours and a trifling sum.

The Bulgarian, eyelet and bead embroideries are characteristic of the accepted summer styles. They stand here before you in epitome. Look at each figure and learn the salient points from the models.

The Bulgarian embroidery is characterized by bright colors in solid patches. The stitches are loose and of coarse thread—in this case of wool. Blue, red, gray, black and yellow are favorite tones in which to work the design, that can be conventional patchwork or flowers.

It is exploited on the voile dress. The loose peasant sleeves are edged with a band of the wool embroidery, a piping of velvet below. The deep collar is also edged with a band of the same decoration, its unusual tabs turned up and held under pearl buttons. A deep hem of embroidery edges the skirt and ball fringe finishes the hem. This embroidery is used on linen, on gingham, on batiste, in little touches or in immense decorative pieces. It is highly effective and decidedly easy.

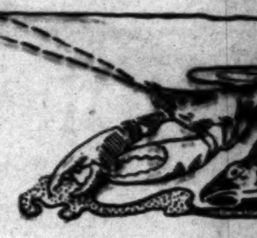
"Broderie anglaise," or English eyelet embroidery, has returned with double force after a short rest. From head to foot the second model shows the vogue for the favorite. Here a silk hat is used for the foundation, over which eyelet embroidery is placed to form a full crown and a fitted brim. The jacket is short and straight. In it are shown the extended shoulder lines, the three-quarter sleeves, the scalloped edges. Under this is worn a fitted linen dress of eyelet embroidery. A plain panel at the front is trimmed with Irish crocheted buttons. A plain hem finishes the skirt. Perhaps your mother has a dress worked by hand in the favorite grape or pineapple design of years ago. Combine it with plain linen or muslin, but use the embroidery by all means.

Beads worked in designs are extremely effective on evening costumes. They have not been confined to the evening hours. On afternoon blouses or simple little dresses for summer beads are used in every color and form. Over a cerise satin underdress the black tunic of chiffon is placed. A deep yoke of white beads is embroidered in a conventional design. The sleeves are ornamented the same way and edged with black fringe. The top of the bodice is collarless, and there is a side opening at the tunic. Notice how beads have invaded the realm of accessories. The bandeau is beaded tulle, caught at the front by a delicate butterfly; the scarf is a scintillating mass of iridescent beads, and the evening bag is of solid beadwork, fringed.

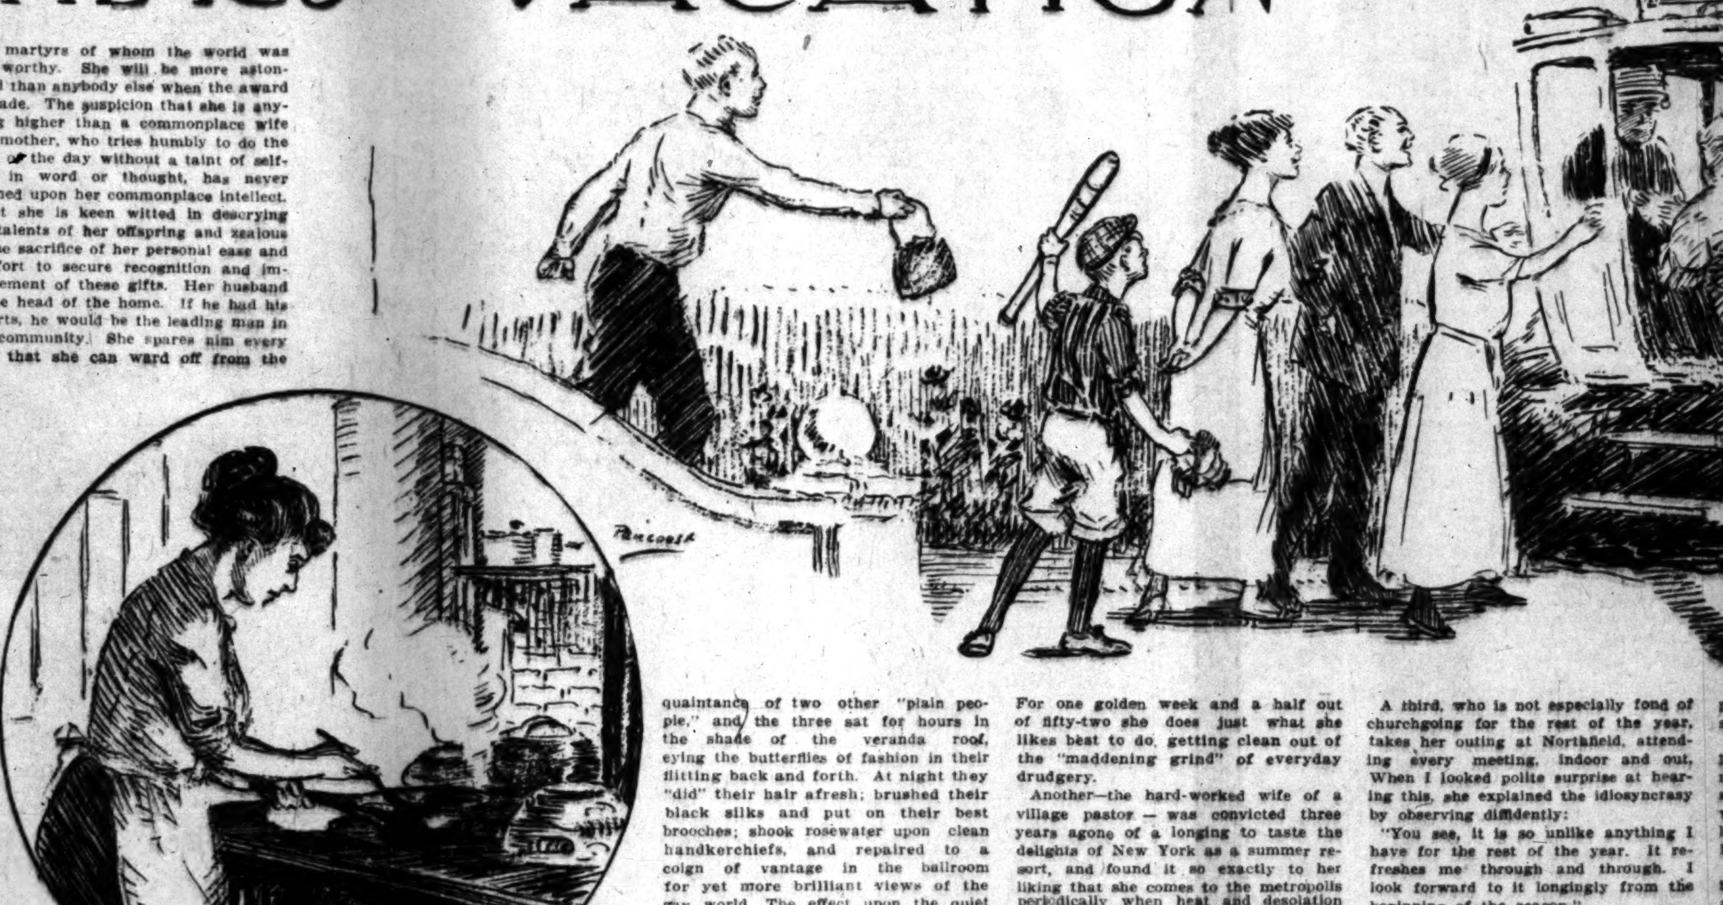
Embroidery, the favorite decoration from the most primitive Indian to the well-dressed American woman of today, is beautiful and, to quote the poet, is "its own excuse for being." Do not neglect the feature in any of its forms for the summer. It deserves the popularity that is being accorded it.

SCHOOL for HOUSEWIVES

By MARION HARLAND



MOTHER'S VACATION



THE vacation of the boys and girls who are in school or college began early in June. The young ladies of the household are mak- g ready for outings of varying lengths July and August. House parties, a ek's sojourn at the seashore, or at e springs, or in the Adirondack woods, set down in the calendar of this one, d her sister has an invitation to join camping gang bound for the Rangeley kes, or the mountaintop somewhere Vermont. Even Pater Familias has gaged to "go a-fishing" when his cation comes in due order.

here is an order of precedence and ccession in the matter of rest and creation in every business house. om "boss" to porter, the right to lay for a given time is as firmly es- olished as the rate of wages and the ne of payment. The humane mistress s always seen to it that each maid s her week or more of respite from gular duties, and managed to have e summer labors as light as was con- tent with the comfort of the diminish- family. Of later years she of the mposite name expects her vacation ong with the rest of the world's work- s. In entering a place, she mentions fact, if the employers omit to eak of it.

he is right! So are all the rest of r toilers, who recognize the imperative cessity of unbending the taut bow riodically and taking the harness from e draughthorse that he may roll upon e turf and, as the boys put it, "kick his heels" to get the ache and stiff- ss out of them. A wise practitioner nervous diseases told an overworked an on the verge of nervous prostration stop working overtime and try con- entiously to do every afternoon and ening "the thing he liked best to do— vays provided it was not work."

here you have the very essence and irit of vacation. The Latin root, "va- re," signifies to empty, to free and ave unoccupied. It is well to dig up root of a word sometimes, that we ay analyze flower or fruit.

once heard a rich—self-made—man that he saw no sense in a grown son taking a vacation; for his part had never had one in his life. That not since he went into a store as por- 's assistant at 14. He had worked days in the week for twelve months the year for forty years. "Nowa- ys," he went on to say, scornfully, ery whipsnapper of a clerk, on $6 must have his ten days off. As the ministers, nothing less than two nths will do for them; and, with that, ey go to pieces every three or four and require a foreign trip to build m up. It's nothing but a fashion and d."

t 45 he "went to pieces," dying at top—as the saying is—and drew his est breath at 50, after five years of ni-imbecility. The machine was worn t; the bow had lost pliancy; the beast burden was foundered and hopelessly ne.

Vith these facts in mind, I turn with rious look and thought to a passage a letter from an active member of our mily:

Say a word, please, for our house- ther at this season. She is the only ember of the household who does not joy a stated rest and relief from the res of the home. She sews for her ughters; urges the husband to take creation and to enjoy it to the full, d works from 'alarm clock to alarm ck.' In the name of humanity, won't u put in a plea for respite from the addening grind?"

'The maddening grind!" When duties ich were once a delight and a pride t to be that, nature sounds an alarm at means danger and much of it. A oman who loves her home and is a pital and cheerful housekeeper said me yesterday that she did not "want vote unless John would settle every orning what to order for luncheon and ner." That was as much responsibility she could carry, year in and year t. The mother in every home knows at she meant and felt; knows, too, ny she loses appetite for home food th the coming of the summer days e hates almost as heartily as the chil- en love them. It is bad enough to der meals, she will tell you, without ving to eat them. Also, that "noth- g tastes right." When the girls have eir own homes, and have to consider r 365 days in the year the problem of at to eat and how to serve it; to cal- late how to fit market bills to the tual income upon which she may aw to pay them; to set so good a ble that the waning appetites of hard- orked husband and schoolchildren, etting under examinations and heat ay be tempted and their strength kept until vacation, the now thoughtless oung women will look back remorse- lly to these days of ignorance and ncharitable judgment of the appetite- ss toiler-in-chief.

"She sews for the daughters." There an appalling quantity of sewing to be ne. The dressmaker who comes by e day to take breadths out of last mmer's skirts and fashion new waists it of the surplus material thus gained he one and only benefit to lean purses cruing from the scant skirts) expects other to help her for as many hours the day as other tasks will allow her do. The prospective wearers of the oridged garments have their hands and ads full of other matters. They are up etimes to play tennis in the nearest ourt or golf on a neighbor's links; ere are water parties and picnics and rolls "by the pale, silver light of the oon." The boys have their swimming ub and football team to "keep the life a fellow" until vacation begins in ood earnest. One and all, they would naracterize the lessons and other im- ositions of the last ten months as a naddening grind." The father of the ew would catch eagerly at the phrase s descriptive of his daily vocation, be a profession, commerce or a craft.

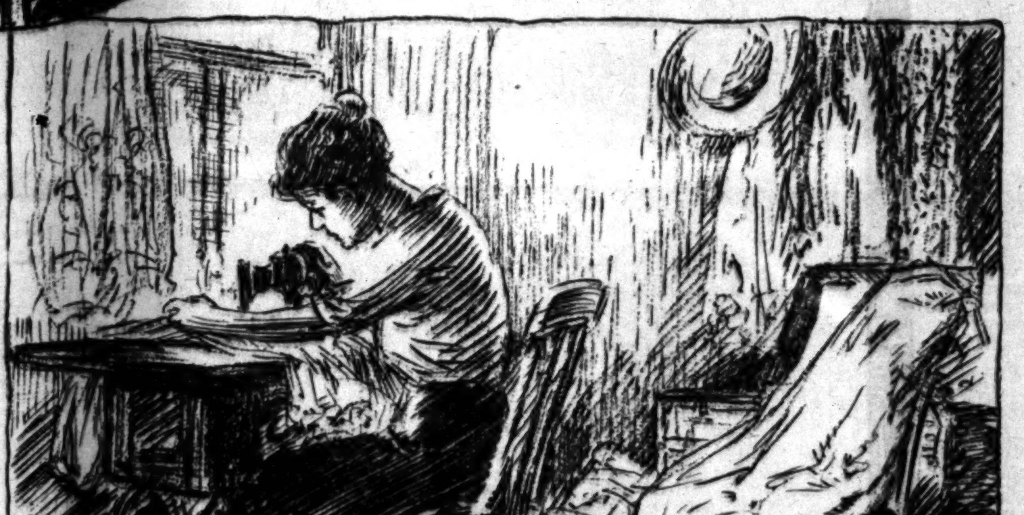
The mother has been driven to the ex- emest end of her wits to maintain a lerable standard of good humor and itward cheerfulness for the last few eeks. She has invented new dishes nd novel combinations of old stand- ys when she could not afford all the elicacies of the season demanded by apricious appetites. With broilers at cents per pound, she must, of neces- ty, have fried bacon and eggs for the unday-morning breakfast once in a hile and rice pudding for dinner in- ead of fresh berries. If she have a ast duck once a week, a series of olled mutton and the left-overs she an contrive to make from it, she must stablish an average expenditure or she ill overrun the weekly allowance, hich does not take into account winter arcity and summer luxuries. Boys ill outgrow their clothes and girls ust dress as well as their associates or affer mortifications that cut more eeply into the mother-heart than she ver confesses to them. Part of her ade is to put the best foot foremost. er husband and children know this to fact, and that, as Inspector Bucket ys of his wife's amateur detective ork, "She has acted up to it noble!" n the day when the Master balances ccounts with his employes the mother's ame will be found in line with heroes and martyrs of whom the world was not worthy. She will be more astonished than anybody else when the award is made. The suspicion that she is anything higher than a commonplace wife and mother, who tries humbly to do the duty of the day without a taint of self-pity in word or thought, has never dawned upon her commonplace intellect.

Yet she is keen witted in descrying the talents of her offspring and zealous in the sacrifice of her personal ease and comfort to secure recognition and improvement of these gifts. Her husband is the head of the home. If he had his deserts, he would be the leading man in the community. She spares him every care that she can ward off from the dear head already bowed by the weight of responsibility and the mysterious fardel she calls "business." The weight and "grind" of business are the abundant excuse for surly tempers, harsh criticism of her ways and works, impatient faultfinding with the children she shields from his wrath by every ingenious art love can devise.

In how many homes—even among the very well-to-do classes in our country—is mother's vacation a stated family "institution"? Who plans that she shall step out from the shadow of money cares and homely contrivances to get for husband and children of more moderate means recreation and holiday? She would plead against herself that she cannot be spared from the helm. Nobody else can run the house as she runs it; her duties may not be delegated to daughter or hirelings.

It is the plain duty, then, of husband and daughter to take the matter of mother's vacation out of her hands. She is so evidently incapable of caring for herself as her worth deserves that she should be cared for; armed intervention is necessary. Find out what she would like to do, obeying the advice of the nerve specialist, and see that she does it. I knew one confirmed homebody who, when put into the confessional by a visiting relative, owned to a long-indulged wish to go to Saratoga and watch the "folk" promenade the verandas by day and dance in the ballroom by night. Whereupon the family clubbed in and bought a new black silk for her; had it made handsomely and sent her off to Saratoga in company with a neighbor who was ordered to drink the waters. "Mother" had the time of her life! She made the acquaintance of two other "plain people," and the three sat for hours in the shade of the veranda roof, eying the butterflies of fashion in their flitting back and forth. At night they "did" their hair afresh; brushed their black silks and put on their best brooches; shook rosewater upon clean handkerchiefs, and repaired to a coign of vantage in the ballroom for yet more brilliant views of the gay world. The effect upon the quiet homebody's health and spirits was so pronounced that she has been sent to the "Springs" every August since. She has never drunk a teaspoonful of the waters. She does not need it. For one golden week and a half out of fifty-two she does just what she likes best to do, getting clean out of the "maddening grind" of everyday drudgery.

Another—the hard-worked wife of a village pastor—was convicted three years agone of a longing to taste the delights of New York as a summer resort, and found it so exactly to her liking that she comes to the metropolis periodically when heat and desolation are at their height; takes rooms in a quiet boarding house not far from Central Park, and is happier than the July days are long, storing up incidents and experiences that beguile thought and engage tongue all winter.



A third, who is not especially fond of churchgoing for the rest of the year, takes her outing at Northfield, attending every meeting, indoor and out. When I looked polite surprise at hearing this, she explained the idiosyncrasy by observing diffidently:

"You see, it is so unlike anything I have for the rest of the year. It refreshes me through and through. I look forward to it longingly from the beginning of the season."

She hit upon the truth without knowing one word of Latin. She empties her mind of all that absorbed thought and time for the rest of the year and follows whim rather than duty. The indulgence is a genuine vacation.

If you can beguile the mother into an expression of personal inclination on the subject of her holiday, exercise your ingenuity to extract it painlessly. That is, without letting her suspect what you are bent upon. If she have grown so weary in body and in spirit that she has no preference for one place or thing above the other, the greater is her need of a thorough change. When a woman of sense and native energy ceases to care whether she stays at home or goes abroad, and begs to be let alone, she is in a bad way. Sometimes, if teased by affectionate importunities, she flares up with the declaration that she "would as soon die as live—she is so tired out!" Poor, faithful, overdriven creature! She means what she says in her desperation.

Do John and the children, who have for all these months accepted her service as a matter of course, ever bethink themselves of the terrible statistics relative to New England madhouses? That was the name "asylums" bore in the olden times. We are familiar with the uncontested statement that more than one-half of the inmates of these institutions are farmers' wives. Who sits him down to reason out the puzzle? It is not the brainworker, or the ill-paid factory girl, or the shopwoman, of whose woes we have heard so much lately through letters to our Exchange, who is most likely to recruit the wretched corps of lunatics. The evil agencies in the work are the monotonous toil of the wife who does not set her foot off the farm for six months together, except when she can get the housework out of the way in time to go to church Sunday forenoon, and who then carries the dinner in her mind while she seems to take part in the devotions of the rest; the scarcity of amusements that might distract her thoughts from petty cares and ignoble anxieties—in three words, "the maddening grind" of housemother and wife. All this is what frets her into a

THE HOUSEMOTHERS' EXCHANGE

IMPORTANT NOTICE

BECAUSE of the enormous number of letters sent to the Exchange, I must ask contributors to limit their communications to 150 words, except in cases of formulas or recipes which require greater space. I want all my correspondents to have a showing in the Corner, and if my request in this respect is complied with it will be possible to print many more letters.

Attention is called to the fact that Marion Harland cannot receive money for patterns, as she has no connection with any department that sells them.

A Requested Fish Recipe

I HAVE tried your recipe for cheese souffle, and find it delicious.

Here is the recipe for "Gefalte Fisch" asked for by a member:

Gefalte Fisch

After cleaning and salting the fish, cut into slices three inches in length 2 pounds of pike and 1 pound of whitefish. Do not split the fish, but cut directly through the body, having the slices the whole thickness of the pike and whitefish. Scrape from each piece the meat from the skin (leaving the latter whole) and free the meat from bones. Chop the meat fine and mix with it 4 slices of soaked bread, onion (chopped fine), 2 eggs and salt and pepper to your taste.

Refill the skins with this forcemeat to exactly the original size and shape. Put the filled pieces of skin into a boiler and half cover them with water. Add to them a small onion minced, a small sprig of celery and one of parsley; pepper and salt to taste and boil slowly for an hour. Rub a tablespoonful of butter smooth with one of flour; stir into a cupful of milk. When the fish is done, stir this into the gravy and bring to a boil, stirring all the time. Take from the fire and mix quickly with a couple of well-beaten eggs.

Have you room for two more tried and true recipes?

A Good Way to Cook Beef's Liver

Grind 1½ pounds of raw liver and a sprig of celery with an onion through the "machine." Turn into a bowl and work into it 2 stale soaked rolls and ½ cupful of dried bread. Season to your liking with salt and pepper.

Have ready enough deep fat, hissing hot, to float doughnuts. Into this drop the mixture in large spoonfuls. When these are done on one side, turn and brown upon the other.

You should have at hand 2 cupfuls of potato balls cut with a gouge from parboiled potatoes. The water in which they are parboiled should be salted. Put these into a casserole with a large piece of butter, a minced onion and a large tomato, peeled and sliced. Brown in the oven. When the liver balls are done, put them into the casserole with the fat in which the liver was cooked. Rub smooth 1½ tablespoonfuls of flour in a little water and stir into the contents of the casserole with 2 cupfuls of hot water. Lastly, add a quart of boiled green peas and simmer all together for about ten minutes. Serve.

This may seem rather an elaborate recipe, but the dish is excellent when properly cooked.

Stuffed Potatoes, Spanish Style

This is a nice "left-over." Stiffen mashed potatoes with flour to bind it into a soft paste. Mold with your hands into rolls resembling medium-sized potatoes, rather long than round. Make a hole in the center of each with the middle finger, large enough to hold a tablespoonful of filling.

Filling for Stuffed Potatoes

Any cold meat you chance to have, chopped fine; a hard-boiled egg and an onion—also minced, and the onion browned—and a small red pepper.

The Spanish add chopped raisins and olives, but I do not like them.

Insert the filling and close the ends of the balls so that it will not ooze out. Roll in egg and cracker crumbs and fry in deep fat. They should look like potatoes roasted in their jackets.

They are nice for luncheon or as a dinner entree.

YOUR NEW CONTRIBUTOR (New York city).

Whose interesting communication would have appeared long ago but for the length of it. It is evident that you belong to a class of housewives who do not grudge the time and pains requisite to the preparation of novel dishes. Yet, study of the most elaborate of those she presents show that comparatively little time is spent in getting it up, provided one is systematic and dovetails minutes in the work.

Different Food Values

Will you give me the names of some books dealing with food values? For instance, if I don't want meat for dinner, what can I substitute for it that will give the same degree of nourishment?

L. F. B. (Los Angeles, Cal.).

I do not now recall the title of any one book which exactly covers the subject of food values. One can hardly pick up a newspaper without getting some light (or what the writer thinks is light) with regard to substitutes for meat, that may check in a measure the inordinate consumption of flesh foods which distinguishes Americans born. The English stand next to us in the line. We all eat too much meat, and a majority of us not enough vegetables and fruits.

Cheese has a recognized value as a nourishing and digestible food. Some learned dietitians set it next to meat; others maintain that eggs outrank it. Again, persistent vegetarians contend that nuts should supersede meats of all kinds in human sustenance.

Plausible theories, all! and each has its champion. The stubborn fact remains that many men and women cannot digest cheese; that more find nuts unwholesome. Even fish poisons the system of certain folk, lending force to a bad pun I think I have quoted before upon this page:

"What is the Englishman's meat is the Frenchman's poison (poisson)."

Common sense is backed by experience in deciding that each rational creature should determine for himself and for herself what articles of food best serve the main purpose of food, viz., to sustain Nature and to recoup her spent forces — in downright English, what agrees with the rational creature's stomach, and what does not. This done, let each make out a prudent dietary and turn to other matters the energies wasted upon theories of dietetic possibilities and iniquities.

Nevertheless, we shall be happy to convey to our California member the title of a work upon "Comparative Food Values."

Offers Magazines

I have some magazines I should be more than glad to send to "J. D. B." from time to time, as they come to me. I, in turn, can pass them along.

I also inclose a recipe I have found very good:

Coffee Custard Frappe

2 eggs, 2 teaspoonfuls of flour, 4 tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar.

Beat well together.

Put a cupful of coffee and the same of milk into a double boiler. When it nears the boiling point, pour it over the beaten eggs, flour, etc., and mix well. Return to the boiler and cook until it is like thick cream. Pour into small cups or glasses to cool. Serve ice cold with whipped cream. Should the coffee flavor not be pleasing, substitute a second cup of milk for it. Flavor with any extract you like.

Sometimes I use four cupfuls of milk to this quantity of eggs, flour, etc., cooking it twice as long.

Mrs. F. H. W. (Hackensack, N. J.).

The address of "J. D. B." has gone to you by mail. Thank you for your kindly intention toward him and for the recipe bestowed upon the Exchange.

Cake Made of Rye Bread Crumbs

It is with pleasure that I contribute to the Exchange a recipe for which request was lately made:

Six eggs, 1 cup of breadcrumbs, half a cake of chocolate, 1 cupful of blanched almonds, half a glassful of whisky, 1 teaspoonful of cinnamon; 1 lemon, rind and juice; a pinch of salt, half a teaspoonful of cloves and the same of baking powder, a tablespoonful of sugar for each egg. Beat whites and yolks separately.

This makes a large cake and is delicious.

In reply to query as to a book of salads, I would say that Mrs. Lemke has one upon salads and desserts. I think the price is reasonable.

NEW YORK HOUSEMOTHER (Pearl River, N. Y.).

A new contributor who leads off well.

I should, however, class the "cake" as a pudding. Does it keep well? And is there no flour to hold the crumbs together?

Six Suggestions

May I come within your charmed circle? I have some good ideas to share with fellow-members.

Sure Cure for Bunions

Gather the common plantain leaf, found in many back yards and upon lawns, and roll soft between the hands. Bind upon the bunion and keep it there night and day, changing the leaf three times a day. Be faithful and the bunion will go!

For Rheumatism

Mix together the juice of one lemon, a teaspoonful of salt and a pint of boiling water. Let it get cool and drink a glassful every morning before breakfast.

For a Sprain

One dram oil of wormwood and a gill of alcohol. Keep the injured part wet with it until the pain abates and the inflammation is gone.

For Constipation

Stir a teaspoonful of bran into a glass of hot water. Let it get cool and drink before breakfast every morning.

Meat Pie

When making a meat pie, run the meat through a chopper; season and thicken. This is nicer than when it is cooled and then picked to bits.

In Kneading Bread

If you would have it fine grained, take it up in your hands and knead it in that way, long and hard, until it is ready for the pans, not letting it touch the board.

I have a nice recipe for a relish—in fact, several of them—which I should like to send to you, if you wish it, in part payment for the many helps I have had from the Exchange.

Mrs. M. A. N. (Adrian, Mich.).

I have still two of your recipes, for which I cannot make room today. They will appear later. All the same, let us have the others, and be as concise as you have been with those we publish.

Chili Con Carne

Please send me a recipe for Mexican chili con carne—the real thing.

CLARA F. (Macon, Ga.).

Cut two pounds of round steak into small pieces of uniform size. Have ready in a frying pan 2 cupfuls of boiling water, 1 tablespoonful of hot dripping or butter melted and heated, with 2 teaspoonfuls of rice that has been washed and drained. Cover closely and cook steadily until the meat is tender. Remove the seeds and half of the rind from 2 large red peppers. Take up the meat from the pot and keep hot while you season the gravy with salt, a little minced thyme and the juice of an onion. Return to the meat and simmer very gently. Meanwhile cover the peppers with boiling water and cook for three minutes. Let them cool so that you can handle them. Then squeeze hard through coarse netting back into the water, which should be thick and red when you have pulped the peppers. Add a little browned flour and simmer for five minutes before pouring over the hot meat and gravy. Bring to a boil. Arrange the meat in a platter and pour the gravy over it.

There are many different ways of preparing, what is, to my notion, a much overrated dish. This is as good as any that I have seen or tasted.

Coffee Bread

Will the St. Paul, Minn., housemother try my recipe for Coffee Cake?

It may be called either bread or cake, yet it is neither — exactly. Under any name it is delicious.

Beat to a cream an even cup of sugar with a generous half cupful of lard and butter in equal parts. Stir in 1 well-beaten egg; add 3 cupfuls of milk that has been boiled and cooled and a cake of compressed yeast dissolved in half a cupful of warm water. Add 5 cupfuls of flour sifted twice with a scant teaspoonful of salt. Beat all into a smooth, soft dough. Let rise overnight, mixing this "sponge" before bedtime. In the morning beat it hard for two minutes. Grease deep jelly-cake tins or pieplates; spread the batter evenly in them and let them rise until very light. Then spread with melted butter and strew the surface with a mixture of 3 tablespoonfuls of flour creamed with a bit of butter the size of an egg. Lastly, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and bake in a moderately hot oven.

Have fresh "coffee cake" for luncheon and you will be more than delighted.

Mrs. J. G. (Chicago).

It is good enough to serve as a dessert succeeding the family dinner, and I shall recommend it in our menus for a week's meals.

With the accompaniment of clear, strong, hot black coffee, it should satisfy the most fastidious John.

To Our German Members

Can any of your wise and willing German housemothers ("hausfrauen") tell me how to make "Gefullte Rinderbrust" and "Gedampftes Kalbfleish" and a few other German dishes that are so hard to write and to pronounce and which taste so good?

If "Mrs. J. B." (Taft, Col.), who wants a book of salads, will write to any convenient bookstore, she ought to be helped with a list of cook books.

A FORMER LOS ANGELES GIRL (Bushnell, Ill.).

Our German housemothers will respond promptly, kindly and satisfactorily, as is their custom.

Judging from experience, the dishes they describe will be less outlandish to American palates than the names are to our ears.

For the INDUSTRIOUS NEEDLEWOMAN

By ADELAIDE BYRD

PHLOX ON A SEPARATE COLLAR

T[illegible] separate collar is one of this [illegible] and here it is in a pretty phlox design, ready for your tracing and [illegible]. You know how delicate the [illegible] Pale pinks, blues, white, [illegible] shades of purple, cerise or lavender, [illegible] all allowable, and your color [illegible] to be decided only by the [illegible] of the frock with which [illegible] to wear it.

[illegible] put on the edge [illegible] There is, in consequence, less [illegible] and, at any rate, it is something new. When cutting from this pattern allow for the turned hem. Many are turning the material up on the right side, basting in place and sewing down with a chainstitch in colored thread. A one-inch hem is a convenient width to choose.

Lawn of a sheer quality, linen in both handkerchief and medium weights and marquisette or cotton voile are fabrics that we are using for separate collars this summer. Trace the design upon your material, according to stated directions, and complete the pattern by turning the half over, using the central line.

Work the slender leaves in solid stitch, using palest green thread of a medium thickness. The soft, mercerized cotton is always successful.

A combination of white, pale pink and pale lavender is lovely in each bunch. Pad the petals if you wish raised work; if not, work directly with coarse thread on each petal.

Work across each petal and finish the center of each flower with a French knot. The line stem should be kept threadlike and worked in outline stitches, using green, of course.

When finished sew the shape at the neck to a narrow straight band one inch wide, being careful not to stretch the line when basting.

You will find that this is one of the prettiest patterns for summer accessories.

Now, although this is phlox, you can use any color. Dark blue or ecru is good; a study in buffs and deep yellows is beautiful with an ecru linen suit, and so on in any tones that will give a completeness in a color scheme for which we strive.

An edging of cluny or torchon lace is used by many dressmakers to give a finish to separate collars. The expedient of French knots is resorted to by labor-saving embroiderers. The petals of each flower can be filled in with them. You will find that the work goes more quickly and just as effectively.

Let me recommend this to you for your summer recreation hours. If you do not wear separate collars, some other friend does.

Button Hints

[illegible] buttons on to garments so [illegible] will last a long time, [illegible] the needle with strong [illegible] double it and twist it by [illegible] the knot between the teeth and [illegible] the needle round between your [illegible] then draw the thread through a [illegible] of beeswax or a candle. This is [illegible] method; the button will hold [illegible] as the fabric holds together.

[illegible] on buttons place a pin between the button and the material and [illegible] in the usual way, afterward pulling out the pin. The button [illegible] not drawn tight to the fabric, [illegible] in fastening it it goes through [illegible] without dragging at the [illegible]

To Pad Quickly

SO VERY much time and labor are required to pad embroidery scallops that our readers will be glad to know of a short cut which accomplishes the same result in very much less time.

For a plain scallop obtain a fine white cotton soutache braid. You can easily shrink this by putting it in hot and cold water alternately.

Iron it straight and stitch it evenly by machine with long stitches to the scallop on the goods.

The braid should be laid just inside the markings. With this help the actual padding will take but a few moments and the buttonholing will be even and firm.

Handy Sewing Case

TAKE with you on your vacation trip a handy little sewing case made of a strip of flowered cretonne 22 inches long and 9 inches wide.

It is a simple thing to make and will prove invaluable when away from home.

Bind the edges of the cretonne with wash ribbon matching the color of the flowers and turn one end over two inches; stitch each edge, divide into thirds and run a row of stitching on these lines, making three small pockets to hold the tape measure, the darning wool and needle case. The other end turn over two inches and stitch down on each edge and at intervals between 1 and 1¼ inches apart. In these little pockets put spools of thread.

Cut two strips of flannel 7 inches long and 3 wide and sew crosswise on the cretonne for pins of varied sizes; and with smaller pieces of cretonne form pockets in which to slip the scissors, thimble and bodkin.

At the center of one end sew a half yard of ribbon, so that when the case is folded it can be tied about the center with a pretty bow.

The Hem of a Skirt

A SKIRT may be finished in much the same manner as a man's trousers, if the binding braid be stitched in the bottom in the usual way. Put in a strip of mending tissue the width of the braid when turning it up to baste and press with a hot iron.

The braid should be fastened at each seam, and the effect will be by far neater than that obtained by the old method.

The Open Placket

ALL of us know the discomfort of a placket which gapes open. To obviate this annoyance have the placket made rather short. To avoid tears that are liable to result if the skirt is removed in the ordinary way turn the skirt until the placket comes at the hip, when the skirt will be found to slip off with perfect ease.

Crocheted Cuff Links

CUFF links for wash waists may be made from two crochet buttons, sewed together like the parts of a dumbbell link with a strong thread loop of the right length, which is then buttonholed over and over. These links will wash, are pretty and are not easily lost, besides being economical.

Chamois Trimmings

AN ODD but beautiful evening gown is of chamois-colored tulle, with embroideries worked on real chamois leather in Japanese style with floss silks. The designs are chrysanthemums in lovely shades of yellow, gray and drab, and here and there a dragon worked in silver thread.

To Pull Bastings

FEW persons know that an ordinary orangewood stick, such as is used for the nails, is the best instrument for removing bastings.

A scissors when used is very apt to cut or tear the garment.

Procure the stick at any drug store.

Empty Spools

DO NOT throw away your spools when they become empty. Keep them until you go away, and slip them over the nails which you will probably be expected to hang your clothes on, so as to keep the latter from tearing.

Rubber Gloves

BECAUSE your rubber glove has a rent in it do not cast it aside as useless. It is easy to mend such a tear or cut with a bit of adhesive plaster.

Select a piece of the plaster a little longer than the cut, place it on the under side of the glove and carefully bring the edges of the tear together, holding the sides in place and pressing the plaster and the glove together firmly.

The sticky side of the plaster is laid next to the glove. This will hold the rubber fast, and it will wear for many days in spite of the unfortunate rent.

Embroidery Hoops

HERE is a wrinkle which is not generally known, and will be useful to the woman who hates to embroider on hoops.

Baste your material very firmly on stiff brown paper in such a manner that there is no danger of slipping. You may bend and crush your work to your heart's desire without danger of disturbing the design.

If the paper catches in the stitch, it need not cause you any uneasiness, as it can easily be torn away after the work is completed.

Hemming Table Linen

WHEN hemming table linen by hand, especially the heavy double damask, it is much easier to work rapidly and obtain a neat, fine stitch if the edges of the hem are slightly dampened.

This softens the linen, so that when the hem is turned you can make a tiny over-and-over stitch.

Keep the emery-bag close by, for the dampened linen will rust your needle if it is not frequently cleaned.

If the edges of fine linen for handkerchiefs or lingerie is slightly dampened before rolling to whip on a lace edge, it will be easier to roll neatly.

The Piece Bag

HERE is a sensible method of "tagging" the contents of a piece bag.

On the outside of the bag fasten the largest procurable safety pin. When the siege of the dressmaker is over attach samples to this pin from every remnant that goes into the bag.

You will be delighted at the amount of time and patience saved by this simple device, for you can see at a glance just what the bag contains.

To Cut Silk

WHEN cutting sheer, pully goods or thin silks, which are apt to pull out of place, lay the material between two thin sheets of paper —and cut out the paper and all.

Three Ways to Transfer

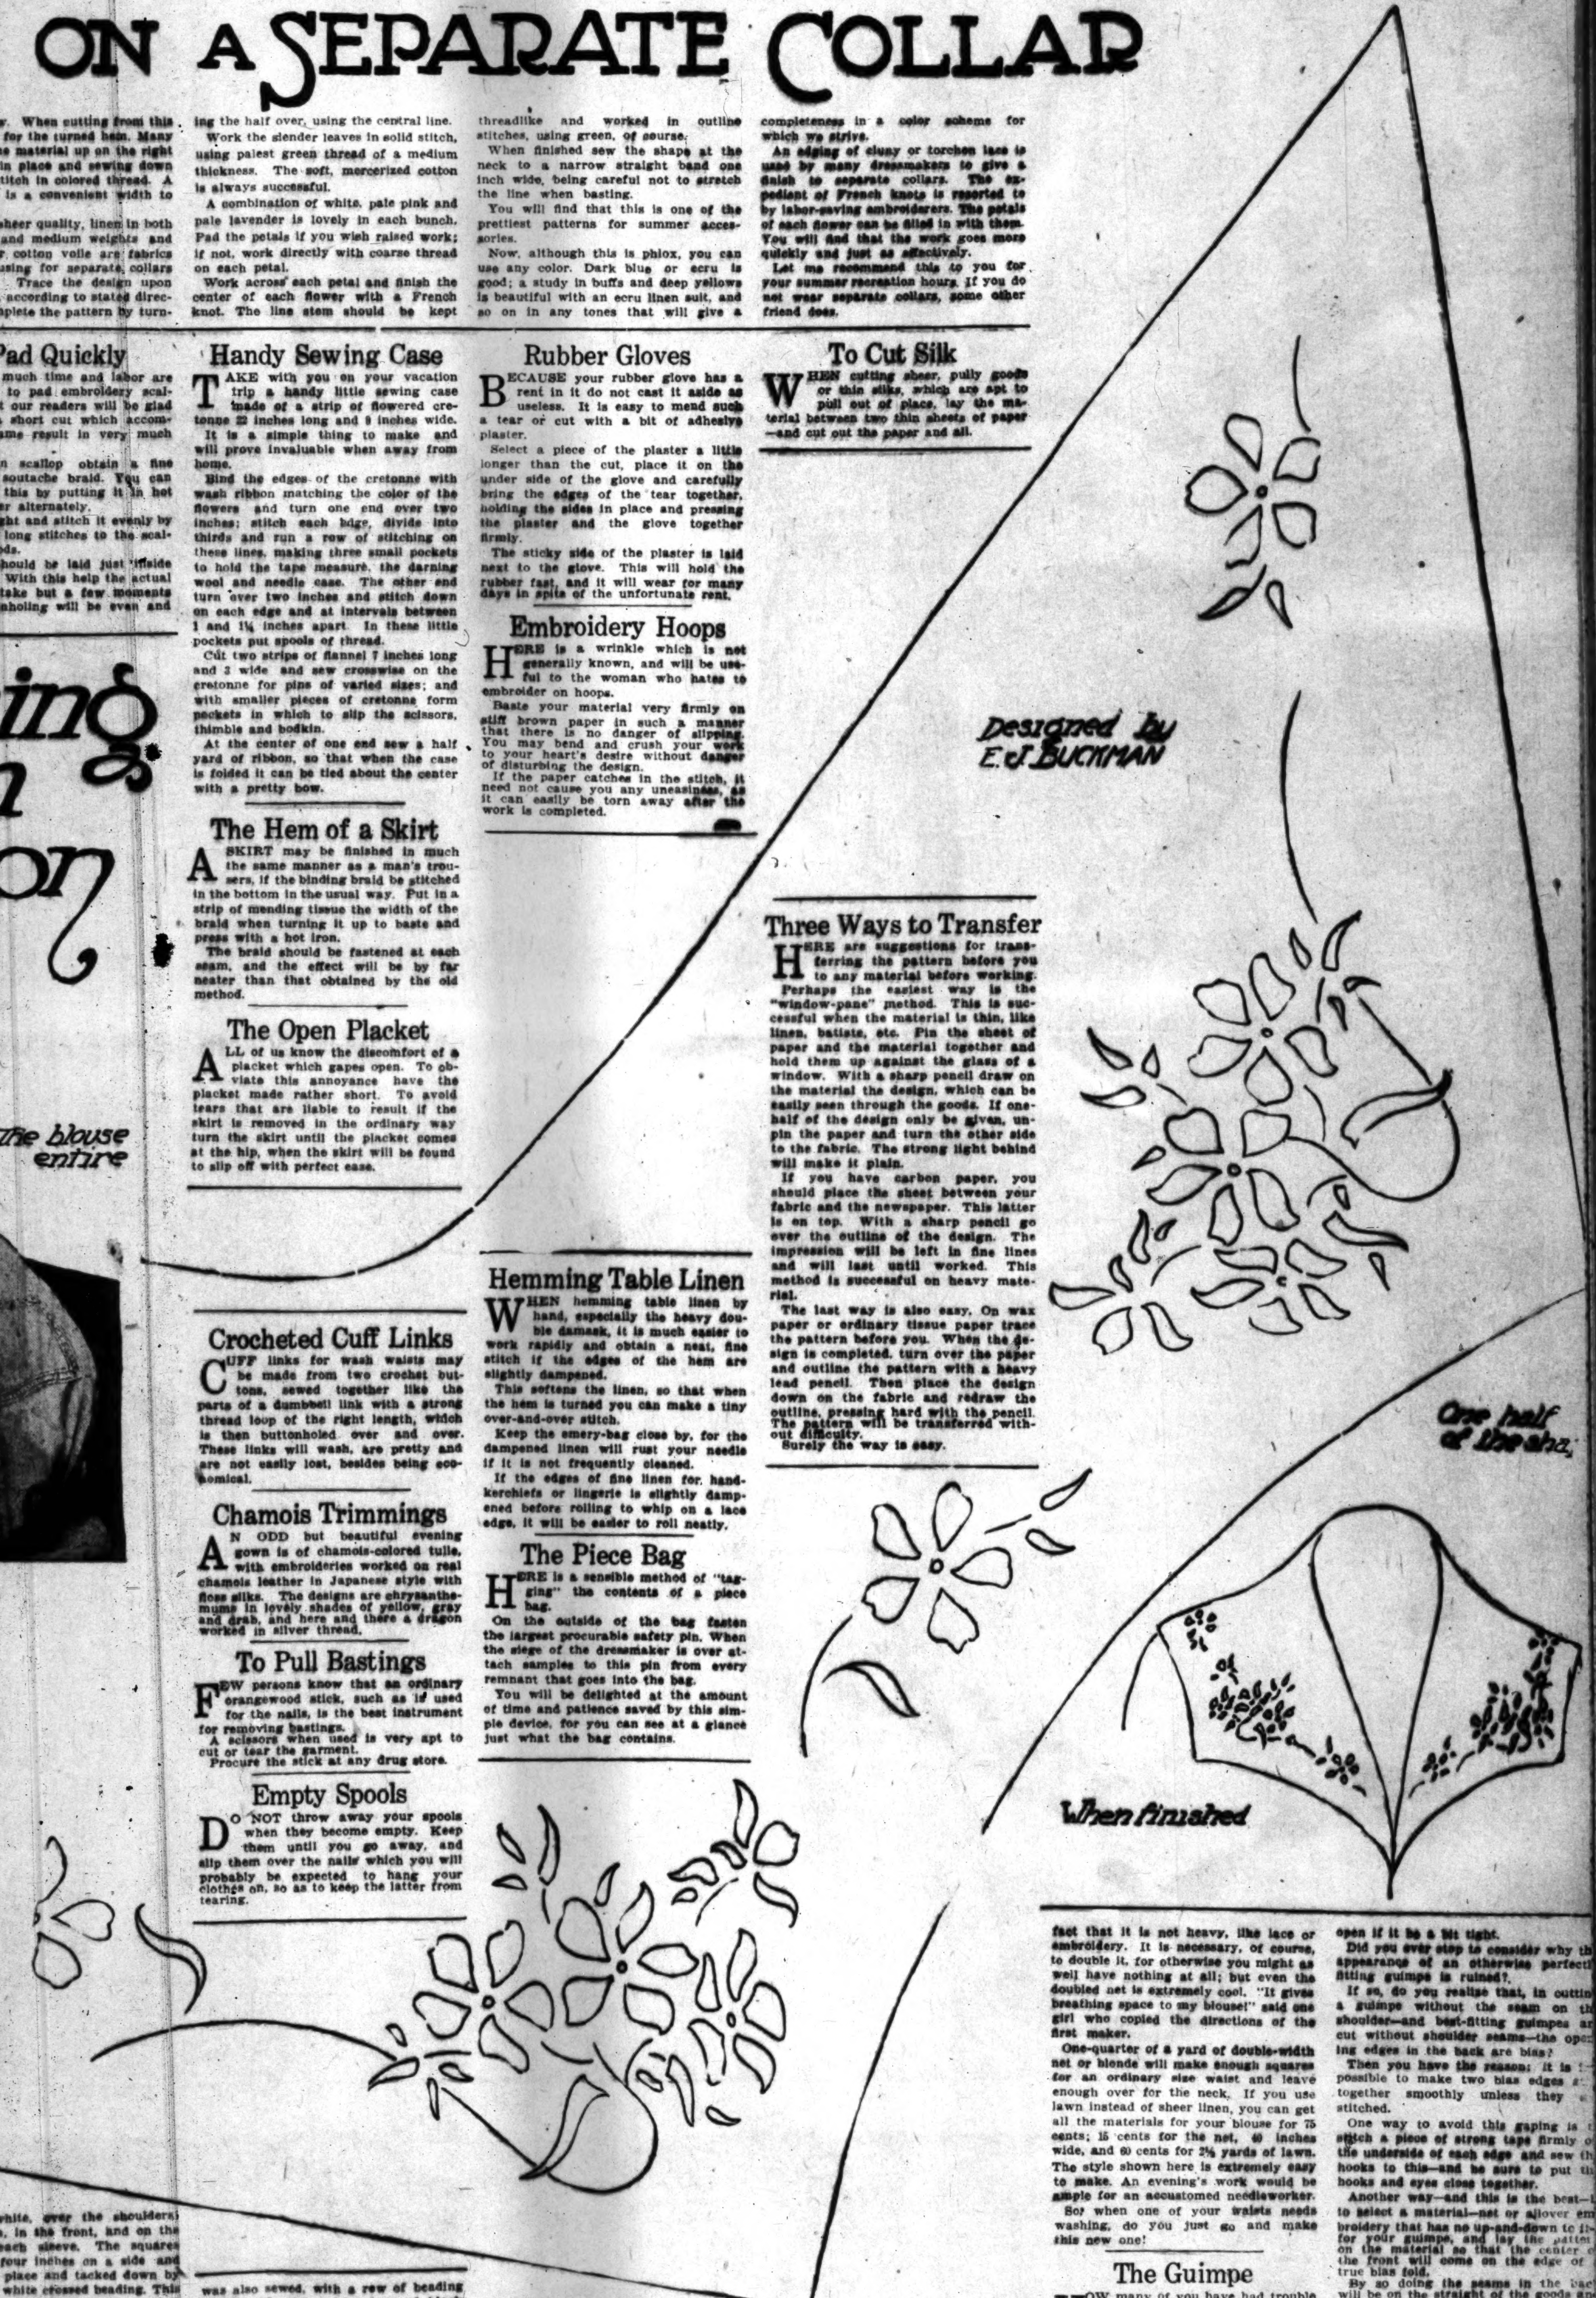
HERE are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you to any material before working.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the goods. If one-half of the design only be given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric. The strong light behind will make it plain.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. This latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked. This method is successful on heavy material.

The last way is also easy. On wax paper or ordinary tissue paper trace the pattern before you. When the design is completed, turn over the paper and outline the pattern with a heavy lead pencil. Then place the design down on the fabric and redraw the outline, pressing hard with the pencil. The pattern will be transferred without difficulty.

Surely the way is easy.



Something New in Insertion

The blouse entire

Detail of the insertion

W[illegible] one of my waists needs [illegible] I just go and make [illegible]" says the young [illegible] who has thought of this new kind [illegible]. And so should I, too, if [illegible] as easy to make and as [illegible]

[illegible] shown here was a perfectly [illegible] of white sheer linen, [illegible] neck and short [illegible] distinguishing feature, however, was the insertion. [illegible] consisted of squares of double net, plain white, over the shoulders, further down, in the front, and on the outside of each sleeve. The squares were about four inches on a side and were held in place and tacked down by an edging of white crossed beading. This was stitched on by machine, the worker being careful to leave a sufficient edge all around of the linen, and then the surplus linen and net were cut away underneath with a pair of manicure scissors.

Over the hem at the neck doubled net was also sewed, with a row of beading all around, and a long bow of black satin was fastened just beneath it in front. The blouse was cool, comfortable and decidedly attractive.

Many variations are, of course, possible. On cool days the blouse is worn over a colored slip—usually, in this case, a dresden or a black one. This shows the net even more plainly and is extremely pretty. Then the beading can be colored, or the blouse material, or the net itself; in fact, all sorts of color schemes could be worked out. Think how lovely a yellow blouse with brown net and beading would be, or a pale pink blouse and beading with white or a deeper pink net!

The chief advantage of the net is the fact that it is not heavy, like lace or embroidery. It is necessary, of course, to double it, for otherwise you might as well have nothing at all; but even the doubled net is extremely cool. "It gives breathing space to my blouse!" said one girl who copied the directions of the first maker.

One-quarter of a yard of double-width net or blonde will make enough squares for an ordinary size waist and leave enough over for the neck. If you use lawn instead of sheer linen, you can get all the materials for your blouse for 75 cents; 15 cents for the net, 40 inches wide, and 60 cents for 2⅛ yards of lawn. The style shown here is extremely easy to make. An evening's work would be ample for an accustomed needleworker.

So, when one of your waists needs washing, do you just go and make this new one!

The Guimpe

HOW many of you have had trouble with the guimpe you wear with your summer dress, and have lost your temper because it did not lap smoothly in the back?

Between the places where the buttons or hooks hold it together there are little humps of the material, or it gapes open if it be a bit tight.

Did you ever stop to consider why th appearance of an otherwise perfect fitting guimpe is ruined?

If so, do you realize that, in cuttin a guimpe without the seam on th shoulder—and best-fitting guimpes ar cut without shoulder seams—the ope ing edges in the back are bias?

Then you have the reason: it is possible to make two bias edges together smoothly unless they stitched.

One way to avoid this gaping is stitch a piece of strong tape firmly o the underside of each edge and sew th hooks to this—and be sure to put th hooks and eyes close together.

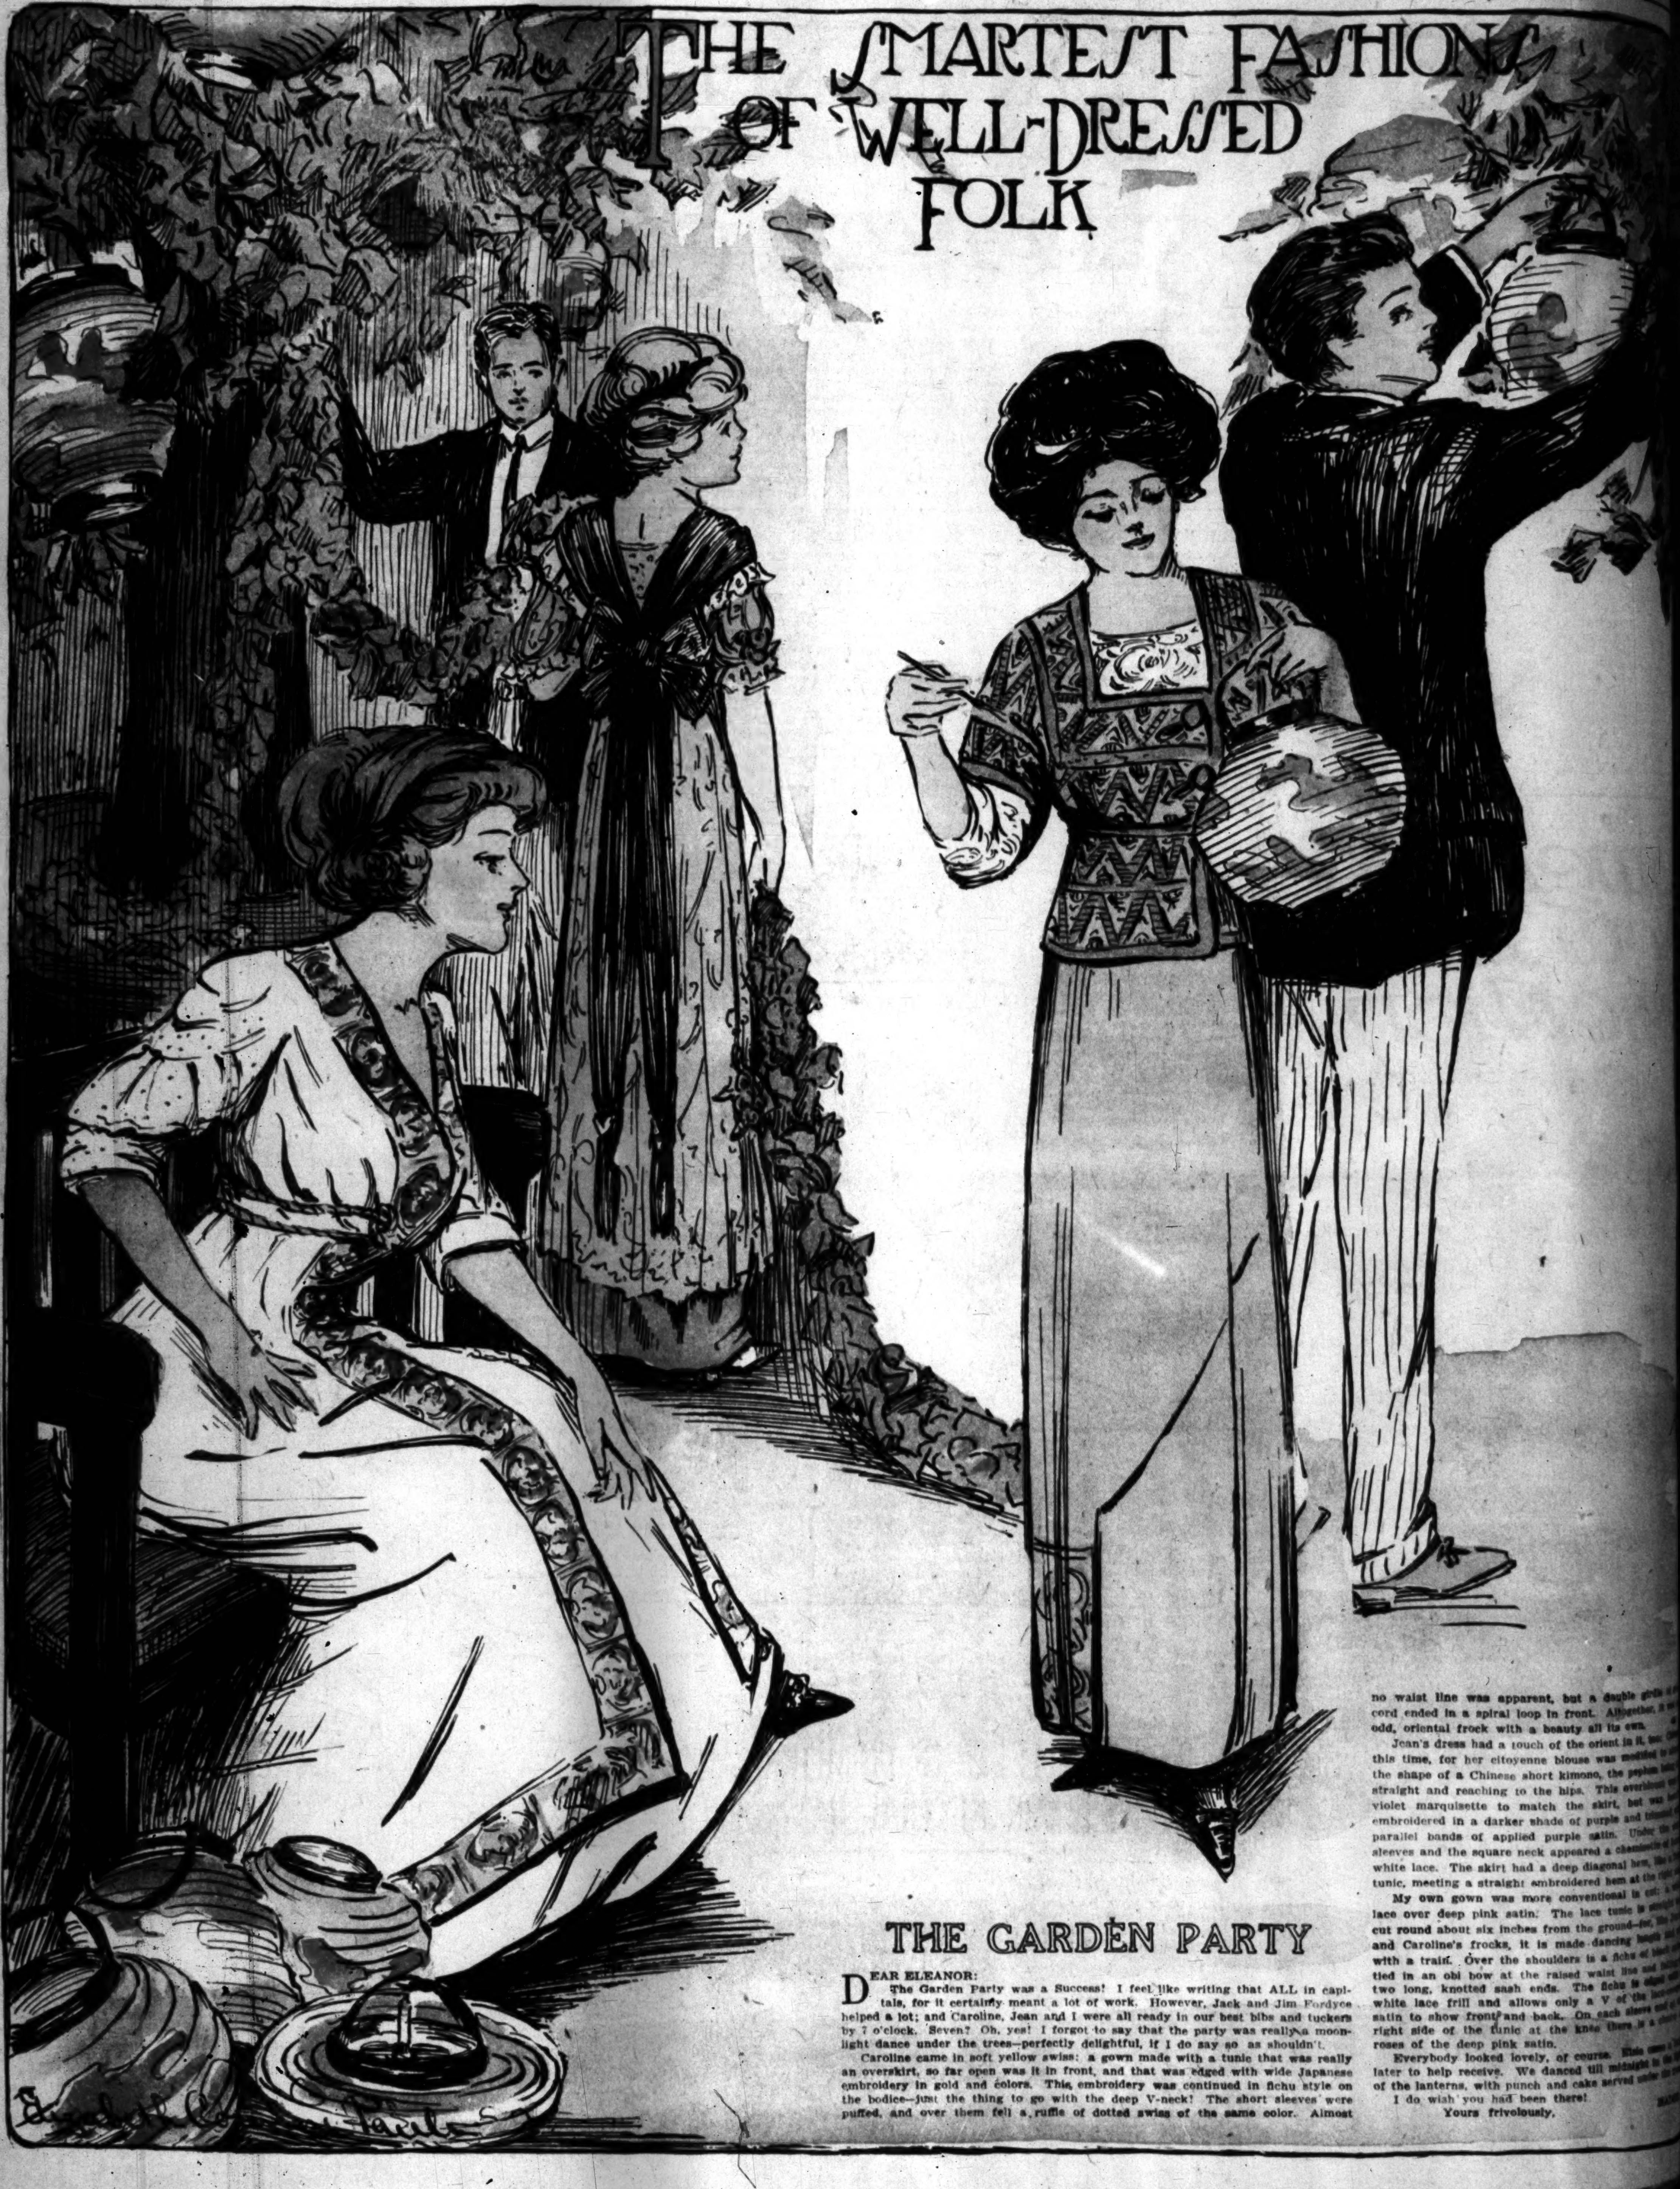
Another way—and this is the best— to select a material—net or allover em broidery that has no up-and-down to it— for your guimpe, and lay the patter on the material so that the center o the front will come on the edge of true bias fold.

By so doing the seams in the bac will be on the straight of the goods an will not hump up or gape open.

This method of cutting also insures more perfectly fitting garment, for th bias material conforms more readil than straight to the lines of the ches and shoulders.

Try it once, and you will never hav your guimpes cut in any other way.

THE SMARTEST FASHIONS OF WELL-DRESSED FOLK



THE GARDEN PARTY

DEAR ELEANOR:

The Garden Party was a Success! I feel like writing that ALL in capitals, for it certainly meant a lot of work. However, Jack and Jim Fordyce helped a lot; and Caroline, Jean and I were all ready in our best bibs and tuckers by 7 o'clock. Seven? Oh, yes! I forgot to say that the party was really a moonlight dance under the trees—perfectly delightful, if I do say so as shouldn't.

Caroline came in soft yellow swiss: a gown made with a tunic that was really an overskirt, so far open was it in front, and that was edged with wide Japanese embroidery in gold and colors. This embroidery was continued in fichu style on the bodice—just the thing to go with the deep V-neck! The short sleeves were puffed, and over them fell a ruffle of dotted swiss of the same color. Almost no waist line was apparent, but a double girdle of cord ended in a spiral loop in front. Altogether, it wa odd, oriental frock with a beauty all its own.

Jean's dress had a touch of the orient in it, too, this time, for her citoyenne blouse was modified to the shape of a Chinese short kimono, the peplum being straight and reaching to the hips. This overblouse was violet marquisette to match the skirt, but was embroidered in a darker shade of purple and trimmed parallel bands of applied purple satin. Under the sleeves and the square neck appeared a chemisette of white lace. The skirt had a deep diagonal hem, like a tunic, meeting a straight embroidered hem at the right

My own gown was more conventional in cut: a lace over deep pink satin. The lace tunic is straight cut round about six inches from the ground—for, like and Caroline's frocks, it is made dancing length and with a train. Over the shoulders is a fichu of black tied in an obi bow at the raised waist line and falling two long, knotted sash ends. The fichu is edged with white lace frill and allows only a V of the lace-covered satin to show front and back. On each sleeve and at the right side of the tunic at the knee there is a cluster roses of the deep pink satin.

Everybody looked lovely, of course. Elsie came a later to help receive. We danced till midnight in the of the lanterns, with punch and cake served under the

I do wish you had been there!

Yours frivolously,
